New York, N. Y. (Special)—Two prominent Vermonters were today appointed by the British American Ambulance Corps to serve with Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia of New York, Dorothy Thompson, the columnist, former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, James Rowland Angell, president of the English-Speaking Union, and others on the St. George Day Committee of the United States. They are Louis Fenner Dow, president of the Bartley Corporation, 152 College Street, Burlington, and Mrs. Elmer Johnson, Bennington. Both have been extremely active in the State in the interests of the ambulance corps, which has already shipped nearly 400 ambulances to Britain and the different allied fronts.

The purpose of the committee is to cooperate with the Dominion of Canada in arranging for the first united North American celebration of St. George Day, April 23.

As part of the celebration the two Vermont members of the committee are receiving from New York headquarters of the British American Ambulance Corps, 420 Lexington Avenue, New York, sheets of St. George poster stamps. There are twenty-five stamps on each sheet which sells for $1, with the entire proceeds going to humanitarian war relief for Britain and her allies.

The design of the stamp was created by Arthur Szyck, world's greatest living illuminator, and depicts a modern "Tommy" St. George besting the Nazi dragon. It was inspired by Prime Minister Winston Churchill's broadcast quotation, "Give us the tools and we'll finish the job."

Kappa Phi Kappa Holds Meeting

Kappa Phi Kappa, honorary education fraternity, held their regular meeting Wednesday evening, April 23, in the education office. The meeting opened with a discussion of plans for an annual banquet to be held May 15. A nominating committee was appointed to suggest officers for the next year.

After the business meeting, Professor Youngert of the education department, spoke on the subject "Of Mice and Men." He showed how Franklin's attempt to found his "Academy" for purposes of giving a practical English education failed, and how, due to the influence of tradition, it was replaced by the classical tradition. Professor Youngert explained some of the factors opposing the founding of the modern school, which emphasizes utility of subject matter, as, for instance, the lack of teachers trained to teach subject matter picked for its usefulness in helping the students in their actual living.

The meeting closed with refreshments and further discussion.

University Players Plan Ticket Campaign

University Players is inaugurating a new plan for the sale of the tickets for the Junior Week play, "You Can't Take It With You," which is to be presented Thursday, May 8, at Southwick. There will be 100 reserved seat tickets at 75 cents which will be put on sale at the Book Store. All of the rest of the seats will be the same price, 55 cents. Tickets for these seats will be distributed to the various organizations on the campus for sale to the student body and a prize of $5 will be awarded to the organization which sells the most.

The play, with such well-known thespians as Jane Lyons, Jeanne Woolley, Louise Mann and Roger Hunting, promises to be an outstanding production.

Catamounts Open Local Season Against Williams

Taylor and Healy Return to Action; Carlson on Sidelines

The University of Vermont nine gets the jump on the other baseball teams in this sector and inaugurates the current local season at Centennial Field Saturday with a powerful Williams team as their opponents.

The Catamounts have an existing record of three wins and six losses on the road. They should ameliorate this average in the home pasture, where a great many of the remaining games are to be played.

The drills this week have emphasized hitting, quite the contrary of the preceding week when the squad was preparing for Wesleyan and Trinity. Coach Gardner was satisfied with the calibre of the defensive play, but the offensive end of it needs a shot in the arm. Too many runners were left on base in scoring position in the Trinity game, and, as a result, Clarence Akley lost a well-pitched three hitter. Against Williams the Cats will have to make the most of their hits, because the visitors boast of a strong hurling corps.

Captain Frankie Taylor and Dick Healy returned to action this week. Frank still must favor his left hand, and he cannot grip his bat as of old. Dick Healy's leg is coming along nicely, and he moves around quite rapidly in the shortstop position. It is highly doubtful that either of these boys will start Saturday's encounter, but they may see some action.

Bob Carlson is still hors de combat. He will be on the sidelines once again. Bob has had some very hard luck and has not been able to pitch since his fine stint against Yale. Al Shaw, who has won two of Vermont's three victories, will undoubtedly be Larry Gardner's choice against Williams. Al turned in a victory against Wesleyan last week.

The rest of the line-up will be the same as it has been all season. Charlie Smith will be the backstop; the infield will consist of Hank Beauchemin at first, Johnny Spasyk at second, Randy Sullivan at shortstop, and Hazen Wood at third; and in the outfield will be Don Maley, Sig Sysko, and Bob Doherty. Russ West may see some action either at third base or shortstop, and Dick Healy and Frank Taylor may appear in the line-up.

Williams opened their home season last Tuesday by defeating Colgate 4 to 1. Ed Spaulding, Williams' mound ace, threw a four hitter. Spaulding is the object of the attention of several big league clubs. He is a real prospect. From all outward appearances it is apparent that Williams fields a well-balanced ball team.

The Rev. Chester Fisk of the Hanover, N. H., Congregational Church and associated with the Dartmouth Christian Association will open the program of the Fraternity Embassies on this campus by speaking at Southwick, Tuesday evening, April 29, at 8.00 p.m. Bob James and Larry Durgin will assist with the Embassy program during the ensuing two days. Everyone is welcome.

Sports Cast

By G. Little

Dick Healy and Frankie Taylor, two veteran members of the Vermont baseball team, have rejoined the squad. Healy is kind of slowly rounding into shape and Captain Taylor has flayed out of the cast. Both are taking light workouts daily but there is some doubt as to whether they will be back in the lineup Saturday against Williams. If Taylor is unable to wield a bat this week end he will probably pass the track squad which journeys down to Schenectady to engage Union. The track team should show improvement over its performance against Williams. All injured or sick members have returned to the squad, an addition which may give the Green and Gold the necessary margin to eke out a triumph over the Dutchmen.

Middlebury will be tough to beat on the track this spring if their margin of victory over Union is any indication. The final total gave the Middlebury men something like a 40-point victory margin. Baseball's first family, the DiMaggios seem to be doing all right for themselves thus far in the current baseball season. Last Monday Joe of the Yanks was mashing the elusive white pellet for a cool .571. Dominic of the Red Sox had a .444 average, while Vince of the Pirates was "way down" to .400. For the first time in college history the Vermont tennis team has worked outdoors previous to the opening matches. Those new courts over at Centennial Field aided Coach Carpenter greatly in early practice drills. The new courts dry out more quickly than the back campus surfaces because of their all-day exposure to the sun. Expansion of winter sports area on west side of Mt. Mansfield promises to bring better skiing conditions to those in the Burlington area who venture out on slender staves. The Underhill Winter Sports Club plans to move some of its main activities further on the mountain where there is a longer skiing season and increased facilities for all classes of skiers.

Freshman Track Team Prepares for Meet

The freshman track team has been working out regularly in preparation for its first meet on May 1 with Burlington High School.

Time trials for the various events will be held this Thursday, when participants in various fields will be chosen.

There are twenty-five men now working out in all fields. Their definite abilities will be determined by the results produced at the trials on Thursday.

Tennis Squad to Open Season Today

The varsity tennis squad left Thursday on their initial trip of the season. On Friday, April 25, Coach Carpenter's forces will engage Amherst, the University of Connecticut and Massachusetts State on successive days.

The Vermont raqueteers have had practice two weeks on the new Centennial courts. This is the first time the team has been able to get a real workout at such an early date.

The competitive strength of the opposition is not exactly known, but Amherst can usually be counted upon to produce a good point getting team.

Upon return from the Massachusetts trip the varsity tennis team on May 2 goes to Potsdam, N. Y., to meet Clarkson and on May 3 plays St. Lawrence at Canton, N. Y.

Rugby Team Wins Over Harvard J. V.'s

Rugby, the game of old England, was introduced to Vermont Saturday afternoon on Centennial Field when the University of Vermont team defeated the Harvard junior varsity outfit, 6 to 0.

Somewhat hazy ideas of what the game was about were somewhat dispelled, but there is still much not clear concerning it. A big crowd watched during the 60 minutes of play, and after getting some ideas or what it was all about appeared to be enjoying it.

It is a fast game, employing the ideas of both football and soccer. There is plenty of body contact in the scrums, besides a lot of tackling, more so than in football, for the ball remains in play following a tackle, unless it becomes buried under a pileup.

Mayforth Tallies Both Scores

Hal Mayforth, Jr., one of the freshman footballers last fall, provided both of Vermont's scores. He ran the ball about 12 yards for the first "touch," three minutes after the game opened. A "touch" counts three points.

Misty Rice, captain-elect of the football team, started the scoring play with a 20 yard run from about midfield. As he was being tackled he lateraled to Mike Cozzalino who took it up to about the 12 yard line, where he lateraled to Mayforth, who went the rest of the way.

The second touch came two minutes later on a surprising run of 70 yards by Mayforth. He dodged down the sideline, sidestepping two Harvard tacklers, then bowling over two more in front of him went the rest of the way unmolested, outfooting the remaining Harvard backs.

Misses Tries for Extras

Vermont missed both tries for extra points and for the remaining 35 minutes of play had only one more scoring chance, going within five yards of the Harvard goal before being stopped and the ball booted out to mid-field.

The Crimson had but two chances to score, one a penalty kick from the 20-yard line. This grazed the outside of the posts, although most of the crowd believed it had gone through. The other chance came halfway through the second period when the ball was deep in Vermont territory for several minutes before Rice got in the clear and booted the team out of danger.

Summary

Scored by halves:

	1st	2nd	T

Scoring Touches, Mayforth 2 (run-outs).

Time of halves, 30 minutes.

Music Department To Present Opera

Haydn's Apothecary Bach's Coffee Cantata

[illegible] of the [illegible] century the music department will present its annual opera at Southwick next Wednesday evening. This local procedure has been arranged for this year in that in addition to the usual piano accompaniment Haydn's "The Apothecary" and Bach's trumpet trio opera "The Coffee Cantata" will be given using will a string ensemble by the University Orchestra.

From the cradle to the Metropolitan Opera House Clubs have found a chorus of opportunities. Tenor and pianoforte pursued Flora around the music room chorus Lovely 41 Paul Pinello 41 pursued Lucy 44 and Ewald Gallesio 44 at the expense of an appreciative bear pilot Wolf Rose said after the same woman and sure her name and address there is [illegible] Library. A typical comic opera is to Hoosier a pair of his more charming pursuits.

The story of Bach is often thought to include comedy and serious work but this is a misconception as is clearly shown by "The Coffee Cantata." A work written on three solo voices it will be sung by Dorothy Gilbert '43 Thomas K. Malone 41 and Prof. George L. Mellican. When a father becomes very worried about his daughter's over indulgence in a "new" drink called "coffee," an interesting plot is bound to result.

In keeping with the rest of the program, the University Orchestra under the baton of Ippolito Pagnotta-Lee will present selections from the work of Gluck and Mozart.

Tickets for this event are on sale at the University book Store.

Lessons Given To Freshman Women

Nearly all of the 214 freshman girls enrolled in the physical education course will know how to give artificial respiration when there is need of it before they leave U. V. M. this June.

Miss Barbara Crowe of the physical education department has already given a series of three lessons in this life saving skill. The girls are now prepared to aid drowning and gas asphyxiation victims if they should ever be called on to do so.

The instruction has been thorough including the method of changing workers if the respiration has to be continued for a long time. There are records of cases of drowning and asphyxiation returning to consciousness after four hours or even more of artificial respiration.

The schedule followed with this instruction has one class section a week to the artificial respiration teaching, and the second has been given over to the teaching of other important practices and methods of first aid.

Exhibition of Women's Fashions at Museum

An exhibit concerning the Well-dressed Lady of Yesterday and Today is now on display at the Fleming Museum. Daytime and sportswear fashions of sixty years ago and today are illustrated. It is interesting to note the great difference in the style, design, texture, and color of these costumes. Modern times and fashion have done away with the long hoopskirt, bustle, lace, ruffles, and other frills. Compare these illustrations to our comfortable tailored shirtwaist frocks. The sportswear was most interesting; from the former full-length clumsy dress to comfortable slacks, shorts and culottes.

W. A. A. Conference Held at Smith College

Last week-end, April 18-20 the annual Regional Conference of the Women's Athletic Association was held at Smith College in Northampton Mass. Delegates at this Conference were from all New England colleges [illegible] were present, representing such colleges as Wellesley, Wheaton Radcliffe, Smith etc Catherine Peterson '42 president of the U. V. M. Women's Athletic Association and Phyllis Savage '43 were representatives from this campus.

At this conference it was decided that the National W. A. A. Conference will be held at Wellesley College, Wellesley, Mass. next year.

The purpose of these conferences is to help strengthen each separate college association by conducting discussion groups in which individual problems, new ideas and organization are discussed.

Tri-Delt Delegates Meet in Worcester

Regional Conference For N. E. Colleges

Last week-end the regional meet of Delta Delta Delta was held at the Salter Secretarial School in Worcester, Mass.

A tradition of the fraternity established in 1917 by a group of Indiana Tri-Delts, the New England meet was attended by delegates, members and alumnae from chapters at Colby, Boston University, University of Maine, Middlebury College and University of Vermont.

Registration began at 9:30, Saturday, April 19. Collegiate members formed one discussion group and alumnae members another. Among the topics discussed by the collegiate group were, "Selecting a Vocation" and "Campus Citizenship."

At the luncheon Mrs. Dorothy Roeske, alumnae secretary, was guest speaker. At the afternoon session, problems of rushing, pledge training, and social functions were discussed. Vermont's Josené Agard '42 led the discussion on pledge training.

Dinner was followed by singing and a question box contest.

Lucille Clark '42 was the delegate representing Eta Chapter. Other local members attending the meet were, Josené Agard '42, Esther Gove '43, Mary Louise Hart '43, Harriet Whitson '43, Lucy Upson '43, June Naylor '43 and Margaret Hunt '43.

Church Groups to Attend Conference

Members of the various student church groups in the city are planning to attend the "Student Christian Movement of New England" Conference to be held in Worcester, Mass., April 25, 26, 27. The purpose of this conference is to help the student understand the place of the church in our modern world and to suggest ways for student participation in the life of various churches.

The Collegium will hold its regular meeting at 7:30, Sunday evening, with a talk on "Nutrition" by Mrs. J. H. Perry. The Pilgrim Fellowship will join the First Church in listening to Dr. Hugh Vernon White, Secretary of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, and will separate after his talk to enjoy a social hour by themselves.

Coach Larry Gardner Gave Baseball Talk

Last Tuesday evening, April 22, the W. A. A. sponsored a free movie on baseball and a "talk" by the U. V. M. coach, Larry Gardner. A large crowd of University of Vermont students attended. The movie, an American League picture, was entitled "Touching All Bases." Coach Gardner spoke on the fundamentals of baseball. Following his speech questions were asked from the audience and answered by him.

Hunter College recently dedicated its $6,500,000 building.

At a meeting held under the joint sponsorship of the International Relations Club and the University Assembly at Southwick on Wednesday evening Miss Alice Shalek well-known journalist and photographer for Austrian and German newspapers under the regime of Hitler told that "It is Hitler's genius to build on others' blunders." Miss Shalek told of living for a year and a half under the Nazi rule in Vienna. At the end of her talk, Miss Shalek, who has been a world traveller for thirty-five years urged her audience "appreciate what you have. You don't know what Europe has to go through."

Student Union to Meet at U. V. M.

Vermont Host To 20 Colleges Next October

Next year on October 30, 31 and November 1 the University of Vermont will entertain the delegates of many Eastern and Western Colleges when the Women's Intercollegiate Association for Student Government meets here for its annual convention. Already extensive plans are under way for this group of delegates, who will represent the Student Governments of about 20 colleges. The chairmen of the various committees have been selected and are now working on convention plans. Chairmen of these committees are as follows: General chairman, June Hartman '43; registration committee, Louise Davis '42; information committee, Patricia Pike '43; hospitality, Barbara Butterfield '42 and Sally Rome '42, co-chairmen; transportation, Miriam Fiske '42; entertainment, Joené Agard '42, housing, Gloria Oling '42; decorations, Gratia Pearl '42, education program committee, Mary Tuckerman '42, cooperating committee of faculty and students, Cathryn Grier '42; publicity, Myrna French '42, committee on communications, Helen Witham '42.

The chairmen of these committees will appoint various students to assist them in carrying out their duties, and it is hoped that as many students as possible may be able to aid in planning and executing the details of this large convention.

Alumni Activities Topic of Cynic Radio Program

Tuesday night's U. V. M. radio program was very appropriate in that it had two of the well-known alumni speak about their group. Howard Prentice '28, head of the physical education department, described the relationship between the students of U. V. M. and their alumni. "If I were a student I would be more interested in knowing about the alumni" he said. "The alumni are not only those who have graduated, but also any person who has ever attended the University. Therefore, a student should take more interest in the work of the Alumni Council."

He then proceeded to tell of the fine work that this council is doing mentioning the local and district alumni clubs which are flourishing throughout the country. "The activities of the alumni office have never received the attention of the alumni and present students that it deserves" he continued. "They publish The Vermont Alumnus, sponsor homecomings and commencement, keep accurate, up-to-date accounts of the alumni, changes in address and a thousand and one other things. It is the place that ties you to the University after you

R. O. T. C. Prepares For Inspection

Lieut. Col. Collier To Be Inspecting Officer

The annual Federal Inspection of the University of Vermont R. O. T. C. Battalion is scheduled for May 21-22, at which time the entire accomplishment of the military department for the school year will be exhibited.

Lieut.-Col. William A. Collier of the General Staff Corps will attend Military Science classes to question the students, and will review the parade and give the battalion a rating. While Colonel Spalding has been commandant, and for a number of years previous, the Vermont battalion has received a rating of excellent, the highest given.

Most of Wednesday morning will be spent drilling and marching for Inspection. Wednesday evening the finals in exhibition drilling will be held in the cage. Numerous prizes and honors will be awarded to outstanding students in military science.

Fraternity drill squads, a regular part of Military Inspection, were discontinued last year from the list of events included in the Traynor trophy competition by vote of Key and Serpent. As plans for this competition had already been made by several fraternities when this announcement was made last year, it was decided to put on the exhibition drills just as in previous years even though no points towards the Traynor trophy would be awarded the winning squad. Accordingly most of the fraternities entered a squad in the competition with a very creditable performance. However it is not expected that the fraternities will compete this year.

Freshman drill squad, a voluntary group has been so largely attended this year, according to Sergeant Pickett, that there is likely to be some elimination. Regular's about 30 men last until Inspection. This year over 60 have come out. Last year members of the freshman drill squad received a citation cord, and runners up a silver stripe.

Glee Clubs to Present Haydn's "Apothecary"

Bach's Comic "Coffee Cantata" And A Concert By University Orchestra Also On Program

In their final presentation of the year the Men's and Women's Glee Club will give their fourteenth annual opera at Southwick Wednesday evening, April 30, at 8:15 p.m. D. S. T. The feature number of the triple bill will be Haydn's "Apothecary," a comic opera of the 18th century. This will be preceded by a brief concert by the University Orchestra and the presentation of Bach's comic "Coffee Cantata."

The opera has its setting in an apothecary's shop with its old-fashioned counters and rows of bottles which should be of interest to all medics and premedics. Tomaso, Robert Goss '44 baritone, is a well-to-do apothecary who has his ever watchful eye on his charming and wealthy young ward Grilletta, Gloria Farrell '43, soprano. Mengone, Paul Poulin '41 tenor, who knows nothing about the pharmacy has secured a position as apprentice in Sempronio's shop in order to be near his love, Grilletta. A rich young fop hears of the wealth and charms of Grilletta and sets out by all manners and means of trickery to win her hand. He even goes so far as to hire a group of men who appear as Turks and tries to persuade Sempronio to allow him to marry Grilletta. The plot solves itself very happily just as the chorus arrives to celebrate it. Mrs. Wilmetta Sproul Taggart is the dramatic coach of the production. Prof. H. G. Bennett will be accompanist and Mrs. Elizabeth Bradish is vocal coach.

Text After Goldoni

The text of the opera is after Goldoni. Former settings of Goldoni's text were made by Piccinetti and Pallavicini. These earlier versions had additional characters, some of them serious and some with ballets. Haydn omitted the serious characters and cut the length to one act. The opera was first performed in 1768. Performances have been given in New York and Chicago with English words, but no published version of English words is available. The translation on which our performance is based is one made by Professor Morgan, formerly head of the German department at the University of Wisconsin. Alterations have been made where necessary. The Eastman School of Music did the opera in Berman in 1931-32.

Many operas of a variety of well known composers have been given in the past at the University of Vermont. Among them have been "Cosi Fan Tutte" by Mozart, "Dido and Aeneas" by Purcell, Gluck's "Orpheus" the "Mock Doctor" by Gounod,

Sororities Hold Successful Sing

Pan-Hellenic Trophy Awarded To Thetas

The second annual Intersorority Sing, sponsored by Pan Hellenic was held at Southwick Saturday evening. Kappa Alpha Theta directed by Mary Jane Hammond '41, won the Pan-Hellenic trophy. Alpha Chi Omega directed by Elizabeth Cole '41, received honorable mention.

The winning sorority's selections were "The Snow Legend" and "Theta Lips." Alpha Chi Omega's selections were "Ole Uncle Moon," and "The Song of the Lyre." Other selections on the program were "A Million Dreams Ago" and "A Pi Phi Melody" by Pi Beta Phi. "In the Evening Garden" and "In the Land of Green Mountains" by Sigma Gamma. "Whirls Me Panty Boy" and "I'm Singing Low" by Alpha Xi Delta. "Slumber Boat" and "Delta Lodge" by Delta Delta Delta and "Perspicacity" and "My Delta Phi Epsilon" by Delta Phi Epsilon.

Elizabeth Cole '41 and Janice Spear '41 were in charge of the sing. The judges were Miss Elizabeth Bradish, Prof. H. G. Bennett and Mr. J. Pappoutsakis of the music department.

Following the sing a dance was held in the Southwick ballroom.

Four Sororities Hold Formals

On Friday night, April 25 four sororities held their annual spring formals.

Japanese lanterns and cherry blossoms provided the atmosphere for the Alpha Xi dance at the Burlington Country Club. Preceding the dance a dinner was given at the Paragon. Dancing was to the music of the Catamounts. Chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Bickford and Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Smith. Natalie Spear '43 was in charge.

The Delta Delta Delta decorations were in the spring motif. For favors the girls gave saddle leather wallets with the Tri Delt seal on them. The Norwich Grenadiers furnished the music for dancing which was at the Hotel Vermont roof garden. The chaperones were Professor and Mrs. Pond, and Mrs. Swerdfeger. Lucile Clark '42 was chairman.

Doris Welsh '43 who was in charge of decorations for the Kappa Alpha Theta's dance at the Ethan Allen Club, planned a very attractive street scene. Jack Collins' band supplied the music. The favors were key chains. Chaperones for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Perry and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Marcum. Barbara Mann '41 was in charge of the affair.

The Pi Phis danced to the music of the Collegians at their formal dinner dance held at Oakledge Manor. Prof. and Mrs. M. F. Witham and Mr. and Mrs. Proctor Page chaperoned. The committee for the dance was Louise Davis '42, Janet Hackwell '43, Caroline Trask '41 and Elizabeth Jenks '43.

On Friday, May 2 the Alpha Chi Omega house will be changed into Neptune's Paradise for their spring formal. The Catamounts will furnish the rhythms for the under ocean dance which is in charge of Madeline Greaves '41. Chaperones will be Professor and Mrs. Rowell, and Mr. and Mrs. Sherry Page.

Home Ec. Club Hear Miss Terrill

A meeting of the Home Economics Club was held on Thursday night, April 24 at the Brick Barn. Miss Bertha M. Terrill, former head of the Home Economics department, spoke on her recent trip to California. Her talk was illustrated with slides. Miss Sara M. Holbrook of the Education department, who had accompanied Miss Terrill on her trip, was present at the meeting and added many interesting comments. Refreshments were served.

The following new officers were announced: President Hilda Paquette '42, vice-president Jean Sloan '42, secretary, Lucile Clark '42, treasurer Katherine Kyle '42, social chairman Joyce Benson '42, refreshment chairman Harriet Whitney '44, entertainment chairman Helena Anderson '43, publicity chairman Hester Rice '42.

The Perennial Problem

Every time a new exam schedule is posted the old problem of crowded days at the beginning of the exam period crops up. It is still a little early to be worrying about finals, but an early airing of the perennial problem might bring some needed changes. Finals this year are scheduled to begin on a Wednesday, which means that classes will be held right up to the day before. For those people who have no examinations scheduled for the first few days this is all very well. But what about those people who have two or even four exams on the first two days? Quite a few people are faced with such a schedule. The people who have four exams scheduled for the first two days certainly will have to get along on a minimum of reviewing.

Of course the old answer to that is that students should keep up on their work so that they can go to their exams without having to do very much reviewing. There is justice in this. But even suppose that a student is caught up to date. He can't be expected to review a whole semester in a few hours. If he has two exams coming on the opening day, he must divide the one full night that he has to review into two parts, and review two subjects. Then, the next day he must try to marshal his facts for two comprehensive and thorough examinations. You might say that said student should have planned ahead and done some of his reviewing during the week preceding the examinations. But anyone who is trying to keep up every day would have little chance to do any extensive reviewing during the school week. Besides, we wonder whether reviewing done in little dabs over a period of weeks has as much value as a good thorough review just before an examination?

Furthermore, there is little justice in the present set-up when one considers that many students have three or four days to prepare for their exams. It has been said that the more time you have, the poorer you will do. But that is small comfort to those who have hardly any time at all.

Naturally, those who arrange schedules cannot be expected to draw them up in such a way that each student will have the same amount of time before each exam. That is impossible. The only solution would seem to be in the institution of a reading period. The Monday and Tuesday preceding the exam period could be set aside so that students might have a chance to review. Or if not two days, at least one day should be set aside. This would relieve the burden on those who have a crowded early schedule. We know that it is possible that the reading period might be used by many as a holiday, but there is always a minority group which delights in cutting its own throat. If they won't study, there will be plenty who will benefit, and thus justify having a reading period. Maybe we are overemphasizing the urgency, but so far the problem has cropped up every time exams roll around. Why not solve it this time?

R. O. T. C. Band Vert Versatile

Note: This is the second in a series of articles on the 4 musicals of Vermont R. O. T. C. Band, which will make a tour of Vermont May 2 and May 3, appearing in parades and concerts in Rutland, Springfield, Montpelier and Barre.

Versatility is the keynote to the success of the R. O. T. C. Band. Under the very able direction of Joe Lechnyr the natural musical talent of the band has been developed to a peak never before attained at U. V. M.

Starting with a well-balanced instrumentation with individuals of high solo ability, the organization has been able to play a great variety of music well. The basic natural ability has been tempered to a high musical artistry which has proved pleasing to many audiences.

Primarily, a military group, of course, is adept at martial tunes. Many a brilliant snappy march has thrilled the crowds at ball games, concerts and parades. On the field too, the boys in their dark blue R. O. T. C. uniforms in step with a march like Sousa's "Semper Fidelis" or Bagley's "National Emblem" are a thrilling sight.

Often called upon to give musical concerts, the R. O. T. C. Band can perform as a symphonic band. Under the leadership of Joe Lechnyr, well known both in Vermont and in army musical circles, classical selections like Ravel's seductive "Bolero" to Offenbach's "Orpheus Overture" are played in a manner to rival professional bands.

In lighter moments the boys can "swing out" on novelties and popular music such as: "The Ferryboat Serenade" and "Six Lessons from Madame La Zonga." Gershwin's "Strike Up the Band" is another favorite.

To round out a musical selection for all tastes, the band plays light concert pieces like "Alda" by McCoughey and "Queen of the Night" from "Babylon Suite" by Justin Elie.

The personnel of forty-six men in the R. O. T. C. Band is admirably suited for the many rôles which it plays, whether it be symphonic, marching, military or concert.

Many of the well-known and well-liked American marches are in the repertoire of the band, such as: Sousa's "El Capitan," Losey's "Trumpeters Carnival," Sordillo's "Spirit of the Blue Flame" and "Spirit of America," Frank's famous "Bugle Marches," and other famous concert pieces, which have entertained audiences for many years.

Women in Sports

Spring sports will begin this week. All girls are to meet at Southwick ready to play.

Softball

A large group appeared at the softball class last week, and it is hoped that these girls will come to softball club meeting Wednesday afternoon at 5:00.

Tennis

Cathryn Grier '43 and Theresa Coderre '42 will be the new tennis managers. Tennis club will meet Tuesday at 5 o'clock.

Bowling

The Green and Gold teams had a tournament Tuesday afternoon in which four members from each team competed. The teams were as follows:

Green: M. Quinn, B. Wright, M. Gale, A. Needham. Substitute: J. Murphy.

Gold: E. Brewster, E. Dodd, M. Durfee, E. Wood. Substitute: D. Murphy.

New members have been chosen for W. A. A. through bowling attendance and scoring. They are: E. Brewster '42, V. Crocker '44, R. Hughes '44, B. Lund '43, D. Murphy '44, J. Murphy '44, M. Rhodes '44, L. Schoeneman '43, H. Smith 44.

Archery

The Archery Club is planning to enter the Intercollegiate Telegraphic Meet in May. A team of eight will compete, and weekly scores will be telegraphed into the national headquarters. Girls interested are asked to attend the practices faithfully.

Glee Clubs Present

"The Merry Wives of Windsor" by Nicolai, and a number of very well-known operas of Gilbert and Sullivan, including, "Patience," "The Pirates of Penzance," "Iolanthe," "The Gondoliers," "Ruddigore," and "The Sorcerer."

Opera Chorus

In the opera chorus are sopranos: Ruth Cooley '42, Betty Hall '44 Earlene Jenness '43, Betty Lake '44, Dorothy Rockwell '42, and Virginia Wight '44; second sopranos, F. Aline Gravel '44, Nora Hill '42, and Carolyn Phelps 44; altos, Elisabeth Kulka '43, Marjorie Southworth '43, Doris Squire '43; tenors (apprentices), Hiram Bevins '41, Robert McKee '41, Louis Pichierri '41, Robert Norton '44, Robert Steinman '42 and Ernest Stockwell '44; bases (Turks), Charles Carver '44, James Dykens '43, Reginald Farrar '42, John Goss '43, William Lane '44, Frank Swift '43, and Orrin Brawn '42.

Picander wrote the text for the Coffee Cantata. It is a satire on Leipzig ladies, among whom coffee drinking was a fashionable vice. It discusses the passions of a father who is entirely disgusted at his daughter's overindulgence in coffee and his threats if she does not stop the use of it. She finds a lover which further complicates matters when her father refuses his permission for a marriage unless she gives up her beloved coffee. Naturally there is a happy settlement. Singing the parts will be Theresa Coderre '43, soprano; Thomas K. Malone, Jr. '41, tenor; and George L. Millikan, baritone.

The concert by the University Orchestra under Ippocrates Pappoutsakis will be very much in keeping with the rest of the presentation in that it is eighteenth century music much of which is taken from operas of Gluck arranged by Mottl. They will play Serenade "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik," Mozart; "Allegro," "Romance," "Minuet," "Rondo," and "Ballet Suite," by Gluck arr. by Mottl; "Dance of the Blessed Spirits" (Orpheus); "Musette" (Armide); "Air Gay" (Iphigenia in Aulis).

The personnel of the orchestra is as follows: Violins, Mr. Anselmo, concertmaster, Hiram Bevins '41, Rosemary

Do Students Get Balanced Meals?

State Nutrition Comm. To Help Control Diet

[illegible] students who [illegible] eat [illegible] consistently actually get wholesome and well-balanced meals.

In order to aid students both men and women in this respect the members of the State Nutrition Committee many of whom are on the University faculty are going to publish weekly diet suggestions. In doing this they hope not only to teach the student how to decide what constitutes a really good meal—one that is nutritious and wholesome yet economical, but also to aid the student in procuring the most for his money when planning meals and buying food.

Dr Florence King head of the Home Economics department is chairman of this nutrition committee other members are Miss Leila Tarrant extension nutritionist Dr H B Pierce of the Medical College faculty; Mr. J. H Perry of the zoology department, Dr S. S. Corbin, also of the medical faculty Miss Milla Newland nutritionist of the State Department of Health and Mrs Allen Fletcher of Ludlow representing the consumer groups.

The first in this series of weekly articles appears below. It is hoped that all self-boarding students on the campus, both men and women, will realize the value of these diet suggestions and will follow them. Any comment or suggestions on the part of the students will be appreciated by the CYNIC.

Eat the Right Food!

Studies show that about one-fourth of the people of the United States have diets that could be rated good. More than a third of the families have fair diets or just enough to keep them going. The rest are getting poor diets. Poor diets may not put you to bed but may result in lack of pep, shifting aches and pains and certain kinds of digestive disturbances. They prevent a person from doing his best work in college. They lower the natural resistance to infection.

These poor diets may be a result of small incomes but often are a result of not selecting the right foods, not spending the income wisely, or not liking some of the right foods. College students preparing their own meals give lack of time as another reason for poor diets.

In deciding what to eat each day, plan first on one pint or more of milk. If fresh whole milk cannot be obtained, use skimmilk, buttermilk, evaporated milk, dry milk, or cheese. One tall can of undiluted evaporated milk, one-half pound of dry milk, or one-third pound of cheese has about the same food value as one quart of fresh milk. A leafly, green or yellow vegetable such as spinach, chard, beet greens, wild greens, beans, peas, carrots, or squash should be included each day for the iron and vitamin A they provide.

Each day tomatoes in some form, oranges, or grapefruit should be served. Besides these foods, serve potatoes and another vegetable and fruit, lean meat, fish or poultry, at least two servings of whole-grain bread and cereals, butter, and dessert if desired. Eggs should be served three to four times a week separately or in cooking.

There will be a meeting of the Sophomore class in 27 Science Hall Wednesday, April 30, at 4:00 p.m., for the purpose of nominating next year's class officers. Plans for donating funds to the U.V.M. War Relief Committee and for setting aside a fund for class reunion will also be discussed.

leave it, but always remember that it works two ways. Your obligation to Vermont does not end when you leave it. Visit the alumni office, get acquainted with it and its functions before you graduate."

His closing words, "Organized alumni loyalty is worth infinitely more than unorganized good-will," are well worth pondering over. Following Coach Prentice's speech was a vocal rendition of "Phi Delta Theta, We'll Always Be True" by the Phi Delta Theta Glee Club under the direction of A. M. K. Blume of the German department.

William Lockwood '27, former Rhodes scholar and present vice-president of the Howard National Bank, followed in the same vein of thought, stressing again the importance of the alumni office, and especially the interest and loyalty shown by the various alumni clubs in large cities such as Boston, Hartford, New York and Washington. He remarked that not until recently have the Vermont alumni organized a club in Burlington, despite the fact that "there are more alumni here than in any other city."

"Toast to Phi Delta Theta," another song by the Glee Club, brought the program to a close. In parting, radio editor Meyer Levin '41 announced that the Phi Delt Glee Club and the Ethan Allen Quartet will be glad to cooperate gratis with any organization which might be holding patriotic meetings.

Note—Mrs. Belle Y. Gallup, secretary of the Alumni Council, sends a cordial request to all seniors and interested underclassmen to visit her office on the third floor of the Medical Building. Remember: You're a student for four years; you're an alumnus for life.

Military News

Colonel Spalding of the military department, when interrogated as to whether he had any news for the CYNIC volunteered some information concerning the need for Flying Cadets.

He stated that at the present, and in the future no matter how things turned there would be a very great need for Flying Cadets. The training is most valuable, and above and beyond that any young man who realizes the need for patriotic effort can be assured that he is making his full contribution if he qualifies as a Flying Cadet.

Incidentally, Colonel Spalding stated, all who have entered this work from the University have been successful.

Larry Gardner Holds Discussion With Girls

Tuesday night, April 22, Larry Gardner, baseball coach of U. V. M., presented a movie and then answered questions on baseball. The movie, entitled "The American League Movie," gave an interesting insight on how to play baseball and into the works of big league ball. Many of the leading players in today's leagues were shown, and the film was very interesting, showing the world series and various techniques.

After the picture several of the girls asked questions and kept Coach Gardner quite busy. He said that it took ten or twelve years of continuous practicing and work to get primed for the big league. The girls enjoyed the movies and talk immensely and learned quite a few things about the game which they hadn't known before.

The three government men, Clark Miller '42, Gerald Dubinsky '44, Stanley Sirkin '42

Stage manager: Clark Miller '42

You Can't Take It With You is a farce in three acts crammed full of the latest in stage antics. The theme of the play is Grandpa Vanderhof's philosophy of life in Columbia Vanderhof's philosophy of life in Columbia ... He runs home from the office one day and decides never to go back to work and ... at home. His ... daughter Mrs. Sycamore wants ... because someone left a typewriter at the house by mistake, and runs the members of the family all pursue their crazy occupations. The sweet is Penny Sycamore's pretty daughter Alice, who falls in love with Tony Kirby and then the complications arise.

The setting throughout the play is the gathering place (might be called a living room) of the Sycamores where the lives of the family unfold before the audience.

The play first made its appearance in New York in December of 1936. The leading parts were played by Henry Travers, Josephine Hull and Margot Stevenson, who made the play a great success, running for several years.

Keep Tradition Dynamic

Traditions are a great thing when they mean something—when they keep alive a memory or a principle worth keeping alive. Founder's Day is a Vermont tradition that does and should continue to have great meaning. It is the day when everyone connected with this University looks back and commends the foresight of those men who realized the importance of education in a free community. It is the day when the University recollects its long history and reaffirms its faith in the principles upon which it was founded.

At the same time are announced the names of those people who have been selected as the outstanding representatives of the student body and who are to be the leaders of student action in the school year to come. Upon the shoulders of those leaders will fall the task of seeing that the high aims of the University are advanced.

Coming as it does on the sesquicentennial year of the University's founding, Founder's Day is an especially significant one. It is comforting to think that in a world that has seen so many changes and has shattered so many disasters, this institution has been able to survive. It is inspiring to look back on those long years to the time when the earliest founders, confident in the future of their state and country, laid the cornerstone of our educational system. Struggles with the wilderness, struggles with hostile powers did not destroy their idealism nor their faith. In a free country, they knew, that there would be great need for knowledge and liberal education.

But this is self evident. What is not so evident is that we cannot sit back after today's exercises and think vaguely "it was nice of Ira Allen to found this University"—and then turn to a discussion of who made Phi Beta or who made Mortar Board. Nor should the members of the honor societies sit back with their laurels firm in their grasp and relax. The founders never finished the job of advancing liberal educational principles of improving the opportunities for advancement offered by our educational system.

Over and above the purely routine duties of sponsoring smokers and dances and channeling student social activities the honor societies have the all important task of guiding student opinion, of being alive to campus problems and of organizing student action when their vital interests are affected. The honor societies should be a vital force on the campus. When a problem arises affecting student interests, the honor societies should be the first to send out a call for student action. When there is a need for student opinion, the student organizations should assume the burden for that effort. In the past too little consideration has been given to the vital issues of the day. In the past too little consideration has been given to the vital issues of the day. In the past too little consideration has been given to the vital issues of the day

Two Men at a Switchboard Make Radio Network

Few people realize that the [illegible] a broadcast from the Los Angeles Civic Light Opera cast more than one program at the same time.

And yet to make a station as Columbia's key station, WABC in New York, as many as seven programs may originate together, each heard in a different part of the country, one, perhaps, on the campus [illegible] in a dormitory in a different section of America, served by a different regional network of the Columbia Broadcasting System.

The wonder of network radio is that any network is made up of a number of smaller networks, or circuits, which can be juggled, pieced together, split in any of a number of ways so that the right program goes to the section of the country for which it is intended.

This magic is performed in a room on the 23rd floor of the CBS building in New York, a room called Master Control. If the network be regarded as a nervous system, Master Control is its ganglion.

It's now five twenty-eight, New York Time, in the room. We're watching two men sitting before a panel covered with a bewildering maze of dials, lights, switches, patch cords, plugs and loudspeakers. A welter of noises and talk pours from three of the loudspeakers.

At five twenty-eight the programs that began at 5:15 are still on the air. From Columbia's Chicago outlet, WBBM, a dramatic program is going [illegible] to stations in the Midwest and the Pacific Coast. New York's WABC is sending a story to a Pennsylvania, Ohio, and New York state hoop. In other studio at WABC, an orchestra plays for listeners in the South and New England.

It's now five twenty-nine, and these programs are ready to go off the air—their signature music has started and their announcers are making their closing remarks. Although the subjects are quite different, all three announcements end, almost as if by a coincidence, with the words: "This is the Columbia Broadcasting System." We look at the clock: they have synchronized to almost the exact second of 5:29:30, the ideal time.

When the last "System" is heard, the two men we are watching start to move,

Air Corps Offers Many Opportunities

Can Use Able-Bodied Young College Men

At this time college men throughout the nation are keenly aware that they will soon be called upon to go for a year's military training in an army camp. Those who have not taken R. O. T. C. courses will, for the most part, be privates; and even those who have taken two years of this work can hope to rank no higher than non-commissioned officers. Here is an opportunity to become an officer in one of the most popular branches of the service, the Air Corps.

If you meet the requirements you will be sent to a flying school for seven months' training. During this period you will have spent about 215 hours in the air, and be given, in addition to the flying training, courses in navigation, meteorology, radio, and other subjects allied with military aviation. The pay will be $75 per month plus a ration allowance of $1 per day. You will be quartered in a modern barracks, and be furnished with uniforms and other flying equipment without cost.

Upon completion of the course of instruction you, as a flying cadet, are appointed a second lieutenant in the Air Corps Reserve, receiving your "wings" and the rating of pilot. Then you will serve on active duty for three years if your services are desired. Afterwards you should be able to qualify as an airline transport pilot if you choose to return to civil life.

Requirements are that you be between the ages of twenty and twenty-six, a citizen, have two years of college, and that you pass a physical examination.

For further information write to the Vermont Flying Cadet Committee, Free Press, Burlington.

Henry Stuart Hughes, grandson of Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, has resigned his teaching post at Brown University to enlist in the army as a private.

Cats Take 6-3 Defeat at Hands of Williams Nine

Spaulding Squelches Cats With Seven Hits; Shaw Only Catamount to Get Extra Base Hit

Three unearned runs in the last two innings proved to be the deciding factor in Saturday afternoon's contest between Vermont and Williams, with the Williams club on the long end of the 6-3 decision.

The Cats played good ball until the eighth and ninth, when wild pitches and errors allowed the visitors to carry off the victory before a crowd of 1,500 loyal Vermont fans.

Both teams scored twice in the first after Shaw gave Williams a run by a balk, when a double play plan had been broken up. Vermont came back with four consecutive singles to put two runs across with the aid of a Williams fielder having made a bad throw.

In the third the visitors went ahead with three one-baggers and held the lead until Vermont struck back in the seventh. The Cats' hopes were shortlived, however, for Meehan of Williams lined a single to left field in the top of the eighth and warmed the basepaths, getting to the hot corner on Hagstrom's hit to right center. Meehan scored when Randy Sullivan missed the chance for a double play on a ball hit by Fran Dolan.

Two runs for Williams in the top of the ninth settled the issue as Spaulding, the visiting hurler, squelched the Cats on seven pitches.

A characteristic of Vermont's game was that of not following up its advantages. Spasyk gained first on an error in the third, stole his way to second, only to die there when Doherty and Beauchemin made out. In the fifth Sysko and Doherty both singled, but were again stranded by Beauchemin. In the sixth Smith worked his way around to third on a single but was left on the sac.

Shaw opened the seventh with a double to right, while Sysko followed up with a bunt, Shaw going to third. Spasyk tried a third-strike bunt, which rolled foul, an automatic out. Hagstrom juggled Doherty's grounder, scoring Shaw with the tying run. Spaulding then whiffed Beauchemin on strikes and got Smith on a fly to left field.

Both pitchers went the distance, giving up several hits which could have been mugged for outs by faster fielding. Meehan and Bush got three apiece off Shaw, with Fitzgerald and Hagstrom also contributing a pair each. Sysko, Doherty Smith and Wood got two each off Spaulding, while Shaw contributed the only extra-baser with his double in the seventh.

NOTICE

Major Sceold of the Selective Service Headquarters in Montpelier has sent the University copies of a questionnaire which is to be filled out by all students of draft age, including those taking the advanced course in Military Science. I understand these are to be used to determine deferment for college students. It is obviously important that every student of draft age fill out the questionnaires so that they may be returned promptly to Selective Service Headquarters.

Dean Kemp will distribute these for the College of Medicine and Dean Hills for the College of Agriculture. Students of draft age in the College of Engineering and Arts may obtain copies of the questionnaire by applying to the Office of their Dean. All such should attend to this matter as early as convenient.

I have posted on the bulletin board a list of students in the College of Arts of draft age according to our records.

E. Swift, Secretary.

Tennis Team Stage Successful Trip

Trounce Mass. State and U. Conn. Lose to Jeffs

Beaten by a formidable Amherst team in their first encounter of the season, the University of Vermont tennis squad bounced right back by taking the measure of the University of Connecticut and Massachusetts State in their Connecticut trip last week-end.

The Vermont net men proved no match for the Lord Jeffs, who romped to an easy 9 to 0 victory last Thursday, but the tables were turned the subsequent day when a determined Catamount court team rolled over Connecticut University 8 to 1.

Bill West was the only Vermont man to bow in this contest, but his opponent was forced to three sets before emerging victorious. This is West's first year on the varsity, as he is only a sophomore.

Capt. Ed Simpson and his brother Larry won their matches in two sets, as did Dick Lynch and Sam Foti in their games. Art Wolk had to play three, before his triumph was assured.

Not satisfied with their previous day runaway, the team subdued Massachusetts State 9 to 0 with the same six players participating in this clean sweep.

Riding on the crest of this two-game win streak, which is quite lengthy in considering last year's net record, Coach Carpenter's men are preparing to invade upper New York State this week to meet Clarkson and St. Lawrence. The squad will leave Friday morning and will return Saturday night.

Usually there have been six players competing in the matches, but it has been customary to play with only five on the New York trip. Instead of six single matches and three doubles, the Vermont team has played five single matches and two double matches with Clarkson, and four singles and two doubles with St. Lawrence. Professor Carpenter is still uncertain if he will take his first six men, the same ones that opposed the Connecticut College aggregations.

Clarkson was one of the few teams to fall prey to the Catamounts last year, and they are not expected to offer any stiff competition this week either. The match with St. Lawrence last year was rained out, but Vermont was leading when the rain halted the contest. St. Lawrence boasts of a strong number one man in Seeler who triumphed in last year's match; otherwise the Cats have a good opportunity to stretch their streak to four, before making their first home stand against Union, May 6.

NOTICE TO SOFTBALL UMPIRES

Your responsibilities in connection with softball games are:

1. Start game on time.
2. See that bases, bats and balls are on hand.
3. See that score sheet is kept properly.
4. See that bases, bats and balls are duly returned to the equipment room at end of game.
5. See that spectators remain at least 15 feet outside the base lines.

These are your responsibilities and they must be handled properly. Umpires failing to fulfill their duties in such a manner will be dropped from the list for all time.

Powerful Princeton And Amherst Clubs Engage Balltossers

Carlson and Healy's Return Expected to Strengthen Lineup

A week-end of baseball designed to satisfy the appetites of the most rabid fan is on the docket for this week-end when the Catamount tossers engage Princeton on Friday and Amherst on the following day. These two ball clubs should furnish the Green and Gold with all the opposition they want.

Princeton's appearance here will be the first time a Big Three baseball team has shown its wares on Centennial Field in quite some time. Little is actually known about the potentialities of the Orange and Black, but it is believed that they are a threat in the Ivy League this year.

Amherst is enjoying a good season this year, although they lost to Springfield. The pitching staff is an unknown quantity, but it is known that they lost Lefty Williams, their ace a year ago, by graduation. Williams is now pitching for Hartford in the Eastern League, a Boston Bees farm.

Vermont will be bolstered by the return to action of two of their stars, Bob Carlson and Frank Taylor. Carlson will be chucking in one of these contests according to Coach Gardner. Captain Taylor will patrol right field for the first time this year, and his big bat should be a factor in the Cat's showing. Last week Frank pinch hit in the Williams game and played right field for an inning, but this Friday will be his first starting role.

Dick Healy is still a man handicapped by several ailments. His knee is still weak, but a basketball injury to his back has recurred and he will have to be on the sidelines again this week. Coach Gardner wants to take no chances on hurting Dick for life, which of course may happen if he sees action before he is physically ready.

The week's preparatory drills have consisted of a lot of hitting and a concentration on tightening the infield defenses. Randy Sullivan, shortstop, has been bothered by a sore wing and has had to take it easy this week. The hitting has shown marked improvement, but hitting in the clutch is lacking.

Coach Gardner plans to use the regular lineup with Frank Taylor the only change. The infield remains the same with Hank Beauchemin, Johnny Spasyk, Randy Sullivan, and Hazen Wood comprising the inner defenses. Wood seems to have regained his batting eye, clicking two for three against Williams. The outfield is comprised of Taylor, Sig Sysko and Nails Doherty. Charlie Smith will catch the slants of Carlson and probably Clarence Akley. Gardner was not sure as to his choice of pitchers, but he imagines that Carlson and Akley will be ready with Al Shaw on relief.

Students Usually Pay

Ann Arbor, Mich.—(ACP)—Student borrowers make good risks, the University of Michigan reports.

During a 43-year period, only three-fourths of one per cent of money loaned by the student fund was charged off as a loss. The majority of final failures to pay were due to death or to permanently disabling illness, a president's report says.

Since the fund was established at the university in 1897, a total of $1,811,271 has been loaned to students.

Cat Tracksters To Tackle Colby Team

Vermont Lads Expected To Cop First Victory

On Friday, May 2, the University of Vermont track squad will entrain, enplane or ensomething for the Colby College meet on Saturday.

Sporting defeats from Williams and Union Colleges, respectively, the Cat Harriers are due for a smashing victory if one salient defect is erased—lack of fighting spirit when under fire—the boys have appeared very capable in practice, but in a meet the "do or die" spirit is completely absent. Graduation has struck so severely that Archie Post is having a difficult time attempting to patch up his lineup. But there is a lighter side to the question involved! Star Johnny Daggett, still ailing from the shoulder injury sustained in the U. V. M. football fracas, will be out of the competition in pole vaulting, sprints, and broad jump. Not taking a sadistic viewpoint, Daggett's absence from the lineup will greatly mitigate the burden of the Cat contestants in the aforementioned events.

Another factor which should be considered is that the Colbymen fell prey to M. I. T. by the astounding score of 93⅔ to 41⅓. It is certain that Vermont could have done much better than that!

Colby College will feature Peters, high jumper, who has a chronic habit of reaching 6 ft. in practically every meet. In their encounter with M. I. T., Bateman took the quarter heat in the blitz time of 53.4. Fifield broad jumped to first place. Colby's Bubar won the javelin throw to the tune of 175 ft. 7 in. Thompson has done 11 ft. 6 in. in the vault thus augmenting the odds that the Cats must strive against. In the shot put, Colby will passing buttons holding keys. From the loudspeakers the theme music continues. Then comes the local outlet speaker announcing "This is WABC, New York" [illegible] many stations local announcers are also identifying themselves.

Music buttons are pushed and then as the music quiets [illegible] the announcer announces the theme, a new musical theme from all the speakers, and a voice tells us that we are hearing a program originating in Columbia's Hollywood studios.

Tap switches the men have thrown once put the three small networks together into one large one, enabling the program from Hollywood to come through New York to the South and Middle West. While this program is on the air, our men pre-set the keys and dials which will take the program that come after this to four different split networks.

Many radio broadcast programs passed through Master Control last year and yet, as we watch the two men waiting for their "Station" cues we know that at the nerve center of a network, there's no such phrase as "dull routine."

Dean Kemp On Cynic Program

A Few Numbers Sung By Ethan Allen Quartet

[illegible] Hardy A. Kemp, Dean of the Medical College, spoke on [illegible] Dean Kemp at 41 gave an excellent resume on the subject, "One Hundred and Five Years in Medical Teaching in Vermont."

He recounted the brief history of the Medical College which was founded [illegible] It seems that our medical course [illegible] Hannah and Tyler Channing [illegible] Vermont medical practice by placing [illegible] the prevailing light of the [illegible] He mentioned that Dr. William Beaumont the surgeon, who [illegible] Dean Kemp said that [illegible] Medical College" be continued [illegible] to function after 1866, and its reorganization and reestablishment was largely due to the splendid work of Dr. S. W. Thayer who served as dean intermittently from 1854 to 1882." Relative to this he spoke of the early rivalry between U. V. M.'s and the other two Vermont medical schools, those at Castleton and Woodstock. These latter however left the scene shortly after the Civil War.

He advanced the fact that those medical colleges which had affiliations with educational institutions have been the ones to survive throughout the years, pointing out nevertheless, that our medical school has not always been as closely associated with the University as it is today. In reply to Mr. Levin's question concerning modern training of medical students, Dean Kemp listed the requirements needed for graduation from the medical school, stressing the long years of practical training and laboratory work.

In summing up the highlights of medical teaching in Vermont, Doctor Kemp gave the three salient advancements in medical education since Colonial times: (1) from preceptor teaching to the grouping of preceptors in forming a school; (2) then the establishing by these schools of stronger relations with educational institutions, until (3) today we have the rigid selection and long preparation for medical study requirements.

Concluding, Dean Kemp said with emphasis, "It is high time people realized that the medical school is a public service institution! Medical education today is now very much an established part of our social structure and is to be recognized as such."

In rounding out this interesting program, the "Ethan Allen Quartet," consisting of H. A. Mayforth, Sr., A. M. K. Blume, Fred Clough and Harry Gallup, favored the audience with a few well sung pieces.

Placement Records Show More Women in Industry

Chicago, Ill.—(ACP)—Placement records of the University of Chicago are beginning to reflect the trend toward replacing men with women in industry, reports Miss Doris B. Larsh, placement counselor of the university's board of vocational guidance and placement.

She added, however, that "the salaries tend to be lower for women than for men who have held these same positions. For instance, one company which offers a starting salary of $125 a month to men is offering $90 to women in the same capacity.

There undoubtedly will be a fluctuation upward as the available good candidates are more in demand now and certain cannot last much longer if employment continues to increase."

Comic Opera Draws Large Audience

"Coffee Cantata" Gives Coloring to Program

A varied and colorful musical including Haydn's comic opera, "The Apothecary," a concert by the University Orchestra, and Bach's "Coffee Cantata" was presented last evening by the Men's and Women's Glee Clubs and Orchestra at Southwick.

The concert, under the baton of Mr. Isocrates Pappoutsakis, was the first attraction on the program and included Mozart's Serenade and the Ballet Suite by Gluck Mottl.

Three soloists performed the entire "Coffee Cantata" by Bach. They were Theresa Colerre, Swanton; Thomas K. Malone, Jr., Burlington; and George L. Millikan of the University political science department.

The third part of the program was the colorful opera by Haydn, "The Apothecary," in which the cast of characters was Sempronio, Robert Goss '44, baritone; Grilleta, Gloria Farrell '43, soprano; Mengone, Paul Poulin '41, tenor; young man, Keith Calkins '43, baritone.

Prof. Howard Bennett played the piano accompaniment for the opera; Mrs. Wilmetta S. Taggart was the dramatic coach, and Mme Elizabeth Bradish was the vocal coach.

A capacity audience enjoyed this fine and varied musical evening, and the music department deserves much credit for the professional manner in which this long program was presented.

Ann Corio, glamor girl of the stage and a spare-time philosopher, recently addressed Harvard undergraduates over the college's private radio station.

New Hampshire interpreting the situation as a sign of Vermont weakness, felt that the young state might be disintegrating and put in a claim on the territory. New York's claim had been supported over New Hampshire's by the Crown, but Congress might look at the matter differently and support New Hampshire. Congress proposed to settle the dispute by slicing Vermont down the middle, giving half to New York and half to New Hampshire. Massachusetts, however, now laid claim to the southern portion of the state, and this new complication caused Congress to delay.

Vermont, now beset on all four sides, took the aggressive, inviting in all the New Hampshire towns who wanted to come and several New York towns between Lake Champlain and the Hudson. By these two diplomatic strokes both New York and New Hampshire were thrown on the defensive. Then Vermont turned north and opened her famous Haldimand negotiations with England, threatening to go with England rather than be left to her destruction by Congress. This move kept England idle for over two years and Congress in a state of fear.

Finally the war closed, relieving the northern menace and Washington wrote Governor Chittenden, suggesting that if Vermont would withdraw into her former boundaries Congress might act favorably on her admission. Vermont acceded to the request, but Congress dallied again, and it was not until some ten years later, under a shifting and enlarging political sky, that New York agreed to relinquish her claim and Vermont was admitted to the Union as the fourteenth state without a dissenting vote.

ATTENTION OF JUNIORS—The examination in English 26 will be given in the Gymnasium at four o'clock on Tuesday, May 6.

John Hurst Adds Variety To Band

Swiss Accordionist to Play in Concert Tour

Note—This is the third in a series of articles [illegible] the University of Vermont R. O. T. C. Band which will make a tour [illegible] May 2 and 3, appearing in parades and concerts in Rutland, Springfield, White River Junction, Montpelier, and Barre.

Very rarely in the instrumentation of a military band is an accordion used and for this reason the University of Vermont R. O. T. C. Band is extremely fortunate to have a performer on this instrument in the person of John W. Hurst of Pennsburg, Pa.

[illegible] a native of Zurich, Switzerland, has been in this country for only two years but his musical interest dates back to the age of six when his father brought home a concertina. John's early experience consisted mostly of the playing of Swiss Folk Songs but as he became more accomplished, his attention was turned to the classics. Since the limited range of the concertina handicapped him in his interpretation of the old masters he turned to the accordion. For a while he played accordion in several Swiss bands until one day, hearing some recordings of American dance orchestras, he started his own dance band.

This band, consisting of four boys from his home town, included a piano, tenor saxophone, drums and John's accordion. Because no music was available, the boys listened to records and wrote their own arrangements. The native people were so pleased with the band that they gave them all the musical work in town.

Upon arriving at the University of Vermont and hearing about the R. O. T. C. Band, John's interest was immediately aroused. Although he was told by some of the boys that an accordion had no place in a military band, he tried out nevertheless and Joe Lechnyr, leader of the band, quick to recognize a good musician, gave John a place in the band.

Since then, he has encountered much new music, which he has handled with enthusiasm and talent. John will be heard with the University of Vermont band on its concert tour, May 2 and 3, through Rutland, Springfield, White River Junction, Barre, and Montpelier.

BLUESTOCKINGS—There will be a meeting today, May 6, at 7.30 p.m., at Southwick. All new members are cordially invited to come. Refreshments will be served

Cast of Junior Play, Thursday Night

SEATED—Amee, Lyons, Preston.
STANDING—Morgan, Poulin, Brown, Kennedy, Pike, Hunting, Schwartz, Sirkin, Goldberg, Harvey, Woolley, Didinsky.
(Not appearing in picture—Hackwell, Mann, Miller.)

Introducing Cast of Play "You Can't Take It With You"

We would like to introduce you to the cast of "You Can't Take It With You."

JEANNE WOOLLEY '42 plays the part of Alice Sycamore, pretty daughter of the Sycamore family who has never been known to lose her temper and who falls for Tony Kirby. Jeanne is well known both for her dramatic ability and her recent choice as a beauty queen. Jeanne is enrolled in the social science curriculum and is from Glen Cove, N. Y.

ALFRED AMEE '43 plays the part of Grandpa Martin Vanderhof, on whose philosophy of "do what you want to do" the play is based. Grandpa is the only member of his family who arises to meet the exigencies of each new unexpected situation. Alfred is active in many campus activities and his interpretation of the leading character in this play is evidence of his dramatic ability. Alfred is from Randolph and is enrolled in the education department.

JANET HACKWELL '42 plays the part of Gay Wellington, a drunken actress whom Mrs. Sycamore met on the bus one day and brought home to read plays to. Janet is interested in personnel work—meeting people—for the future. She is enrolled in the social science curriculum and would like to transfer to the American Academy to develop her dramatic talent. She is from Montpelier.

JANE LYONS '41 plays the part of Mrs. Penelope Sycamore, who writes plays because someone left a typewriter at the house by mistake. Jane's chief interest is psychology and she is majoring in it. She is from New York.

ABRAM SWARTZ '42 plays the riotous part of Boris Kolenkhov. Abe is a wrestler in and out of the play. He is a "Pre-Med" from Boston.

WENDELL HARVEY plays the part of Tony Kirby for whom Alice falls. Wendell was active in high school dramatics at Burlington High School. He is a secondary education student and is from Burlington.

PATRICIA PIKE '43 plays as Essie Carmichael. Patty made herself famous in high school by her acting ability. She is a literary-scientific student and is from Burlington.

CAROLYN BROWN '44 plays the part of Rheba, a maid. Outside of hours, Carolyn is an excellent baseball player and is from Enosburg Falls. She is a social science student.

DONALD MORGAN '44 plays Paul Sycamore. After resting up from his clarinet playing on the R. O. T. C. Band trip, Donald will be all set for his performance. He is a Burlington pre-med.

PAUL POULIN '41 plays Mr. De Pinna. Paul is famous for his singing and operatic activities and is from Plattsburg, N. Y. Needless to say he is in the musical education curriculum.

ROGER HUNTING '42 plays the part of Ed Carmichael. Roger, a new Boulder man, needs no introduction for dramatic or other activities. He is a social science student from Springfield.

HAROLD KENNEDY '43 plays the part of Donald. He is a pre-med from Waterbury.

WILLIAM PRESTON '41 plays the part of Mr. Kirby. Bill plays tympani in the Vermont Symphony on the side. He is a business student from Burlington.

LOUISE MANN '41 plays Mrs. Kirby. Louise needs no introduction, being a Mortar Board member and active in a great many campus activities. Louise is a social science student from Burlington.

Many Enjoy Recital By Miss Marston Sunday

An appreciative audience heard a fine organ recital given by Miss Miriam Natilee Marston, instructor of piano and organ here, in the Ira Allen Chapel on Sunday evening. Features of the recital included an arrangement of Bach's "Jesus, Joy of Man's Desiring" by Harvey Grace, which Miss Marston studied under Grace in London. Also enjoyed were the piece dedicated to Miss Marston by Jores, and the beautiful romantic piece called "Dreams."

More Enthusiasm Urged For Wednesday's Sing

Another sing is to be held Wednesday evening at seven o'clock on the library steps with Louis Pichierri '41 leading. Let's see more out for it this time. Many of you were trained for your fraternity and sorority sings. Why not show off some of that talent? And those of you who claim you can't sing—can sing at an affair like this. Have you ever noticed how much better voices sound outdoors than indoors? Come along if it's only for a gathering of friends and a good time. These spring evenings are warm and light now and there aren't too many left. Take advantage of them!

Dancing From 9 Till 2; Deep Sea Setting

The "Rolling Styles" of Reggie Childs and a romantic "under the sea" setting—that's the Junior Prom, our big spring dance. The formal will be held in the gym on Friday, May 9 with dancing from 9 till 2. The Deep Sea promises a cool setting for Junior Prom.

Reggie Childs has played at the famous Hotel Roosevelt, the exclusive San Diego Country Club, Essex House in Newark and the Commodore Perry in Toledo. Two male vocalists, a girl vocalist, a male trio, a mixed quartet and an excellent glee club form a part of Reggie's Band.

A general preview of Junior Week will be given on Tuesday night at 8.30 on the CYNIC Radio Program. Then you'll hear some of Reggie Childs' recordings, so listen in.

Tickets for the Junior Prom can be bought at the University Book Store for $3.30 including tax.

J. J. Spasyk and J. J. White have charge of Junior Week and they have chosen able juniors to work for them on the Junior Prom. The chairmen in charge of the Prom are Catherine Peterson and J. A. White; Cathryn Grier and C. G. Miller are in charge of decorations; Joanna Metcalf is chairman of publicity committee, working with M. J. Reynolds; Jean Hall has charge of programs; floor committee chairman is R. L. Carlson; electricity committee is headed by W. L. Potter; refreshments are in charge of Frances Abel; and the financial end is being handled by F. P. Logan and C. V. Akley.

Prof. and Mrs. G. V. Kidder will be chaperoning for the evening.

UESTOCKINGS—There will be a meeting today, May 6, at 7.30 p.m., at Southwick. All new members are cordially invited to come. Refreshments will be served

Cast of Junior Play, Thursday Night

SEATED—Amee, Lyons, Preston.
STANDING—Morgan, Poulin, Brown, Kennedy, Pike, Hunting, Schwartz, Sirkin, Goldberg, Harvey, Woolley, Didinsky.
(Not appearing in picture—Hackwell, Mann, Miller.)

Introducing Cast of Play "You Can't Take It With You"

We would like to introduce you to the cast of "You Can't Take It With You."

JEANNE WOOLLEY '42 plays the part of Alice Sycamore, pretty daughter of the Sycamore family who has never been known to lose her temper and who falls for Tony Kirby. Jeanne is well known both for her dramatic ability and her recent choice as a beauty queen. Jeanne is enrolled in the social science curriculum and is from Glen Cove, N. Y.

ALFRED AMEE '43 plays the part of Grandpa Martin Vanderhof, on whose philosophy of "do what you want to do" the play is based. Grandpa is the only member of his family who arises to meet the exigencies of each new unexpected situation. Alfred is active in many campus activities and his interpretation of the leading character in this play is evidence of his dramatic ability. Alfred is from Randolph and is enrolled in the education department.

JANET HACKWELL '42 plays the part of Gay Wellington, a drunken actress whom Mrs. Sycamore met on the bus one day and brought home to read plays to. Janet is interested in personnel work—meeting people—for the future. She is enrolled in the social science curriculum and would like to transfer to the American Academy to develop her dramatic talent. She is from Montpelier.

JANE [illegible] '41 plays the part of Mrs. Penelope Sycamore, who writes plays because someone left a typewriter at the house by mistake. Jane's chief interest is psychology and she is majoring in it. She is from New York.

ABRAM SWARTZ '42 plays the riotous part of Boris Kolenkhov. Abe is a wrestler in and out of the play. He is a "Pre-Med" from Boston.

WENDELL HARVEY plays the part of Tony Kirby for whom Alice falls. Wendell was active in high school dramatics at Burlington High School. He is a secondary education student and is from Burlington.

PATRICIA PIKE '43 plays as Essie Carmichael. Patty made herself famous in high school by her acting ability. She is a literary-scientific student and is from Burlington.

CAROLYN BROWN '44 plays the part of Rheba, a maid. Outside of hours, Carolyn is an excellent baseball player and is from Enosburg Falls. She is a social science student.

DONALD MORGAN '44 plays Paul Sycamore. After resting up from his clarinet playing on the R. O. T. C. Band trip, Donald will be all set for his performance. He is a Burlington pre-med.

PAUL POULIN '41 plays Mr. De Pinna. Paul is famous for his singing and operatic activities and is from Plattsburg, N. Y. Needless to say he is in the musical education curriculum.

ROGER HUNTING '42 plays the part of Ed Carmichael. Roger, a new Boulder man, needs no introduction for dramatic or other activities. He is a social science student from Springfield.

HAROLD KENNEDY '43 plays the part of Donald. He is a pre-med from Waterbury.

WILLIAM PRESTON '41 plays the part of Mr. Kirby. Bill plays tympani in the Vermont Symphony on the side. He is a business student from Burlington.

LOUISE MANN '41 plays Mrs. Kirby. Louise needs no introduction, being a Mortar Board member and active in a great many campus activities. Louise is a social science student from Burlington.

Boost Junior Week

This is the biggest week of the spring term from the standpoint of social merriment. No other week—not even Kake Walk—boasts such a varied succession of events. Tonight is Junior Week play. Prom—all headline events. The ultimate success of Junior Week depends on the amount of support the students give to both the Prom and the Junior Week play. The committees have secured a very good orchestra. Reggie Childs has built up a considerable reputation for serving up smooth dance platforms. Add to this the glamour and color that always attend the Prom and you can easily understand why this should be the most successful single event of the spring social season.

The Junior Week play this year promises to be one of the most entertaining ever presented at Vermont. "You Can't Take It With You" is way above average in the list of comedies and is tops in entertainment possibilities. The play is indeed a difficult production for any amateur group to tackle. We can only admire the ambition of the cast and director who are devoting so much time and effort to make this performance a memorable one. The only reward they can expect is a record turn-out by the student body.

Earlier in the year dramatics seemed to be well-nigh dead on this campus. The Junior Week play gives promise of a revival. Let us hope dramatics will not go the way most literary activities seem to be going on this campus. With Winnowings dead and Vermont dropping out of the tri-state literary contest, there seems to be a bad slump in this department. Dramatics at least should continue to find student support.

The cooperation needed shouldn't be hard to give. After all, Junior Week is the last chance students will get for a joyous fling before finals. Nothing could be easier—having a good time and at the same time cooperating to aid a truly deserving group. Let's see a good turn-out both at the play Thursday night and the Prom Friday night.

More Opinions Wanted

The controversy now raging in the CYNIC's pages over the Lease-Lend Act shows that some students at least are taking great interest in world events—interest enough to set down their opinions for publication. At present the bulk of the letters have been by a very limited group. Why can't we have more people writing letters? All of us have come to this University to prepare for a future and that future if it is to be of any significance must find us contributing our share to the progress of mankind. We are missing something, therefore, if we do not take every opportunity to discuss vital problems which will shape our future course. The CYNIC offers to each student opportunity to air his views. What should the attitude of our nation be towards the present war? What is our duty? Can we adopt the attitude of Senator Wheeler or should we back the "aid-England" attitude to the limit? What about convoys? Should we resort to them? These are vital problems of importance for all of us. Brief, pertinent expressions of opinion from the student body would be welcomed for publication. Let's not leave it to a handful of students to carry on the discussion.

Lease-Lend Bill Fight Still Rages

To the Editor of the CYNIC:

Apparently Mr. McNamara favors a return to the good old rugged individualist policy of America for Americans and the devil with what Europe says and does. This attitude is almost understandable among some of the die-hard isolationists in the Senate but for a student who is supposed to be conversant with current international affairs it smacks of ignorance of basic facts.

Mr. McNamara suggests that Uncle Sam stop lending aid to Britain and empire, and resume its national defense. Very fine sentiments no doubt, but how and where are we going to spend this money? With Congress in its present spending dither over national defense, the army is placing its orders as fast as it decides what it wants and who it wants it from. The key to the situation is not more paper orders, but time to fill the orders already placed. If we withdraw our support, it is doubtful if Great Britain could last long enough for us to place the orders, much less get the weapons we need.

Without the British battle fleet it would be an almost impossible task for the American fleet to protect the Western Hemisphere. To be sure, we have an enormous fleet, but a large part of it is still on paper and we will have it if and when it is completed in 1943-46, with the greater part of the battleships, the backbone of the fleet, being commissioned at about the end of this period. Meanwhile the Japanese navy is equal to ours in battleships, fourteen to fourteen, and will surpass it in number and tonnage about 1943, when some of their huge 35,000-ton battleships, already nearing completion, are commissioned. Add to this the German and the remnants of the Italian fleet and erase from the present picture, or, what is a worse possibility, add to this the British fleet, and you have a rough idea of the opposition the American navy would have to face.

At this point, no doubt, somebody will demand: "Just how are they going to get the British fleet?" To which I retort, "How did they get into Norway, or North Africa or Scapa Flow? All military and naval experts said such things were virtually impossible but it must be noted that they were accomplished."

To return to Mr. McNamara's argument, if we withdraw our support and allow Britain to collapse, we must perforce embark on a program of military and naval expenditures which would make the present program and the seven billion dollar Lease Lend Act seem paltry indeed.

And to what avail would such spending be? We could not hope to keep up our standard of living in the face of the taxes necessary to finance such a program of armament. Nor could we, despite our high degree of industrialization, hope to compete either in peaceful or wartime production against all Europe with its factories and mines run by slave labor. Even with the typical American damn-the-expense attitude we could not compete successfully in a naval race against the rest of the world.

We soon ought to begin to realize that the oceans aren't as wide as they were about the time when isolation was the popular doctrine of foreign relations. Our coasts are within range of enemy fleets and submarines based either in Europe or Asia. While submarines alone can't win a war or even a sizeable naval battle, they can be mighty annoying to supply ships and small warships. Ask the British!

We have just completed construction of a bomber that can fly from here to Europe, drop a sizeable load of bombs and return nonstop. Of course we are the pioneers in aviation and have such things first, but in view of the way the Nazis have pirated our mechanized column, parachute troops, and dive bomber ideas, there is little reason to believe that we will long hold a complete monopoly on this one either. As a matter of fact, Germany is way ahead of us in diesel aircraft engines, having used planes so powered for trans-Atlantic passenger service for several years before World War II.

Of course it would be nice if we could believe Adolph when he says he has no designs on America. I've lost count of the number of times he applied the same remark to small European countries just before he took them over to protect them. Are we supposed to believe he would ignore the richest prize of all just because he said he would?

As the situation now stands, we have our industries choked with our defense orders along with those for materials destined for Britain. As long as Britain holds out, we are in little danger, compared to what we would be in if Britain falls. So if by supplying John Bull the weapons he needs we can delay or avoid entrance into the war, it seems to me that seven billion dollars could scarcely be spent more effectively in the interests of national defense. If this help enables England to defeat Hitler, it will indeed be a cheap price for the resulting benefits. And if it should prove that Britain eventually falls and the money serves no other purpose than to bolster her up until our industries have turned out sufficient arms for our own needs, it will still be money well spent.

As for Mr. McNamara's remarks concerning Senator Wheeler and Colonel Lindbergh, I feel that I cannot accord any mark of respect to men in responsible positions who exhibit such outright shortsightedness concerning world affairs. "America for Americans" is a fine sentiment but it would appear that the best way to keep "America for Americans" is to do all we can to insure the defeat of those who have the avowed purpose of taking America for themselves.

Rare Books Found By Prof. Lindsay

Some many years ago some shipments of books arrived from England and found their way to the cellar of the Billings Library. The sender was Benjamin P. Stevens of the class of 1857.

Stevens had married into the Whittingham family of England, owners of the Chiswick Press, and had sent a collection of books printed by this press. These books, noted for their especially fine print, were printed around the 1800's and numbered some 3,000. Included in the Stevens gift also were some Aldus books, some quite rare and old, printed in 1506 and earlier.

The librarians, opening these cases, checked and catalogued the books, and suspecting their worth, called in Professor Lindsay.

Professor Lindsay is an authority on old books. He sorted through them and found the ones of real value. His findings he printed in the Dolphin, a magazine for book-lovers. Besides the Whittingham collection, Professor Lindsay also sorted through the Chittenden collection, another gift to the library.

This was donated by L. E. Chittenden, who was registrar of the treasury under Lincoln. A relative of his, and governor of Vermont, was founder of Chittenden County.

These books have all been stored in the tower room of the library. When the Waterman building is complete, the rarer volumes will find a place, yet to be set aside, in the treasure room.

Founder's Day week-end proved a big one for Vermont athletic teams. The baseball and tennis squads [illegible] as they rapped out wins over Princeton and Dartmouth to [illegible] that they cooled on the next day, the Varsity netmen taking a 7-2 [illegible] the Lord Jeffs and the latter losing 6-4 to a semi-pro baseball [illegible] aggregation.

Trackmen Spring Surprise

The surprise of the week-end came from Coach Archie Post's track squad which rose to within two points of snapping Colby College's undefeated College track team. Although they were subdued 68-67, it still was much cause for rejoicing. The team took eight firsts, including every first in the weights, Fred Webster ran a 4:41 mile, the fastest the two mile; and Bert Mott came through with another 16 points. They meet Middlebury this Saturday and without strength in the running events prospects do not look too promising. However we are assured that the team will put up a good battle.

Baseball Talk

Thus far the Vermont ball club has successfully disposed of two members of the "Big Three" and they will have a crack at the third on Memorial Day. Yale was taken 4-3 in an early season game, and the eastern club which came to town boasting victories over Fordham, Columbia, Penn and Cornell, was added to the string of Vermont scalps Saturday.

The Vermont ball club is a very erratic team. When they're good, they're very good. But there are other times. The hitting in number of runs, is always high. The team doesn't have much trouble putting runs in the hit column, but they do have a tough time hitting with men on the bases. Against Trinity, as against Amherst, they collected seven hits, but in both contests they wound up behind a goose egg. In twelve games the infield has completed fourteen twin killings, and at times they're tight as a drum and pretty snappy. We have a good outfield, good pitching, and the best catcher we've had in years. Maybe it's just the breaks!

The title of "Hard Luck" should probably be shifted from Clarence Akley to Al Shaw. Al has lost both games that he has pitched at Centennial Field, but the winning margins were unearned both times. On the other hand, Akley, who held the Princetonians to six hits, and stopped Mac MacCoy, leading hitter in the eastern intercollegiate league, has received excellent support in that tilt.

When the battery of Smith and Akley are operating, base runners will find it unhealthy to wander far from the sacks. Chucking Charlie nabbed his share at second and Clar Akley picked off two men during the Princeton fracas.

Outdoor Sing Sponsored By Outing Club Friday

A song sing took place on the steps of Billings Library of the University of Vermont last Friday evening, May 2, at 7 o'clock. The sing was sponsored by the University Outing Club. Louis Brown '41 was leader. Several such informal campus song gatherings have been held in the last year, and following the usual custom the committee in charge drove up to the location of the sing a platform truck with a piano riding on it and accompaniments for the collegiate carolings were thus forthcoming. Everyone in college was invited by the Outing Club to join in the outdoor sing, and in spite of the cold weather which brought flurries of snowflakes to the campus during the day, a good-sized crowd was expected.

After exercise, nothing is more pleasant than a refreshing pause with ice-cold Coca-Cola. Its taste is delicious; and a welcome, refreshed feeling always follows. So when you pause throughout the day, make it the pause that refreshes with ice-cold Coca-Cola.

Colby Edges Cat Track Team 68-67

Cats Put Up Battle As Mott Garners Two Firsts

Needing four points to win the meet going into the final event of the day, the 220-yard dash, the Colby track team placed second and third in this event to defeat the Vermont trackmen 68 to 67. It was Colby's first win in three starts and Vermont's third straight setback.

Last year's meet between the two teams was won by Vermont and coincidentally by the same score.

Bert Mott, Vermont sprinter, again showed his prowess by winning the 220-yard dash, the 220-yard low hurdles, and by garnering a second in the high hurdles, a tie for second in the high jump, and a third in the broad jump.

Although Vermont held the edge in first places, 8 to 7, it failed to pick up the necessary second and third place points, while Colby won enough 3 and 1 point scores to make up the deficit from first place total points.

Vermont made the only complete sweep when its long distance runners moved out in front and stayed there all the way to win the two-mile event. Charlie Webster took the lead and kept it to come in first and behind him Ernie St. Mary and Frank Tivak finished second and third, just ahead of the Colby long distance men.

In addition to the track events, the Catamounts showed additional strength in the field events as Walt Gage won the hammer throw and George Daly the javelin toss, in addition to Harry Parker's two first places.

Varsity Netmen Take Clarkson

The varsity tennis team returned to home port with an impressive 5-2 win over Clarkson at Potsdam, N. Y., while dropping their closing match of the week-end, paint 7-2 to St. Lawrence University at Canton, N. Y.

At Clarkson, Bill West, Sam Esty, Larry Simpson and Dick Lynch took the singles points while L. Simpson and Lynch took the doubles match. Capt. Ed. Simpson lost a close match to Hal Englander, outstanding New England intercollegiate player in a hotly contested match. The Vermonters took the match by a 5-2 score.

In the match with St. Lawrence, Sam Esty and Dick Lynch won their singles and Bill West and R. Swift took over Tuthill and Bartlett in the doubles competition. The Catamounts dropped the match by a 6-3 count.

So far this year Coach Carpenter's charges have a record of three victories in five starts. There are seven games remaining this season for the varsity racqueteers. On Tuesday, May 6, they will meet Union College from Schenectady, N. Y., on the Cat's home court. On Friday, May 9, St. Michael's will drop around to the Vermont courts where they will engage the Catamounts for the first time this season.

Frosh Tennis Team Lose to Strong B. F. A.

The frosh contingent dropped their initial match of the season to a strong Bellows Free Academy team by a 6-0 score.

Among those who performed for the Hilltoppers were Chuck Denton, Jim Keighley and Stan Kemler. Vin Mahoney and Johnny Hurst were lost because of the R. O. T. C. Band trip.

Cats Down Princeton 6-2 But Lose To Amherst 4-0 In Week-end Tilts

Akley Subdues Tigers But Sloppy Fielding Affords Lord Jeff Win

Using the ace to pass ball was sounded last Saturday, an enthusiastic Vermont crowd filled the concrete stands flanking the grandstand, hoping to see the Cats [illegible] Lord Jeffs. The [illegible] was running and the fans were present in abundance but alas for the throngs of the Northland hosts, it was the Lord Jeffs from Amherst. Back up the hours with the Cats[illegible] The Lord Jeffs had [illegible] 4 to 0.

Slugerland, the Amherst pitcher, really did sling the ball across the pan. He had a beautiful curve ball and [illegible] nicked the corners to make six Vermont batters bite the dust via this route. With the commencement of the tenth, the Amherst twirler allowed only one hit which went for naught and he faced only twelve batters in the remaining four frames.

On the other hand, Al Shaw struck out seven men, allowed only eight hits and left only six Amherst men on base. Six Catamount errors contributed to his second successive defeat in as many home appearances. Although he hit one batter, his control was good and only one Amherst man gained a free ticket to first; it seems that the nickname "Hard Luck" will have to be switched to Al instead of Clarence Akley.

The game itself was well played and the Lord Jeffs showed a corking good outfit. The Vermont team did not play as well as they did against Princeton the day before. Randy Sullivan, who has been filling the shoes of injured Dick Healy quite capably, made three errors, one of which was costly.

The Cats had a man on first and third with two gone in the first inning, but big Hank Beauchemin forced Bob Doherty at second to end the short lived rally. Again in the second, Vermont had a man on third when Randy Sullivan tripled, but Al Shaw struck out for the third out.

Amherst brought two runs across the plate in the third with the help of two Vermont misplays. After Slingerland had flied out, Blood hit a high fly to second base. Randy Sullivan was under it but tripped over the base as the ball fell into his glove and then rolled out. With Partenheimer up, Blood stole second and a few seconds later rode home on Norris's single to left. Bob Doherty's peg to home plate was wild and Norris went all the way to third and then came home on Lally's single to center. Jessie Fox, Lord Jeff captain, struck out to cease hostilities for the time being.

The Cats loaded the bases in their half of the third as Swift singled, was forced at second by Spasyk who advanced to third on the throw in from Doherty's single, the latter going to second and Beauchemin was intentionally passed. Smith bounced to the shortstop Partenheimer for the final out.

Vermont put two runs across in the fifth but they were left helpless. Al Shaw opened the last of the seventh with a tremendous triple over the right fielder's head but failed to touch second in his hasty flight. To the scorer it was only a long single.

Amherst tallied one run in the eighth and ninth to complete the scoring for the day.

A brisk and promising opening mill round Centennial Field as the Princeton Tigers and Vermont Catamount grappled at the starting line on that mad, mad, mad Indian Summer in the Season of the Sere moment. It was Friday, May 2 but the Tigers were reminiscent of the Vermont infield. Small wonder, as the Princeton [illegible] A night there in terms of runs must have shocked the Princetonians because [illegible] the Cats pounced upon the [illegible] and Norris [illegible]

Hank Luck, Clarence Akley took the opportunity to display all the curves, assorted [illegible] and exhibited his formidable assortment with six hits. It wasn't until the sixth and seventh, being the last two innings of the abbreviated contest, [illegible] that Akley began to weaken a little, but he ended the game by striking out Mac [illegible] who had clouted two hits during the afternoon.

The 500 fans who descended on the atmospheric conditions were treated to some fancy ball playing. Vermont made two double plays to make it number 12 in eleven games. Bill Clark, the Princeton coach, was very much impressed with the Cats infield, especially with Johnny Spasyk's smooth fielding.

Plumer, the lead-off batter for the Tigers, walloped a 3-2 pitch down the right field side lines for a two-base hit to start the game. He then advanced to third with one out, but was left stranded as the next two batters were retired.

In the second and third innings Akley caught over-anxious Princetonians off base to end the frames.

Vermont tied it in the second to score three runs. Hank Beauchemin walked on four straight pitches and went to third on Chucker Smith's double. Hazen Wood received an intentional pass to load the sacks, but George Palmer, the Princeton sophomore pitcher, failed to stop Randy Sullivan's sharp grounder on the next play to upset the intended strategy and Beauchemin scored. Expecting a bunt from the Vermont pitcher, the Princeton infield came in close, but Clarence Akley popped a mean one over the third baseman's head to score two more runs and virtually the ball game. Doherty ended the inning by striking out after the bases were once again full.

In the third Beauchemin singled and went to second on Smith's sacrifice. Wood's grounder went through Jess Fox to the Tiger second sacker and Beauchemin scored. With two out in the fourth Franklin Taylor and Bob Doherty singled and both advanced as the throw in Hank Beauchemin went through and Taylor scored but Doherty was out. At this point Bobby replaced Palmer on the mound.

Princeton broke the ice[illegible] in the sixth when with one out Akley walked Plumer who went to third on Morgan's [illegible] Beauchemin's ghost. Plumer proceeded to Wood who threw to the latter but it was not in time to [illegible] Plumer from preserving the run. Three runs. Going into the top half of the seventh Akley retired the first two but Morgan was safe on Lally's [illegible] Bobby and Plumer all expertly walked to load the sacks. The Catamount pitcher momentarily lost his control and Morgan stampeded across the platter on the wild pitch to end the scoring.

[illegible] many interesting papers were presented including [illegible] "Transient Stability of Synchronous Motors" by E. H. Crockett and H. H. Skilling of the Oregon Experiment Station. [illegible] has been published in the Electrical Journal and is [illegible] the most complete treatment of the subject [illegible] "Transient Stability of Synchronous Motors" which is based upon his research work at the University of Vermont during the past two years. The remainder of the program included technical sessions, inspection trips and [illegible] social events.

Attending a similar convention of the eastern District of the American Society for Mechanical Engineers at Northeastern University in Boston, May 2 and 3 were Prof. P. C. Graves and members of the senior class in mechanical engineering. One of the speakers R. G. Ramsdell Jr. of Rockville Center, N. Y., delivered a paper at the Saturday morning session on "Locomotives Old and New."

Reggie Childs And Band Have Brief Brilliant History

When Reggie Childs and his orchestra billed as "The Sweet Band of the Nation playing the Sweetest Music in Creation," opened in U. V. M. U. to provide soft music for the Junior Prom on Thursday evening they will come directly from long [illegible] engagements at famous supper clubs and spots throughout the East, and many broadcasts from coast to coast over the NBC networks.

Featured with this fine orchestra of thirteen pieces are three vocalists. Lucille Moore, Steve Leonard and Paul Carley, besides a male trio, mixed quartet and a [illegible] glee club. Using these combinations as the cushions of his production numbers Childs has developed the famous rolling styles of rhythm which have placed his band high in the musical entertainment world.

Reggie Childs has a fine musical background. Born in America and raised in England he received his early musical training in the conservatories of London and Paris. As a young man he took his violin to Canada and later to New York. After playing in the country's leading dance orchestras Childs became musical director of the Broadway hit, "Little Jessie James." During the past year he and his orchestra have been creating musical history. Last August 17 Childs opened at the Rustic Cabin, famous supper club just across the Hudson from New York, for a one month's engagement; he remained there for six months, meanwhile establishing and then breaking three different attendance records at this ten-year-old supper club.

Previously, Childs had exercised his Band Leader

Reggie Childs

penchant for creating dance fads by going into New York's famous Hotel Roosevelt for one month, and staying there. Following the Roosevelt engagement the band made a transcontinental theater tour which ended with an engagement at the exclusive San Diego Country Club.

Dixieland is famous for its rolling styles derived from the clarinets. Always soft, smooth and suave, the Childs rhythm beats an imperative invitation to the dance and is one of the reasons for the band's extraordinary success.

Reggie Childs and his orchestra are under the management of the Music Corporation of America.

Do You Get Your Vitamin C?

[illegible] News—This is the second in a series of articles on food designed to aid [illegible] students in getting healthful, nutritious meals at a minimum cost.

Many students are not getting the foods they need because they do not know what are the most economical foods to buy and still give them the most food value for the money expended. There are, however, appearing in the market good buys in these foods if the student only knew the food values of these foods.

A good source of vitamin C is needed every day because this vitamin cannot be stored in the body. Vitamin C helps prevent infection, protects the teeth and gums, and is necessary for pep and vitality. To secure the needed amount of vitamin C it would be necessary to take at least one half cup of grapefruit or orange juice, or one cup of tomato or tomato juice each day. It would take two cups of pineapple juice to furnish the same amount of this vitamin. At the present prices, grapefruit juice is the cheapest source of this vitamin. During the summer months when berries and melons are inexpensive, a large serving of one of these raw foods may be substituted for the grapefruit, tomato, or orange. Prune juice and vegetable juices other than tomato are not good sources of vitamin C, so when they are served a good source of vitamin C should be used also.

Through an oversight in the preparation of the ballot for printing, the office of treasurer was omitted. There was a tie for secretary, both candidates, Elizabeth L. Deming and Janet F. Hackwell, receiving an equal number of votes. Therefore another election will be held Thursday, May 15 to determine the class treasurer and secretary.

Vermont Musicians Here For Festival

Concerts and Parades Planned for Weekend

Approximately thirty-four hundred high school students from all over Vermont will invade Burlington this week-end to present the biggest yet of the Vermont Music Festivals. For the fourteenth consecutive year the Headmasters' Club of Vermont and the Vermont Music Supervisors' Association under the auspices of the Burlington Lions' Club present this musical extravaganza. Beginning on Thursday evening, the climax will come at the big final concert on Saturday evening. A total of nine concerts will be given in four different auditoriums.

On Thursday evening two concerts will be presented at the Burlington High School Auditorium and the High School Gymnasium by soloists and small ensembles. On Friday evening two bands, a "red" and a "blue," and having practiced together Thursday and Friday will present a concert in the Memorial Auditorium. On Saturday afternoon concerts will be given by the groups from the different schools; the bands at the Memorial Auditorium beginning at 1.00 p.m., the orchestras at the High School Auditorium beginning at 1.00 p.m., and the glee clubs at the High School Gymnasium, the Community Y. M. C. A. Gymnasium, and the City Hall Auditorium beginning at 2.00 p.m. Saturday evening will feature the closing spectacle of the festival; a chorus of approximately eight hundred voices and an orchestra of about two hundred pieces will present the final concert in the Memorial Auditorium at 8.00 p.m.

Talented and very well-known directors have been secured for the festival. Dr. Earl E. Wiggin of Providence, R. I., will direct the All-State bands of one hundred and fifty pieces each. Albert Wassell will conduct the All-State orchestra and Dr. Walter H. Butterfield will

Independents Men Elect Fred Webster President

At a meeting of the Vermont Men's Independents on Monday evening the following officers were elected:

Fred Webster '42, president; Howard Pease '43, secretary; Keith Calkins '44, treasurer; Malcolm Dana '44, presiding justice; Glenn Streeter '42, poster chairman, Mark McLean '44, reporter.

Another meeting will be held next Monday evening at 7.30 in the Fleming Museum to draw up a program for next year.

Colorful Floats Mark Peerade

Inferno Used by Many as Theme

Yesterday afternoon at four o'clock the varicolored and gaily decorated floats of the sororities and fraternities on the hill opened the gala Junior Week events by joining together in an impressive "peerade." The procession started from the gymnasium and rolled slowly down Main Street then progressed over Church Street and up Pearl Street back to the University campus. The R. O. T. C. Band led the grand parade. The judges, Prof. B. F. Ladd, Prof. W. H. Heicher and Mr. Pappoutsakis, were situated in a stand on the City Hall steps. Each sorority and fraternity chose scenes depicting some subject appropriate to the theme of the Junior Week play.

The Alpha Chis showed Hitler dead on a bier with the devil driving the float and the "world" on the other side, signifying that Hitler might conquer the world but that he couldn't "take it with him." The committee in charge were Marie Lanou '44, Virginia Mitchell '43 and Jean Davison '44. The Alpha Xis cleverly portrayed St. Peter at heaven's gate with his big book and Hitler trying to gain admission with the world under his arm. Peggy-Dean Abbott '42 was in charge of preparing this float. The Tri Delts showed St. Peter on one side of their truck with people coming up from the other side laden with their worldly possession. The committee in charge of the float consisted of June Riddell '42, Harriet Parker '42 and Dorothy Arnault '44.

The Kappa Alpha Thetas depicted a "gruesome" guillotine scene with a line of waiting victims, poles with heads strung

U.V.M. Newman Club Host At Conference

The U. V. M. Newman Club will be host to Newman Clubs of practically all New England Colleges, May 17 and 18.

Saturday afternoon the members will attend the baseball game between U. V. M. and Springfield, as part of the program.

In the evening, at 7.00 there will be a general meeting of all the New England Clubs. Among the speakers will be Prof. Leo D. O'Neill of Boston University, Professor Tahen of Hanover, N. H., and Miss Virginia Morrissey, the Regional Director of the New England Federation of Newman Clubs.

Following this meeting there will be an informal dance for all delegates, local and visiting. The place where the dance is to be held will be announced later. Students from Trinity and St. Michael's have been invited to participate in the activities.

Sunday morning the meeting will end with a Solemn Pontifical Mass, which will be held at Centennial Field.

Dave Sawyer '42 is chairman of the dance committee; Helen Witham '42 is chairman of the reception committee; Mary Germain '43 is chairman of the housing committee; Justine Whalen '44 is chairman of the publicity committee.

Fraternity Dances To Be Saturday

Open House Will Be Held Everywhere

Plans for the Junior Week fraternity dances are now under way. Open house will be held Saturday and dancing will be enjoyed.

Wayne Dudley '43, Bob Darling '43 and Charles Bannon '42 are in charge of the Alpha Tau Omega's semi-formal. Further plans will be announced later.

At the Delta Psi house a semi-formal will be held. Co-chairmen of the dance are William Sisson '43 and George Little '43. The Catamounts are playing.

John Costello '42 is chairman of the Kappa Sigma dance. Music will be furnished by Red Dower.

Lambda Iota is having Gilbert Shaw and his orchestra. M. B. Cummings '44 and H. N. Brown '43 are in charge of arrangements.

W. J. Murray '43 and W. J. Benoit '43 are co-chairmen of the Phi Delta Theta dance. Jack Collins will furnish the music.

The Phi Sigma Delta's are having a formal Saturday night. The class of '42 is in charge of arrangements. Dick Kenney will play at the dance.

At the Sigma Phi Place Castle Heights and his orchestra are playing at an informal dance. J. S. Burgess '42 is in charge.

The Tau Epsilon Phi's are having a formal at Oakledge Manor. H. Basch '42 is in charge. The Melody Masters will play.

D. H. Steenburn '44 is in charge of the dance at the Sigma Nu Lodge.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon will have an eight-piece orchestra playing Saturday night. A. L. Shaw '42 is in charge of arrangements for the informal dance.

Program Previews Junior Week

To preview Junior Week to the radio audience, Johnny Spasyk '42 and "Whizzer" White '42, co-chairmen of the Junior Week committee, gave concise talks on the U.V.M. Radio Program Tuesday evening, outlining the highlights of this long anticipated weekend emphasizing the Peerade, the Junior play, the fraternity open-house dances and picnics, and the crowning event of all, the Junior Prom.

An interview with Miriam Rubin '41 followed in which the aims and practical values of the Intercollegiate Social Service Conference, held at Boston last summer, were discussed. She recounted a touching story directly related to the principal aim of this conference: that of acquainting students with modern social service work. Miss Rubin is planning to enter the Junior Probation Service following her graduation in June.

The next speaker, Harry Twitchell '43, who has come to America recently from England, told of the progress which is being made by the rugby team. It seems that rugby has been played here for the past ten years although it has not as yet gained University recognition. Phil Eisenwinter '43 rounded out the program with a news summary. The program was enlivened by the recorded music of Benny Goodman and other famous orchestras.

Picnic For W. A. A.

This year in place of the usual All Sports banquet, a picnic will be given on May 20 for all members of W. A. A. Cards have already been sent out inviting them. All members accepting their invitations are asked to return their cards to the "Y" room. Everyone is to meet at Southwick at 5 o'clock. All girls living in dormitories will be given their lunches and chocolate milk will be on sale for everyone. In case of rain the picnic will be held inside Southwick Memorial.

Gym to be Scene of Gay Junior Prom This Evening

Reggie Childs Brings His Famous Band As Highlight of Big Weekend

REGGIE CHILDS

The celebrated Junior Prom, main attraction of Junior Week, will be held at the gym tonight from 9 till 2. Reggie Childs and his well known dance band will furnish the music at this big event. The romantic Deep Sea promises a cool setting for dancing to his "Rolling Rhythm."

Reggie has played at the famous Hotel Roosevelt, the exclusive San Diego Country Club, the Essex House in Newark and the Commodore Perry in Toledo.

Two male vocalists, a male trio, a girl vocalist, a mixed quartet and an excellent glee club are a part of the band.

Tickets for the formal are on sale at the University Book Store for $3.30 tax included.

Chairmen of the Prom are Catherine Peterson and J. A. White. Cathryn Grier and C. G. Muller are in charge of decorations. Joanna Metcalf is in charge of publicity, assisted by M. J. Reynolds; Jean Hall is in charge of programs; floor committee chairman is R. L. Carlson; W. I. Potter is chairman of the electricity committee; Frances Abel is in charge of refreshments; and C. V. Akley and F. P. Logan are in charge of finances.

Professor and Mrs. G. V. Kidder will chaperone.

Junior Week Play Draws Large Crowd

Students Cast Exhibits Fine Dramatic Talent

Last night at Southwick, a large audience of students, faculty and guests witnessed the U. V. M. production of "You Can't Take It With You."

The play included a large cast of students, many of whom are well known for their dramatic talents and all of whom showed remarkable ability in this performance.

The plot involves two families of entirely opposite backgrounds, who come together in the crazy atmosphere of the Sycamore home. The rich and haughty Kirby family learn by association with the Sycamore grandfather (the lead which Alfred Amee ably portrayed), that the acquisition of money and material goods count very little when one does not also gain happiness. Through the romance between son Tony and Alice Sycamore these people, who have had everything in life but fun, observe the lunatic actions of the Sycamores who do everything and anything that occurs to them. As in all good stories, there is a profitable ending. Mr. Kirby on realizing he hasn't really enjoyed his work all these years, follows grandpa's example and never returns to work.

The cast which put in a great deal of effort for the play did a really fine job and made the performance an excellent beginning for the Junior Week festivities.

Seven Girls Initiated

Delta Alpha chapter of Delta Phi Epsilon announces the initiation of seven new members, all of the freshman class, last Monday evening at Southwick. Following the initiation, a banquet was held at the park.

The new members are: Estelle Berkson, Mattapan, Mass.; Anita Berman, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Constance Colodny, Burlington, Vt.; Judith Isaacs, Far Rockaway, N. Y.; Florence Levin, Brooklyn, N. Y.; and Cecile Rosen, Hartford, Conn.

Fraternity Picnics On Sunday To Bring A Close To Week-end

Sunday afternoon the final festivities of Junior Week will take fraternity men and their dates into woods and over sand dunes on the annual fraternity picnics.

Sigma Nu will hold its picnic at Harry Parker's camp at Highgate. Parker '42 is in charge.

John Costello '42 announces that Kappa Sigma will go to Oakledge with Lieutenant Schofield and Prof. and Mrs. George Kidder.

Delta Psi plans its picnic at Cedar Beach with Mr. Joseph G. Leeder as chaperon. Wayne Barrows '41 is chairman.

Clark Miller '42 is in charge of Phi Delta Theta's annual steak dinner to be held on the Islands.

Sigma Phi will picnic on Camp Abnaki, according to Philip Eisenwinter '43.

Kappa Phi Kappa Elects Officers

At a special meeting of Kappa Phi Kappa, national honorary education fraternity, Hazen F. Wood '42 was elected president; Melvin H. Hawes '42, vice-president; and Alfred F. Amee '43, secretary-treasurer. Professor Douglass of the Education Department is to continue as faculty advisor.

Plans were made for the annual spring banquet which is to be held next Wednesday evening in Richmond. Commissioner of Education Ralph E. Noble will be the guest speaker and the newly elected officers will be installed.

Plans were discussed for the annual national convention to be held this year in October. Professor Douglass is one of the national vice-presidents, and it is hoped that Alpha Gamma Chapter of Vermont may be represented.

The Goodrich Classical Club will hold its last meeting of the year Wednesday, May 14, at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Professor Prindle. All members are urged to be present.

Only the Best

A well-known educator recently urged that colleges stress only the best in Americanism. What we all need now, more than ever, is faith in the validity of our essential traditions, he goes on to say. So he concludes, let us not emphasize the seamy side of our past or present if there be such. A nation has a right to be taken at its best. And at first glance the argument looks sound. There is plenty in the American system that merits commendation, there's a lot to be proud of. But we distrust this idea now being so strenuously advanced that because a crisis exists, we must close our eyes to existing evils in our system.

The path to dictatorship should be an easy one to trace by now. Two of the signposts on this path are the suppression of constructive criticism and the fostering of a blind and unquestioning faith in the existent social and political system. That is just what so many people in the United States are urging today. Let us look at America with the rose-colored glasses of unquestioning patriotism, let us see only the best, let us glory in our greatness. We wonder if such people ever read of Hitler's super race, of the irreproachable new order which has brought perfection to Germany? We wonder if they have heard of such men as Mann who were so stupid as to look for weak points in a system which could have no weak points, no seamy side?

It's too bad to find so many people advocating that we cover up our faults and proclaim loudly the perfection of our democracy. We feel sorry for these sincere but unseeing people. They have failed to realize that democracy cannot be perpetuated by forcing a false picture of it upon the people. Crisis or no crisis, tottering world or no tottering world, democracy lives and expands through a realistic appraisal of its strength and weakness backed by a determination to remove those weaknesses. A people alive to the true state of their country is a people prepared to improve their country. A people drugged to an uncritical stupor is a people ready to destroy itself and its country at the call of the first demagogue that comes along. Only out of knowledge and honest reasoning can grow a lasting faith in the principles of democracy.

A Bouquet—To the Play

Last night's performance of "You Can't Take It With You" set a new high in University dramatics. High praise is owing to both the cast and the director responsible for such a polished performance. Packed full of comic situations and so written as to demand unflagging pace, the play is one well assured to tax the abilities of any group. For this reason, the excellent performance last night was a truly memorable one. The hope expressed in this column last Tuesday that dramatics might experience a revival on the campus seems to have been realized. We hope the Dramatic Club and all the other dramatically-minded groups on the campus will continue to maintain the interest of the student body.

The Festival Again

Once again Burlington plays host to the Vermont Music Festival, one of the biggest and colorful of the state-wide events that occur each year in this city. It is interesting to note that the festival, now in its fourteenth year, will feature a chorus of 800 singers, an orchestra of 190 players; two bands which together will total 300 players and about 2,000 other musicians and singers clustered into groups to play or sing before critics and judges. There is no overestimating the value of the festival in promoting an enthusiasm for music among the children of the State. The constructive criticisms offered at the festival form the basis for later improvement. Many students later attend the University and provide excellent material for musical organizations on the campus. We look forward to seeing the festival play an ever greater rôle in the musical life of the State.

Letters From England

DORIS JARECKIE '42 AND JACOB KATZ '44

This is the fourth instalment of a series of letters from an English girl to a friend at here in the United States which we started in the April 18 issue of the CYNIC.

January 18, 1940

After months at work there came Christmas, but no "peace on earth" with it. Nineteen hundred years ago one person was born who suffered so that the world might be bettered. today people suffer so that His work may be continued.

Dear Mary,

"Your letter was as welcome as always—and it came at a very opportune moment, when I was in the depths of despair having just found out that a week's hard work was a complete flop! Failures are discouraging—and there are so many of them in our line of work: successes are comparatively few and far between: and when we had an outstanding success just before Christmas, the head of my section was so delighted that he threw a party—a punch party for 65 people: we all invited our special friends among the staff. It was the best office party in a long time—certainly the best I ever remember. And, four days were added to our Christmas holiday . . .

"I went home on the 18th December—Anna was not so lucky: she didn't get off for Christmas. So after a couple of days of frantic shopping, we packed all her presents into a gay suitcase and sent them up here in time for Christmas day—and we all phoned her long-distance too.

"I was busy every minute of the time I was home—at the skating rink, cinemas, parties—groping round in the black-out, sometimes plus fog! I almost forgot about the war—no, that's not true—how could I forget when half my heart is—where? I don't know—somewhere in France, or somewhere in England—I'm not allowed to know—I get letters and notes: but I don't know where he is, or what he's doing, or if he's half-frozen in the trenches in this icy weather: it just leaves a dull ache in me.

"That holiday went so quickly. Suddenly it was Christmas day, and a friend was 'phoning me somewhere round dawn, to get me up for Church! We walked off through a terrific fog—and after Mass stopped on our way back, to get arms full of holly and flowers for Mummy. We really did spend Christmas sincerely: not much 'peace on earth'—but certainly goodwill; this Christmas had to be the real thing, it is the last for so many people. . . ."

March 25, 1940

A ship arrives safely—a people makes peace.

". . . Everyone here woke up one morning to see the headlines announcing the 'Queen Elizabeth's' arrival in New York. It was a complete surprise. The hundreds of people of Clydeside who must have known about it certainly kept the secret well . . .

"I was shocked at the callous attitude of the U. S. to the plight of Finland—and blaming the whole business on us, too. After all, the U. S. egged the Finns on in the first place. That is 15,000 lives lost to no purpose. 15,000 homes disrupted and hearts scarred for life. . . ."

I can in the peaceful countryside they cannot forget the war. The fate of Belgium and France foreshadows the future of England. Probabilities in May, 1940—reality three months later.

". . . We are now living in a tiny village called Broughton . . . we have been extremely lucky in finding such a nice place.

"The past fortnight has been crammed so full of action that I am still in a whirl. The war seems to spread and spread and spread like some deadly disease that nothing can arrest. When I think of the way that Holland has been bombarded, and Belgium, and of the aerial attacks that are launched daily on France, my heart sinks to my shoes. Because now there can be no doubt that we shall suffer the same fate. Somehow I had never quite believed that we should endure the agony of air-raids—that we should go into the streets in fear, and have to scurry for shelter: but now—well, it's coming: and it's a terrifying prospect. Up till a month ago, the war hadn't really touched me at all—but now the numbers of men that I have known and liked, who have been killed is growing larger every day—some were on submarines, but mostly they died in Norway—and heaven only knows what toll the fighting in Belgium is going to take. Joyce—I've told you about her—has felt it more horribly than any of us—her fiance, who was in the Royal Air Force, was killed when his plane crashed a few weeks ago. . . .

"A large party of us from the office are planning to go to Stratford-on-Avon next week to see 'Hamlet' at the Memorial Theatre. If we can rope about 26 people in, we will get a motor coach, and leave about six, which will get us there in time for the play at eight—and we shall have supper on the balcony overlooking the river during the first interval—sounds nice, doesn't it? And I am hoping to see 'King Lear' at the Old Vic next time I go home. I really can't imagine 'Lear' acted, at all. I've read the play several times, and the whole thing seems un-actable to me—well, I shall soon see."

"Lindbergh Is Not Another Quisling"

To the Editor of the CYNIC:

I was extremely grieved to find that Mr. Suojanen's views as to the desirability of the Lease-Lend Act have been governed by such petty and unimportant things as national descent and political and economic prejudice. I hope that he will soon realize that all minds do not run in the same channels as his.

Perhaps human rights and freedom have been evolving on the British Isles for seven hundred years, but what bearing has this upon British propaganda which is only too abundant in America at present; and the few newspapers and magazines that have the courage to buck this engulfing wave find themselves bitterly condemned as Reds, Fascists and Nazis. Does the situation in Trona speak convincingly of British "democracy"?

May I ask how Albert Finstein, an American citizen for over six months, could possibly be allowed to enter the Reichstag in Germany and criticize the government? Perhaps F. D. R. will invite Harry Bridges to a meeting of the Senate so that he can criticize our government!

Does "democracy" mean a common bond between only the people of the so-called democratic nations? Or does it mean a common bond between all men, slave or free? Should we merely discard past errors, hates and fears, or should we analyze them and get to the bottom of this mess?

Perhaps "isolationism" should be the path for America. Borah, Johnson and Lodge were no fools when they refused to sign the unjust Versailles Treaty. Long ago John Adams made a statement which should be foremost in the minds of all today, "Our business with Europe, and theirs with us, is commerce, not politics, much less war; America has been the sport of European wars and politics long enough!"

Democracy may be the "stuff of life," but will it build a bigger and better race in America by hurling us into a dark abyss? Will it build up our nation by slaughtering our youth? Will greatness instilled into the souls of a million graves

The Kappa Sigs' Peerade float had for its theme a picture of a young fellow leaving his office and a good job—and kissing his girl good-bye—to go into the arms of a waiting army sergeant. "Wizzer" White '42 and John Costello '42 were in charge of plans for this float.

The Delta Psis revealed several views of the happy life of the college student and skilfully indicated that all of his pleasures could not be taken with him out into life. Frank Swift '43, Bob Davis '41, Charles P. Smith, III '44 and Ed Corliss '42 composed the committee. The Tau Epsilon Phi fraternity's float dealt with the international situation. I. Goodman '41 was chairman of a committee consisting of S. Firestone '41, H. Robinson '43 and A. Glazin '44. The Phi Sigs showed a huge carnival scene with tents, platforms and ticket booth. Barkers, dancers, clowns, pop corn venders and the typical surging crowd were all present. A pair of clowns ran along beside the truck and two mounted clowns rode in front of the float.

Cat Baseballers Engage Colby And Middlebury Teams

Akley and Shaw to Toe the Slab With Carlson in Reserve

Another busy week-end is in store for the Cat baseballers when they encounter Colby and Middlebury respectively on Friday and Saturday.

The Green and Gold have been up and down all year, sometimes looking like champions and at other times looking like sandlotters. The Princeton triumph was a matter to their credit, especially since Princeton conquered the Dartmouth Indians on the following day. The Amherst loss is excusable inasmuch as Amherst licked Holy Cross a few days afterward.

The team had but two good practice sessions this week as preparation due to a physics reading test on Tuesday and a freshman baseball game on Wednesday. At the time of writing it looked as though both may cut into their second practice session. The pitchers will be getting plenty of rest, probably too much, and the infielders and hitters may lose their eyes for the ball.

The lineup will be the same as Coach Gardner has started in the last two ball games. The infield will consist of Hank Beauchemin, Johnny Spasyk, Randy Sullivan and Hazen Wood; in the outfield will be Capt. Frank Taylor, Nails Doherty and Sig Svsko. Charlie Smith will do the receiving and either Al Shaw or Clarence Akley will be on hand to throw them up. Bob Carlson has returned to uniform this week and he may see some action this week-end, but it is believed that Coach Gardner will save him for Norwich on the following week.

Colby has not had a great deal of luck in the baseball wars this season. They have potentially a good ball club capable of playing good baseball, a fact that was proven by their performance against Northeastern. A number of names familiar to fans in this sector because of the Colby football team which appeared here this fall, are in the lineup. Among those are Daggett and LaFleur. Slattery is a very dangerous man with the willow and is their most potent slugger.

Middlebury has not enjoyed a successful season to date, but behind their outstanding pitcher Van Gaasbeck they are likely to turn in a good exhibition. St. Michael's just nosed out Middlebury Wednesday by a score of 9 to 7.

The Friday game will start at four o'clock and the Saturday contest at two-thirty.

Powerful Middlebury Tracksters at U. V. M.

Tomorrow, a well balanced Middlebury track team invades Centennial Field to match strides with Coach Archie Post's stalwarts. The Cats have dropped three meets so far, but have improved considerably since the Williams encounter. On the other hand, the Panthers have been very impressive in their three contests.

The Catamounts have demonstrated a great deal of strength in the field events, but they still lack sufficient dashmen to earn places. It's the same old story that Coach Post has to contend with. From the 100-yard dash to the half mile, Vermont has been too weak to run up an adequate score.

TEPS Blast Out 9-8 Win Over Independents

In their first Intramural game with the Independents, the Tau Epsilon Phi's were trailing 8-6 in the last of the fifth inning it looked as if the winning streak of Tau Epsilon Phi would be broken. They had never been in their opponents' right since. Many a heart sank low in fear for the outcomes of an win, though the game was over the one run ahead. Finally it was 7-6 and when Davidoff, one of the TEP stars came to bat three were on base at bat. With the ease of a champion he hit one over the second baseman's head and brought in the two runs which spelled victory for Tau Epsilon Phi.

The ATO vs Delta Psi game was also very good. The first two innings no score was made by either team. In the third the ATO started to weaken and the score was tied one to one. In the next two innings the margin was widened and the Delta Psi won their game over the Alpha Tau Omega 5-1.

Rugby At U. V. M. Becoming Popular

Four years ago rugby was introduced in an experimental way to Vermont. Since then, especially in the last two years, the sport has gradually become more popular under the able and enthusiastic guidance of Hervey Macomber, Jr., and Fred Lavette. This year the team has received further invaluable help from Fred Smith, who has played for Princeton and Harvard.

The squad is made up around a nucleus of people who have taken up this sport for their spring "elective" as a last resort. The rest of the squad consists of current athletes and people who want to keep "in training." Every year the fundamentals of the game have to be taught anew and as was seen both in last year's match down at Harvard and this year's against the same people up here the Vermont team is still learning at the expense of five or six penalties per game.

But last year and this have seen great strides in rugby at U. V. M. Last year Vermont was admitted into the Eastern Rugby Union of the U. S. A. thus giving the college an opportunity to play Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Cornell and Long Island University as well as one or two clubs in Boston and New York.

The team's first official game was played last spring against the Harvard junior varsity at Cambridge, with the Crimson being victorious 6-3. Handicapped by blinding rain and a driving wind, plus their own inexperience, the Green and Gold nevertheless fought gamely to the end.

This year, bolstered by the appearance of several football players at practice, the squad appeared to be somewhat superior to that of last year. This fact was further evinced when the Cats defeated the Harvard JV's this time 6-0 in a contest played at Centennial Field. Hal Mayforth, with a neat exhibition of broken field running, scored both the Vermont tries. A "try" corresponds to a touchdown and counts three points. Peculiarly enough, the conversion counts two points instead of one, making a total of five points, which is called a "goal."

A return game with Harvard is scheduled for May 17 at Harvard, and Harry Twitchell, who has done a masterful job of directing the sport here, has announced tentative plans for a match with the Boston Rugby Club in the next week or two.

Rev. Treat Conducts

The Rev. Edward Treat of Waterbury conducted an inspiring chapel service in which he pointed out that in this world of chaos men like H. K. Jennings, a fraternity Y.M.C.A. worker in Turkey, with faith in themselves and in God can change matters.

Reverend Treat stated that people who "turn their faces home to the instant need of things" are proof of good in the midst of this kind of world.

Frosh Beat Clark School In 16-11 Win

Craig Enters Game in Third and Goes Route

The Kittens defeated Clark School in a baseball game by the score of 16-11 in one of the pastoral exhibitions of the national pastime last Tuesday at Centennial.

For the first two innings Jerry Arnold had been placed in left field. But in the third inning the Kittens pitching staff was hit hard and a change was made by Jerry.

To relieve the pressure a rally had a pinch batting right and a pinch batting and a second baseman behind the plate. The last inning in this belated home-coming was the best in the baseball history of the game. Clark was knocked out of the box by Craig who went the distance and was credited with the win.

Early in the game both the locals fell behind only to score 10 runs from the fourth round on.

In some circles Captain Dave Ketterer scored 14 runs in the fourth, fifth and sixth on six pass couples. After this scoring fiesta they seemed another home in the seventh and let good luck

Food Problem To Be Discussed Mon.

Clinton M. Brown of Hoover Committee Talks

Is there any way in which food can be procured for the hungry populations in the small countries of Europe such as Belgium, Norway and Holland without prolonging the war or contributing to the strength of the Axis nations? On Monday, May 12 at 8 p.m. in the City Hall Auditorium, Mr. Clinton M. Brown of New York City will deal with this question when he speaks on the proposals for sending food to the needy democracies of Europe. Mr. Brown is coming to Burlington as a spokesman for the Committee on Food for the Small Democracies, better known as the "Hoover Committee," because one of its leaders is Herbert Hoover.

A group of prominent local citizens believe that conditions in Europe warrant the adoption of some plan to send relief, and therefore sponsor the May 12 meeting. These people do not necessarily support the Hoover proposals as such, but believe the people in Burlington should be informed about them. Mr. Brown is well equipped to bring this information. From 1916-1919 he was in Belgium and northern France, helping to administer relief under Herbert Hoover's direction, except for a period when he served in the American army in France. From 1919-1939 he has lived in Antwerp, Belgium, where he has been in international grain and transport business, and he has traveled widely throughout Europe.

Mr. A. T. Morrill is chairman of the local sponsoring committee which includes Prof. George Dykhuizen, Dr. C. J. Speas, Miss Mary Jean Simpson, Mrs. George Ordway, Rev. G. F. Robbins, Mrs. F. D. Carpenter, Mrs. William Coulman, Mrs. Flint Backup, Miss Adelaide Hartpence, Prof. Paul Moody, Mrs. H. D. Rolfe, Rev. Hugh I. Williams, Mrs. S. Cannon, Mr. Frederick Hall, Mrs. E. O. Herreid, Rev. Max H. Webster and Rev. Skillman Myers.

The chairman of Monday night's meeting will be Professor Dykhuizen. The address will be followed by a forum and question period, at which time critics of the plan are invited to present their objections or suggestions.

R.O.T.C. Military Inspection May 21st

The annual Federal Inspection of the R. O. T. C. will take place on Wednesday, May 21. The program will be inaugurated by a review of the entire battalion and band under the command of John S. Greene battalion major, at 8:30, Wednesday morning.

The inspecting officer is Lieutenant Colonel William C. Collier from the First Corps Area Headquarters in Boston, Mass.

The remainder of Wednesday morning will be spent in drills and tests based on studies of the year in Military Science. Wednesday afternoon from 2:00 to 5:00 there will be an inspection of property, storerooms and records.

Wednesday evening there will be competitive drills and annual award of medals, trophies and prizes in the cage of the gymnasium from 8:00 to 10:00. This year there will be no fraternity drill squad. In its place there will be a special Sophomore and Freshman exhibition of drill and combat work. The Juniors will give an exhibition of handling advanced weapons, such as machine guns, trench mortars and .37 mm. guns.

These exhibitions will give evidence of the fact that besides regular drill work, practical combat work is done. The Freshmen and Sophomores have two hours a week class work, studying practical application of combat studies. The Juniors and Seniors have this practical application of combat studies every morning.

Notice to Students Planning to Enter Medical College Next Year

Due to the many demands made on optical companies by the defense program, students expecting to enter Medical College next year would do well to avail themselves of a microscope at their earliest possible opportunity. Delivery dates after order are already becoming indefinite and there is a possibility that microscopes will be hard to obtain.

Lilac Day Will Be Held On May 23

Staff and Sandal to Present Unique Program

Lilac Day this year is planned for May 23 at Southwick, in the continuance of a custom first started by Dean Pearl Wasson in 1921. She hoped that a lilac hedge might be planted in order to beautify the lovely Redstone campus, and in later years that it might become surrounded with tradition as is the commencement ivy on the walls of the library.

It was to be a day of festival and beauty such as other colleges had enjoyed in welcoming spring. The first lilacs were planted on the site of Southwick, but with the new building taking that place, the lilacs were then planted out behind Redstone.

At the second celebration of this day of rejoicing Dean Wasson was no longer here, so the Akraia Chapter of Mortar Board had charge of the celebration, and it was dedicated to her memory.

A pageant of some form or other is given in accordance with the feeling of the day, and a Queen is elected to rule over the lilacs. The custom of electing a queen did not originate with Lilac Day but has been added to it. In fact Lilac Day shows a growth of customs, and as a tradition will always be remembered by the girls of the University of Vermont.

Speaking Contests To Be Given Soon

The sum of $50 will be contested for in the Kingsley Prize Speaking Contest for men which will take place next Tuesday evening, May 13. Five men and possibly three others will assemble at the Fleming Museum to compete for the first prize of $25, second prize of $15 and third prize of $10. They are A. F. Amee '43, H. A. Durfee '41, A. Swartz '42, J. Ladenheim '44, and R. Norton '44. There will be no elimination contest.

The elimination contest for the Julia Spear Prize Reading contest for girls will be held at 4 p.m., Monday, May 12, at Room 1, North College. Those who have signified their interest in the try-outs are Flora Fifield '42, Janice Spear '41, Natalie Spear '43, Margaret Fake '44, Margaret Delano '44, Phyllis Knight '44, Gloria Farrell '43, Agnes Mulholland '44, Claire Coffin '44, Faye Lipman '43, Mary Elizabeth Kelly '43, Carolyn Brown '44, Jean Stewart '41, and Janet Hackwell '43.

After reading short short stories and selections, eight of the fourteen will be chosen by a Board of Judges to compete in the final contest Wednesday evening, May 21. At this time the eight girls will speak at Southwick for prizes of $15, $10, and $5.

Baccalaureate Speaker

REV. A. K. CHALMERS

Rev. Chalmers Of New York To Talk

Baccalaureate Speaker Is Teacher and Author

The Rev. Allan Knight Chalmers, pastor of the Broadway Tabernacle Congregational Church, New York City, will speak at the baccalaureate services of the University of Vermont commencement, Sunday, June 15. The Rev. Dr. Chalmers is minister, teacher and author, and serves on a number of major councils in the administration of church and public affairs. This past winter he visited Leland Stanford University in Palo Alto, Calif., for the purpose of delivering a number of sermons and addresses to University audiences, remaining there seven weeks.

Serving with the Foyer de Soldat of the French Army in the first World War, he later worked with the Motor Transport Corps of the United States Army.

Beginning as a teacher at the Colman School in Baltimore, Md., in 1918-19, the Rev. Dr. Chalmers was ordained to the ministry of the Congregational Church in 1922. He has been assistant minister at the Dwight Place Church, New Haven, Conn., minister of the First Congregational Church, West Springfield, Mass., and then minister of the Dwight Place Church, New Haven; of the First Presbyterian Church, Buffalo, N. Y., and since 1930 he has been pastor of the Broadway Tabernacle.

Doctor Chalmers is the author of several books, including "The Commonplace Prodigal—The Tragedy of Ineffective Prayer," "Give Me Another Chance," and "As He Passed By."

He is a graduate of Johns Hopkins and Yale Universities, and also has received degrees from Syracuse University and American International College.

He is a trustee of Talladega University and of Berea College. He is a member of the executive committee of the Federal Council of Churches, the general council of Congregational and Christian Churches, the Religion and Labor Foundation, and the War Resisters' League. France awarded him the Medaille de la Grande Guerre for his services.

DON'T FORGET the U. V. M. Radio Program over WCAX, Tuesday night, at 8.30. It will surely have something of interest to you. Remember the time and "tune in."

French Club meeting, Wednesday, May 14, 7.30 p.m., at Southwick.

The Goodrich Classical Club will hold its last meeting of the year Wednesday, May 14, at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Professor Prindle. All members are urged to be present.

Lilac Day, May 24; A Pageant In Dance

Eighty Girls From All Classes to Participate

Lilac time is here! The colorful spring pageant Lilac Day will be held at Southwick on Saturday, May 24, at 8.00 o'clock. This is a fine tradition in honor of the memory of Dean Pearl Wasson who started Lilac Day in 1921.

This year there will be dances from primitive to modern times to show the development of dancing.

Many weeks of practicing have gone into this Lilac Day pageant. Eighty girls from all the classes are being directed by Miss Blenda Larson. You will see how contagious dancing is and how it holds peoples together by the skillful way in which the pageant has been worked out.

Tickets may be gotten from any Staff and Sandal member for twenty-five cents. Helen Witham '42 is chairman of the pageant and these juniors are working with her: Nancy Goodwin, publicity; Miriam Iuske, decorations; Barbara Butterfield, queen and court; Judy Perry, programs; Harriet Nelson, tickets; Barbara Gallagher and Louise Davis, costumes.

Scholarships Given For Publications

The Dial of Brattleboro High School and the Green Hoon of Springfield High School both repeat as winners among the larger schools of the State in the annual editorial contest conducted by the University of Vermont. The Dial wins as having the best literary publication in the opinion of the judges and the Green Hoon as having the best news publication. Each is entitled to a scholarship of $175 to the University. Another repeater is the Mirror of Wilmington High School, which captured first place among the smaller schools and a $125 scholarship.

Scoring in first place among the medium-sized schools was the R. H. S. Chips of Richmond High School, which is awarded a $150 scholarship. The Poultney Poloonus of Poultney High School received honorable mention in this class, and among the small school publications the Campus Yankee of Canaan High School received honorable mention.

A scholarship of $100 for the state publication showing the most improvement went to the Burlington High School Register for its smart handling of news and picture work, headlining and makeup, making it one of the most readable publications of the State.

To the Sentinel of Spaulding High School, Barre, goes a $100 scholarship for some outstanding features, the award being made for the quality and appropriateness of the publication's editorial page.

The judges, who were Phillips D. Carleton, Elliott T. Merrick and Leon W. Dean of the English department of the University, made favorable comment on the contribution to the State's sesquicentennial observance made by several of the publications.

Military Inspection Changed to May 21, 22

The date of military inspection has been changed from May 14 and 15 as listed on the calendar to May 21 and 22.

The hour of the parade will be changed from 8:00 to 11:30 Thursday morning, as it was last year, to enable the faculty and student body to witness it.

In attendance at the parade will be Lieut. Col. William A. Collier of the General Staff Corps of the First Corps Area Headquarters, this year's inspecting officer.

Akley Pitches Two-Hitter As Nine Wins 6-0; Bert Mott Sets New State Record in High Hurdles As Tracksters Triumph 74½-60½

Not satisfied with the triumph in the track meet over Middlebury, the Catamount baseball club darkened the horizon even more for the Panther aggregation by shutting out the visitors 6-0. It was Clarence Akley all the way for Vermont, and he gave the Junior Week spectators a masterful pitching performance. He let seven and two-third innings be had his head baffled with his superb twirling. But Stu Arnold the Panther hurler, broke the ice with two goes in the seventh to gain the first hit of the day.

In allowing two hits Akley issued nine men and issued seven walks. Not one Middlebury man went beyond second until with two gone in the ninth Harry Van Gaasbeck, the Panther twirler, lined a hit to right field and advanced all the way to third when Sig Svsko bobbled the ball.

Van Gaasbeck had two had innings, the first and third, when the Cats scored all their runs but he settled down in the later stages of the game and only two Vermont men reached third after that.

Sig Svsko started the Catamount rampage by obtaining a walk in the first inning. A driving double in left field by Johnny Spasyk put Svsko on third. Frankie Taylor sent Svsko scampering home and Spasyk to second on a roller to the second baseman. Frankie was out but Bob Doherty scored Spasyk by singling to center. Big Hank Beauchemin sent Bob home with the third run on a beautiful triple to right center.

With only one gone Hank was out at the plate on an attempted squeeze play, but Vermont proceeded to fill the sacks once again. Akley finally ended the inning by grabbing out.

The Panther hurler was in trouble in the third when after two outs Doherty, who was safe on an error, crossed the

Students Present Musical Pageant

One of the largest crowds ever assembled in the Memorial Auditorium witnessed the final concert of the fourteenth annual Music Festival. Thirty-four hundred students were in Burlington during the past week end to present this musical extravaganza.

The concerts, nine in all, were very well attended and appreciated. Music of good taste and of excellent caliber was one of the outstanding characteristics of the concerts. Probably the most difficult number was "The Procession of the Mastersingers" by Wagner, which was played Saturday evening by the All-State Orchestra. It moved the audience to prolonged applause by its beauty and power. To have so completely mastered such a difficult number is a compliment to the high school musicians of Vermont. The very large All-State Chorus was encored in one of its more varied numbers, "Mexican Serenade." High point from the audience standpoint of Friday evening's All-State Band concert was the side-splitting treatment given "The Rampage of the Old Grey Mare." As if the music weren't enough to convulse the audience, the old mare appeared "herself" and took the house down by "her" antics.

Saturday morning's parade was excellent. A great deal of improvement had been shown by the marching groups. Literally ablaze with color, it was witnessed by crowds the entire length of march.

The critic, Dr. Harry P. Wasson of Columbia University, was more than enthusiastic in his praise of the festival. His main points of criticism were tactfully presented and are much to the point. Expressing himself clearly, he stated that

It couldn't be done, but they did it! Saturday afternoon at Centennial Field Coach Archie Post's cinder-men completely subdued one of the greatest Middlebury track teams in years by the score of 74½ to 60½.

The first event of the day forecasted what was in store for the Panthers. U. V. M.'s Bert Mott set a new state record of 15.8 seconds in this event the 120 high hurdles. After three hurdles had been toppled Bert was trailing Middlebury's Rasmussen by four yards but finally overtook him to win going away. Wood of Middlebury was third.

Middlebury came back to tie the score at 9all when Wootten won the shotput with a toss of 42 feet 4¼ inch. Zan Warden of U. V. M. was second at 41 feet 9¾ inches and Frankie Taylor was third. U. V. M.'s for then swept the 100 yard dash with Hicks Middlebury's high scorer for the day, winning in 10.1 seconds. For runner up honors Rasmussen and Hollister edged out Vermont's Red Goss.

Webster Wins Mile

U. V. M. returned the compliment when Becker and Grosvenor tied for first place in the high jump, both men leaping 5 feet 7 inches. Mott of U. V. M. and Byington of Middlebury tied for third. Fred Webster won the mile run in 4.46. Middlebury's Stebbins almost caught him in the last 200 yards. Norm Goddard of Vermont was a fine third.

The 440 was all Middlebury's. Butler who finished in 56.6 seconds was six yards ahead of his teammates Hollister and Cole. U. V. M.'s Ed O'Connell who had kept up with the leaders for half of the race ended far behind in fourth place.

Vermont swept the pole vault. O'Connell, Pratt and Vreeland were on a triple tie for first all vaulting 10 feet 6 inches. The latter two men afterward passed 11 feet but try as they did, they could not break the record.

Middlebury came within one point of a tie, the Cats when Parker of the Pan-

Prof. Kiser To Speak At Meeting

There will be a meeting of the John Dewey Club at Southwick, Thursday, May 15. Prof. Charles Kiser, assistant professor of philosophy at Middlebury College, will be the speaker.

He was an undergraduate at Ohio Wesleyan University in English literature. He got his Master's degree at Harvard and his Doctor's there in 1934. He was assistant to Professor Whitehead at Harvard for two years.

He spent one year abroad studying under Heisenberg Wermer at Leipzig, a noted physicist.

He was tutor at Harvard till 1938. He is now assistant professor at Middlebury.

Election of officers will also be held.

Rev. Daniel A. Lord To Lecture May 14

The Cathedral Parish Sodality will sponsor a lecture on Wednesday, May 14, by the Rev. Daniel A. Lord, S. J. national director of sodalities. Father Lord is widely known as an author, lecturer and playwright.

A cordial invitation is given to all members of the University Newman Club and any other students who may desire to attend.

The lecture will be given at the Memorial Auditorium at 8.15 on the evening of May 14. No admission will be charged.

Still Looking

As an interesting footnote to the present world situation and as a highly significant comment on the attitude of youth in this country toward the war, the Atlantic recently published an article by a former Marxist. Like so many other young men and women of the post-war generation, the author saw in the Marxist conception of history and society a way out of the problems of a capitalist society. This theory found fault with existing conditions and could give reasons and causes for those faults. It was a reassuring faith because it answered all questions for the believer and left no room for doubt.

But as time went on there came a gradual disillusionment, a growing understanding that many of the principles in the solid-looking edifice of Marxism were not so sound. Capitalist society was still very imperfect but was Marxism the way out?

But as those thousands lost their fondly cherished dreams of a new order, they began to cast about for a new faith. They began to look for a set of principles which could guide them through the shifting currents of a world plunging toward a new war. They had been driven to Communism, to Marxism, to revolutionary socialism because they looked about them and saw that despite the lessons learned by the first World War, society was still condoning evils that one generation had died trying to eradicate. Youth was eager to believe in democracy—millions of war dead testify to that. Now that the war was over democracy should have shown a new generation of youths that it was prepared to continue working for progress.

Then the fun began—armies pouring into Russia on an international "red hunt", the League of Nations becoming the pawn of a couple of nations: Germany rearming with the blessings of the international bankers; Mussolini riding to power and quote: "there was the need of a strong government in Italy"—"Mussolini has undoubtedly been a good influence for the Italian people". China overrun by Japan and to quote one committee of investigation—"we can find no evidence of an armed conflict in China". Spain fighting the first battle of World War number two and quote—"they are all Reds down there and the more Reds killed the better"—"the issues are too confused in Spain to permit us to act." Then a little later the issues were very clear—"Poland, that gallant democracy" where the peasants lived under Medieval conditions, and "noble little Finland" whose government came to power in a bath of blood.

Along with the confusing shifting of ideals in world politics went depression and disorder at home. Confronted with breadlines, while wheat rotted in the granaries; confronted with the most ironical paradox of all times—"we starve because we have too much"—is it any wonder that youth went searching for a philosophy which offered them something more than platitudes grown odious because they lacked concrete evidences of good faith on the part of the government?

This is no defense, no attempt to whitewash any group—it is a statement of a process. It is a process to be studied carefully by a nation on the brink of war. Democracy has never been made clear to all these youths searching for a faith to be loyal to. Democracy has been pro-Fascist one minute, anti-Fascist the next. The so-called anti-Fascism of many of our patriots today is an anti-Fascism that goes only skin deep. Anti-Fascism with democratic governments in the past has been that type of anti-Fascism which becomes manifest only when it begins to affect them directly. And that doesn't help to create a faith in people because they demand something more human and permanent. They demand a democracy which feels for liberty no matter where it is menaced and a democracy that loudly condemns tyranny no matter whom it hits. Give your people that assurance and you won't have to bull-doze them into a war with propaganda and brass bands. They'll know "for whom the bell tolls."

"A Moral Man Must Defend Freedom"

To the Editor of the CYNIC:

There are many points in Mr. McNamara's last letter which could be refuted and I expect that you will get many letters from the student body as an answer to his statements, so I will limit myself to one point only.

I am indebted for some of the thoughts expressed here to an article I read some time ago in The Nation.

Mr. McNamara speaks always of "slaughtering our youth . . . . millions of graves . . . . saving America first" . . . etc. Mr. McNamara thinks, therefore, that we can escape moral responsibilities by averting our eyes from the ashes of innocent people's homes and by stopping our ears against the roar of battle. But a moral man does not bargain with thugs and murderers for his personal safety. The man of moral integrity does not consider the personal consequences of what he says and does when his brothers are starved, tortured and killed. If someone tries to violate the code by which we live we should correct them without contemplating what might happen to us. Mr. McNamara said that he holds freedom sacred and still he does not mind seeing it destroyed in one country after another. He said that he holds culture sacred and still he does not mind its destruction wherever the Nazi flag waves. He said that he holds honor sacred and still he asks us not to do anything when we see those nations perish who tried to live up to the same ideals we cherish.

I am afraid that I cannot agree with Mr. McNamara. Faced with eight years of barbaric violence which has been raging all over the world, driving millions into exile, sentencing whole populations to slavery at the point of a rifle, murdering men, women and children in convulsions of terror, crushing the truth that we have labored for centuries to lift out of darkness, I find only one way for us to go. We have to help all the free nations as far as we can and with them build up a new world.

Mr. McNamara said that we should take as a lesson that "Spartacus died fighting for his freedom." But let us remember that it was a freedom he never had and tried to get, that it was later won because men like him never gave up. If people would have taken Mr. McNamara's "lesson in history," we would not have had a fight for American independence or a French Revolution. Fritz Thyssen did not "sacrifice everything that he cherished and possessed for his country's freedom." Mr. Thyssen was one of the men who financed Hitler so that he could get into power. (Nobody could call that "a sacrifice for his country's freedom.")

Mr. McNamara says himself that "democracy means a common bond between all men and if he excludes the Nazis, as I hope he does, all of these "all men" ask us now for help. Yes, there is a common bond and if we hold our honor sacred, we will defend freedom wherever it is attacked.

Fifth Annual Robinson Meeting Planned May 14

The fifth annual meeting of the Rowland E. Robinson Memorial Association will be held at the Robinson homestead at Ferrisburg on Wednesday, May 14.

The Association, which now has nearly 300 members, was formed six years ago for the purpose of creating a greater interest in the notable Vermont writer and his works and all who are interested are invited to attend the meeting next Wednesday whether they are members of the Association or not.

The meeting, as usual, will be an all-day affair, and members who come for the entire day will bring basket luncheons. A business meeting and entertainment program will be held in the afternoon. Officers will be elected.

Mortar Board Tea

Monday afternoon from 4.00 to 6.00 the old and new members of the U. V. M. and Middlebury Mortar Board and their advisors met for tea at Southwick.

Miss Burwash and Mrs. Bickford poured. Two of the new members of Staff and Sandal were in charge of preparations; they were aided in serving by NYA girls. Maywood Metcalf '41 was in charge of table and flower arrangements; Miss Nichols prepared the menu.

Notice

The result of the Sophomore Class election showed a tie between Janet Hackwell and Elizabeth Deming for the office of secretary. Through an oversight the names of the candidates for treasurer were left off the ballot.

Sports Cast

By ITZ

Saturday was a great day for the Catamount. He chased the Panther from the diamond and chased him from the cinders. The trackmen under Coach Archie Post with his third consecutive state title, and the baseball lads put on an exhibition of heads-up baseball of which Coach Harry Gardner can be proud. Yes, it was a great day for the wearers of the green and gold!

Heads Up

As was remarked in a previous column, when the Cats are good they are very good. They took the field Friday against the Colby lads, played heads-up ball behind the portside slants of Roy Alberghini and beat out a 7-3 victory. Again on Saturday, after a hectic Junior Prom, the Vermont ball club played with their heads up, and showed the Panther, bearing the brunt of a 6-0 shutout, back to Middlebury.

Here's baseball! Johnny Spasyk watched the man who guarded the batter's corner for the opposition come in close after the pitch as if to field an intentional bunt, so Johnny faked a bunt and then belted a liner right through the little man who wasn't there. Bob Doherty, standing on first base, broke out for second after the catcher made a put out on a foul fly, but he caught the Middlebury backstop flatfooted.

Sully, too, paid attention to the Panther third sacker and his habit of coming in to field bunts, and when Akley bunted with him on first, Sully went right on and into third in a cloud of dust. The first baseman was caught off his guard, and the third baseman, well the little man just wasn't there—on time.

Heroes All

The Vermont team has perked up in their last two games to look like all that they were cracked up to be. Every man on the team is playing ball! Space does not permit us to throw bouquets at all who deserve them, but we would like to throw a few. Clar Akley did justice to the team that backed him up as he starved the Panther into submission with two measly hits. Roy Alberghini showed Larry that he had another dependable pitcher by winning Friday's tilt. Randy Sullivan sewed up the hole at short. He has played errorless ball in the last two games, and seems to have gained the confidence that makes a fair shortstop good, and a good one great. He collected three hits in four trips Saturday, and has really been applying the hickory mightily. Bob Doherty leads the team in batting and has hit in every game to date.

Upset and State Title

The Vermont tracksters pulled their second straight surprise in two weeks by upsetting the favored Middlebury team 74½-60½ and thus gaining the state title for the third consecutive year. The team's top-heavy power in the field events was the deciding factor. They swept the javelin, discus, pole vault and high jump. Bert Mott again took high scoring honors with 11½ points. He also set a new high hurdle mark of 15.8 seconds in what proved to be the best race of the afternoon. Nice going Coach Post! Give you a team with few runners and some good and potentially good weight men and you give us a state championship.

Bates won the two-mile run in 10 minutes 24 seconds. Twenty yards behind was U. V. M.'s Ernie St. Mary. In third place were Frankie Livak and Charlie Webster. In the 220 low hurdles the Panthers resumed the lead when Bates in 27.7 seconds beat Vermont's tired Bert Mott by three yards. Rasmussen of Middlebury was third.

The Green and Gold swept the javelin. Daley, with an excellent throw of 177 feet 6 inches, copped the event and Nichols and Taylor followed in second and third places respectively. The climax was the 880-yard run in which Middlebury's Morehouse won this race in 2 minutes 3.8 seconds. He was followed by a fellow Panther, Butler. Four yards behind Butler was Vermont's Norm Stoddard. The score was now tied.

Then came the results of the discus. Vermont had swept the event and had assumed a commanding lead. Big Hugo Squire hurled the saucer 117 feet 4 inches, while Parker and Long trailed in the runner-up positions.

Middlebury made a last futile attempt to get the lead in the 220-yard dash. Hicks of the Panthers won in 22.3 seconds. Vermont's Mott was second and Bates of Middlebury was third. But the meet was now clinched. Gage won the javelin with a throw of 118 feet 4 inches. Squire was second and Ingalls of Middlebury was third.

Jim Gage ended a perfect afternoon by winning the broad jump. He leaped 21 feet 2½ inches. Rooney and Lundrigan, both of Middlebury, garnered four points for their team in this event as the meet ended.

Green Mountain Scores 7 to 1 Win Over Frosh Nine

Blanchard Limits Freshmen to 3 Hits; Conti Scores Only Run

It was a good ball game for seven and one-half innings last Saturday at Poultney, but Green Mountain Junior College bats blazed in their half of the eighth to account for four runs and clinch the contest by a 7-1 count.

Lefty Blanchard went the route for the Mountaineers and set down the freshmen with three hits, two of them by lead-off man Reno Conti. Blanchard also weighed in with a single and a long home run with two mates aboard.

Green Mountain took the lead in the second inning when they pushed over one run, and were leading three to nothing until the first of the sixth when with one out Reno Conti blasted a drive over the head of the opposition's left fielder which went for a triple. Larry Killick drove him in with a long fly to left field.

The ball game was well played with several fine fielding gems turned in. Ed Craige pitched well for the freshmen but suffered one bad inning.

Frosh Netsters Play G. M. J. C. Here Today

The tennis team left early Monday morning for Poultney where they will play Green Mountain Junior College. The team will be divided into two groups. The first group consisting of four members, Mahoney, Keighley, Norton and Denton, the second group Hunt, Cognetta, Schoenberg and Kemler. May 9 the first group will leave on a trip to Poultney to play Green Mountain Junior College, but the game was called off on account of rain. Six more matches are still remaining.

May 10. Montpelier H. S., Burlington.
May 13. Green Mt. Jr. Col., Burlington.
May 17. Bellows Free Acad., St. Albans.
May 20. Montpelier H. S., Montpelier.
May 24. Rutland H. S., Burlington.

Frosh Tracksters Win Over G.M.J.C. And Vt. Jr. College

In spite of a heavy downpour the freshman track team emerged victorious in their meet with Green Mountain Junior College and Vermont Junior College at Poultney. Aside from placing in every event, the Kittens swept a first position in all of the track competition.

Johnny Reed won both the 100- and 220-yard dashes and Mart McLaren the mile run. Bart Barry took the broad jump and high hurdles, while Pulleyn copped the 440- and 880-yard run and Lockwood the discus. Vermont acquired the balance of their points with the placing of men in all events.

The final results gave Vermont freshmen 74, Vermont Junior College 3, Green Mountain Junior College 69.

The summary is as follows:

High jump: Won by LaMay (GM); Goodrich (V) 2nd; Walgren (V) 3rd; Simpson (VJC) 4th. Height: 5 ft. 8 in.

Broad jump: Won by Barry (V); Snider (GM) 2nd; Fabriano (VJC) 3rd; Reed (V) 4th. Distance, 19 ft. 10 in.

Pole vault: Won by Liggett (GM); Paterson (V) 2nd; Bethel, Fisher and Olson (all GM) tied for 3rd. Height: 11 ft.

Shot put: Won by LaMay (GM); King (GM) 2nd; Sedlis (V) 3rd; Walgren (V) 4th. Distance: 45 ft. ½ in.

Discus throw: Won by Lockwood (V); LaMay (GM) 2nd; Paterson (V) 3rd; Ashton (GM) 4th. Distance: 108 ft., 2 in.

Javelin throw: Won by Taft (GM); Bottagleri (GM) 2nd; Goss (V) 3rd; Korts (GM) 4th. Distance: 158 ft. (new field record).

Varsity Netmen Lose To Union 6-3

There was one flaw in the ceremonies which occurred at the dedication of the new tennis courts in back of Centennial—the visit of Union College was a disastrous one for the hosts. The Union netmen made things miserable for Coach Carpenter's boys by taking a 6-3 decision.

Union ran up a 4-2 lead in singles, then took the doubles 2-1, with four matches going to three sets.

Ed Simpson, Vermont captain, met his master in placement ace Charlie Keeler, the big gun of Union. Ed went down before Keeler's vicious chops, 6-1, 6-3.

Larry Simpson succeeded where his brother failed, coming through in three sets to defeat Hutchins 3-6, 7-5, 6-4.

Art Wolk, a veteran netman of U. V. M., took his first set from Sharpe 6-3, but dropped his lead in the second, losing 7-5 and 6-1.

Phil Potter finished off Dick Lynch of Vermont in short order 6-1, 6-4, but Sam Foti brought Vermont within one point of Union with a 6-4, 6-4 win over Woodward.

The final singles match saw Sherman of Union squeeze past Hal Wood with a 2-6, 6-2, 6-4 victory.

Needing but one doubles match for victory, the Union team of Keeler and Hutchins salted away Simpson and Foti 6-3, 6-1. Potter and Sherman took Wolk and Pratt 8-6, 6-1.

In the final doubles match Larry Simpson and Dick Lynch turned another point for Vermont by defeating Sharpe and Vinck in a drawn-out affair, 6-4, 3-6, 7-5.

Cats Behind Roy Alberghini Take Colby Mules 7-3

Fifth Victory Out Of Thirteen Starts For Catamounts

After losing to Amherst last week the U. V. M. nine bore into two Colby pitchers to collect 11 hits to pound out a decisive 7-3 victory for the Cats.

The winning pitcher was Lefty Roy Alberghini. This sophomore hurler allowed only five well-scattered hits to win his first start as a Catamount hurler. In addition to his fine pitching performance Roy collected two hits, batted in one run, and struck out three men. So effective was his hurling that in six innings he allowed only one man to reach second base.

This victory is the fifth out of thirteen starts for the Vermont team. It wasn't a brilliant victory but a decisive one in that it showed that Vermont is beginning to hit its stride.

It was a well-played game of ball with sharp batting, generally good fielding, and spectacular catches. In the fourth frame Colby's right pasture bender, Joe Slattery, made a dashing, one-handed snare of Randy Sullivan's clout. Had he never caught it, Randy would have had a probable home run.

Fielding Gems

Sig Sysko, right fielder for the Cats, also shared catching honors with Slattery, making a fine running catch of pinch hitter Hi McIntosh's clout in the seventh frame. In addition to his catching, Sig collected two hits, stole a base and executed a perfect sacrifice bunt for a fine afternoon.

It was Bob Doherty, however, who provided the telling punch. Doherty continued his fine batting streak to collect a pair of singles and knock in three runs.

Johnny Spasyk accounted for the first run of the game in the third inning as he pulled a neat squeeze bunt to score Randy Sullivan after the latter had been pushed around to third by two singles. The Vermont ball club tallied three more times that inning by a walk to Captain Taylor, Doherty's two-run single to left, and Hank Beauchemin's single.

With a lead like that to support him Alberghini breezed through like a seasoned veteran, although he allowed two runs to score in the seventh and one run in the eighth.

Healy Back

Dick Healy made his first appearance since his injury sustained in the first game of the year by replacing Randy at short in the seventh. Dick took part in a double killing, knocked in a run with a long fly and made one error.

During the late innings of the game Colby put Johnny Daggett into the line up. Johnny has still to fully recover from his encounter with Misty Rice during the football season. Johnny covered second base admirably, showing that his shoulder is getting along in fine shape.

U. V. M. Alumnus Is Chief Pilot For American Air Lines

[Boston Evening Tran]

Is something going wrong in the way of most customary reading? Flair, Jr., Chief Pilot for the American Export Airlines, will be on his way across the Atlantic to London. The American Export Airlines is a subsidiary of the American Export Steamship Lines and Blair's headquarters are now at their office 25 Broadway, New York City.

Fourteen years ago when Colonel Lindbergh flew the Atlantic, Captain Blair was a University of Vermont sophomore. On that day Colonel Lindbergh became Captain Blair's idol. Today thirty-one-year-old Captain Blair is chief pilot for American Export Lines, blazing new air trade routes to the Panama Canal Zone from the United States.

In charge of training and coordination of flight crews for proposed services for the last six months, the School twenty-two and Hutchinson High School graduate has flown the company's two 20-motored Consolidated flying boat on pioneer flights of 2,500 miles from New York to the Canal Zone via Jamaica and 685 miles from New Orleans to Havana. Last November, he commanded a crew of nine on its second survey flight from New Orleans to Cristobal, C. Z., a distance of 1,800 miles. The plane averages approximately 175 miles an hour.

"After Lindbergh flew the Atlantic, Charles' one ambition was to become a flier," Charles F. Blair, Sr., of the class of 1899 at Vermont, now an attorney residing at 125 Woodbridge Ave., recalled today. He switched from an arts course to mechanical engineering, took a year of aeronautical engineering at the University of Michigan, and returned to Vermont to graduate in 1931. He was in the Naval Reserves for two years, and then went to United Airlines and was co-pilot and senior flight captain over the Rocky Mountains until last summer. He's had over 8,000 flying hours.

"All this might not have happened if, in 1932 when he was with the Navy and flying off the West Coast, he hadn't had a little luck," his father recounted. "His motor quit on him while he was over the Pacific, and he just managed to deadstick in for a landing in a tomato patch. Didn't hurt anything except the tomatoes."

The purpose of these flights has been to connect Chicago with the Panama Canal Zone by a new airline from New Orleans to the Canal Zone by way of Central America, and to connect New York with the Canal Zone by way of New York to the Bahamas and Jamaica to the Canal Zone. The Company now has applications pending with the Civil Aeronautics Authority for the opening of these lines and also a line from New Orleans to Havana, Cuba.

The most detailed article of any concerning these flights appeared in the Memphis Commercial of January 19, 1941. They have also been reported in the Chicago Tribune, Havana Post, New Orleans Times Picayune, and various aviation periodicals.

Charles F. Jr., after two years in Naval Aviation at Pensacola and San Diego, Calif., became in 1933 a co-pilot on the United Airlines, with his domicile at Cheyenne, Wyo. During the following years, until last summer, he operated most of the time on the Western Division of the United Airlines, between Cheyenne and Salt Lake City, and Salt Lake and Oakland, Calif. About half of this time he was living in Salt Lake City, and for about a year in Oakland. He went through the successive ranks of co-pilot, Captain and Senior Flight Captain, with about 8,000 flying hours to his credit, most of them over the Rocky Mountains between Cheyenne and Salt Lake City, or Salt Lake City and Denver.

In June, 1940, he was transferred to Chicago as Senior Flight Captain on the New York-Chicago Division, and shortly thereafter received the offer of Chief Pilot of the American Export Airlines, which he accepted. His residence address is now 111 Old Mill Road, Manhassett, Long Island, New York, where he and his wife, the former Janice E. Davis, of his class at Vermont, and their daughter, Suzanne, now six years of age, reside.

Capt. C. J. Blair Jr. of the American Export Air Lines flying boat "Trans-Atlantic" which recently made a survey flight between New York and Jamaica on behalf of the Company. Capt. Blair, left, is seen talking to Flight Engineer M. C. J Doyle immediately after the boat came to anchorage in the waters of Kingston Harbour.

Eat The Right Food

Have You Had Your Vitamin A?

Nutritionists recommend the inclusion of one or more servings of green leafy or yellow vegetables in the daily diet. These foods are good sources of vitamin A, which is essential for life, health and growth. The lack of it in varying degrees may cause defective tooth formation, cessation of growth and normal bone development, night blindness and a change in the mucous linings of the respiratory and other systems which reduces their normal protective function.

Green leafy vegetables are an excellent source of vitamin A and also of iron. The thinner and greener the leaf, the higher its value for vitamin and iron tends to be. Among the excellent sources of these substances are the wild greens such as dandelion, lambs quarters, purslane, dock and mustard, and the cultivated greens including kale, spinach, chard, collards, escarole, water cress, and turnip tops.

The yellow vegetables and fruits are also high in vitamin A and include sweet potatoes, carrots, yellow squash, apricots and yellow peaches. Prunes and ripe tomatoes also are rich in vitamin A. With this variety of vegetables and fruits to choose from, it should be fairly easy to include one or more servings of them in the diet daily. In view of the additional vitamin A contributed to the diet by eggs, butter, cream and liver, it should be possible to maintain the vitamin A requirement of the body.

Aviators Make Progress

Of the 26 University students taking the flying course at the municipal airport, three have completed the cross-country run and will be ready for the flying test within a week or two. These three are: F. R. Olsan '41, A. J. Taggart '41, and H. N. Parris '43.

The total flying time on this program for the 26 students is 465 hours.

Kappa Phi Kappa Holds Annual Spring Banquet

President H. F. Wood Introduces Education Commissioner Noble

The annual spring banquet of Alpha [illegible] Chapter of Kappa Phi Kappa, [illegible] education fraternity, was held [illegible] evening in Richmond where [illegible] members and three guests met for [illegible] get-together of this college [illegible] H. F. Wood '42, newly-elected [illegible] presided over the business meeting [illegible] extended the out-going president [illegible] for his leadership through the past [illegible] and called upon several members for [illegible] talks. Professor Douglass, faculty [illegible] sponsor, and Professor Youngert [illegible] offered constructive thoughts.

Noble Speaks

The guest speaker of the evening was [illegible] Commissioner of Education Ralph [illegible] Noble who spoke very interestingly of [illegible] work in the field of education. In the state of Vermont, he said, where there [illegible] approximately 358,000 people, there [illegible] 259 school districts, the affairs of which are a legislative function. The [illegible] of each district are supervised by a Board of Directors who meet yearly in a state organization at Montpelier to study school problems and to present new policies of education to the people through the State Legislature.

The experience of trying to explain the aims and objects of education to the public through the State Legislature requires sound philosophy. The Legislature was good to education this year, the Commissioner said. Thirty bills directly and importantly related to education were introduced and acted upon. For the first time in the state's history, money was appropriated for an adult education course in arts craft. Larger appropriations were made for teacher-training institutions. (Seventy four percent of the beginning elementary teachers in Vermont last year were trained in the state.) Opportunities for a more extended course in vocational education were provided for. Equipment money was set aside for the installation of a new heating system in one of the state normal schools.

Grave Summary

Commissioner Noble was very grave as he said in closing: "Times are somewhat serious, and all of us who are interested in education must get in front for the next ten years, especially, and see that public support of education is not reduced. People are going to have to make severe sacrifices in order to build up adequate military defense. And through it all, 'we must,' in the words of Superintendent Studebaker, 'find a way of keeping both soldiers and teachers at their posts.'

Ladenheim Wins Kingsley Contest

The Kingsley Prize Speaking contest, held Tuesday night at the Fleming Museum was won by Jules Ladenheim '44. [illegible] was "His Appeal for Dreyfus" by Emile Zola. The prize was $25. [illegible] prize was won by Harold A. [illegible] '41, who gave Winston Churchill's [illegible] "Suspense." He was awarded $15.

[illegible] money, $10, was won by [illegible] '44, whose subject was [illegible] Ships Convoy Arms to [illegible]. C. Waylan Brooks [illegible] W. Dean was chairman [illegible] Neville, Moody, and Carleton [illegible] judges.

Appropriate Theme Set For Lilac Day

H. Witham In Charge of Pageant

"The Bridge of Understanding" is the appropriate theme for Lilac Day to be held May 24. The dance pageant will show how Chaucer bridges barriers of color, creed and nationality. Primitive Scottish, Oriental, Spanish, Russian, Irish, American Indian, Swedish and Negro dances all have their place in the history of this art which is going to be portrayed by the festival dancing of girls who are taking part because they love to dance.

A tradition started several years ago, and carried on with much excitement for the past Lilac Days, is the choosing of a Lilac Queen, who, with her court, reigns over the festivities. No one knows who will be chosen for the honor this year, but we can say that it will probably be a senior. The identity of the queen will be kept secret until 8:00 at Southwick, May 24.

About eighty girls from all the classes are taking part, wearing colorful costumes depicting their dances, besides a gay court for the Lilac Queen. Miss Larson is directing the dancing and Helen Witham '42 has charge of the pageant.

Tickets may be bought from any Staff and Sandal member for twenty-five cents. Harriet Nelson '42 has charge of tickets.

150th Commencement Monday, June 16

Commencement at the University of Vermont this year will be observed from Friday, June 13, to Monday, June 16. The commencement events will mark the 150th anniversary of the founding of the University.

Friday has been designated, according to custom, as class day, and will be given over primarily to senior events, with the various class exercises during the day, a baseball game, featuring the University of Virginia and the annual senior prom in the evening. The highlights of Saturday, alumni day, will be the alumni luncheon at noon, another University of Virginia game in the afternoon, department and fraternity reunions in the evening. Class reunions will be held Sunday, with the baccalaureate service in the afternoon, an alumni sing in the evening. The baccalaureate preacher is the Rev. Allan Knight Chalmers, pastor of the Broadway Tabernacle Congregational Church, New York City. Commencement is Monday. Prof. William Lyon Phelps of Yale will give the address.

Reunion classes this year are 1880, 1890, 1891, 1892, 1901, 1907, 1909, 1910, 1916, 1921, 1926, 1927, 1928, 1929, 1930, 1931 and 1940.

Independents' picnic will be held Sunday afternoon, leaving Chapel at 3. Those going by car will be at Ethan Allen Park by 4.

Newman Club Dance, Gym, 9 to 12 p.m., Saturday night. Catamounts. Thirty-five cents per person. All out!

Final U.V.M. Radio Program Given Tuesday

[illegible] U. V. M. radio program in the [illegible] series which has been heard over WCAX every Tuesday night for the past 8 weeks was presented an interesting symposium, centered about the topic, "What Is the Value of a College Education?"

[illegible] the speakers from the viewpoint of a high school student who is planning to enter college next fall, Mayer Levin '41, radio editor of the CYNIC introduced Ruth Jordan, a prospective freshman at U. V. M. Miss Jordan who is to major in child psychology at the University, believes that a college education is worth while principally in that it helps the student obtain a good job when he graduates, offers the opportunity for meeting people, gives one a better capacity for judging character, helps one formulate a simple though concrete philosophy of life and lastly introduces one to the social side of college life.

Evans Speaks

Last member of the graduating class at the University followed. Shirley Gray '41 retiring member of Mortar Board, emphasized those worthwhile things which she has extracted from her four years at U. V. M. "College is one of the greatest institutions of democracy," she ventured, "in that a person is judged by merit and not by the amount of money he has." Both she and Miss Jordan pointed out that you can get out of college only as much as you put in.

R. P. Kenney '41, a prominent member of this year's Boulder Society, stressed the rounding out process which the mind goes through during the four years at college. "A steady mind will be very necessary for those of us who graduate this year and, although the prospects seem dark, we should be able after four years of college to look into the future with an optimistic view."

To present the faculty's reply to this question, Paul D. Evans, professor of history at U. V. M., showed how a college student can learn what has happened in the past and utilize this information in setting up the standards of his own individual life.

In closing, Meyer Levin '41 expressed his sincere gratitude to all those who have aided in making the U. V. M. radio program a success. He also expressed the hope that the program had achieved its goal, that of providing a medium of closer understanding between faculty, students and neighbors.

Reading Contest To Be Wednesday

The annual Julia Spear prize reading contest for women will be held at Southwick Memorial on Wednesday evening, May 21, at 8:00 o'clock. The seven girls who survived the recent eliminations are Claire Coffin '44, Gloria Farrell '42, Janet Hackwell '43, Flora Fifield '42, Faye Lapman '43, Natalie Spear '43 and Jean Stewart '41.

The girls will be given their selections twenty-four hours before the contest. The three winners will receive prizes of $15, $10 and $5 respectively.

Last year Gloria Farrell from Rutland, who is here on an oratorical scholarship, won second prize and Janet Hackwell from Montpelier, who is here on a debating scholarship, won third prize.

R.O.T.C. Plans For Federal Inspection

Lieut. Collier Inspecting Officer

After weeks of intensive training the University of Vermont R. O. T. C. Battalion is nearly ready for their annual Federal Inspection. Col. M. E. Spalding, Professor of Military Science and Tactics announces that this year's exciting performance, which takes place at 8:00 p.m. next Wednesday, will be a departure from those witnessed in previous years.

In the light of the recent decision of Key and Serpent regarding the Emerson Trophy competition, the Junior Society which decides what events shall be included in the competition for the trophy, voted last year to discontinue the fraternity drill squad competition from the list of events. As plans for the competition had already been made by several fraternities, when this announcement was made last year, it was decided to put on the exhibition drill just as in previous years, even though no point toward the Eramor Trophy would be awarded the winning squad. Accordingly most of the fraternities entered a squad in the competition last year and a very creditable performance resulted. However this year there will be no fraternity drill squad competition. In its place, the department has arranged a series of demonstrations by the juniors, sophomores and freshmen.

The entire program of events follows:

Battalion review, 8:00 a.m. Wednesday, May 21.

9:30 to 12:00 the examination of students by inspecting officer.

From two to five p.m. inspection of property, classroom, and records by the inspector.

8:00 p.m. Wednesday evening ceremony by all classes.

11:00 a.m. Thursday, May 22. Battalion Parade on back campus.

The inspecting officer this year is Lieut. Col. William A. Collier, General Staff Corps, First Corps Area, Headquarters.

W.A.A. Plans Annual Picnic

Around five o'clock next Tuesday evening all the members of W. A. A. will meet on the steps of Southwick preparatory to setting out on the annual picnic in Redstone Quarry off Ledge Road. A large crowd is expected to be on hand both for the picnic and for the following Green and Gold competition to decide who will get the candle. Most of the girls from the dormitories will furnish their own lunches while five cents a person will be charged for drinks. At the same time the honorary awards, certificates for the work year will be awarded and the members of the new sports club, Ladies' archery [illegible] will be announced.

Catherine Dyson '42 is in general charge of the picnic while Marjorie Abell '42 is in charge of the food. The W. A. A. Council urges all W. A. A. members that they will be very welcome at the picnic.

Local Newman Club Host For New England Conference

Three Guest Speakers; D. Sawyer Chairman Of Dance Committee

[illegible] U. V. M. Chapter [illegible] and host [illegible] Conference [illegible] May 17 and 18 [illegible] annual conference [illegible] at Catholic High Central Councils met [illegible] with plans for [illegible] U. V. M. and surrounding [illegible].

Many Speakers

[illegible] will be given by the speakers at the meeting. Reverend E. McSweeney, M.D., will welcome the delegates and speak on "Newman Club Activities at the University of Vermont." Mr. Eugene McGuire, LL.B. '34 of the Boston Law firm of Boston, Mass. and regional chairman of the N. C. C. Conference for Newman Clubs, will speak on "Newman Clubs After Graduation." Leslie Eastman, M.D. '34 of Wellesley College, national vice-president of the Federation of Newman Clubs, will speak on "Newman Clubs The National Organization." Prof. Harold J. Laski, professor of political science and international law at Dartmouth College, will speak on "The Catholic Student in the Secular College."

At 9:00 an informal dance will be held at the U. V. M. gym. The Community will give a banquet in honor of the visiting delegates at 6:30 p.m. Prof. and Mrs. M. E. Witham will chaperone.

Sunday morning the meeting will end with a solemn Pontifical Mass at Cathedral Church.

Sawyer, Chairman

David Sawyer '42 is chairman of the dance committee which consists of Dan Kingsley '44, Margaret Crowley '41, Ruth Penne '42 and John Zeiberger '42. Helen Witham '42 is chairman of the reception committee which consists of John Costello '41, Dave Heath '41, Bob Dineen '42, Hank Paquette '42, Patricia McConnell '44 and Patricia Peabody '41. Lucia Wilson '44 is chairman of the publicity committee which consists of Patricia Crowley '41, Helena Anderson '42, Joe Carlson '42, Priscilla Tracy '44, Marie Larson '44 and Jim Lennon '43. Mary Germain '42 is chairman of the banquet committee. Her committee consists of Barbara Gallagher '42, Ida Casey '44, Henrietta Factory '43, Katherine Hayes '44 and Jane McNeille '44.

All members of the U. V. M. Newman Club are urged to attend the conference and all other students cordially invited to attend the conference and the dance.

Osler Society Plans Dance

Tonight from 9:00 to 1:00 the Osler Clinical Society of the Medical College will sponsor a semi-formal dance at the Country Club. This is the first time that such a dance has been recognized as an official college function but they hope it may establish a precedent. Besides the medical freshmen the faculty of the College of Medicine have been invited. Frank D. Lady '42 is chairman of the committee on arrangements and Howard L. Johnstone '42 is chairman of the food committee. The Commodores will furnish the music and the chaperons will be Dr. and Mrs. E. L. Bashford and Dr. and Mrs. R. G. Hagger.

The Vermont Cynic

The Official Student Newspaper of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College

VOL. 39 MAY 16, 1941 NO. 57

What About It?

Last week we commented on the loss of youthful interest in democracy because it hadn't been made real to them. This week we would like to get a little nearer to home and comment on the unfortunate refusal of students at the University to make an attempt to solve campus problems or to even gather organizations through which they can express their views. Whether this attitude is widespread among American colleges, we cannot venture, but just enough survey has been made to show that some colleges have a great deal to be desired here. Active interests itself in the educational problems of the school and initiate constructive action through well-run student councils or similar organizations. The purpose of these student organizations is to coordinate student opinion, to represent that opinion before faculty and to confer with the administration and faculty boards when matters arise in the problems which affect them.

To perhaps be explicit here, the lack of student organization and spirit at Vermont does not, in reality, but it certainly is at a very low level. For the past week [illegible] has been interviewing various students with a view to finding out what improvements they would like to see made at U. V. M. and made [illegible] their members and say "What's the use? There's nothing we can do about it." Considering the fact that the Committee on Dean Packer are conducting a special educational survey of the school at this moment, this attitude seems very disheartening. The recent Student poll also showed a very widespread ignorance in the student body of problems which affect them. Just what the cause for this general [illegible] is we don't know.

One fundamental factor is probably the lack of leadership on the campus. We have a faculty-student council but how many students, may we ask, know about it? Why don't they know about it? Because no one has ever bothered to tell them. This organization which supposedly should be the rallying point for student organization is a deep, dark mystery to the students but the members—what is its function? What is it accomplishing?

As far as we can ascertain the council is made up mainly of people who are very active in campus activities already and so cannot spend much time in this work. Apparently something should be done to make the council a truly representative organization. But before this can be done the politics here at the University must be revised. At the present time student elections are a farce. A handful of people do the nominating, a handful of people do the voting. This gives small groups on campus an excellent opportunity to run things.

If we are to have a representative council on this campus, some of the members must be elected by the student body. Under the present system we would have the same old story of non-representative elections and that would certainly smash any hopes for a really hard-working student council.

In the second place, over and above the matter of interest in elections, the students must strive to elect people not because they have this or that honor but because they have the ability and enthusiasm for the job. The idea of the student council would not be to give the members just one more honor to include on the list of their activities in the Ariel, or a chance to appear in a group picture but to provide an organization through which student action can be channeled and student interest in the school can be maintained. No students who are out for the mere honor of it thing can ever do this job. That's why so many organizations on this campus are "dead on their feet"—too many members belong merely because they like the honor not because they enjoy taking part in the group's work and furthering its aims. Because of this grand scramble

"Is Lindbergh A Real American?"

To the Editor of the Cynic:

It was with a great amount of interest that I read an Associated Press dispatch on April 25 with a Berlin date line of the previous day. I quote the translated version of the article by the editor of the Hamburger Fremdenblatt. It was headlined "America First" and went on to say, "Colonel Lindbergh, a real American of Swedish descent from the Middle West, opposes war," and continued, "He is not a war opponent through emotionalism but through devoted love of his country. . . . I wonder how anyone in the United States can call Mr. Lindbergh a "real American" when "Heel" Hitler's official stooges say the same thing.

There is a certain group in America which has been called the "Riviera" set. During peace they condemned America, sneered at those who worked for their daily bread, but did nothing more productive than sit on the beaches and howl at the size of the income tax. But when Europe was enveloped in war, they hurried home to secure those blessings that this country affords. Among these was Ex-Colonel Lindbergh. He left this country in a huff, incensed at the treatment he had received here; he is back today telling us what we should do and how we should save our civilization and our democracy.

This Quisling, I repeat again, criticizes the appeasers, yet disregarding the lessons of appeasement, he urges a negotiated peace. We are to believe that Hitler, who has violated every treaty he has felt like violating, will not repudiate this one. He speaks of intra-European wars, when conflict ranges in three continents and all six are involved. He says that we have incurred the antagonism of every great military power in Europe and Asia except England, implying that we should cooperate (in other words, appease) these powers.

Mr. Lindbergh is appealing to the well known sentiment of the American people to be "hero worshippers." He condemns "college presidents and idealists" for forcing us into war, while his colleague, Senator Wheeler, shouts that the "international bankers, Jews and munitions manufacturers" are responsible for our imminent entry into the war. About the only group, according to them, who are not pushing for war, are themselves.

Mr. Lindbergh also recognizes that we must arm to the teeth on the land, the sea and in the air. Against whom? A defeated England? No, against those powers now fighting against her. He further claims that the United States and the British Empire cannot defeat Nazi-dominated Europe today, but that tomorrow the United States alone can defeat a Nazi-dominated world!

Since we are arming ourselves against the Axis and Britain is fighting the Axis it seems only logical that we should aid her. Further than this, I wonder how much our word will be worth in South America if we fail to support Britain after having given our solemn pledge to do so. Will our Pan-American neighbors have any faith in us if we fail our friends at the crucial moment?

If we should admit, as Mr. Lindbergh suggests, that Dakar, the Suez, Gibraltar and Singapore are of no concern to us in any way, how long could we send ships in impunity to get rubber, tin, manganese, bauxite, coffee, sugar, bananas, cacao, coconuts, silk, tungsten, wool and other commodities vital to our standard of living from areas which are controlled by these strategic areas? I admit that we could refrain from using these commodities to some extent and that we might manufacture "Ersatz" materials to replace others, but in the meantime our foreign trade would disappear completely. Couple this with increasing taxes and the inevitable consequences of omnipresent "Prussianization" which would be necessitated to maintain the "Lindbergh plan," and it is my belief that a progressive decline would occur in our standard of living. Given this, the majority of our people would lose faith in whatever democracy remained extant and totalitarianism would be left as the sole alternative.

May I also state that Mr. McNamara is being very inconsistent in his views. In previous letters he stated that Britain was doing nothing to protect this country from Nazi aggression. Yet in his last letter he states that before Germany can attack us, Britain must be invaded and her navy destroyed. In other words,

"Campus Politics Bad," Says Frank Liva

To the Editor of the CYNIC:

This may be termed as an enumeration of viewpoints on various things, or, getting a load off my chest.

First, some points as past president of the men's non-fraternity group:

Some people may know the motto of the Vermont Independents is "Vermont First." My interpretation of this motto has been that the student's first consideration is the University. Therefore, when a man had done his bit for the University should he take an active part in the Independents? Only after a non-fraternity man has completed his studies and taken part in extra-curricular activities should he take active part in this non-fraternity group. His interest should be directed so that in later years the individual will feel himself to be a member of the University as a whole rather than of a clique.

Furthermore, there seems to be a lack in unity of non-fraternity men as a political group on the campus. Campus politics at the University of Vermont, I think, are some of the rottenest existing. They are disgusting even to those who participate in these political "ventures." My viewpoint on this matter is that if the non-fraternity groups controlled the campus the condition of unfair elections and committee appointments would still exist as bad as before but only run by a different "combine." This setup certainly would not be helping the [illegible] cratic elections on the [illegible].

Now speaking only as a [illegible] touch upon another point. A [illegible] ago honorary society [illegible] named. I think it is a pity that little exception only athletes and men are worthy of this recognition choices are very good, but the [illegible] already have their time taken [illegible] letic and fraternity activities. W put in a few men who are [illegible] not all brawn and sinew. N[illegible] men and women are slightly [illegible] half of the total enrollment [illegible] versity. Yet they comprise [illegible] part of those in musical [illegible] other extra-curricular activities [illegible] ing sports. This indicates [illegible] their ability. Why do they have small representation in honorary [illegible] and campus committees? Is it a [illegible] ment to the University as a whole that only half of the student body belongs to Greek-letter [illegible] capable or worthy of recognition?

I know that there are [illegible] tional issues at stake, but do we allow conditions on campus to [illegible] corruption? These views are [illegible]

By G. Little

Larry Gardner has developed another excellent pitcher in Ray Alberghini, sophomore, who won two games in the last week by defeating Colby and Norwich with comparative ease. Alberghini reminds one somewhat of Alex Pessagno, star of 1939 and 1940 who showed promise as a hitter by cracking out two hits in six times at bat. This new addition brings Coach Gardner's pitching staff to a total of four if the recuperating Bob Carlson is counted. Carlson is slowly recovering from trichinosis, a disease cured only by rest, a careful diet, but if his condition continues to improve he will be back in the lineup. Al Shaw, right hander, will be out a month being laid up with a case of measles.

The attendance is quite evident at baseball games and track meets. With such a fine home athletic program presented this season for the students' benefit it would seem as if a few of those attending would rearrange their complicated itineraries so as to include it in their schedules for beholding the various spring sport events. There is a baseball game at Centennial Field practically every Friday or Saturday when one of the leading teams in the East appear here. The playing field is excellent, the diamond is in good playing condition and every student has a season ticket book, yet only a handful of the faithful manage to attend. With a good stadium with a lusty cheering section instills a certain amount of spirit into the individual players and with such a spirit, which leads to good baseball, the team might improve to a "championship" season. Vermont is annually one of the finest teams in New England and deserves support from a lackadaisical student body. Vermont ranks much higher in baseball than any other sport but receives a minimum of support.

for positions which will further one's name and aid one to make an entrance society, every club and activity on the campus suffers. The fraternities indirectly foster this attitude by pushing their own members, regardless of ability, into all the positions and activities possible. In short there is no attempt to pick men suited for the positions. The student council can be a way out of the present jungle of indifference but it is useless it is wisely and democratically selected.

What about it? We are all in college for the express purpose of learning how to cope with problems affecting society. Can we expect to have a nation worth defending when the future citizens sit back and do not even bother to deal with the comparatively simpler problems of campus and classroom; when they refuse to use the opportunity to exercise democratic principles in their more narrow range of activities at the university?

Vermont Engages Springfield Nine

Springfield will be the opponent this Saturday at Centennial Field, when the Gardnermen resume their state series contests to host to the Connecticut aggregation. Hank Carlson seems to be the logical choice for the pitching chore, if Coach Larry Gardner's plans are not muddled by the Middlebury encounter. The rest of the team will be the same.

Springfield boasts of a good pitcher in Smith who will no doubt receive the nod from his mentor against Vermont. Gibson, an outfielder for the visitors, played with Larry's team that journeyed to Havana last past summer.

"Is Lindbergh?"

he admits openly that Germany today is being delayed by Britain.

I took the examples of Thomas Mann and Albert Einstein for only one reason. They are undoubtable foes of regimentation and in the public eye they represent martyrs to all that is contrary to human standards of ethics and tolerance. I know Mr. Einstein was an American citizen, but I hope that Mr. McNamara will follow the papers more closely. If I was six months behind in regard to Mr. Einstein, he was a year behind in regard to Mr. Chamberlain. I leave it to the readers of this paper to judge who committed the grosser error.

I would prefer to see myself "slaughtered" today than have my younger brothers blown to bits two, ten, fifteen years from now. If airplanes today fly seven thousand miles, tomorrow they will fly fifteen. A cynical attitude avails little when speaking of war. I wonder if the Finns and Greeks would be better off today if they had not fought. Are the Danes or the Rumanians of the Balkan peoples?

It is also interesting to note that among those organizations in this country which have taken Mr. Lindbergh's stand are the German-American Bund, the Ku Klux Klan, William Randolph Hearst, Father Coughlin, the Silver Shirts, Mrs. Dilling, the Communist Party, the Knights of the White Camelia and many others too numerous to mention.

When I think of those who would close the tent flaps of democracy in America, those who demand complete isolation, those who would grant Germany, Italy, the Soviet and Japan the right to enslave less strong people I say, "There is none so blind as he who will not see."

Title-Bound Cats Swamp Norwich In 11-5 Slugfest

By Alan Glazin

They are on their way to the state championship! Tuesday afternoon the Vermont baseball team traveled to Northfield where they decisively defeated the Norwich Cadets by the score of 11-5. It was never a battle, the Cats sending eleven runs across the platter during the early innings and then nestled down and along through the rest of the game behind the fast balls and slow balls of Ray Alberghini. Ray held the Norwich lads to four hits until the eighth inning, the Cadets getting three each in the last two innings.

In the second inning Smith doubled to deep left center. Wood reached first on the second baseman's error, Smith stopping at third. Wood stole second. Sullivan walked. Alberghini walked, forcing in Smith. Sysko reached first when the third baseman threw home too late to get Wood. Spasyk flied to the second baseman. Taylor walked, forcing in Sullivan. Doherty walked to the catcher Beauchemin sacrificed to center, Alberghini and Sysko scoring, Taylor going to third. On the play Beauchemin purposely allowed himself to be run down, first baseman to second baseman, while Taylor scored.

In the fourth Alberghini singled over second base. Sysko singled to center, Alberghini going to second. Spasyk sacrificed and was out, pitcher to first. On the play Alberghini moved to third and Sysko to second. Taylor flied to center, Alberghini scoring. Doherty singled to center, Sysko scoring. As the center fielder fumbled the ball Doherty went to second. Doherty went to third on a passed ball. Doherty scored and Beauchemin was safe at first on the pitcher's error. Smith flied to the shortstop.

There will be a meeting of all the members of the Women's Bowling Club on Monday, May 19, in Room 3, South College, at 1:30 p.m. to choose a manager for next year. Any girl interested in being the manager may sign up in the Y room.

Norwich Nibbles

The team lunched at Watertown and after the game traveled to Preston where Vermont alumnus Bill Randall, a good friend of Larry Gardner's and Sabe Abell's gave the boys quite a feast. Each player's plate was heaped with baked chicken, a whole chicken, asparagus and most delicately prepared lettuce. Each one of us remarked: "Thanks, Dad, Bill."

The Vermont double play in the ninth inning was the twentieth, started by Randy Sullivan and Johnny Spasyk.

Three cars, driven by Larry Gardner, Sabe Abell and Bernie Black were used on the trip. Ross West managed a shack when he called "Betty" to a lovely Montpelierite, but the name of the pretty lass was "Betty." . . . Dick Healy met a fellow Lyndonite in the Norwich stands.

A portly gentleman sitting in the left field stands made seven catch of a high foul and later came over to the dugout to tell Larry he thought it funny a while when he was passing through Northfield after he heard that U. V. M. was playing. . . . Charlie Smith hit a long one over the left-field stands which was but a few feet short of fair territory.

Sig Sysko found it difficult playing ball way up a steep hill in right field. . . . When one sits in the Vermont dugout he can see why Larry Gardner is the great coach that he is. Larry is always calm and collected, humorous with shrewdness and wise advice. What more, he is one of the swellest fellows one could ever hope to meet.

U.V.M. Tracksters Enter Eastern Collegiate Meet

Coach Post Gloomy As to Team's Chances; Field Men Counted On

This year, as has always been the case, Worcester Polytechnic Institute will be the scene this June for the annual Eastern Intercollegiate Track and Track Meet. The meet will take place this Saturday, May 17, and will be the toughest meet to be run since its first one in 1927.

As has been the custom, Vermont has entered a team into the competition. Although Coach Austin Post's harriers are not the best track team ever produced at U. V. M. it is reasonable that hopes of winning a few firsts in all the events have been run.

The team has had a little trouble in getting enough meets coming from the cinder artists and each has had a struggle to win. In one meet, there was the Colby meet to which Vermont lost a close meet, losing by just one point, the score being 65 to 66. In the meet against M. I. Pelham and Bowdoin took first with Middlebury trailing close and closer and it wasn't until the very end that the Vermont track team pulled away and came out on top. . . . Vermont's chief hope is going to be any set up for the hurdles. As quoted Austin Besides Colby, Middlebury and Trinity the U. V. M. boys will go into action against such teams as Boston University, Connecticut State, Massachusetts State, Tufts and Worcester Tech.

Coach Gloomy

Coach Post's predictions as to how Vermont will emerge are very dismal and discouraging. At the latest and before the meet started Coach Post put our boys at the foot and we'll have to do some good scraping to keep us from last of all. Tufts, Connecticut and Boston University will give the most competition, Coach Post thinks, with Tufts with Ed Duggan, star on the 1,000 and another threatening the best on the rest of the field. Duggan is said to "breeze" through the hurdles in 14 seconds. This time is very close to the world's record and Bert Mott, U. V. M. hurdler, will have to have plenty on the ball to win this event.

The meet starts will be held in the morning, and the finals will be run off in the afternoon.

Last year Vermont placed fourth and the year before placed second. In the former event we did not win any firsts but came through with enough places to come out in fourth position. The situation this year is almost the same. Coach Post does not expect any firsts except if Mott, F. Webster, or Gage come through in the hurdles, mile and hammer throw respectively. Another possibility for first place rests in the javelin throw if Daly could land it for some 180 odd feet.

Approximately fourteen men will make the trip to Worcester. To date only twelve of the fourteen have been selected and the other two will be known soon. Those sure of making the trip are Gage, Gray, Grosvenor, Mott, Nichols, Parker, St. Mary, Squire, Vreeland, Warden, F. Webster and Daly.

Field Men Strong

Vermont will not enter men in the 100, 220, 440, and 880 yard runs. The reason for this is apparent for Coach Post is going to depend upon his field men to garner most of his points.

The men listed below are three sure of going and the event they will probably be entered in: Gage, hammer; Gray, broad jump; Grosvenor, high jump; Mott, 120 yard and 220 yard hurdles; Nichols, javelin; Parker, shot put and discus throw; St. Mary, two-mile run; Squire, hammer and discus; Vreeland, pole vault; Warden, shot put; F. Webster, mile; Daly, javelin.

In last year's meet Mott broke the college record and set the state record when he took the 120 high hurdles in 15.2 seconds.

Vermont meets M. I. T. and U. N. H. next Saturday and will prove very interesting as Vermont will have much [illegible] meeting at Worcester.

Cat Netmen Smash Crack Colby Club

Singles Matches Are Long and Hard Fought

[illegible] weekend did it the hard way last Monday as [illegible] a strong Colby tennis team by a decisive [illegible] point. It was the fourth victory in [illegible] for the Green and Gold net-[illegible] who are enjoying a very successful season. The new clay courts near Centennial Field was the scene of the Cats' latest victory and what was well earned and well deserved.

The visiting netsters were examples of [illegible] as most of the men just [illegible] but were sure sock strong to take their matches. In the third, fourth, and fifth place matches the Vermont players [illegible] after dropping the first set.

[illegible] opposing the Cats was Charlie Ladd, the [illegible] champion of the State of Maine and a member of the United States Cup team of the United States. He lasted [illegible] but proved too to be easy victory over Ed Simpson of Vermont.

Vermont garnered four points in the singles matches to lost one match going the full three sets. Larry Simpson defeated Capps Dyer 8-6, 6-3 and displayed some wonderful form. Larry was hot. He did nothing wrong and looked brilliant in the match.

Art Wolk dropped the first set 1-6 to Ed Alexander of Colby but rallied and won the last two by 10-8 and 6-4 counts. Dick Lynch lost his first set, got his mind off his calculus exam and pulled through in the next two. The scores were 6-8, 6-3, 6-4.

The fourth point was obtained when Sam Foti nicked Norris Dibble in a hard-fought battle that lasted over two hours. Hot sandwiches were served between the sets of this match. Bill Pratt was playing his first singles match of the year, and went down after a close battle to the strokes of Burnett, who thus obtained Colby's second point.

The match was clinched for Vermont when Larry Simpson and Dangerous Dick Lynch teamed up in the doubles and soundly spanked Grover Cleveland Alexander and "Peru" Prizzano 6-4, 6-1, after "Good" Lord and "Vat" Dyer had conquered Ed Simpson and Sam Foti. The Catamount sixth point was gained by Pratt and Wolk with a 6-4, 6-4 victory over Dibble and Burnett.

Thursday the squad travels to Middlebury to match bids with the Midd netsters in a state title match.

Doings At Southwick

Friday night, May 16.—The ballroom has been hired by the graduate nurses of the Mary Fletcher Hospital, in which a private dance for them is to be held.

Saturday, May 17, at 2:00 p.m. and 8:00 p.m.—Newman Club will hold conclaves in connection with the convention of Newman Clubs from New England Colleges.

W. A. A. Softball Game

Monday, May 19, at 5:00 in the afternoon the Green and Gold teams will play the championship softball game of the season. As both teams are evenly matched, the game promises to be quite exciting, and all are urged to attend. It will be held at the softball field near the women's tennis courts.

Important meeting of Senior Women next Monday, 1:30 p.m. Attendance will be taken.

Scribes Hold Final Meeting

Though the Scribes held their final meeting of the year last Wednesday evening, their activity has by no means ended for the year. For another literary page is to come out in the CYNIC before exams set in. In it are to be included short stories, essays, sketches, poetry and cartoons.

Wednesday's meeting consisted of reading and criticizing each other's creations as well as eating refreshments without comments. Plans for the coming page were feverishly discussed and it was stated that any students who would like to enter original material for the page should leave their manuscripts in Fulvio Bardossi's box in the CYNIC office before this coming Monday noon.

It was with a great deal of pleasure that Jean Young '42 was welcomed back into the group. She read what was practically a novelette dealing with skiing and hospitals, but with a happy ending. Dorothy Thornton '43 brought forth a story dealing with life as it is in the army, a subject with which the writer is very familiar. The language used was clever slanguage. Other members brought sketches and poetry. The latter, which was modern to an exscream, brought forth many valuable comments by Jacob Katz '44 who is well versed in the classics.

Though everyone had a wonderful time, they regretted that Prof. Elliot Merrick, charter member of Scribes, was unable to attend. At present he is very busy judging in a literary contest run by the State High Schools.

The date for the Lilac Day Pageant is May 24, Saturday night, not May 23 as announced in Friday, May 9, CYNIC.

Lilac Day Pageant To Show Colorful History Of Dance

Secrecy Surrounds Identity of Queen; Many Girls Dancing

Who will be Queen of the Lilacs? This is the foremost question in everyone's mind as Lilac Day draws near. The tradition of choosing a senior girl to preside over the festivities has become an important part of the Lilac Day program, which is to be held at Southwick on May 24 at 8.00 o'clock. Secrecy surrounds the identity of the Queen, but we may know the attendants of her court.

Miss Blenda Larson has been directing the girls in dances of all lands, from the beginning of dancing to modern jazz. The pageant tells in a colorful way the story of the dance, how contagious dancing is. There are many girls from all the classes who are participating in the program. The girls in the different dances are:

Queen's Attendants: Jean Saul, Margaret Sandall, Mary Letta Root.

Queen's Court: Margaret Crowley, Laura Hawley, Barbara Gallagher, Nancy Goodwin, Gloria Oling, Mary Tuckerman, Barbara Burns, Janet Dike, June Hoffman, Phyllis Savage, Shirley Buckingham, Marilyn Eimer.

University Band Returns From Tour

Money Turned Over To Bundles For Britain

Approximately $160 has been turned over to Bundles for Britain as a result of a recent concert tour by the University of Vermont R. O. T. C. Band. The tour included concerts in Springfield and Montpelier for the benefit of Bundles for Britain on May 2 and 3 respectively. A third concert was given at the Veterans Administration Hospital in White River Junction for the enjoyment of the hospitalized ex-service men.

Col. M. E. Spalding, Professor of Military Science and Tactics at the University states that he has received word that $112 was raised at the Springfield concert and over $50 was raised at the Montpelier concert.

The Springfield concert was sponsored by the Windsor County University of Vermont alumni with Joseph B. Johnson acting as the local chairman. The Montpelier concert was sponsored by the Washington County alumni with Raymond A. Briggs as local chairman.

All three concerts were enthusiastically received by those in attendance.

Classical Club Elects Officers

The Goodrich Classical Club held its final meeting of the year last Thursday at the home of Prof. L. M. Prindle. During the business meeting the slate of officers for next year was announced as follows: President, M. A. Hawes '42; vice-president, Miriam Fiske '42 secretary, June Hoffman '43; treasurer, H. Ginsberg '43; social chairman, Judith Perry '42

W. H. Maurer '43 was in charge of the program for the evening and gave a very interesting talk on the history of the classical department at U. V. M. Then the group sang Latin songs and enjoyed refreshments served by Mrs. Prindle.

Frances E. Abell, N. Joene Agard, Miriam L. Fiske, Mlyrna G. French, Barbara M. Gallagher, Nancy G. Goodwin, Joanna J. Metcalf, Gloria Oling, Gratia H. Pearl, Mary E. Tuckerman, Helen M. Witham.

A banquet will follow initiation ceremonies.

Scholarships For Best Vocalist In State High Schools

University Awards Scholarships To Eighteen Students

Eighteen scholarships to the University of Vermont, amounting in all to $2,150, will be awarded to high school vocalists of Vermont who enter the Vermont state vocal solo tournament for high schools, with contests in three districts of the State taking place Saturday, May 24, and the finals, held at the University, Saturday, May 31. The contest, sponsored by the University of Vermont and conducted jointly by the University Music Department with the Headmasters' Club of Vermont, is open to all secondary schools of the State under the Headmasters' Rules. Both boys and girls may compete, and an equal number of scholarships for each are available. Each school may send no more than three contestants.

Four scholarships will be awarded in each of the three district contests. First prize for boys and also for girls in each district will be a $150 scholarship to the University of Vermont, and second prize, one for boys and one for girls, will be a $100 scholarship. The two boys and two girls who win in each district will be chosen to participate in the finals, held in the Fleming Museum of the University of Vermont, Saturday evening, May 31, at 8:00 p.m. Six winners in the finals, three boys and three girls, will receive scholarships for first place of $150, second place, $100, and third place, $75. Contestants will be judged on tone, accuracy of pitch, rhythm, interpretation, stage deportment and diction. Principals and supervisors of music are being urged to encourage those students with native musical ability to enter, regardless of lack of training.

Student Union Tag Day On Wednesday

Money To Finance Conference Next Year

Wednesday is to be a big day on this campus and we want all your cooperation to help make it so. Why? Well, this Wednesday is to be a tag day for Student Union. What for? The subject could cover a lot of space, but it will suffice to say that Student Union needs money and lots of it. Next year there is to be a conference here, with students from colleges in all the northeastern states and the U. V. M. group has to finance it. The tags are to be sold for any amount you can afford to give, from one cent to one dollar (or more, of course), and by all the members of the S. U. Council. Some others will be selling these tags, too. Yes, you've guessed it, the Beauty Queens of our campus! All will be identified by red, white and blue arm bands, and will be around school all day Wednesday and at the military drill Wednesday night, May 21. Student Union does a great deal to help all of you. How about turning out this Wednesday to help it.

Last Big Sing To Be Held Thursday Night

The third big Vermont Sing will take place on the library steps on Thursday night, May 22, at 7.15 p.m. Sponsored by the Outing Club, these sings are led by Louis Picherri, who is enrolled in the musical education course. Every student is urged to attend, and songs will be sung from the Outing Club song book.

Parade and Mock War Part of Military Inspection

Two Days of Events Highlighted By Ceremony in the Gym Tomorrow Night

Warfare under realistic combat conditions will be graphically demonstrated by members of the University of Vermont R. O. T. C. Battalion at their annual evening ceremony scheduled to take place this year at 8:00 p.m., Wednesday, May 21, in the gymnasium annex.

According to Col. M. E. Spalding, Professor of Military Science and Tactics at the University, the formal Federal inspection will be made this year by Lieut. Col. W. A. Colher of the General Staff Corps from the First Corps Area Headquarters in Boston, Mass., on May 21 and 22.

Although the evening ceremony on Wednesday is the highlight of the entire inspection, many other colorful events are scheduled for the two-day period, including a review of the battalion at 8:30 a.m. on May 21 and a battalion parade at 11:00 a.m. on May 22, both to take place on the back campus.

Colorful Program

Colonel Spalding announces that the demonstrations next Wednesday evening, although departing from ceremonies presented in recent years, are entirely in keeping with the times as they will accurately portray the type of military training received by young men at the University of Vermont.

He states further, that although there will be no fraternity drill squad competition this year, the program will be just as colorful and exciting as previously, due to the introduction of a variety of demonstrations never before presented.

Among other things the cadets will put on a gas mask and bayonet drill and a series of demonstrations dealing with automatic rifles, trench mortars, antitank weapons and heavy machine guns, as well as an exhibition drill by crack members of the freshman class.

Actual Combat Simulated

Most of these demonstrations have been planned with the idea of simulating actual combat conditions in a manner understandable to the civilian. Student commentators from the four classes will describe and explain the demonstrations as they are presented.

A part of the program will be reserved for the University R. O. T. C. Band which recently returned from a concert tour of the state. Mr. Joseph F. Lechnyr will be the conductor.

Numerous prizes, awards and trophies will be presented at the close of the program.

Those unable to be present at the evening ceremony will be given the opportunity to witness a short, sparkling display of military precision at the battalion parade Thursday, May 22, at 11:00 a.m.

More on the Council

Last week we suggested that the lack of student interest in campus affairs here at the University was due in part to lack of efficient leadership and concerted effort. We suggested as a remedy for that an active student council.

This week it would be well to take a single problem and see how an active student council could cope with it. Many students have expressed the opinion that they would like to have a reading period established which would enable them to have sufficient time to review before final examinations. They feel that this would make the present set-up more fair for those students who have many exams coming in the first days of the examination period.

As far as we can ascertain one of the major objections to a reading period is that the school calendar is already cut to the minimum of teaching days now. Taking out two or three days for a reading period would necessitate the addition of extra days elsewhere in the calendar or else the elimination of some holidays. Would the students be willing to accept such a solution?

Or is there some better way to deal with this problem? It has been suggested that perhaps a schedule could be worked out that placed examinations in definite groups. In this way all exams that could not under any circumstances conflict would be lumped together on the same day. English I and English II could come together. Many of the language courses could be so arranged. Of course, with the present system of courses in existence at U. V. M. there is much overlapping and a social science student, for instance, is taking courses in the literary-scientific curricula and vice versa.

At any rate a study could be made of this system. Various forms of such schedules are in use in several universities and if properly handled this solution eliminates the need for a reading period. If it is found that no alternatives will work then by all means we think some time should be set aside for the purposes of review at the end of semester.

That this problem is not a simple one to solve should be evident. There's where your student council comes in. The CYNIC as a newspaper can suggest improvements and even sample student opinion but it should not be the only agency on the campus concerned with student problems. There must be some representative group elected by the student body that can consult with the faculty and present the students' point of view on vital issues. There must be a reliable group with the authority to approve measures on behalf of the students. Such a council would make it a point to find out what students thought about introducing a reading period. They would ascertain whether or not the number of students affected would be large enough to warrant such a reform. If any alternative proposals came up they would take them into consideration.

The next step would be for the student council to get in touch with the faculty and administration and discuss the matter with them. Just what are the obstacles to the proposed reform? How can they be removed? Has the faculty or administration any suggestions for improvement? In short the administration and faculty would be made aware, if they did not already know, that a problem existed and they would be fully informed of student opinion on the matter and proper action could be taken.

The students would then feel that they had some stake in the University. The faculty and administration would not be utterly ignorant of student interests. And the students would have an organization to represent them.

Can't we get things going now before two months of vacation obliterate the issue?

Letters From England

DORIS JARECKIE '42 and JACOB KATZ '44

This is the fifth and last installment of a series of letters from an English girl to a friend in the United States which we started in the April 18 issue of the CYNIC.

July 17, 1940

Dunkirk

Dear Mary,

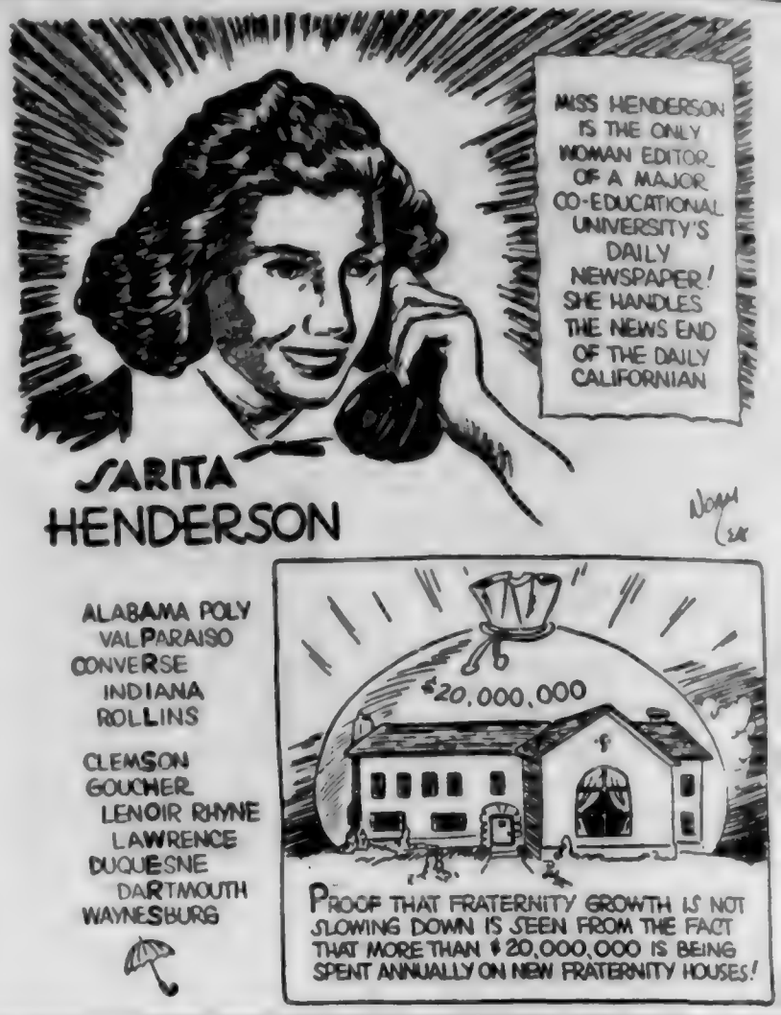
". . . The past few weeks have been a nightmare. France, whom we believed in, started a furious surge of blaming and useless recriminations. Then came the ghastly (but I'm sure, absolutely necessary) action against the French fleet—what a tragedy—when we had endured so much together; above all, having gone through the agony and the glory of Dunkirk side by side, to have to turn and fight our ally, our trusted friend. It is one of the most horrible things that has happened so far . . . . Jim was killed at Dunkirk. God knows, it has been awful. I knew he was in Flanders when Leopold surrendered and for ten days I lived in hell while the army fought a magnificent losing battle trying to cut its way to the sea. People said, 'If 10,000 men get out of Belgium alive we shall be lucky.' We heard that everywhere—in busses, on the wireless, in restaurants. For about three days after Leopold capitulated we did not hear a word. All we knew was that our men were fighting desperately and there was not much hope. Then a few thousands started arriving home—tired and ragged, but grinning. That night I was pretty miserable and a friend who was on leave took me out to dance to cheer me up. We went to a night club and there was a group of officers who looked as if they hadn't slept for days—they hadn't; they had just got back from Dunkirk. When the band was resting they went up on the platform and soon had us all singing 'We'll Meet Again' and other war songs. Then we sang 'It's A Lovely Day Tomorrow' with tears in our eyes and then one of the officers asked us to sing a special song, and told us that he had to leave right after it to get some sleep, as he was going back to Belgium the next day to get the rest of his battery out. He said: 'It's the army song; we sang it on our way into Belgium and we are going to sing it all the way out.' We all sang 'Roll Out the Barrel' together and prayed hard . . . . 350,000 men got out safely; miraculously, really—I'm sure it was nothing less than an answer to prayer—but Jim was not one of them, though I prayed harder than I have ever prayed in my life. I was so sure that he would get out safely. I have so often thought, but never really believed, that this could happen. But now it's come. Something seemed to die inside one when we got the official notification: 'Missing—believed killed.' So when we got the War Office confirmation 'Willed in action' it just couldn't hurt more than it had done already. We were going to have such a wonderful life together . . . . we should have been married as soon as war broke out; you can't afford to play around with happiness these days. . . . Now I know what real hell is. Now, for the first time, I feel afraid, afraid for the future. I feel I want to run away and hide and get away from the storm and horror. While Jim was here I didn't mind what happened. He had such great strength and faith. I'm lost without him. But I'm thankful that we had such happy times together; there's always something to look back on."

January 1, 1941.

Another Christmas passed with even less hope than the last one. Jim was gone and the destruction did not cease. Every family sang its carols—they tell too much of things we haven't got.

". . . I did not go home for Christmas. I thought that it would be just as well to spend it working, since last year I was home and Jim was on leave and we had such fun. So I stayed at the rectory and worked the night shift. The rector and his wife were so sweet. Their two daughters were home and they had large family parties nearly every evening. On Christmas Eve we went out singing carols, which was lovely. It did not snow this year, but was very cold; so it was lovely to be asked in for a drink of coffee after singing and to have it round a huge fireplace. We sang to the men of a searchlight detachment a few miles away. They enjoyed it so thoroughly I suppose they get awfully lonely in so isolated units like that. . . ."

January 10, 1941.



A new year just started, but it does not seem to be a new one. It is not better than the old one, there is still no success, no early victory is in the offing. The people wait 'till the war is over and then they will celebrate all the New Years since the beginning of this war together, which will mark the beginning of a new and we hope better future.

". . . . Oh, how glad I am that 1940 is over. It has, I suppose, been the most momentous year of my life—and the hardest. There are so many things about it that I shall remember all my life: my 21st birthday; getting engaged; those ghastly days of Dunkirk; hearing about Jim; going to Buckingham Palace and receiving his D.S.O. from the King; long days and nights of work trying to forget; the first days of the blitzkrieg in London; working in a horrible canteen during my last week's leave—during the nights in badly bombed areas, seeing ghastly destruction and horrors I would not have believed possible—and through it all, smiling faces, and willing hands, and laughter louder than tears. The morale and determination of people who have lost everything in air raids is good to see and yet it never ceases to amaze; it is really magnificent. . . . I saw the movie 'Our Town' a few weeks ago. It certainly brought back memories of New York. . . ."

January 29, 1941.

". . . . Actually right now (it is 3 p.m.) there is an air raid in progress. I can hear planes overhead and A.A. guns are firing on all sides. Bits of shrapnel from them are falling in the streets. I can see them just outside my bedroom window."

Here our letters close. Planes are overhead. They return night after night. Two years ago our English girl lived in the same way you do. Then came the war and everything changed. We tried to show you that change. In the beginning she still tried to combine her war duties with cultural and social interests. But then came Dunkirk and the continuous bombing of England. Not only her best friends were killed but also houses and monuments, towns and countrysides, artists and cultural values, everything she held dear began to be destroyed one after another. To be or not to be was not any more a question of whether she in particular would survive, but whether England would not only be able to win but would also be strong enough to rise to the old standards and far above them again. Duty and work was the only way where she could find peace and hope. Duty will be her life until the war will be over. Then she might find joy and happiness again in a new rebuilding, but now—"planes are overhead; I can see them just outside the bedroom window."

Bert Mott led the Catamount tracksters to their 17-point fourth place in the Eastern Intercollegiates this past Saturday. The U. V. M. sophomore ace scored Vermont's only first place by breasting the tape three feet of Ed Dugger, the Jumbo prize package, in the 220-yard dash. Other Vermont point getters were Dick Grosvenor in the high jump, O'Connell and Vreeland in the pole vault, Squire, Parker, and Gage in the sprints, Squire in the hammer, and Daly and Nichols in the javelin.

Although he didn't gain a scoring place, Norm Stoddard showed a remarkable improvement in the mile. In dual competition this year Norm has never bettered 4.48 in this event, but Saturday he turned in a 4.35 performance. We haven't any idea what Norm ate for dinner, but we sure hope he continues to include it in his meals.

Pat Weight men were the whole Catamount team. They scored eleven of the Cats' 17 point total. The discus showed plenty of green and gold as Vermont men annexed second, third, and fourth in this event. The javelin was also tinged with green and gold, although the spear heavers failed to come up to expectation.

Ed Dugger and Walter Hall, co-captains of the Tufts' contingent, accounted for five firsts and two seconds between themselves. Dugger stepped over the high hurdles in face of a strong wind in 14.6 seconds to be the only new record of the meet. This long limbed Jumbo has entered national competition in the 120-yard high hurdles, and was more than a match for the Eastern college lads.

Bob Carlson Back

The title-bound Cats will most probably be backing up the well-controlled tosses of Bob Carlson when they face the Norwich Horsemen on Tuesday. Bob has been inactive since his win over Yale at the close of the Southern tour and will be making his first home appearance this year. Thus far the Catamounts are leading the state league with three victories in the same number of starts. They were held inactive Saturday, and we hope they take it out on Norwich!

U. of Pennsylvania Celebrates 200th Year

Philadelphia, Pa.—(ACP)—Gifts totalling nearly $5,000,000 from 16,000 friends and alumni were given the University of Pennsylvania at its 200th anniversary celebration.

The week-long observance drew representatives from hundreds of colleges, universities and learned societies.

Highlights included conferring of honorary LL.D degrees upon President Roosevelt and Sir Lyman P. Duff, chief justice of Canada.

Planned for four years, the discussions centered on America's role in the world crisis. Religion, art, politics, social science, economics, literature and all the cultural sciences were the subject of more than 200 papers by men eminent in their fields.

College Athletes Still Shine After Graduation

Minneapolis, Minn.—(ACP)—A survey of the employment record of former University of Minnesota athletes discredits a common belief that collegiate stars shine less brightly after graduation.

Clarence Osell, instructor in orthopedics, made a study of the extensive file on former Minnesota athletes.

He discovered that 27 per cent of the former athletes now are professional men, 13 per cent salesmen, 9 per cent engineers, 7 per cent executives, and 6 per cent teachers.

"Only five of 722 athletes are now engaged in professional athletics," Osell said.

Athletes are potentially better automobile drivers than non-athletes, according to tests at Pennsylvania State College.

Varsity Baseball Team Subdues Midd.

Akley Allows Four Hits; Sullivan Clouts Triple

The Cats, in the person of one Clarence Akley, chalked up their third straight victory in the state series and their second straight over Middlebury with a score of 6-3. Akley who subdued the Panthers with two hits just a week before, was nearly as successful Thursday, holding the home club to four safeties. He was not as successful in the run column however for one of the hits was the four bagger by Ed Yoemans which brought in two runs in the fourth inning. Harry van Gaasbeck, the Middlebury twirler, was responsible for eleven solid hits. His teammates made six errors to lessen his effectiveness.

Sig Sysko led off by beating out a bunt to get a hit, going to second on Spasyk's drive through short. Frank Taylor intended to bunt, but landed on second when Turner, the Middlebury third baseman overthrew first, allowing Sysko and Spasyk to score. Doherty, Beauchemin and Smith were easy outs to retire the side.

The Panthers tied it up in the fourth when Bob Sheehan beat out a roller down to third. Yoemans than slammed the next one out into deep right for a home run, scoring Sheehan and himself.

The score remained 2-all until the top of the seventh, when Sysko started it off by singling to center field, only to make it a round trip on Shea's error. The Cats made it 5 to 2 in the eighth, with Beauchemin and Wood rounding the paths on three Middlebury errors. Spasyk singled in the ninth, went to second on an infield out, and scored on Doherty's single to centerfield.

The only Panther threat was in the ninth when, Cruess, pinch-hitting for Hawes, received a pass from Akley. Taking second on a passed ball, he scored on Turner's hit.

Akley was pitching great ball, making the Panthers hit into the air or into the dirt, and was given excellent backing-up by the infield. He struck out four and walked two, with one walk bringing in a run in the ninth.

Spasyk had a perfect day, handling eleven chances without an error, figuring in Vermont's 16th double killing of the season, and getting three singles out of five trips to the plate. Sysko, Doherty, Wood got two apiece, with Taylor getting a double and Sullivan a triple to complete the Vermont hits.

Cat Harriers Take Fourth Place In E. I A. A. Meet

Kittens Trackmen Victors In Dual Meet

Barry and Reed Each Capture Two Firsts

Friday May 16, the Kitten harriers made their third entry in the victory column by overwhelming the combined talent of Brattleboro and Bellows Falls High Schools by the score of 65½-51½.

Sparked by stalwarts John Reed and Bob Barry, who annexed two first places each, the Frosh trackmen glided along comfortably garnering markers in every event except the javelin throw.

In the 440-yard dash Bob Pulleyn in masterful fashion broke the tape at 54.1, leaving his opponents in a cloud of dust.

A few minutes later, Pulleyn was leading the crowd in the 880-yard run; to the surprise of the frenzied rooters, Sherwood Moore, state scholastic 880 and mile champ from Brattleboro put on a brilliant sprint in the last 88½ yards and passed Pulleyn to win in grand style.

Vermont's Paterson and Brattleboro's Gunzinger were awarded first place titles for their ten-foot pole vault.

Freshman Goudrich high jumped 5' 5" to first place.

Lockwood took a first in the discus with a beautiful throw of 105' 2", followed closely by teammate Red Paterson. Barry received his first places in the 120 high hurdles at a 16.7" clip and the 220 low in 25". Reed took the 100-yard dash in the speed of 10.5" and completed his day's successes in the 220-yard dash with the lightning velocity of 23.3 seconds.

If the result of this fracas is any criterion Archie Post can rest assured that his task of reuning next year's track material will be much easier than in the recent past.

The summary:

220-yard dash: Won by Reed (V), 2nd, Walgren (V); 3rd, McMann (BF). Time: 23.3 sec.

Bert Mott Beats Tuft's 220-Yard Dash Star, Ed Duggor

A jubilant U. V. M. track and field team returned Sunday from Worcester, Mass. and the Eastern Intercollegiate Athletic Association's annual track meet with fourth place tucked away and a first place in the 220-yard dash held by Bert Mott, who defeated Tufts' great colored ace Ed Dugger by three feet in this run. Mott's time, running against a head wind, was 23.8 seconds.

Tufts, with Dugger and Hall, its co-captains, scoring five firsts and two seconds between them, rolled up 43½ points to win the meet once more as it did last year. Second place went to Connecticut University with 25½ points, Colby was third with 19½ points and Vermont fourth with 17 points. The rest of the field were Boston University, Worcester Tech, Middlebury and Massachusetts State in that order.

Mott also competed in the 120-yard high hurdles and the 220-yard low hurdles, finishing in fifth place in both events. Entered in the broad jump, Bert was forced to withdraw because his legs tightened up.

Mott's win was the only first place for Vermont all afternoon as Norm Stoddard finished fifth in the mile run and I. Webster finishing seventh in the two-mile run.

In the other events Vermont scored consistently. Hugo Squire got second place in the discus throw and a fourth in the hammer. He tossed the platter for a distance of 114 feet.

In the javelin Daly of the Cats annexed a third giving Vermont three more points. Grosvenor also aided squeezing into a four way tie for second place.

In the pole vault Vreeland and O'Connell were in a four way tie for fourth place. They both jumped 10 feet 6 inches.

Cat Netmen Bow To Middlebury College, 6-3

The varsity tennis team journeyed to Middlebury last Thursday where they were taken by a 6-3 score.

Today the Cats meet Norwich and on Thursday Middlebury will play a return engagement on the Vermont home courts. The Catamounts will probably line up with the Lamson brothers, Tom Daly, Dick Lynch, Bill Wood, Wolfe and Bill Pratt.

Shot put: Won by Masten (BF); 2nd, Sedlis (V); 3rd Kent (BF). Distance 41 ft. 4 in.

Discus throw: Won by Lockwood (V); 2nd, Paterson (V); 3rd, Bergquis (BR). Distance 105 ft. 2½ in.

Javelin throw: Won by Duffy (BR); 2nd, Bergquis (BR); 3rd, Fontaine (BF). Distance 144 ft.

High jump: Won by Goudrich (V); 2nd, Walgren (V); tie for third, Moore and Pierce (BR) and Lockwood (V). Height, 5 ft., 5 in.

Pole vault: Tie for first, Gunzinger (BR) and Paterson (V); tie for third, Lund and Fontaine (BF) and Duffy (BF). Height 10 ft.

Broad jump: Won by Dodge (BR); 2nd, Pierce (BR) and Lockwood (V). Distance 19 ft. 8 in.

Literary Contest Winners Announced

Top Honors Taken By Putney and Brattleboro

The Putney School of Putney and Brattleboro High School this year shared major honors in the annual interscholastic literary contest conducted by the University of Vermont among the secondary schools of the State, according to a report issued recently by the judges. Writers from the Putney school captured the largest amount of scholarship awards with two firsts and a second, while Brattleboro High School students took a first, a second and a third place.

Other winners were Rutland High School with a second and a third, Wilmington High School with a first, and Bellows Free Academy, St. Albans, with a third.

Allen Hawkridge of the Putney school won first in the short story division; Vivian De Pasquale, Rutland High School second, William Mellen, Brattleboro High School, third.

In the essay class Florence Cudworth, Brattleboro High School, won first; Richard Bruneo, Brattleboro High School, second; Mary J. Dunsmore, Bellows Free Academy, St. Albans, third.

The poetry winners were Josiah R. Wedgewood, the Putney school, first; Frani Merrick, the Putney school, second; Althea B. Fox, Rutland High School, third.

First place winners received $150 scholarships in the University, second place winners $100 scholarships, and third place winners $75 scholarships. One scholarship of $100 is offered in the one act play class. This scholarship was won by Bernard Crosier of Wilmington High School.

Each school may enter three manuscripts in each of the four divisions of the contest. All contestants must be seniors or juniors. This year eight of the ten winners were seniors and two were juniors.

The judges were Phillips D. Carleton, Elliott T. Merrick and Leon W. Dean, all of the English department of the University.

Prize Reading Finalists Chosen For Contest Wed.

Eight girls, finalists in the Julia Spear prize reading contest, will compete tomorrow night for prizes of $15, $10 and $5 respectively. The contest will be held at Southwick at 8.00 o'clock and will consist of eight short stories or selections which the girls have had an opportunity to study for only twenty-four hours. Those competing will be Claire Coffin '44, Gloria Farrell '42, Faye Lipman '43, Janet Hackwell '43, Flora Fifield '42, Natalie Spear '43 and Jean Stewart '41. All interested are urged to attend.

Sec. Courses Given

Medical stenography will be included among the intensive summer courses at Interboro Institute, 152 West 42nd Street, New York City, according to a recent announcement by the Director of the school.

Interboro Institute, now in its fifty-third year, will also feature Intensive Secretarial and Foreign Language Stenography courses in its summer terms which are divided into three periods, June 23, July 7 and August 4.

Eat The Right Food

Prepared by MILLA NEWLAND

Vitamin B_1

Vitamin B_1, or thiamin chloride, to give it its chemical name, has been occupying the center of the nutrition stage for quite a time. One can hardly turn on the radio or glance through a paper or magazine without having this vitamin brought to one's attention. Why all this special consideration?

First, because vitamin B_1 is necessary if people are to make proper use of the starches and sugars that they eat. Lack of thiamin also affects certain nerves, causing a variety of muscular and nervous conditions.

Second, because vitamin B_1 is especially apt to be lacking in the diets of Americans who allow habit alone to guide their food choices. This vitamin occurs in many kinds of foods: Milk, meat, eggs, vegetables, and fruit, but not in particularly large quantities in any one of them. Seeds are the foods richest in thiamin: nuts, beans, peas and grains. However, no one wants to eat beans and nuts every day, and in the manufacture of white flour much of the thiamin is removed. Our great-grandfathers used to get about ten times as much in the bread they ate as we can from ordinary white bread today. To make up for this lack, at least two servings of a whole-grain bread or cereal or of the new enriched bread should be eaten daily.

The enriched flours and breads now offered for sale have had thiamin chloride added to them to make up for that which was taken out in manufacture. The use of the whole-grain or enriched breads, along with the milk, meat, eggs, vegetables, and fruits in the protective diet should furnish the five hundred to six hundred units needed daily by adults for a full degree of health.

Newman Club Is Host To Delegates

The U. V. M. Newman Club was host to delegates from New England College Newman Clubs May 17 and 18.

A general session was held at Southwick Saturday evening from 7.00 to 9.00. Dr. Katherine McSweeney welcomed the delegates. Rev. J. Desmond O'Connor, chaplain of the University of New Hampshire Newman Club, was chairman of the meeting. Bishop Brady was honorary episcopal chairman.

Representatives of the National and Province Federation spoke on the work of the organization. Prof. F. J. Tobin of the Dartmouth College faculty also spoke.

At 9.00 o'clock an informal dance was held at the gym. Music was furnished by the Catamounts. Prof. and Mrs. M. E. Witham chaperoned.

Chairmen of the committees in charge of arrangements were: Mary Germain '43, D. Sawyer '42, Justine Whalen '44 and Helen Witham '42.

TO ALL STUDENTS, both men and women, interested in becoming senior life-guards: The American Red Cross course and examination for senior life-guard is being held at the Y. M. C. A. All those interested should get in touch with E. J. O'Connell '43 as soon as possible.

Governor Wills Urges Faculty To Strengthen Morale Of The University

Legislation Appropriations and Financial Reports Discussed at Meeting Held at Museum

Assuring the faculty of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College he has absolute confidence in the future of the University and the cooperation and united effort of all interested groups, Gov. William H. Wills told faculty members in the Fleming Museum.

"It would be of tremendous help to have you say now. 'We will face realities, we will make present sacrifices for the sake of the total and future good, we will show the people of Burlington and Vermont that we are really willing and anxious to do our part whatever it may entail.'"

The governor spoke to U. V. M. faculty and to student representatives in the Fleming Museum here on a preliminary and general report of his views on the University problems. It was the first public report he has made since he began an investigation of University affairs the week after legislature adjourned in April and was given at the faculty's request. The legislature appropriated $150,000 for the College of Medicine and State Agricultural College and authorized the University to bond for a sum not to exceed $675,000, both contingent upon the governor's approval of a financial program to be submitted to the governor by the trustees.

No Survey Data Disclosed

Although the governor secured the services of R. S. Johns of the New York auditing firm of Haskins and Sells, and Dr. Paul C. Packer, representative of the Carnegie Foundation and dean of the College of Education at the University of Iowa, in conducting a financial and educational survey, his speech contained none of their reports.

After reviewing previous crises which the University has weathered, Wills declared, "Today this institution does face a real crisis, but it is a crisis relatively no more serious, and in many respects not so serious, as it has faced in the past, from which it always has emerged with renewed vigor and vitality."

Small Considering Assets

Terming the fact that the operating deficit is running at over $200,000 a year, the most serious phase of the present crisis, the governor pointed out that upon the completion of the Waterman building the University will own real estate, furnishings and equipment valued conservatively at over $6,000,000 and that its debts are comparatively small in relation to that sum. The debts are made up of loans from banks and annuity payment obligations. "These payments, incidentally, will cost the college about $45,000 in 1942," Wills remarked.

He added, however, that in the great majority of cases these annuity contracts have worked out to the great benefit of the University.

Use of Securities Restricted

"On the other side of the account," he continued, "the University owns securities which have a market value in excess of all debts, but the greater part of which are held subject to various restrictions and for certain special purposes, and therefore are not available for application directly to the payment of University debts. In addition, the University has several hundred thousand dollars invested in student loans, which constitute a revolving fund for the assistance of worthy students."

Urges "Building Up Morale"

The governor mentioned the various groups interested in the University's welfare, and urged them to "organize and unite as a single force acting in one direction and striving for a definite goal building up the morale of this institution," and to "follow leadership in building this University upon a firmer foundation than ever before, both along educational and finan-

President Invited By Governor Wills

To Speak at Capitol Regarding Anniversary

An official invitation to the president of the United States to visit Vermont and speak to a great throng of Vermonters from the steps of the Vermont state house as the climax of the state's sesquicentennial will be forwarded to Washington shortly by Gov. William H. Wills, in the hope that the president, notwithstanding the pressure of events, will find it possible to attend. Similarly, an invitation will be extended to the governors of the thirteen original states which admitted Vermont into the Union 150 years ago. The dates tentatively set for this great meeting in Montpelier are Friday, August 29, or Saturday, August 30; but if the presidents find those dates unfavorable, the time may be changed.

The foregoing were some of the decisions reached at the joint meeting of the legislative sesquicentennial committee, headed by Senator Walter Hard of Manchester, and the citizens' sesquicentennial committee, of which Prof. Arthur W. Peach of Norwich University is chairman.

Present

Others present were: Senator Alfred Honsinger of Burlington and Representatives Mrs. Julius A. Willcox of Plymouth, Foster M. Kirby of Williston, and Raeburn McMahon of Morrisville, all members of the legislative committee; and Mrs. C. Leslie Witherill of Shoreham, Dean Leon Dean of the University of Vermont, Secretary James P. Taylor of Burlington, former Mayor Birnie L. Hall of Montpelier, Charles L. Dennison and Charles E. Crane.

The joint committee went on record as sponsoring all forms of local celebration throughout the state during the summer and as urging the co-operation of all civic groups. Professor Peach announced that from 50 to 100 communities have some

Reading Contest Held Wed., May 21

Gloria Farrell '43 won the first prize in the Julia Spear Prize Reading Contest held at Southwick the evening of May 21. The runners up were Flora Fifield '42, second prize, and Faye Lipman '43, third prize. The awards were $15, $10, and $5.

"Thrush" was the title of the selection that Gloria Farrell read so well. Flora Fifield gave "A Dilemnia" and Faye Lipman "Sans Camouflage."

This unusual contest was started by Miss Julia Spear who liked to have people read to her and left money to the University of Vermont to be distributed to the girls who showed ability to read.

The judges for the evening were Miss Louise Reynolds, Miss Mary Sullivan, and Dr. C. H. Benedict.

Senior Class Plans Boatride and Song Fest

To close the year with something to remember all summer, the senior class is planning a moonlight boatride and song fest on Saturday, May 31. The festivities are scheduled to begin at 8:00 p.m. at which time the Ticonderoga will set sail with its crew of merrymakers. There will be dancing to the music of the Catamounts and a song fest during the sail. Students are urged to support this scheme because it will be the last time everyone will have to get together before summer vacation and the seniors, especially, should be out in a body. Some faculty members have promised their support and it is hoped that more will swell the ranks of the celebrators. If this ride is successful others may be held in the future.

Tickets for the ride are on sale at the University Book Store for 75 cents per person. In charge of the affair are Eddie Guilbert and Lyman Gallup.

Southwick To Be Scene Of Lilac Day Festival Tomorrow

Unknown Queen and Beautiful Court to Reign at Dance Pageant

On May 24 in the evening, the annual Lilac Day will be celebrated once again. Started by Dean Wasson in 1921 as an effort to beautify Redstone campus, it has continued to this day, and is becoming more and more a tradition of the University women.

Queen's Attendants: Jean Saul '41, Mary Letta Root '41, Mary Jean Hammond '41, Sarah Wilson '42, Harriet Woods '42, Margaret Sandall '42.

Queen's Court: Maywood Metcalf '41, Laura Hawley '41, Gloria Oling '42, Frances Abel '42, Nancy Goodwin '42, Sally Rome '42, Alice Needham '43, Natalie Spear '43, Margaret Wishart '43, Phyllis Savage '43, Shirley Buckingham '44, Marilyn Eimer '44.

This year's pageant deals with the different dances of different countries such as Spanish, Swedish, Irish, etc. The growth of dancing is portrayed first by the Primitive, then the Minuet followed by Jazz.

The list of girls taking part in the pageant is as follows: L. Vosburg '44, J. Finney '41, M. Charles '43, H. Nelson '42, A. Fritche '44, C. Phelps '44, P. Crowley '44, J. Casey '44, D. Winnette '44, A. Gaylord '44.

Lieutenant-Colonel Collier Inspects Vermont R.O.T.C. May 21 and 22

Bayonet Drill and Weapons Demonstrated At Review Held in Gym; Many Awards Made

The Annual Military Inspection was held Wednesday and Thursday, May 21 and 22. Lt.-Col. Wm. A. Collier of the Corps area with Corps Area headquarters, was the inspecting officer.

At 8:45 Wednesday morning the Battalion Review and Inspection was held, during the remainder of the morning the students were examined under the direction of the inspecting officer. Wednesday afternoon property, classrooms and records were inspected.

Wednesday evening at 8:00, as the highlight of the entire inspection, warfare under modern combat conditions was graphically demonstrated by members of the R. O. T. C. Battalion. The ceremony was different from the ones presented in recent years but accurately portrayed the type of military training received by young men at the University. No fraternity drill squad competition was held but special demonstrations were given by the freshmen, sophomores and juniors. The freshmen gave a demonstration drill, the sophomores a bayonet and gas drill, and the basic and advanced course men a weapon demonstration. Trench mortars, anti-tank weapons, heavy machine guns, and automatic rifles were among the equipment used by the cadets. Student commentators from the four classes described and explained the demonstrations, as they were presented. The R. O. T. C. Band, under the direction of Mr. Joseph F. Lechner, played various musical selections during the program.

At the close of the program the prizes were presented. Awards were announced by Cadet Major John S. Greene and Cadet Adjutant L. A. Simpson. They were awarded as follows:

Formation of battalion, Cadet Major John S. Greene, the National Anthem, R. O. T. C. Band, welcome by the professor of military science, Col. Merrill E. Spalding, bayonet and gas drill, sophomore volunteer section, musical selection, R. O. T. C. Band, weapons demonstration, basic and advanced course men, musical selection, R. O. T. C. Band, demonstration drill, freshman volunteer section, musical selection, R. O. T. C. Band, announcement of awards, Cadet Major John S. Greene and Cadet Adjutant Lawrence A. Simpson, dismissal of cadets.

Guy M. Page Will Discuss Tuition

Will there be any further tuition raises? What was the reason for the recent raise? What is the financial condition of the University? These are some of the questions Guy M. Page, trustee of the University of Vermont, will discuss with the student body at 4:00 p.m., Monday, May 26 in the Ira Allen Chapel. All students are urged to attend as Mr. Page has prepared a special statement on the present condition of the University and plans for the future because many members of the student body have been complaining at the lack of information regarding tuition raises and general problems affecting them. Any student who has a question he would like to have answered by Mr. Page is requested to leave it with Dean Swett or Mr. Page.

Recitals Planned By Music Students

On Tuesday evening Southwick Hall was the scene of the first recital of piano, voice and violin students of the Music Department. Excellent music was presented to an appreciative audience by the several students, the majority of whom were underclassmen and juniors.

The voice students were trained by Mrs. Elizabeth Bradish, the piano students by Miss Miriam Natilee Marston, and the violin students by Michael Anselmo. Their excellent training and careful work was very evident in the work of the students.

Those appearing in the recital were: Ethel Slack, piano; Keith Calkins '44, baritone; Dorothy Rockwell '42, soprano; Nora Hill '42, piano; Gloria Farrell '43, soprano; A. Elizabeth Cole '41, violin; Nora Hill '42, soprano; Earlene Jenness '43, soprano; Orrin Brawn '42, bass; Ruth Cooley '42, soprano; Dorothy Rockwell '42, piano; Ruth Hopkins '41, soprano; Doris Squire '43, contralto; Theresa Calerre '43, coloratura soprano; A. Elizabeth Cole '41, piano; Marjorie Southworth '43, contralto; and Robert Goss '44, bass.

The Music Department announces another recital which will be given on next Tuesday evening in Southwick Hall at 8:00 p.m. The majority of those taking part in the second recital will be seniors.

Professor Dean Guest At Press Club Banquet

The Press Club held a banquet Wednesday night at the Paragon Restaurant. Thirteen were present and Professor Dean, faculty advisor, was guest. The new officers announced by Angeline Duras, the retiring president are: President, Miriam Fiske '42; secretary-treasurer, Ethel Shippee '42; social chairman, Esther Gove '43. Professor Dean made a few remarks about the origin of the Press Club and complimented the members on their fine work.

A dinner was held at the Paragon Friday evening, May 16, in honor of the senior members.

The Vermont Cynic

VOL. 59 MAY 23, 1941 NO. 59

Hearing that some of the students were desirous of knowing the pros and cons of the recent tuition raise and also about the general financial condition of the University, the administration has asked Guy M. Page, one of the trustees, to talk to the students on the present condition of the institution and future plans for solving difficulties. We think it is only proper to expect that every student be present in the Chapel, Monday, when Mr. Page reads his statement.

The recent tuition poll published in the Cynic revealed that the students had in many cases little knowledge of the problems now confronting the University. It also revealed that many students were doubtful as to just what changes might be expected in the future. Conversations with several administration heads indicated that they were very much interested in this expression of student opinion. No statement has been made prior to now because many on the administration were not aware of student sentiment.

Naturally Mr. Page cannot be expected to answer all questions as to University finances and plans definitely but he is going to try to give the students a clear picture of the existing situation and its effect on student interests. Mr. Page already has a tentative list of questions to be answered at the meeting Monday and would welcome others from the students.

Here's your chance! For some time now we have heard students asking for information or saying "What can we do about it?" when confronted with a campus problem. The administration has chosen a spokesman to present its views. It is up to us to at least lend him an ear. This should be a definite step toward cooperation between student body, faculty and administration.

For two weeks now we have been advancing the idea of an active student council. The foregoing remarks seem to emphasize this suggestion. If we had had an alert student council it could have informed the administration what students were thinking on the matter of tuition and University finances and the report might have come sooner. Also, the student council could have given the administration an idea of the effect on students of a tuition raise. This would have kept the issues clear right from the start and avoided much confusion.

Perhaps we are a little optimistic in believing that a simple organization will solve all our problems. But certainly it will be a start toward removing present defects. Right now the students do not believe any effort on their part will influence faculty and administration and the latter have very little knowledge of student opinion. No coordinating agency exists.

We hope that something can be done about this before vacation comes on. We realize that examinations start next week and all that but isn't the present student council in a position to at least formulate plans to be approved and put into effect next year? Two problems to be considered, we have already mentioned, namely, how to obtain a democratic election system on the campus? and what sort of group the council will be? Why not consider answers to these two questions right now?

Reading Period—Again

Thus far suggestions for a reading period have had no definite answer. With examinations almost here we think it is too late to work out a better schedule system, perhaps it could be arranged to provide one or two days to the period with the intention of finding a more satisfactory solution to the problem next year. At any rate we would welcome some notice from those in charge of the examination schedule.

The Body of An American . . .

From the Novel (1919) By John Dos Passos

[illegible] following is an excerpt from "Nineteen Nineteen" second in the author's trilogy [illegible] U. S. A." portraying the pageant of American history during the period of the First World War. With the military [illegible] coming off this week and Memorial Day not far off, this excerpt may [illegible] value as representing a point of view. Archibald MacLeish has called "irresponsible." We present it here without comment. But may we ask—"Quo vadis, America? Quo vadis, humanity?" Was the tragedy of the post-war world inevitable, or was it a failure to find the right road at present?

Whereas the Congress of the united states by concurrent resolution adopted on the 4th day of march last authorized the Secretary of war to cause to be brought to the united states the body of an American who was a member of the american expeditionary forces in europe who lost his life during the world war and whose identity has not been established for burial in the memorial amphitheatre of the national cemetery at arlington virginia

Spring Tonic - More or Less Literary

"The Color Of Your Truck"

By Doris Jareckie '42

Nancy felt happy walking up Main Street in the lights, arm in arm with Nathan. Her mind was still filled with the images from the movie they had seen. It was Saturday night, and they were hungry. They passed an especially large window, and she looked up at Nathan and was proud. She was proud of his honest brow and nose, his strong chin and his blue eyes that looked at the world so squarely. She was even proud of the rough redness of his skin, and the black knuckles of his hands. That showed that he worked often and hard. Nancy was proudest of all.

She felt very fine in the hat that she had newly decorated and wore tilted forward over her forehead. The little veil around the edge gave her a smart feeling that was intoxicating. What did it matter that her old brown coat was worn on all the seams, and needed taking up? What if there were a mended run in her stocking? They passed a mirror in a furniture dealer's window, and she furtively glanced at their reflection. They looked like any ordinary couple out for some Saturday night fun. She reached out and took the picture into her heart; they might look like anyone else to the world, but that image belonged to her, and was too precious for anyone to see. She looked up and knew that Nathan had not seen, and was secretly glad.

Nathan steered her through the wide door of the five-and-ten, and in and out through the crowd. People pushed them up against one counter, and they both looked down and saw that it was the jewelry. On a big piece of plush rings were displayed. Something leaped inside of Nancy, and she looked up to catch Nathan's eye, and saw that he was pretending he had not thought of it too, that he was ashamed. He pulled her on, and they went over to the candy counter where he bought a bag of gumdrops. Later they were standing by the chinaware, admiring the patterns in the dishes.

"Nathan," she said.

"What?"

"You know—it really isn't the price of the ring that counts. It's what it stands for . . . It goes around in a circle and never stops, and that means eternity. That's the part that counts."

His eyes turned down and met hers.

"But wouldn't you be ashamed? Women like to have nice things that they can be proud of."

"I'm proud of you."

He looked off into space. A fat woman with straggly gray hair pushed past, shoving against them with a big wastebasket she was carrying.

"It would take a long time."

"Yes."

He took her arm again, and she could feel the warmth of his hand through the coarse material. They passed people and did not see them.

It was a thrill to lean over the counter and know that there was a choice to be made. Nancy fingered the plain rings first. There was one with little crystal stones all the way around it. She liked it.

"Try it on," said Nathan. But the ring was loose.

The salesgirl looked under the counter and found another just like it, only the stones were set every-other-one close, and that one was just right. Then they looked for a ring with just one stone.

Here's one just the color of your truck. She held up one with a red stone and a tiny crystal one on each side of it. It fitted almost perfectly.

Introduction . . .

. . . this is another issue from . . . its predecessors it makes no claims to literary perfection. The aim is simply to get student writings before the student body. If the page can stir up interest in literary activities on the campus it will have achieved its purpose.

This year Winnowings suspended publication. Also, U. V. M. dropped out of the Tri-State Literary Competition with New Hampshire and Maine. The reason for these two events—lack of student support and interest. Getting manuscripts for Winnowings is the hardest task . . . Those in charge had to literally pursue people and beg them to submit something. It's a sad commentary on a University when students cannot even write enough to fill a small twenty or thirty page annual literary magazine or submit the grand total of three poems, three essays and three short stories for a literary contest.

The writing, courses at the University abounds but lack of talents while other universities have awarded scholarships for such creative writing courses. Unless something is done soon all interest, activity on this campus will simply cease. Some sort of new, or revised, publication seems necessary.

Needless hopes this page and issues like it will lead to a revival. All students interested in literary activities should support this attempt. If only interest can be stirred up again Vermont will be able to get back its prominence as well as retain the Tri-State contenders.

Judge not what follows too harshly. Remember that there were more manuscripts to pick from there might be better manuscripts for publication.

Footnote On The Army Brat

Dorothy Thornton '43

He was wanted in three states, and kept the army authorities from finding it out when he had enlisted to get out of a hot spot. It took him only three months to wind up in the guardhouse, supposedly for a long, long stay. Slugger had no such intentions, however. He had wormed his way out every time, he had outwitted every kind of law and he called the United States Army no exception.

Slugger laughed when they told him to quiet down and serve his time. He began planning the first day. There was a young rookie in "C" battery who he could wrap around his little finger. The rookie could make the arrangements for a fast car as soon as Slugger gave him twenty dollars. Twenty dollars he had figured it down to the last cent. Winning the rookie had been easy, but for a prisoner to get a hold of twenty bucks. It had taken ingenuity but he had found a way.

Slugger was on garbage detail, an unlovely occupation to be sure, but one that offered golden opportunities in the form of bottles. Yes, bottles—medicine bottles, milk bottles, perfume bottles, whiskey bottles, every kind of bottle was thrown into garbage pails and from pails to the big lumbering garbage wagon that made the rounds of the post and creaked out to the post dump. Slugger had neglected not a one, with infinite care and patience he saved them from breakage in the wagon and at the dump he had a special section just for his bottles, where the guards would not bother them. For seven months he stuck to it, collecting bottles until he never wanted to see another bottle. At last one day he figured he had enough. The fellow from "C" battery paid a call.

"Did you see that junkdealer?" asked Slugger.

"Yep. He says that he'll be out this afternoon. He'll see you at the dump."

"That's swell," said Slugger. "That easy-going fellow is on guard and he'll let the dealer talk business with me. As soon as I get the dough for the bottles I'll pass it on to you. Now you've got to make the arrangements for the get-a-way."

The rookie promised and Slugger went to work, sure that this was one of the last times he would be on garbage detail.

They had reached the non-com back line when a couple of boys, "army brats" began following them, sticking their slingshots in their belts and mocking every movement of the guards. When this failed to amuse either the guards or the prisoners they began questioning the latter.

"Say, Slugger," asked one, "what did they put you up there for?"

Slugger, thinking of his approaching freedom, did not answer.

"Hey, Slugger, gettin' high-hat, aren't you? Maybe they made you a serg."

The boys and the guards broke into laughter at this.

Slugger felt his anger rise. "Go home to your mammas, babies," he shouted.

This caused an explosion from the boys which Slugger answered with more remarks of a similar nature. The wagon progressed quite a ways while this bantering continued until finally one of the boys picked up a smooth stone and aimed his slingshot very carefully at Slugger.

"This will take care of you, you ole jailbird."

As Slugger supposed, the guard intervened.

"None of that. You can't go shooting rocks at our prized prisoner."

The disappointed boys trudged on behind, searching for comebacks to the remarks hurled at them in rapid fire succession from the grinning Slugger, who was having the time of his life. He felt even better when they reached the dump and he spied a man waiting for him.

"What have you got for me, bud?" called the junkman.

"The finest mess of glassware you ever laid eyes on. Everything from punch-bowls to jelly jars. A bargain at twenty dollars. I'll show it to you," answered Slugger and nodding towards the guard, if my escorts willing I'll go around to where I keep the stuff and you can see it."

It was then that Slugger noticed a faint crack and then another and another, until finally there was a continuous stream of tiny explosions.

Slugger, with the guard in tow, hurried over to the bottle pile. When he reached it he gave a cry of dismay. Perched in a tree, well-supplied with pebbles, the two army brats were loading and firing away with deadly accuracy at his beautiful glass collection. Slugger swore, screamed, and threatened murder, while the boys answered with cat calls and more shots. The junkman mumbled something about wasting the afternoon and left. Slugger sat down and watched, unable to believe it, as seven months of back breaking work went to pieces. Finally the last quart jar went crash and the last wine glass ping, and Slugger stared at a pile of broken glass.

"I can't understand it" moaned Slugger aloud. "I thought I had planned on everything. Why did it go wrong at the last minute?"

"Slugger," said the guard, "you took account of all except one little thing—the fact that an army brat was in, and always will be an army brat. Come on, we've got another load today."

Consuetude Consumed

Hudder Zwick '43.

You were born in the shadow of watching eyes
And always played in the shade of the white oak;
You never drank the cool wine with much surprise
For lips were always there to taste it first
And your thirst was always satisfied

But what happened last night
With the flare of wild duck wings
Singed by tumbling sun?
What happened with the pounding hum
That dissolved the silent score of night?

You uttered an unuttered cry;
I saw your cold eyes plunge down
And then leap up,
Heaped up with orange wings flapping
In those long-napping cold eyes
The birds are still whirring North
But their wings are in your eyes

It Is Up To Us

By Jacob Katz '44

We face many problems today. What can we do with them? I cannot give you a solution, but I hope that through our mutual help we shall find ways and means to realize our present position and try to solve some of our troubles. Whether you agree or disagree with my phrases voice your opinions because alone we are mightless, united, however, we can shape our own destiny.

I know that during spring and summer our chief interest is baseball but let us remember that Hank Greenberg is in the army now. We might find our greatest trouble is be at the moment whether to go twice or three times to the movies each week but also there our famous actor after another disappears to devote his time to more important things than giving enjoyment to other people for a couple of hours.

Is there something more important. Have we to "revalue our values" in a time of crisis? Or can we go on living in the same old pattern even today. We do not know. We are dumbfounded. Is it worth while to study, we ask ourselves, when we realize that we might not be living in a few months. Isn't it futile to construct when all this destruction is going on? We become discouraged, in the background the old grinning fiend appears and whispers into our ears, "Eat, drink and be merry, for tomorrow we might die." We follow his guidance and arrive safely at the sugar house. There our worries cease for a while, emptiness remains longer, however, no solution is found.

We have a hard time. We are told to make sacrifices and we do not feel like sacrificing. Didn't we proclaim just yesterday that we are selfish, that we intend to live only a life which will give us the fullest measure of personal enjoyment without regarding the needs of the world? Today we resent because the near future might destroy this selfish structure and we look out for immediate enjoyment, as much as we can get, and do not try to find a solution to the problem which confronts us at this moment and which has confronted youth for thousands of years, the problem of how to avoid wars. After that problem will have been solved, we will lose our uneasiness and will be able to derive happiness coupled with a great striving for improvement.

Whenever we discuss the factors necessary for a permanent peace, we usually despair quickly. What's the use, we say, point at the present situation and realize for a second the hopelessness of our present position. We never realize, however, that it might be our own fault that we have to go to war every twenty-five years. We never realized that a problem cannot be solved by getting drunk or evading the issue, by saying that it does not bother us or by admitting a defeat in stating that we are too small and too weak to do anything about it. We must find a solution to every problem as there would not be any value in our living in our constructive building if we hominem sapientes would not even be able to control wars. Then let us rather go back to the ape stage where our wars would at least be an individual fight for existence only and not a wholesale slaughter of men, women and children. There the fight would destroy merely some of the trees we swing about and not all the structural feats of civilization we have erected by means of the efforts of our best men.

I cannot present the solution to our problem. It is a fault of our education that we only gather information and lack the capacity to apply it in our daily lives. We are not taught original thinking. We accept the labor of "chewing" our problems and merely absorb them in a predigested solution without any efforts whatsoever. We have to learn to think and to draw our own conclusions. We must realize always that every issue has to be faced at one time or another and that a long delay does harm our interests. We have to start immediately.

In a few weeks all of us shall go home and we shall have time to consider all our problems whether they are personal, national or international. We shall be back at school some three months later and let us then be in a better position to deal with the tasks before us. We, the college students, should be the mental elite of the country. We have the opportunities and must not waste them. We have to work not only for our private interests but much more for the good of the whole which in the end will more than repay us. We have to demand that we see, think and act.

English Harbor

Margaret Lee Sweeney

There will be morning mist floating
Here on the water's crest
Long years from now
And fog will spread long fingers to the shore

There will be tall trees surrendering quietly
To their color
Emerging from a weary winter daze

From a village window
A flutter of white
And out in the harbor a captain will momentarily turn
Waving an answer to his love
Then with a curt command
Look once more to the churning sea

So it was some twenty years ago
And so it will be tomorrow
There will be courage streaming
Here on the water's crest
For sons of England will always turn
From shorelines
With the morning and the mist
In their hearts.

Sing For Your Supper

By Elvio Barbieri '42

"This is one swell day for ducks," muttered Red as he hit the cinders feet braced to take the shock. Naturally the freight had to be the wrong one. Cool but it was coming down.

There ought to be a shack along here somewheres. There was one the last time he was through. He shifted his pack a little more comfortably on his shoulders, jammed his hands in his pockets and shuffled along the ties. The rain crawled into all the convenient places, his shirt collar and the thin soles of his shoes. Pretty soon he was his own accompanist with a monotonous two-tone variation of "squish."

All in all, it had been one hell of a day. First there was that railroad dick at Lidewater. A lead pipe behind the ear would be just the thing for a guy like that. Then there was that cross-eyed spinster at Midville who thought that two bits and a prayer equated one cord of split wood. God bless my infernal soul. And now the rain was running down the visor of his cap and cascading off his nose. If he didn't find that shack pretty quick he'd be sprouting web feet.

But the bacon and the cigarettes made up for it. He felt in his pants pocket for the fixings and felt cheerful as his hand came in contact with the dry tobacco sack and the thin papers. The bacon was safe in his pack.

"Courtesy of A&P," he thought and would have smiled only the rain found another breach in his shell. The store had been a self-service store. "Self-service is right." It took a little ingenuity but the clerk wasn't looking and the bacon fitted nicely between the sport page and Lonely Post. Nothing like a newspaper. The chain stores would never miss a pound of bacon.

It was pretty dark by now with the sky the color of muddy branch water and the rain dropping down in solid bars. The shack leaned toward him forlornly, its door swinging outward like a feeble arm. Red stepped inside, stamped his feet on the dirt floor and then proceeded to hunt for his jack-knife. With this he went out into the rain again and hacked off some limbs from the trees which lined the embankment. The water laid cool fingers on him. Irreverently he swore.

With his damp cargo he went back to the shack and proceeded to help a fire into being with the aid of some shavings from the loose board on the door. By God, this was more like it. Just wait until he got that bacon and those beans going. His stomach went jumpy at the thought.

Catamounts Wallop Cadets 12-2 For Fifth Straight

Carlson Hurls Eight Hit Ball; Norwich Commits Eight Errors

Taking advantage of eight Norwich errors the Catamounts hung up their fifth straight win of the year by whitewashing the Cadets 12-2. Having recovered from a long illness Bob Carlson returned to the mound to hurl a splendid game, allowing only eight well-scattered hits. This is the second time this year that Vermont has turned back the Horsemen and this victory gives Vermont a perfect score of four wins and none lost toward annexing another Vermont baseball championship.

For two and one-half innings both teams played scoreless ball but in their half of the third the Catamounts unleashed their attack. After the smoke had cleared U. V. M. had scored five runs on three scratch hits, two bases on balls, two Norwich errors, and one wild pitch.

Bud Sawyer, the Cadets' freshman speed-baller, was victimized by the most unimaginable support ever witnessed on Centennial Field. Eight official errors were recorded against Stuffy McInnis' boys as they handed the game to Vermont letting eight unearned runs cross the plate.

Sawyer, after pitching two hitless innings in which he struck out two men, had the dam burst in his face. It was in this hilarious frame that the Catamounts scored their five runs without once hitting the ball out of the infield. With such poor support, one could hardly blame Sawyer for his erratic pitching.

Coming in for their half of the fourth Norwich pushed their first run across. Raymond hit out to Doherty in left making it one out. Then Don Maynard stepped into the batters' box. With the count nothing and one against him, he stepped into one of Carlson's side-arm offerings and blasted a mighty triple to right field, the ball bouncing where the marker reads 400 feet. In any other ball park it would have gone for a circuit clout but with the long fields at Centennial, it only went for three bases. Cronin sent him home with a ringing single to left but the following batter, French, hit into one of the two double plays Vermont executed against the Horsemen.

There was no scoring done by Vermont in their half of the fourth and Norwich was held scoreless in their half of the fifth.

In the home half of the fifth the Catamounts again unleashed a barrage. Big gun Capt. Frankie Taylor uncorked a double to left center. Doherty pushed him down to third with a sacrifice hunt. Beauchemin strode to the batters' box and sent Frankie home with a fielder's choice. Smith popped out to the third baseman. That made it two out with a man on first. Wood sent Hank to second with his single and Randy Sullivan screened a double to left center to send two more runs across the plate.

The sixth inning again found both teams scoring. Costin of Norwich hit a double, an error by Vermont put another man on first. With a man on first and second Maynard hit into the second double play of the day, sending Costin to third. Cronin's single sent Costin home for the Horsemen's last scoring for the afternoon. But Carlson forced French to hit out, thereby ending the Norwich threat.

Vermont evened things up by sending across four more runs. Four singles, a batter hit by a pitched ball, and one error were responsible for this scoring spree.

Hank Beauchemin provided the highlight of the inning coming through, a solid single with bases loaded, to knock across two markers.

The seventh and eighth innings found both teams retired as pitchers Sawyer and Carlson apparently finding the range.

The ninth inning found the Norwich coach entering substitutes into the game but this only proved futile as Carlson effectively turned them back.

Vermont's win over Norwich was its forty-seventh whereas Norwich has defeated U. V. M. only ten times.

The two twin killings executed by the Cats raises their seasonal total to twenty-two in seventeen games, which is believed to be a new record for Vermont.

Score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Norwich	0	0	0	1	0	1	0	0	0	—2
Vermont	0	0	5	0	3	4	0	0	x	—12

W.A.A. Terminates Successful Season; Retiring Officers Honored At Picnic

Members of W. A. A. brought to a close a very successful season, Tuesday, May 20. At five o'clock seventy-five members gathered on the steps of Southwick Memorial and then walked to Ledge Road where a picnic supper was enjoyed. Nancy Fawcett '44, introduced Catherine Peterson '42, next year's president.

After welcoming all members and guests, Miss Peterson told of the number of new members in W. A. A. this spring, a total of over sixty, bringing the whole number of active members to 320. Plans for purchasing a cabin for the use of members for week-end parties and picnics were discussed. This will necessitate an increase in the cost of freshman membership and a renewal of upperclassmen's.

Next year's program will include many of this year's events such as the boat ride. There will also be an All-State college field day in the fall on October 11.

Barbara Gallagher '42 then presented Elizabeth Gurney '41, retiring president, a manicure set as a taken of appreciation for all she has done for W. A. A. during the past year. Miss Gurney in turn thanked all members, managers, and especially Miss Cummings and Miss Crowe for their splendid cooperation. The success in all W. A. A. activities is due to the great amount of time and effort spent by Miss Cummings.

New Honorary Members

Announcement of the members chosen to the honorary varsity teams was made by Miss Peterson.

Archery—Dawn Nichols, manager, Martha Beatty, Priscilla Bennett, Geraldine Campbell, Dorothy Dews, Kathleen Easton, Marjorie Southworth, Harriet Woods.

At the present time there is keen interest being shown in the matches being held with the state normal schools.

Badminton—Katherine Kyle, manager, Margaret Fake, Patricia Crowley Edna Gates, Barbara Hall, Shirley Price, Jean Stewart.

The Badminton cup was won for Grassmount by Jean Stewart '41 and Katherine Kyle '42.

Plans are now being completed for the club to join the State Badminton Association. The managers for next year are Katherine Kyle and Barbara Hall.

Bowling—Alice Needham, manager, Joyce Bone, Theresa Coderre, Elizabeth Doud, Jane Hunter, Hortense Leduc, Mary Quinn, Beatrice Wright, Temaly Yett.

There were over fifty women bowling this year. Ramona Hathorn will be next year's manager and Virginia Crocker will be her assistant.

Field Hockey—Esther Gove, manager, Ruth Cheney, Nancy Fawcett, Kathryn Ferrick, Edna Gates, Cathryn Grier, Ellen Howe, Charlotte Hyde, Helen McLean, Jean Norris, Priscilla Perkins, Mary L. Pickard, Phyllis Pierce, Alice Rowe, Lola Hawley.

Next year's manager, Alice Rowe, and Esther Gove, assistant, will take an active part in the Field Day next fall. At this field day an all-state team will be chosen and it will play an exhibition match.

Golf—Virginia Mitchell manager, Mary Beth Davis, Betty Hawkinson, Dorothy Moseley, Patricia Pike.

Next year the girls are planning to have competition on a course.

Modern Dance Group—Jean Finney, manager, Dorothy Bourne, Dorothy Davis, Sophie Gorney, Elizabeth Kulka, Anne Olmstead.

Lilac Day Group

This group is working for Lilac Day at the present.

Riding—Barbara M. Burns, Peggy Corry, Phyllis Fein, Corrine Hollowell, Mary J. Lawrence, Phyllis Taylor, Margaret Von Paulsen.

These certificates were presented by Katherine Shaw, manager.

Rifle—Natalie Beal, Shirley Buckingham, Mary Hoag, Frances Steere.

For the first time in many years there was a rifle team for women. There was much enthusiasm shown.

Skating—Naola Carter, manager, received the only award in this group. She will also be next year's manager.

Skiing—Virginia Amidon, Margaret Delano, Agatha Keelan, Sara Peters, M. Jeanne Woolley.

Meetings were held at Centennial Field and at the Country Club to enable more girls to attend.

Soft Ball—Alice Rowe and Dorothy Thornton, co-managers, Dorothy Arnault, Julia Fletcher, Dorothy Franklin, Ellen Howe, Jane Hunter, Louise Johnson, Mary Quinn, Helen McLean, Sylvia Runnals, Naola Carter.

There will be mixed games with the men next spring, in charge of Manager Dorothy Thornton and Assistant Julie Fletcher.

Tennis—Pauline Clark, Theresa Coderre, Nancy Fawcett, Priscilla Perkins, Mary Quinn.

Basketball—Catherine Peterson, manager, Barbara Lane, Barbara Gallagher, Priscilla Perkins, Phyllis Savage, Marie Scutakes, Natalie Spear.

The Interzone Basketball cup for 1940-41 was retained by the town team. Next year's manarer is Sylvia Runnals, assistant Helen McLean.

A special award was given to Catherine Walker in swimming for her improvement and interest.

The members elected to the All Sports Club were Jean Finney, Charlotte Hyde, Cathryn Grier, Katherine Kyle, and Catherine Peterson. These girls were chosen on the following requirements:

1. Sportsmanship.
2. Interest.
3. Active participation.
4. Scholarship.
5. Proficiency as shown by certificates, membership in clubs, over a period of two years.
6. Posture.
7. Outstanding contributions as a club manager over a period of two years.

Elizabeth Doton, president of the All Sports Club initiated the girls.

The Gold team was acclaimed winner of the Green and Gold competition by the placing of the gold candle in the candlestick.

Dr. Comer S. Woodward, professor of sociology at Emory University, has a collection of over 100 miniature donkeys.

Sports Cast

A dramatic sequel to the famous "Comedy of Errors" [illegible] at Centennial Field, featuring the Norwich baseball aggregation, nine-act play started seriously, but in the fifth act, the Ho[illegible] began to give out—with five easy runs for the Catamount [illegible] laughs for the spectators. The deluge continued—by the end of frame, the Cats had amassed their twelve marks. There are [illegible] plausible reasons for the 12-2 final score. First, the nation Cadets' erring infield, especially the battery. They demonstrated the sloppiest ball seen at the field in quite a while. The Norwi[illegible] Sawyer, evidently has had more training in pitching hay. He [illegible] batters very poorly and played baserunners worse, never being that a throw to first or second would be successful. Also w[illegible] catcher, Angier, heaved one to second, the chances were that it would find itself in the outfield.

Carlson Parsimonious With Hits and Walks

The second and by far the more important reason for this [illegible] contest is the Green and Gold's magnificent playing, much credit due Bob Carlson. Though this was Bob's first job since April, twirling was that of a busy veteran. He allowed only seven well tered safeties and three free passes. Hank Beauchemin's presen added that certain circus atmosphere which is usually lacking in baseball contests. And thus was written down in the annals of the and Gold how the baseball nine fully avenged the fiasco in a encounter with Norwich last fall. Remember No. 50? This puts Vermont on top in the state baseball series with four victories of four starts.

The Cat diamondmen meet Dartmouth College here on Memorial Day. Vast improvements have been made in the Catamounts since southern trip era. The boys are playing heads-up ball, each man fitting perfectly into the intricate mechanism called a ball club. Precision accuracy seem to be the keynotes of the Green and Gold's ability in the field, one result of such prowess being the twenty-two double-play record, a laudable achievement indeed. Dartmouth may have beaten Harvard, but that doesn't cut any ice. The Cats will be out there, contesting every Indian attempt to score.

With the Net Men

Commendations to Professor Carpenter are in order. His netmen started the season with a humiliating defeat by Amherst; Der Prof conjured up some supernatural power which is now working wonders with his charges. While the Vermont baseballers were hashing the Stable Boys on the diamond, their tennis brothers were mashing the Stable Boys on the courts.

Bert Mott—Jesse Owens

It is interesting to note that Bert Mott's time in the E. I. A. A. 440-yard dash was only 2.5 seconds short of the A. A. U. record made by Jesse Owens.

Kappa Sigma Annexes Soft Ball League Title

The interfraternity softball league championship was annexed by the Kappa Sigma fraternity.

The final series was the two out of three set-up played against the Phi Sigma Delta team. The Kappa Sigs took the first game 5-3 and the second by a 10-2 score to win the honor for the second straight year.

Vermont Netmen Defeat Norwich

Sweeping the first eight matches, the Vermont tennis team mauled the Norwich netmen 8 to 1 at the Centennial courts. While the Catamount baseball team was demolishing the Horsemen on the diamond, the Vermont netmen were making short work of their visitors, who succeeded in playing only two three-set matches in the six singles matches. Bill West and Larry Simpson were forced to come from behind and win the second and third sets before victory was certain for either of these two men.

Capt. Ed Simpson, Art Wolk, Dick Lynch and Sam Foti mowed down their opposition without much trouble.

In the doubles Sam Foti and Ed Simpson went three sets before obtaining the Cat's seventh straight. Art Wolk and Bill Pratt made it eight in a row, but the team was stopped from a grand slam, when West and Dick Swift bowed in straight sets.

It was Vermont's sixth win as against four defeats. This is a remarkable improvement over last year's aggregation whose average was way below .500. Middlebury will be the next opponent this week.

Morningside College Seniors Fred Davenport and Garry Wallman, who were tied in the all-campus election, are serving in a dual rôle as class president.

Senior scientist with the Byrd Expedition is Dr. F. Aiton Wade, a 1926 graduate of Kenyon College.

Catamount Nine To Meet Bowdo

A three-day trip is in store [illegible] Catamount tossers, who have d[illegible] siderable traveling this year to [illegible] their twenty-seven-game sched[illegible] week-end into the beautiful state [illegible] The squad will leave Thursd[illegible] Bowdoin Friday, play Bates [illegible] and return late Saturday evening.

This sally into Maine will [illegible] Cats up against two of the best [illegible] that state. Sing For Supper

The fire was going good now and soon he had the coffee sending up a satisfying odor. The bacon was crinkling up in beautiful brown curls and the beans were simmering in the thick tomato sauce. His last hunk of break was toasting to a smooth texture. Just right for soaking in red hot bacon grease. Damn the rain and damn the whole dripping universe. He spat in the direction of the doorway and bowed in the general direction of A&P. "Our hero sat down to a hearty meal."

"Evening, boss." The words sort of crawled lazily. Red's eyes took in the saddest, longest and droopingest six feet of slapped-together, glued-in-a-hurry negro he had ever seen. Beginning with a hat that had given up the struggle and philosophically lowered its brim, umbrella fashion, the figure included a very spacious forehead, a foot-long chin, arms with hands the size of boxing gloves gently scraping the floor and a pair of shoes curling up in front with a modest appearance of a retiring disposition belying their size (12).

The apparition broke the quiet. "Please, can I share yo' fire?"

"It's there, ain't it?" spat Red and then turned to the important task of eating. The negro stood in front of the blaze, silent and inconspicuous—all six feet of him. And Red began shoveling down warm beans and bacon accompanied by steaming coffee. Then he looked up and saw the negro following the food down—tongue to throat to stomach. His hands waved back and forth like washing on a line. Red was just about to yell "scram" or something worse and then thought better of it. "For the love of Mike sit down and quit staring."

The negro fell in a heap gently like a deflated balloon and without a word took the food and coffee Red half-shoved at him. "Blessed are the charitable for they shall inherit the earth. Oh damn, oh damn, oh damn!" Then it was quiet and the fire talked to the rain.

Red pushed his plate aside, rolled a cigarette and then relaxed. The negro licked his lips, rolled his eyes once and then stared back at Red. The latter scowled. First the dick, then the dame and now this shine. Good, what a day! And the rain plugged away outside.

"Like a little music, boss."

The negro fished a mouth organ out of his pocket and started to shuffle his monstrous feet. And just like that Red began to laugh. God it was funny. He just sat there and laughed and rolled with the pure joy of it. Soon the negro joined in. And there were two of them just sitting there laughing in an old wreck of a shack in the rain with the sky like muddy branch water.

"O.K., Bojangles. Swing it."

And Bojangles flipped his arms twice like a pointer, snapped to, and began to scrape it. "I'm St. Louis Louie" on the harmonica.

Got it, see 'mum.

Staff and Sandal to Sponsor Annual Lilac Day Pageant

Lilac Day is the most beautiful and inspirational tradition of the women of U. V. M., but how softened and hazy this tradition has become through the passing of time.

Lilac Day was planned by our first Dean of Women, Pearl Randall Wasson in 1921 with a two-fold purpose that from the planting of a lilac hedge on Redstone campus, which would greatly increase the beauty of the grounds, there would also be an increase of feeling for the ideals of service and the beauties of nature.

The first Lilac Day was carried out quietly under her guidance. But at the second, Dean Wasson was no longer with us, and Lilac Day became a memorial service under the direction of Mortar Board. A pageant was written by the Literary Club, picturing King and Queen Redstone saddened by the lack of flowers. A prize of gold and the princess' hand was offered to the peasant bringing the most beautiful flower, which turned out to be the lilac. There could be no more appropriate setting for this first pageant with the brilliant sunlight of a warm spring afternoon, the blue sky, budding flowers and hazy purple mountains in the background. The second tree was planted in the hedge between Redstone and Robinson, and speeches of dedication were given by Student Union officers and class officials. This pageant was repeated for several years and in 1923, a loving cup was established by the alumnae in Dean Wasson's honor, and awarded annually to a junior girl who had been self-supporting and held a high scholastic average.

Interesting innovations were introduced every year in the program. Step singing after the dedication was popular for several years, and in 1925 the seniors wore their caps and gowns. In 1927, the pageant and planting of the lilac tree was held at sunset, followed by singing on Redstone steps and a lantern walk, a procession of girls carrying lights, winding among the trees, a lovely new interpretation of their expression of beauty. In 1928 the program was preceded by a field day at Grassmount.

There have been many different pageants, but it wasn't until 1932 that the aesthetic dancing, to us the most free expression of the joy and beauty of spring was introduced. Ever since, the pageants have been colored by the creative interpretation of dance groups and dance soloists. This year the theme will be "The Bridge of Understanding," showing that the many different races in this country can be more deeply bound together through their mutual love of art particularly expressed in the freedom of the dance.

The actual planning and carrying out is under the direction of Staff and Sandal, the junior honorary society, but it is the participation, if not physically, at least spiritually, of all the college women which makes this tradition of Lilac Day the supreme expression of beauty in college life.

Blackout: Vermont Style

Along the fields the slow fog crawls
And stamps out pastures, woods, and walls.
The hills where grazing cattle were
Are turned into a misty blur,
And grazing cattle in the fog
Are bells along a silver bog.

Herbert doesn't follow any particular rhyme scheme or meter, but just writes according to his mood and the poem.

Recently he entered a manuscript of fifty poems in the Yale University Poets' contest. If he wins, it means that that book of poems will be published and Herbert Elliott may find himself well in the public eye.

But whether he wins or not, in his poetry he certainly follows his own maxim, "Be sincere."

Museum Notes

Now on display at the Fleming Museum is a hollow bronze head. This bronze casting has a very ancient history and it represents a tribe and a place in Africa which is not in existence now. On one side of this bronze work of art is a map locating the Kingdom of Benin and also a brief history of this ancient kingdom. On the other side there is a very interesting description of the process of bronze casting. These articles and the map were done by Evelyn Fuller '41.

The Kingdom of Benin is located on the western coast of Africa. It was very important from 1400 A.D. to 1700. This importance was due chiefly to the fact that it exported raw materials. The downfall of the kingdom was due to its religious ceremonies which required human sacrifice. As her religion became decadent, this policy ...

Engineers to Hold Picnic at Sand Bar

The [illegible] Engineering Picnic will be held Saturday, May 24 at Sand Bar [illegible] State.

Cars will [illegible] and refreshments will be served.

All invited.

For tickets and information, civil engineers see Jean Hoddes, mechanical engineers see Jim Corbett, electrical engineers see Jane Macdonald.

All such arrangements must be made by Friday noon.

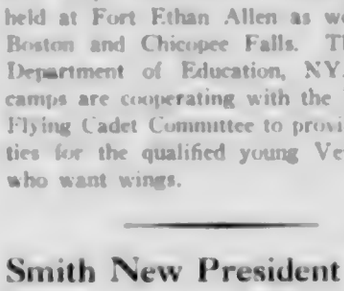
Air Corps Exams Taken Last Week

Thirty-two Vermont young men of 20-26 ages arrived at Boston and Chicopee Falls last week to take Air Corps educational examinations, which occupied two days. May 13-14 announced the Vermont Flying Cadet Committee recently.

Middlebury, Northfield and Burlington are among the communities sending aspirants. All have passed their final physical examinations.

The candidates who pass these May educational examinations will have appointments to the Army Flying Cadet Corps. They may expect to start their training in southern flying fields in July or August. This seven months' training including about 215 hours in the air and several technical subjects leads to a pair of coveted wings and a second lieutenancy with flying pay and duties. At that point the young pilot will have received specialized individual training, costing Uncle Sam $20,000.

Several scores of Vermont young men are starting this month to refresh or review their high school education. Evening courses are being held in eleven to fourteen different centers in the State. They are preparing for August 12 and 13 Air Corps examinations, which will be held at Fort Ethan Allen as well as in Boston and Chicopee Falls. The State Department of Education, NYA, CCC camps are cooperating with the Vermont Flying Cadet Committee to provide facilities for the qualified young Vermonters who want wings.



Smith New President Of Agricultural Club

At a recent meeting of the U. V. M. Agricultural Club held May 13, officers for next year were elected. They are as follows:

President, A. Smith '42; vice-president, R. White '43; treasurer, W. Walker '42, secretary, H. Foster '44; reporter, R. Carpenter '44.

M. Dana '44 was nominated to assist S. S. A. in selling food at the State Judging Contest. K. S. Estes '41 and D. Dana '42 were nominated to plan a farewell party for Prof. and Mrs. M. H. Campbell.

U.V.M. Engineers Employed By G. E.

Three Seniors Will Do Research Work

Three seniors of the Electrical Engineering Department of the University are soon to enter the employ of the General Electric Company. David L. Clark formerly of Burlington, now completing his work for a Master's Degree at Iowa State College, and a graduate of U. V. M., will be assigned to the Schenectady Test Department. Burton P. Brown who came here from Denver, Colo., and has held an appointment as research fellow, will go to the Schenectady plant, Radio Transmitter Department.

Three of the men to be employed are members of this year's graduating class. They are G. Bernard Dunn, Jr. of Craftsbury Common, Harold G. Carlson of Brattleboro and John R. Burnett of Burlington. The first two men will go to the Schenectady Test Department, and the latter to the Schenectady Industrial Control Department.

One junior and one sophomore in electrical engineering have also been placed with the General Electric Company. G. H. Stickney '42 of East Thetford will spend the summer in the Turbine Department at the Lynn works of the company and R. H. Marshall '43 of North Adams, Mass., will spend the summer on lightning research.

Wills explained that questions of appointing a president and formulating a budget for next year would have to remain unanswered for the time being, and then made his appeal to the faculty for voluntary sacrifice.

Local Celebration

The Montpelier celebration, in addition to the speech by the president of the United States, and the presence of the thirteen governors, will probably include a parade with historical floats, a baseball game and a public ball, which the Arab patrol will have in charge, and other features which it is hoped will attract the largest crowd Montpelier has known since Admiral Dewey was welcomed home from his triumph at Manila Bay.

Automobile plates to superimpose upon registration plates on automobiles have been designed attractively in colors, and the distribution of these is in charge of the Boy Scouts organization and will be announced soon. The Vermont Cynic

VOL. 59 MAY 27, 1941 NO. 60

The Round-Up

With this issue the CYNIC suspends publication until after examinations when the commencement issue will wind up publication for this year. We would like to employ editorial discretion to summarize our editorial policy and emphasize once again certain points that we have been harping on all the past semester.

In the first place, we have been stressing the need for a revival in student spirit and interest in problems and issues affecting them. We have pointed out that in the light of the University's present condition and the gravity of the situation in the world beyond academic walls, Vermont students must rise ever before must give up their lethargic complacency and get into the thick of things. As a possible arouser of student activity and interest we suggested an active student council. We also suggested greater activity on the part of such organizations as the International Relations Club.

As a secondary value of the student council we have pointed out its possible function as a coordinating agency between faculty, administration and students. If these three groups could be brought into closer contact many difficulties could be avoided. Too often in the past there has been an utter lack of coordinated effort on common problems.

Throughout the year we have tried to suggest necessary changes such as the institution of A reading period. We have often hesitated to suggest further changes due to the indifference of many students. Often enough the reforming zeal was brought up short by the oft-quoted "What can we do about it." As a campus newspaper the CYNIC should be interested in changes which will benefit the student body. But if these changes are to be brought about the student body must take more than a passive attitude toward them. The columns of the newspaper are open to student suggestions. Why not take advantage of this medium for expressing your ideas?

Two or three times during the year we have had an outburst of student communications. These outbursts clearly indicated that when sufficiently aroused the student body will get out its pen and dash off communications of opinion. If this were true of all problems that came up, we wouldn't have to yell for a student revival. If the students can get aroused over military dances and the lease-lend act, they can certainly get aroused over tuition raises, proposed academic changes, the entry of the United States into World War II, and so on, ad infinitum.

In the larger field of world problems, we have tried constantly to stress the importance to democracy of a wide-awake body of citizens. Today as we march the latter road to participation in another armed conflict, let us not forget our ideals of freedom and let us not take our opinions ready made from the press and the politicians. When we make a decision, let that decision be based on our inward convictions, on convictions that will not compromise with intolerance and force.

Today when it is becoming more and more evident that every individual is being forced into an attitude adopted by those in power, it is up to the press to give expression to all expressions of opinion, to present the facts as they are not as some faction would like them to be. The campus newspaper in its own limited field must never give up the struggle for academic freedom, for truth in the classroom and the lecture hall, for the right to an independent opinion based on reflection and well-grounded convictions. At no time must we hedge or backtrack because we find ourselves opposed because on certain issues we find vast numbers headed in the opposite direction. That's the easy way out. The comforts of conformity are always tasteless, if bought at the expense of personal integrity and unreasoning acceptance of glib slogans and hollow rhetoric.

Goldsmith Likes Variety In Work

The unemployment problem does not exist—at any rate not for George Goldsmith freshman Dean major whose motto in life today seems to be variety. George has lived all sorts of jobs from a radio repair man to a stand-in for a mannequin. He has worked as a barker in a carnival, dresser of a dancer's trunk, plant grandson-gardener, and maid our salesman. This summer he is planning to work in a shoe factory. Said George, after reeling off this list, "That's about all. I haven't lived very long."

Cool and self-possessed, George proceeded to relate in a lively manner the inside stories behind this imposing inventory of jobs.

As a radio fan and "ham," he became quite adept at taking apart radio apparatus and what is more, he learned how to put them back together again. His fame spread, and soon he found himself conducting a thriving business repairing the neighbors' radios and once paid off a Y. M. C. A. membership by building them a phonograph out of an old radio. During the New England flood several years ago, when the telephone lines fell, George assisted the regular wireless operator in sending out messages.

George must also have the distinction of holding one of the most unique jobs with which anyone has ever earned his living expenses at college. Working as a housemaid or houseman, to be exact, for a family of five is certainly a new one for the statistician. His duties start at 6:30 in the morning, just one hour before military, when George gets up to prepare breakfast. They continue throughout the day in spare hours between classes and through the afternoon and evening until 8 o'clock when the three children are put to bed. His chores consist of all the heavy housework, certain daily duties such as making breakfast and feeding the dogs, and for extra-curricular activity, George has taken upon himself the responsibility of entertaining the children. This he does by reading them fairy stories and playing records of nursery rhymes. Quite often he listens with them to some exciting serials that frequent the radio around supper time.

But the most interesting job by far was working as a barker at a carnival by means of which George earned his tuition for his freshman year at college. The attraction for which George barked was a horse racing game of the same type as Beano called "The King of Sports." At first he started as a collector and worked his way up to a steward. The steward's job was to explain the game to the uninitiated and to weed out the dead "fish" from the line. (All customers are fish.)

But finally George's chance arrived to attain the highest honor that an uneducated employee can reach in a carnival. The chief barker became sick all of a sudden and the assistant barker had a sore throat; so George stepped in. His line ran something like this:

"Step right up here. Come in and play 'The King of Sports,' the sport of kings. Come in and sit down where it is cool and comfortable in our new air-conditioned, red-leathered upholstered, chromium finished chairs and play the sport of kings, 'The King of Sports,' the first and only one of its kind in New England, etc., ad inf."

And it worked. People would come flocking to spend dime after dime on their favorite horse. Many regular customers became so skilled at rolling the balls in the right holes that the management frequently had to ask them to change horses to avoid suspicion. Others customers, men more than women, got so keyed-up and tense that their aim became wild and once someone cracked under the strain and threw his ball at his horse on the scoreboard instead of the hole.

The barker's job was to increase and hold this suspense and tenseness by every means in his power. He started off like this:

"Hold your horses. Don't move. The game is about to start. Wait for the starting bell. (Dramatic pause) Gong! They're off!" Then followed in the typical, short, clipped, keyed-up speech of the sports announcer's race lingo the progress of the rest of the race. This diatribe had to be continued without a break until the race was ended. And even then there was no stopping; otherwise the people would have a chance to get up and leave.

Campus Comment

To the Editor of the CYNIC:

The members of the R. O. T. C. battalion may be interested in the following remarks which are quoted from letters addressed to the Military Department following the Federal Inspection ceremonies.

One of the alumni writes:

"May I extend my heartiest congratulations on a most efficient and impressive inspection.

"In the 13 years I have been watching, and 4 years as participant, I have seen no better parade than the one your battalion produced this morning."

A second letter from a prominent Burlington man is as follows:

"Our family were deeply and favorably impressed by the exhibition drill of the R. O. T. C. on Wednesday evening and appreciate being included on your guest list."

The names of the writers of these letters are withheld as a matter of courtesy.

CARL H. SCHOFIELD '40,
Second Lieutenant, Infantry.

Frosh Tracksters Lose In Dual Meet

Friday afternoon at Centennial Field, the freshman track team closed what had been a previously successful season by dropping its final meet, 66-21, to the combined forces of St. Johnsbury Academy and Lyndon Institute.

One of the few U. V. M. silver linings in a cloudy sky was Bob Pulleyn's record-tying victory in the 440-yard dash. Assuming a commanding-fifteen yard lead at the beginning of the race, Pulleyn was never forced and finished against a driving rain in 52.5 seconds. This race was one of the best track events of the frosh season.

The closest field event of the day was the shot put. In this event Glenn McDonald, the St. Johnsbury start, sent the iron ball 43 feet, 6 inches, to defeat U. V. M.'s Herb Sedlis by one-half inch.

The Vermont hurdle combination failed

All in all there was plenty of excitement.

So if ever anyone is looking for an interesting and lively summer, just get a job as a barker in a carnival. He may not be able to play the game, but it certainly is fun watching the players. After a summer of this type of amusement, George is convinced of one thing—Barnum was right.

Cindermen Dunk Trinity As Mott Scores 21 Points

Winning Score Is 76½-49½; Cats Lead All the Way

[illegible] to a close [illegible] Trinity [illegible] Saturday afternoon. It was [illegible] for the Cats but [illegible] and it was [illegible] the score stood 74 to 49½.

The first event run off was the high jump, in which the Cats took 8 out of 9 points, by virtue of Becker and Grossvenor tying for first with the bar at 5 feet, 4 inches. Pettiford annexed Trinity's sole point in this event.

Bert Mott, Vermont's big gun, proved to be the bane of the Hartford lads taking four firsts and a third, the latter in the broad jump. Bert topped the 120 high hurdles in 16.8 for his first two-pointer, allowing Trinity's Hutchins a second. Goss of Vermont placed third in this event.

Alex Warden made short work of the shot put, slinging the old apple 41 feet, 8.5 inches. Tyler of Trinity took second, while Parker came through with the point for a third.

Mott charmed up the soggy track in the hundred, going the distance in 10.3. Trinity again took a second, while Goss and Donahue of Trinity tied for third.

Trinity took one of its few firsts in the one mile jaunt, Caffrey going around in 4:40.3. Norm Stoddard and Fred Webster of Vermont placed second and third respectively.

In the pinch the Cats took another first with Daly tossing the lunch shaft 177.1. Wallace and Burningham, both of Trinity, took the other points in this event.

Chick of the Nutmeggers placed first in the 440 with a time of 53.7, with Eaton and O'Connell of Vermont copping the other two places.

Charlie Webster of Vermont hit his cross-country stride and ground the two-mile marathon out in 10:18. Jessen of Trinity took second and Vermont's Lovak placed third.

The 220 low hurdles is reasonable facsimile of the 120 highs, Mott again taking first, Trinity's Hutchins again taking second, and Goss again taking third, ad infinitum.

Bennett of Trinity captured the 880 in 2:06.8, beating out Crowell and Stoddard of V. M.

H. Long hurled the discus 117.8 for a first in this event for the Cats, Squires taking second, and McGumphy of Trinity garnering one point.

The 220 was Mott all the way, Emery and Donahue of Trinity annexing second and third.

A three-way tie for first was the net result of the pole vault, Brown and Cunningham of Trinity and O'Connell of Vermont sharing the nine points of this event, with the bar set at 10 feet, 6 inches.

Goss of Vermont placed first in the broad jump with a leap of 20 feet, 2.5 inches, followed by Neal of Trinity and the ever-present Mott.

They don't toss the hammer in the league Trinity travels to so the boys just had a little practice.

for the first time to gain first place in the 120 high hurdles. Glenn McDonald won this event in 15.8 seconds. In second and third place came Barry and McGill, the frosh timber topping twins.

Cats To Entertain Big Green Friday

Memorial Day will find another good baseball game on the fire as the Catamounts clash with the Universities Indians at Centennial Field. The Cats, after winning seven straight, dropped a thriller Saturday to Bates, but hope to begin on a new winning streak after they polish off Dartmouth.

At least most critical eyes of the game, which find the championship circuit in which the Cats find themselves beset with hazards. The Bates game found Clarence Akley with one of his fingers on his pitching arm lacerated. Charlie Smith also with an injured finger and Johnny Speed with a sliding burn. Although Coach Gardner hasn't yet decided who is to get it against Dartmouth there is a good possibility that Clarence will get the nod.

Dartmouth has been giving great competition for the season. Although they lost to Yale the past Saturday, they still are near the top for leadership in the Ivy League. They have an excellent pitching staff with Lundy and Gray doing the at least part. Behind them for pitching they have not a regular first baseman with Gus Broberg, of basketball fame, leading them. They are very dangerous, especially on the diamond where muddy footing counts the most and the Vermont Infield will do an excellent job if they hold their own.

Lundy will probably start the game for the green, against Bates with Harold Gatchell behind the plate. Wood, Sullivan, Ryan, Ford and Brown complete competition for Dartmouth and pitchers. Taylor and Ayers as far as can be told. The pitching assignments will be decided later.

With one the only one against Vermont it will not be an easy game for the Harmonsmen as during the past few games the Catamounts have found the range and are hitting the ball at a good steady clip. Pitching Taylor has begun to find more consistency now to his previously Beauchemin and Becker have also passed the range. Most consistent of all is sophomore Bob Doherty, who still leads the sluggers and who still continues to cut in the clean up slot.

Because the game is to be played on Memorial Day it is expected that the biggest crowd of the year will be on hand to witness the rivalry between the two teams. The rivalry began in 1909 and since then Dartmouth teams have won 41 games, Vermont has won 23 and 1 ended in a tie.

University Players Hold Banquet

Next Year's President To Be Jeanne Woolley

An unusually successful year was brought to a close Sunday evening when the University Players, amateur dramatic society on the Hill campus, met for their annual spring banquet at Oakledge Manor.

Preceding the banquet a business meeting was held presided over by Louise Mann '41. Officers were elected for next year as follows: President, Jeanne Woolley '41; Secretary, Peter Pike '43; Property Manager, Edie Fleming '43; Stage Manager, Chuck Miller '42; Business Manager, Crockard Marks '42; Assistant Business Manager, Joseph Moore '43.

Eleven of the sweets, the grand prizes, which are presented early in the fall, will be given over to the Dramatic Club; and the activities of the Dramatic Club will be open to both men and women instead of to women alone as has been the custom during the past years.

Outgoing President Louise Mann '41 presided over the banquet table in her usual pleasing manner and presented the guests of the evening, Mrs. Wilnetta Sproul Taggart and Professor Metcalf. Mrs. Taggart's remarks were words of appreciation and praise very sincerely expressed. Professor Metcalf complimented the cast of the Junior Week play very highly for their unusually outstanding presentation of "You Can't Take It With You."

Nine new members were elected to the society. They are: Alfred Amee '43, Carolyn Brown '44, Gerald Didinsky '44, Helaine Goldberg '43, Wendell Harvey '43, Harold Kennedy '43, Donald Morgan '44, Stanley Sirkin '42, and Abram Swartz '42.

Notice

Due to circumstances over which we have no control, the Senior Boatride and Song Fest, originally scheduled for next Saturday night, May 31, has been cancelled.

Vermont Writers League To Conduct Ballad Contest

Will Meet August 23 At Vermont Junior College in Montpelier

The date for the annual summer meeting of the League of Vermont Writers has been set for Saturday, August 23, at Vermont Junior College in Montpelier.

One of the features of the meeting will be the reading of several historical ballads for which prizes of $10, $5, $3 and $2 have been set up. These ballads are to be short, not exceeding 1,000 words, and are to deal preferably but not necessarily with Vermont themes. The closing date for the contest is July 15. Winning manuscripts are to become available for League use. Entries are to be sent to Prof. Leon W. Dean of the University of Vermont, president of the League, at 308 S. Prospect Street, Burlington.

Other parts of the program as arranged by a local committee, consisting of Walter J. Coates, former League president, Mrs. Lillian M. Ainsworth, and Mrs. Corinne E. Davis, will also have a Sesquicentennial flavor, with an historical speaker in the afternoon, and an original Sesquicentennial play in the evening under the direction of Maude Wheeler Pierce of Montpelier.

Registration will open at 10 o'clock in the morning and it is hoped that members will make a special effort this year to provide a large morning attendance. The principal speaker of the morning will be Fred O. Copeland of Randolph, who has made a success of writing from the Vermont highways and byways and will give some suggestions on how to discover material in one's own dooryard and make it acceptable to others. There will be a box luncheon on the college grounds at noon, with plenty of opportunity to exchange trade gossip, and a banquet in the evening with music.

Attention Military Students

The Military Science Department has been requested to furnish a firing squad of three men and a bugler for Memorial Day exercises in South Hero. Any R. O. T. C. student who volunteers for this service will be excused from the local parade on that day.

The exercises will take place at South Hero at 10:00 a.m., May 30. Volunteers should contact Lieutenant Schofield immediately.

Eat The Right Food

Cutting Food Costs

Prepared by LYDIA TARRANT

Food from home helps many students live much cheaper while attending the University than if they had to board out or buy all the foods which they prepare in their rooms. The kinds of food you eat help to determine whether you have pep to carry on the school year with few or no colds or without undue nervous strain and tiredness.

In the rush of college life, it may seem easier to go home to a meal of a sandwich and cake or pie, but opening jars of home-canned vegetables, fruit, and meat won't take much longer and will give you pep and good health not provided by the other meal.

The cost to you and your family is apt to be less if you start a canning budget now so that you will have an adequate supply of home-canned foods for the next college year. This budget will provide for buying milk and occasionally fresh fruit or vegetable, meat, or eggs to go with the foods brought from home.

If you plan to use home-canned vegetables and meat for about six months of the year, you will want a canning budget to include at least 48 pints of tomatoes (1 cup four times a week), 48 pints of a green or yellow vegetables such as spinach Swiss chard, string beans, peas, or carrots (1 serving daily), and 30 pints of meat and poultry (3 times a week). Other canned fruits, vegetables, and meat will help add variety to your meals. If possible, you will want to plan to buy some fresh foods as cabbage, chicory, oranges, meat, or fish each week.

ing John Pearson, 6-2, 6-3. Sam Foti proved the most consistent singles winner of the season by taking 11 of his 12 matches. He ran through Cappy Jones of Trinity 6-2, 6-3.

In doubles, Vermont swept through. Ed Simpson and Foti beat Cleveland and Siems 5-7, 6-3, 7-5; Larry Simpson and Lynch defeated Jones and Pearson 8-6, 6-1; Wolk and Bill Pratt halted Staehr and Russ Collins 6-3, 6-4.

University Players Hold Banquet

Next Year's President To Be Jeanne Woolley

An unusually successful year was brought to a close Sunday evening when the University Players, honorary dramatic society of the University, met for their annual spring banquet at Oakledge Manor.

Preceding the banquet, a business meeting was held, presided over by Louise Mann '41. Officers were elected for next years as follows: President, Jeanne Woolley '41; Secretary, Patty Pike '43; Property Manager, Bibi Deming '43; Stage Manager, Clark Miller '42; Business Manager, Copeland Marks '42; Assistant Business Manager, Joseph Alpert '43.

By vote of the Society, the group plays, which are presented early in the fall, will be given over to the Dramatic Club; and the activities of the Dramatic Club will be open to both men and women instead of to women alone as has been the custom during the past years.

Active Chapter Receives Late President's Portrait

A large carbon brown portrait of the late President Guy W. Bailey in black walnut frame hangs in the main living room of the Alpha Tau Omega house on Williams St., the gift of the ATO alumni to the active chapter, in memory of its most distinguished alumnus.

The presentation was made at a memorial service in the ATO chapter house Saturday morning. Prof. Frederick Tupper, a member of ATO, presented the portrait.

"In President Bailey," he said, in part, "the heart gave a useful lesson to the head. He was a man of strong feeling and deep affection. This showed itself in his love of the University—bone of bone, blood of his blood. In every visit to him during the last year, one was aware of the presence of the blueprints of the Waterman building that enabled him to visualize the finished structure without and within.

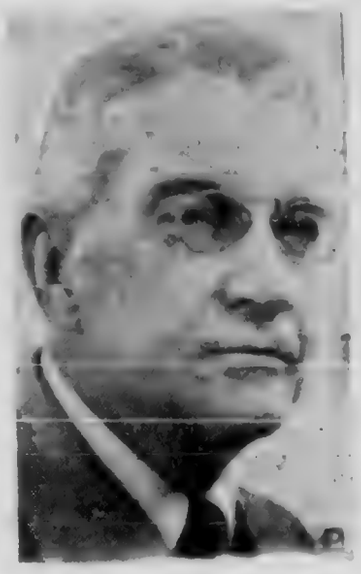
"As with Aladdin's palace in 'The Arabian Nights,' the massive building reared its shape in his fancy even before it took outward and visible form. And every hall and room and stairway were prophecies of rich life within. We who loved and honored him may well grieve that it was not granted to him to enter the promised land of his academic hopes. And yet the reality, no matter how complete, would not have given him all that his lively fancy cherished."

Other Fraternities Represented

Howard Abbott, son of Lee Abbott of Newton, Mass., a classmate of President Bailey, unveiled the portrait, Robert C. Sayre '42, of Wadhams, N. Y., worthy master of the active chapter, accepted the gift.

George C. Stanley of Burlington, head of the alumni association, presided. Harry Dorian of Springfield, headed the alumni committee in charge of arrangements. Representatives of other fraternities and sororities were present.

The gift represents the beginning of a movement that is hoped will spread beyond fraternity limits and become University-wide to perpetuate the memory of President Bailey.



Heath Initiated To Phi Beta Kappa

S. Burton Heath became a member of the University of Vermont Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa fifteen years after his graduation from the University in 1926, when the chapter voted him into special alumnus membership last Friday. He was initiated Saturday into the national organization, which gives recognition to students who have high scholastic standing and to unusual achievement after graduation.

Mr. Heath won the Pulitzer Prize in journalism for his work in exposing in a series of newspaper articles the fraud and corruption in New York's judicial system. This year his book "A Yankee Reporter," telling of his life and career in journalism, was published. It contains many reminiscences of his course at the University of Vermont, where he worked his way through.

Phi Beta Kappa Adds $500 To Fund

Alpha of Vermont Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa at its annual meeting Saturday transferred $500 to the Phi Beta Kappa Student Loan Fund to be administered by the University of Vermont and lent to students of high scholastic standing. This brings to $600 the total set aside for use of deserving students by the U. V. M. chapter of the honorary scholastic society. An initial contribution of $100 was made a year ago.

Newly-elected members of Phi Beta Kappa were initiated at this meeting. Officers were also elected. They are: Dr. Bennett C. Douglas president; Prof. H. F. Perkins, vice-president; Prof. George V. Kidder, register; Miss Irene Allen, corresponding secretary, and Prof. James A. Bullard, treasurer.

S. Burton Heath Receives Alumnus Membership

Vermont students demonstrated superior scholarship to those from out of state at the University of Vermont when it was announced that all but one of the fifteen seniors elected to Phi Beta Kappa at a meeting of Alpha of Vermont Chapter Friday, June 13 come from homes within the state. The proportion of Vermonters to out of staters enrolled at the University is approximately sixty to forty.

In addition to the graduating class group, S. Burton Heath '26 of New York, also Vermont born and raised, was elected to alumnus membership and was initiated into the society recognizing high scholastic standards along with the others at an adjourned session of the annual meeting Saturday, June 14. Heath, recent recipient of a Pulitzer prize in newspaper reporting and author of "A Yankee Reporter," is now editor of the McClure Syndicate.

The new Phi Beta Kappa members are: George H. Bailey, agriculture, Rochester; Martha L. Baker, classical, Milton; Bernard B. Barney, medicine, Bennington; Margaret M. President of the chapter is Dr. Bennett C. Douglas; register, Prof. G. V. Kidder.

Seniors Deliver Class Day Orations

Ending hope and happiness in the future and reviewing a fine record of achievement for the past four years, the Class Day speakers for the Senior Class delivered their several addresses Friday before a large crowd on the campus green.

The Sesquicentennial address was delivered by Margaret P. Crowley of Hastings-on-Hudson, N. Y.

Laura R. Hawley of New Rochelle, N. Y. delivered the address to undergraduates.

Tribute was paid to Lafayette in an oration by Stanley L. Grace of Montclair, N. J., while Ira Allen's memory was honored by Jean M. Evans of Burlington.

The class history was humorously reviewed by Donald F. Gearing of Bristol, Conn. John R. Risser of Westfield, N. Y., gave the Boulder address.

The president of the graduating class, William I. Pye of Pittsford, delivered the address. Robert P. Kenney of Cranston, R. I., gave the pipe oration while the seniors were smoking the peace pipe.

Marshall A. Watson of Hartford delivered the ivy oration. After the exercises, the class in a body participated in the ivy-planting ceremony at the Waterman Building.

The Orchestra under the direction of Mr. Ippocrates Pappoutsakis played several selections during the course of the program.

The University of Vermont's 150th Commencement exercises were marked by the presence of Dr. William Lyon Phelps of Yale, who delivered the address "Truth and Poetry."

Doctor Phelps, famous as a literary critic, author and teacher, was awarded an honorary degree of Doctor of Letters.

Doctor Phelps in his address said that "poetry contains more truth than science for though science supposedly deals with facts and truth, it is not, like poetry, eternally and always true.

"This is shown by the fact," he continued, "that the latest editions of science books are sought after because all preceding editions are obsolete or untrue to a degree, while the earliest editions of poetry are always of most value.

"Poetry is about human nature and the works of Greek poets on the subject are as true today as the day they were written. Poets reach into the deepest and dark recesses of the human heart and transfigure what they find into something noble and shining."

He urged the graduates to seek after the ideal of the individual "the heart of a lion and the mind of a man," and to attempt to grow up intellectually all of their lives.

Supporting his statements with quotations from memory, Doctor Phelps kept the attention of the audience throughout his extemporaneous address. He won the hearts of all in the audience by his open and cordial comments on the platform just to the south.

The gist of his address is that we must [illegible] the higher moments. Speaking poetry, although second only to [illegible], can be made to develop the spiritual side of our nature, and read on the plane that will [illegible] about the mind.

In his remarkable style Doctor Phelps appeared to make interesting revelations concerned with various points in his speech, often reading himself to the subject of the address absently. These digressions in no way hurt the effectiveness of the speech, in which the chief value for the listener lay in the contact with a great mind and its convictions and ideals about life, literature and poetry, and the subsequent enriching of the listener for that contact.

Ariel Completed; '43 Staff Is Appointed

The retiring Ariel staff has completed its long and arduous task overcoming all obstacles as quickly as possible in the hope that you may find the book attractive and an accurate review of our college life. The Ariel will be sent to you during the early part of the summer. We wish to express our thanks to the student body, which cooperated with us so well during registration time when group pictures had to be retaken and again later in the spring. We realize errors will be in some instances committed.

The following juniors have been elected to serve under Dexter Dacey the Editor-in-Chief of the 1942 Ariel and Elizabeth Deming the Business Manager:

The Vermont Cynic

VOL. 39 JUNE 23, 1941 NO. 61

The shouting is over. Alumni have come and departed. They're taking the lanterns down out on the front campus. The gym is deserted—in one corner a bare stage still dangles heavy drapes. Not even the ghost of a laugh or a rustle of conversation. The class of 1941 is gone—out to join all those other graduates of the past. Commencement—nostalgia has a field day. Then the long summer of deserted campus, of long walks and wind. It's a strange feeling—like "Good-bye Mr. Chips"—to walk about—past deserted buildings. It's terrifying to stop and hear in them: The stamping feet, the voices, the cries of the departed. Thousands of them—a world has swallowed them up. And the ivy runs along stone walls unchanging. The chapel spire still points upward. '00, '06, '36, '39, '41. As the earth turns.

They have gone—bearing with them something of youth, something of hope, something of determined endeavor. They will be shaped and they will be moulded. They will be shoved and beaten. The class of '41.

Quote, "it's a hard world you're going into," unquote. Quote, "it's a world that will call for the best in you," unquote. "Fear not. Welcome the struggle. Be glad of this eventful crisis. Meet with a song on your lips the call to battle."

A hundred baccalaureate speakers; a thousand commencement speakers from Seattle to Key West have uttered their pronouncements. So glibly they have laid the burden on your shoulders. So lightly have they committed you to strife and struggle. To you, youth, the chaos—take it away. They've been handing it to you that way for a long time. The cross and the thorns—gladly they pass them on to you. Never fear, never fear. Never doubt, never doubt.

Tell them you'll take what they're handing you. Tell them you're not afraid. There's not much chance of evading it—war, poverty, tyranny. Those who have gone before you had to contend with it. And the smooth tongues were handing it to them then as now, as they left the academic walls.

Quote, "Welcome the struggle, out of it will come a better world," unquote.

Yes, class of '41, welcome to the struggle. You didn't start it. But neither did others before you.

But remember this. Beat the cross into a spear shaft and the thorns into a sharp point. Keep it handy. That's for the bigger battles that come with the end of warfare. Don't let the glib tongues forget their promise—"a better world." Don't forget the tragedy that befell your predecessors. Don't forget to demand that reward. And if after the blood and the dying: The pompous voices, the silvery tongues, the inspired leaders behind the front line, the movers of pins on a map, the solons in the legislative halls—start the old rigamarole again—take your spear and give it to them. Where it will do the most good.

"Strife—we'll take it. Chaos—we'll master it. Wars—we'll fight them. But remember—we've waited a long time. We're getting tired—tired of seeing hate grow out of hate and bloodshed out of bloodshed. We want the new world, not just the cross and thorns."

And that chapel light there, this green grass, those whispering leaves—those we want as symbols of the world beyond, not as a temporary haven before entrance into Gotterdammerung. And to those who come after us we want to hand a life after four years of academic search that offers permanent values and the chance to enjoy them. And keep that spear handy.

U.V.M. Boys To Be Laborers, Salesmen, Guides, For Summer

Over the blue waves to Rio on a fruit boat will go two University of Vermont men this summer, while two others will go south of the Mason and Dixon Line to sell Southerners Vermont maple syrup and sugar. Another college boy will go underground and learn how to mine nickel in Canada, while an oil field in Oklahoma and guide work in Yellowstone National Park will claim still others. All of the men are members of one fraternity, Sigma Phi, and they are of all four classes. They appear to be following a trend currently becoming popular among college students, in seeking the experience of physical labor as a valuable part of their education.

Jean M. Evans, Burlington, and Norman D. Tucker, Leominster, Mass., will board a United Fruit boat, setting out in late June for Rio de Janeiro, and making port in the United States again late in September. Midway through the summer the two have an opportunity to put aboard a lumber ship and sail to the West Coast, which they both are considering, since it would give them an opportunity to renew old fraternity acquaintances in the far western section.

John S. Burgess and Richard W. Page, both of Burlington, have mapped out an intensive itinerary through the southern United States, and with their sample kits of Vermont maple syrup and sugar, are preparing to try to sell these Green Mountain State products there. Laying the groundwork for their selling foray, they have already communicated with several Chambers of Commerce in various southern cities and from these contacts they believe that they will stand a good chance of establishing a ready market.

James H. Stephen, Copper Cliff, Ont., Canada, will go first to summer military camp with other students in the advanced military science and training course of the Reserve Officers Training Corps at the University. When he finishes at Fort Devens, Mass., he will go to Sudbury, Canada, where he has a job with the International Nickel Mines, and will do underground work for the balance of the summer vacation.

Clifford A. Pease, Burlington, is heading for the Oklahoma oil fields, and in one of them, starting July 1, he has a job which will give him employment up to the first of September. Pease says he hopes "to return to school next fall a bag of muscles."

Several vacations spent in Yellowstone National Park were not without profit to Richard W. Pope, Wellesley Hills, Mass., for this summer, he has a job as a student guide there. The job lasts for two months, July 1—Sept. 1.

Civil War Items Feature Of Index

Now complete and covering the period of the Civil War through 1865 is the sixth volume of the Free Press Index compiled by a staff headed by the Hon. T. Stearns at the University of Vermont. This index includes items, a majority of which have to do with the Civil War and events connected with it.

Here are recorded the last struggles of the Civil War, the victory of the Northern forces, and the peace conference. Local celebrations of the return of the Vermont regiments and the listing of Vermonters who died fighting for the cause are told herein. On almost every page are indications of the bitter struggle between the North and South. Three pages alone of the index are devoted to the last years and assassination of Lincoln. In here may be read a speech by Lincoln concerning his earnest desire to rebuild the South. Not only the Civil War but also the domestic life of Vermont is portrayed in the index. A prominent place is given to sheep-raising, then a leading Vermont industry, and the beginning of the maple sugar industry may be read here. Along with the Civil War and Vermont life one may also follow the rapid changes that were going on throughout the country at that time, as well as such odd and ordinary human happenings as appear in 1941 newspapers.

The newspaper indexing project is now at work on further volumes of the Free Press Index, which will be published regularly and in which research workers will find an easily accessible and valuable source of material on many varied subjects.

Artist Miller To Teach Three In One

Has Summer Sessions in Vt., Penn., and N. Mexico

How can one artist teach in three summer schools in one summer?

Summer time may be vacation time for some people, but Barse Miller, who teaches advanced painting in the University of Vermont Summer Session, manages to pack into an extended summer lasting about four months and stretching over most of the breadth of the United States three teaching assignments at as many summer schools of art. A number of Mr. Miller's students in the University Summer Session Department of Fine Arts have learned of his triple summer art teaching program and have inquired whether he would be able this year to teach the full six weeks at the University of Vermont Summer Session. The answer is yes. Mr. Miller has been teaching this threefold schedule of summer sessions, besides his winter work in California where he teaches at the Art Center of Los Angeles, for several years. He begins in June at the Taos Field School of Art of the University of New Mexico. He journeys east to Burlington, Vt., for the University of Vermont Summer Session, remaining here this year from July 7 to August 15. After the session closes, he has time to travel to Chester Springs, Pa., where he instructs in the Summer Art School of the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, during late August and September. When that Summer Session is at an end, he goes back across the continent to California for his winter's teaching. During all this instructional work carried on by Mr. Miller, he paints and his pictures are constantly exhibited throughout the country and reproduced in leading art and general magazines. This summer, a collection of his paintings will be exhibited at the Ferargil Galleries in New York City.

Salt Lake City, Utah—(ACP)—University of Utah is gaining international recognition with publication by the Oxford University press of "Shakespeare's Documents," two huge volumes consisting of 296 documents.

Work of compiling and editing the documents was done by Prof. B. Roland Lewis of the university's English department and Shakespeare laboratory.

Pre-publication carbon copies of the original volumes were sent upon request to the British museum and the Folger Shakespeare library in Washington, D. C., largest and most complete library of its kind in the world.

World critics have acclaimed the massive work as among the greatest ever published. Professor Lewis is now at work on a biography of Shakespeare based upon the two volumes.

Dr. Chalmers Speaks At Baccalaureate

Spirit, Not Force is What Wins, He Tells Graduates

Hitler and Mussolini will lose in the end because they use force to gain their ends, Rev. Dr. Allen Knight Chalmers of the

DR. ALLEN K. CHALMERS

Broadway Tabernacle Congregational Church, New York, told the University of Vermont graduating class at the baccalaureate service in the Ira Allen Chapel. Governor and Mrs. Wills were among those in the audience that filled the chapel to overflowing.

Force always loses in the long run, he added. "It is the spirit that wins in the end."

"Signs of Recognition" was Doctor Chalmers' sermon topic. "One sign by which I can tell if a person is a good Christian is his reaction to the expression —what's the use of it all?"

The good Christian hates injustice more than the desire to live, he asserted, concluding with the statement that "man's value on this earth depends on his understanding of, hope for and allegiance to the way of life Christ personified."

In addition to the preacher, others participating in the baccalaureate program were Prof. Raymond A. Hall, chaplain; Prof. H. G. Bennett, director of Music; Miss Miriam Natilee Marston, organist; Prof. Lyman S. Rowell, marshal; Prof. George G. Groat, faculty marshal; Harry A. MacMillan '41M and John F. UNIVERSITY SENIORS PREPARE TO DEPART FROM ALMA MATER

Expressing the highlights of their four years at U. V. M. and looking into the future that lay unfolded ahead of them, the graduates found happiness and hope as they met for class day exercises on the campus yesterday afternoon. Members were front row, left to right: Laura R. Hawley, New Rochelle, N. Y., address to undergraduates; Margaret E. Connelly, Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., sesquicentennial address; Shirley L. Gray, Montclair, N. J., Lafayette oration; Maywood A. Metcalf, Waterbury, ivy oration. Rear row, left to right, Jean M. Evans, Burlington, Ira Allen oration; William L. Pye, Pittsford, president's address; Robert P. Kenney, Cranston, R. I., pipe oration; John R. Royer, Westfield, N. Y., Boulder address, and Donald F. Gearing, Bristol, Conn., class history.

Ivy Oration

By Mav[illegible]

For forty seven [illegible] of the University a [illegible] Class Day, planted [illegible] buildings on our [illegible] of our class during t[illegible] have seen the old [illegible] new beauty each spring [illegible] the many vines have [illegible] as we casually observed [illegible] we gave little thought [illegible] meanings.

To some classes the [illegible] college; to others, [illegible] friendship. I would [illegible] of the Class of '41 [illegible] of our faith, our respect [illegible] the University of Ver[illegible] Mater has given to us [illegible] vation. She has gener[illegible] the development of our [illegible] characters and she has made [illegible] establishment of the [illegible] which mean so much to us. [illegible] we have acquired a willingness t[illegible] face the truth, a tolerance toward persons, races, religions, and [illegible] determination to play our part [illegible] the inevitable changes that are [illegible]

We, of '41, are particularly [illegible] because we are to be the first [illegible] plant ivy next the new Waterman [illegible]ng whose facilities will offer [illegible] advantages to the administration, [illegible]ulty, and the students of Vermont. [illegible] building represents a new step [illegible] growth of our University and give [illegible] other reason for being proud of it.

Through one hundred and fifty Vermont has given to many thousand students, like us, the opportunity [illegible]ticipate in four of the most [illegible] and happiest years of their lives. [illegible] hundred and fifty years of invaluable [illegible]ice is a record of which we all are proud.

The ivy is a hardy plant which [illegible] higher and higher each year. [illegible] let us, the Class of '41, pledge [illegible] our ivy, our faith, our respect, [illegible] love for the University of Vermont [illegible] grow higher and higher in the [illegible] come!

Ira Allen Oration

By Jean M. Evans

It is with no small amount of trepidation that I undertake to deliver an oration in the Founder of this University, Ira Allen, for this has been done in the past by far more able professors and especially even more speakers at Founder's Day. So not to be surpassed then, if some of the inspiration from this great figure is not found, you will be more the less valid in your account. In fact, it particularly behooves our class of 1941 to bear in mind the qualities of our famous Founder whose actions in 1791 are very much pertinent at the present time.

However, let us not imagine that Ira Allen was a superhuman saint. I wish I could quote here a few sentences of the language he used when conveying cattle. It is to say that it would make even a Brooklyn taxi driver turn green with envy. Perhaps you are acquainted with the story of his business practice which runs something like this. Once wanting to buy an immovable valuable lot of property at a reasonable price, Ira was worried by the prospect of high bids from competitors at an auction. He whispered to the auctioneer whom he knew well the latter announced to the public that circumstances entirely above and beyond control, etc., made it necessary to postpone the auction till Wednesday at two o'clock at a certain place and that all those interested in the property should be present without fail. Early Wednesday morning several lanterns approaching broke the inky darkness at that designated place: the auctioneer and Ira and one of his followers met and concluded their business in rapid order. Unfortunately we were unable to obtain the comments of the would-be purchasers who assembled that afternoon twelve hours too late.

Many people vied for the honor of being the Founder of this University, but it went to Ira Allen who made the most generous of all offers. Under the charter granted in 1791, the University opened its doors in 1800 to four students who received instruction from a one man faculty. Perhaps Ira Allen's vision saw the greatness of this University to the point where our present entering class of 1941 numbers 295 students and the total enrollment of the University is listed as 1472 including young ladies as instructed under the direction of 1800. Even now with our hearts and the Watermen building nearly [illegible] the largest educational building in the state of Vermont.

Certainly Ira Allen had a vision which far surpassed that of his contemporaries when, leaving the pleasure of baseball saw no possible end or reason to such [illegible] said his participation in [illegible] would [illegible] and gentlemen.

After endless [illegible] years this [illegible] Ira [illegible] found.

[illegible] Ira [illegible] with great [illegible] and [illegible] to [illegible] the [illegible] of the [illegible] connected with [illegible] and also to the conduct and posterity. It [illegible] to [illegible] passing from [illegible] so [illegible] that light [illegible] and [illegible] the [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Class History

[illegible] GEARING.

[illegible] the September of 1937 [illegible] up of people to this University [illegible] known thereafter as The Class of '41.

[illegible] such a group of people! Eight [illegible] and two string the assistant registrar's office and the Weber Band [illegible]—at which place they learned [illegible] first college lesson—"Cats are dogs who only stand and wait."

[illegible] three days of signing names and [illegible] blanks we were finally admitted [illegible] the freshmen the Class of '41 [illegible] one week's contact with his new [illegible] Dean Swift called it. Foreign [illegible] Professor Gerould took up the past [illegible] burden.

[illegible] the unbelievably short time of one [illegible] this class established itself firmly in [illegible] minds of the rest of the college as a [illegible] that would bear watching by doing [illegible] impossible—we lost the tomtam fight.

We then just to banish any remaining [illegible] concerning our unconventionality, [illegible] went on to elect class officers—and [illegible] though the vote was recounted seven [illegible] times the fact remained—only two Burlington students held offices.

It then behooved this illustrious body to [illegible] settle down to the inevitable process of [illegible] getting collegiate." We did a good job [illegible] and in spite of the scoffing of the upperclassmen we emerged at the end of [illegible] freshman year a Coffee Corner-ful of [illegible] Collegian's collegians. Who would have guessed that from this class would rise two superior students? None the less it happened. Thanks to these industrious and brilliant students the Class of '41 claims another record. Never before had five freshmen attained a straight A average.

So we all went home in June, to rest after the strain of that year and we made some resolutions about more diligent application to studies.

Yea verily—we knew not but we knew [illegible] that we knew not!

Came September—went the resolutions. We were amazed at the decrease in the size of the class. It seems a goodly number of our members chose other walks of life.

Not a class to remember easily, we promptly forgot our previous ways and this time true to school tradition we held a tremendously successful Sophomore Hop.

It was in our second year that the class received national acclaim. This was through the success of our athletes. Once again Vermont thrilled to see her football team in action. That team, the best in many years, was almost entirely sophomore.

Somehow or other most of us were still here for mid-year exams. Again there were fewer of us following that two weeks' period of sleepless nights. Once more we decided to study and this time we must have meant it for little was heard from us for quite a while.

Finals in June only served to remind us that we had not learned to study.

Indeed—we knew not and we knew that we knew not.

With another September came the beginning of our first big year. Up until this time we had lost only 134 of our original 402 members.

The first few weeks found us eyeing disdainfully the underclassmen. We were beginning to feel the weight of our years.

We knew we had come a long way when the various deans began to call us by our correct names.

Indeed we were making our mark! That year it took us only six hours to enroll.

That year it took us only six hours to enroll.

So we shivered through the winter. Underclassmen were coming to us occasionally for advice on how to stay in college. Exams loomed dark on the horizon and we went to the seniors for some advice on how to stay in college.

We were doing fairly well. The business students knew the difference between a bond and a mortgage, the "homemakers" could spot an incorrectly set place setting from either door of the Practice House dining room. The pre-meds had already learned to keep one eye open when using their microscopes. The engineers were learning how to write a good English sentence. Language profess rs reported that their juniors had stopped declining verbs.

All in all we were feeling our intellectual oats. Junior Week was a festive occasion. A fine play, a colorful procession, excellent band for the Prom and traditional U. V. M. friendliness prevailing throughout "open house" night all combined to make our Junior Week a pleasant one.

Iz Goodman Has Been Four Years In R.O.T.C. Band

[illegible] there are some who take their music [illegible] militant. Because they are on the [illegible] variety, and have an ear for harmony, and have a knack for getting [illegible] to take their parts [illegible] they are chosen to [illegible] pass it on to the rest. Iz Goodman is the one who gives the right beat to the [illegible] fifty [illegible] who [illegible] for [illegible] the [illegible] Band. During this time he has seen [illegible] personnel [illegible] is the highest rank [illegible] a band student may attain in the R. O. T. C. [illegible] Iz also plays solo trumpet in the band for the past two years and assistant solo trumpet in his sophomore year.

For Iz is not an ordinary bandsman. He has been for [illegible] inspector-instructor right hand man for the past two years, serving in the capacity of assistant band leader. As such, his duties have been: to take care of attendance and issue instruments, see to it that the band is prepared for all of their appearances and officiate during Kake Walk and band trips so that everything should go off according to schedule.

Said Joe Lechnyr of Iz: "He will be a hard man to replace. Iz has been a great help to the morale of the band and has distinguished himself by his willingness to work and cooperate."

What's in a name? Not much says Shakespeare. But as a freshman in the band puts it, "Iz Goodman is good man."

John B. Waite, professor of criminal law at the University of Michigan, is a bow tie addict. The other day 100 of 130 freshmen in one of his classes showed up wearing bows.

A collection of some 500 land and marine shells from all parts of the world is the latest gift to Harvard University's museum of comparative zoology.

Two of our number became famous that year. Maywood Metcalf became the first woman editor of the Cynic and Frank Taylor earned four major letters in Vermont athletics.

To Ransom Slack we owe a debt of gratitude for the fine job he did on the 1941 Ariel—giving us a lasting reminder of the pleasant days we spent together here in college.

So we came again to finals and this time our mortality rate was infinitesimal. In recognition of that the University finally put in a good road behind the Old Mill.

At this point it may be truly said—we knew but we knew not that we knew.

We came back in the fall well-qualified to assume our newly-acquired prestige.

The Class of '41 admits complete responsibility for the increased tuition. The whole administration had to work overtime to keep ahead of us, and after three years of that killing pace who could deny them the increase?

In October of our senior year most of the men of the class placed their names on the draft lists and in return for same were given classification cards which were to prove their worth on many subsequent occasions.

First semester we did little other than enjoy being seniors, answering the awe-stricken gazes of the freshmen with kindly and benevolent smiles.

We spent long hours in the Coffee Corner—longer hours away from class.

Mid-years came and went causing little excitement to the seniors.

Second semester we elected some courses that we liked and enjoyed thereby getting for a change.

Some of us realized that Lake ports were rapidly approaching closer to commencement in Burlington during Easter vacation and take an exam—just for practice.

Those last few weeks have seen most of the class mailing diploma plans for next year.

The most interesting picture of the class is yet to be written.

Business positions and wedding bells during marriage vestpocket size models, farming and a hundred other occupations confront members of the class.

We have had a grand and memorable time together. If we say all look back on "our college days" and they always go happy as they say it, then we can count that we have.

This we know and for some that is enough.

Pipe Oration

By William Kreidler.

[illegible] year perhaps more than ever the symbol of the pipe as an emblem of peace has become prominent. [illegible] longer may warring nations sit around the council fire and smoke each other defiance, no longer may warriors settle their problems by drawing a few long cuts on a pipe, instead peace pipes have become a weapon of war in which nations [illegible] each other ruthlessly in the pre-occupation of gathering more conquered and more slaves.

The pipe of peace and the pipe of [illegible] have in the meantime left us not entirely at ease as to the other [illegible] not allow it. Due to the extent of [illegible] our own culture and [illegible] tions.

To come closer to home the pipe should prove to be more [illegible] to the future we [illegible] were that unfathomable satisfaction derived only from a pipe, a comfortable corncob, a fire and unhurried [illegible]. In the last years of our stay here we have accumulated a treasure of these remembrances which we [illegible] upon the rest of our lives. In the days days ahead let us call upon this treasure to give us hope and faith. It came to us so that there are still [illegible] we may gaze on the lighter side of life. Let us then not our pipes to bring forth these memories and remembrances.

Quoting from William Thackeray:

It is an old saying that we forget nothing. As people in fever begin suddenly to talk the language of their infancy, so we are struck, by memory sometimes and old affections, just back to us as to the time when they were our daily talk; when fond parents gladdened our eyes; when their accents thrilled in our ears; when we prattled, and grew, by things unnoticed, to take [illegible] experience. Parting is death, at least as far as this life is concerned. A parting is [illegible] and it is a solemn thing to [illegible] a great change in those we [illegible] we are sure, and the [illegible] [illegible] we see it no more. But [illegible] have gone at our [illegible] [illegible] chosen.

Urges Postgraduate Activity For Athletes

Philadelphia, Pa. — (ACP) — Postgraduate athletic activity should be the goal of all American college athletes, particularly at this critical period according to Lawson Robertson, Penn and Olympic track and field coach.

"From the standpoint of physical conditioning or training for a young man who has been competing for eight years through high or prep school and college, upon his graduation from college, suddenly to stop all athletic activity," said Robertson, who in April observes his twenty-fifth anniversary as University of Pennsylvania track coach.

"Most athletes are graduated when they are 21 or 22. That is an age when they haven't yet reached their physical maximum. They should participate in some form of athletics until they are at least 25, the age of full physical maturity.

Spasyk Captain Of 1942 Baseball Team

Logan To Be Manager; Seventeen Letters Given

[illegible] Spasyk University of Vermont football quarterback and baseball second baseman, was elected captain of the 1942 diamond aggregation following Saturday's game with the University of Virginia, it was announced by Graduate Manager Sabin C. Abell. Fred P. Logan of Springfield, Mass., was elected manager. Spasyk succeeds Pittsfield, Mass., succeeds Frankie Taylor, and Logan succeeds Ransom Slack.

Elected manager of next year's freshman team was Bob Paterson of Barre, while E. H. Blakely of Burlington and R. O. Estey, Jr., of Springfield, were elected assistant managers.

Remo Conti of Barre, shortstop on this spring's freshman team, was elected honorary captain of Kittens, Abell said.

17 Awarded Varsity Letters

Seventeen were awarded varsity letters as follows:

Freshman numerals were awarded to twelve as follows:

W. C. Bisbee, R. J. Conti, E. N. Crage, K. E. Dean, D. K. Fiddy, J. W. Goodrich, E. N. Hazen, L. F. Killick, Jr., J. Levine, R. C. Lunna, R. W. Thomas and C. A. Uva.

Report Marked Increase In Latin, Greek Courses

Geneva, N. Y. — (ACP) — Interesting effects of recent world developments on the choice of courses by college students are noted at Hobart and William Smith colleges.

Language departments report sudden increases in enrollment in German, French, and Italian, with increases in Spanish, Greek, and Latin.

Both faculty members and students were hard put to interpret the phenomenal increase in Greek and Latin enrollments.

Adding to the mystery is the fact that, while girls have heretofore made up at least half of the Latin classes, there are almost none in this year's classes. The greater decrease in popularity of Italian as against French and German was explained as a demonstration of continued support for French culture and a still high demand for German in scientific fields.

Foti Elected To Captain '42 Tennis

Rynoweeer To Manage Team; Letters Awarded

Samuel J. Foti of Rutland, who will enter his senior year at the University of Vermont in the fall, was announced yesterday as captain-elect of the 1942 U. V. M. tennis team. Foti, who played in the number five singles spot this spring, won eleven of his twelve matches, losing only his first match, and that by a close margin.

Named manager of the team was B. F. Rynoweeer '42 of New York, while Sanford Savin of Bridgeport, Conn., was named freshman manager for 1942. Victor A. Mahoney of Bridgeport, Conn., was named honorary frosh captain. Assistant 1942 managers named were W. M. Eddy, Burlington; and S. Ziskind, Brockton, Mass.

Varsity tennis letters were awarded to Buck Lynch, Bill Pratt, Capt. J. Edward Simpson, Lawrence A. Simpson, William A. West, Arthur D. Wolk, Samuel J. Foti, and Donald W. Thayer, manager.

Freshman numerals go to Mahoney, C. R. Denton, W. Hurst, T. J. Keighley, S. M. Kemler and R. L. Norton.

Many Fine Seniors Leave Vt. Athletics

By Whitey Killick

(Burlington Free Press Feature)

The University of Vermont graduated another class. Today winds up another athletic program of inter-collegiate competition. Pigskin, horsehide and moleskins, all will be relegated to mothballs and memories in favor of the coveted sheepskin.

But back to the subject. We've been watching Vermont athletic teams for some time. We've seen the Bowmans, Gooches, Varnalls, Caywards, Beckleys, and all the rest. There were many more. All fine collectively, however, the bunch of athletes that is leaving Vermont's citadels of culture this year, strikes us as one of the finest groups to represent the institution for a long time.

Go Many Ways

They are scattering in many directions and into many lines of endeavor. Some of them, by the grace of gods and the forbearance of the stork, will be able to go on with advanced study or into jobs for which they are trained, others are headed for Uncle Sam's tour of military duty. A number of the latter group, are already qualified as reserve officers. Those who are not have had enough basic training in two years, so that they will undoubtedly advance in rapid fashion from the ranks.

Swede Carlson

This lad takes his place along with Johnny Beckley and the Deliausse boys. He made Phi Beta Kappa hands down, and an electrical engineer at that. Three years of smashing tackle play to this lad's credit. He's going to land in an engineering job.

Jim Corbett

Another three-year footballer. Had a year of baseball, too. He'll be out of military reach, inasmuch as he has a job in Rochester, N. Y., with an outfit that makes bombsights, which comes under vital industry.

Hank Beauchemin

Three years of baseball and basketball as well as one of football. A real basketball stylist and quite a guy. Hank is planning to enter business. There will be no military for the time being, at any rate. May find him this summer at Windsor.

Paul E. Corley

Basketball captain and three-year veteran. Has a high draft number. Plans on a banking career.

Dick Healy

Three years of varsity baseball and basketball, although a cunked knee knocked him out of some baseball competition this year. Dick plans on a business connection, possibly here in Burlington. Volunteers in his home town of Commack, L. I., have kept the draft quotas down and he expects no immediate call.

Don Maley

Three years of basketball and two of baseball for Pop. He is all set for a teaching opportunity, but figures that he'll do a chore for Uncle Sam first.

Boots Lawrence

A slam-bang lineman with three years' experience, along with two more at baseball. Boots took a crack at the Air Service exams, but, we are told, a football injury was responsible for his being turned down. We still think he's got what it takes. He can fight on our side any time.

Bill "Apple" Pye

Played three years of football and two of basketball. Married Jean Butler '41 of Burlington and has a son, Bill "Applesauce" Jr. Bill is headed for the insurance business.

Norm Strassburg

Another veteran football lineman of three seasons. Norm had a crack at base-

Scored 84 5-6 Points In Five Dual Meets

Sophomore F. Bertrand Mott, Jr., who came to the University of Vermont via Morristown, N. J., and who never participated in track until his freshman year at the University here, was yesterday announced as captain of the 1942 Vermont track team, the first sophomore since Ross and Trudeau were elected co-captains in 1936.

Scores 84 5-6 Points

Mott, a natural born competitor who was at his best when the season was toughest, finished his year by scoring 84⅚ points in five dual meets and the Eastern Intercollegiate A. A. meet at Worcester, Mass. He had two big days—the E. I. C. A. A. when he defeated Tufts' Ed Dugger in the 220-yard dash finals, and the final meet here against Trinity when he took four first places and a third to total 21 points, something no trackman has accomplished at Vermont in a good many years.

Mott participated in the high and low hurdles, the 220-yard dash, and the high and broad jump. He was at his best going over the timbers, although he reached a 220 peak in defeating Dugger at the Easterns. He topped his work off by winning the 100 in addition to his specialties the day Trinity visited here.

Elected manager was Peter S. Czachor of Center Rutland, with Waino W. Suosanen of Ludlow named freshman manager. The assistant managers elected were Harry J. Winchell, Jr., of South Royalton and Ollie F. Swift of Burlington.

Letters Awarded

Varsity letters were awarded to the following:

Al Becker, Burlington; Walt Gage, Burlington; Elmer Nichols, Westminster; Bill Pratt, Rutland; Frankie Taylor, Brattleboro; Herb Long, Oakfield, N. Y.; Norm Stoddard, Groton; Charles Webster, Orleans; Frederick Webster, Orleans; George Daly, Hyde Park; Red Cross, Burlington; Dick Grosvenor, Winchester, Mass.; Bert Mott, Ed O'Connell, Springfield, Mass.; Herbert Parker, Johnson; Ernie St. Mary, Springfield; Hugo Squire, Waterbury; Hal Vreeland, Rutherford, N. J.; Alex Warden, West Barnet; George Bailey, Rochester, varsity manager; and L. C. Hunt, Jr., Burlington, freshman manager.

Cats Down Virginia 4-3 In Last Game of Season

Taylor Closes Career in Blaze of Glory; Team Loses Game to Visitors Friday, 10-8

Frankie Taylor brought his great University of Vermont sports career to a close in proper fashion as he "heroed" the Catamounts to a smooth 4 to 3 win over Virginia at Centennial Field Saturday afternoon before a crowd of about 2,000 Commencement week-end guests.

A Story Book Finish

With the score tied at three-all and Bob Carlson tied up in a tight mound duel with Alex Cave of the Cavaliers, Taylor opened the eighth inning by blasting the first pitch across the running track in front of the flag pole for a triple, and moments later scampered home after the catch of Hank Beauchemin's towering fly to right field.

12 Wins and 12 Losses

It seemed proper that these two seniors, the only graduates on the club, provide the spark that brought the win and evened up the two-day series with the Virginians. This game brought the Cats' season to a finish with a .500 percentage, twelve wins stacked up against twelve losses.

Cave started the game off as wild as a hawk. He walked Sig Sysko and Johnny Spasyk without throwing a strike, then tossed three more balls to Frankie Taylor before he got one across the plate. But he eventually walked Frankie, and the sacks were loaded.

Bob Doherty, who had another field day at the plate with three blows in four trips, pounded out a double down the right field line, and Sysko and Spasyk scampered home. Taylor holding third. Beauchmin grounded out and Charlie Smith got a life when the pitcher's throw of his hopper brought first sacker Dick Wiltshire off the bag.

This loaded the sacks again. Hazen Wood grounded to Ted Gillette, who forced Smith at second but failed by a step to get Wood at first to complete the double. Taylor scored on the play, and Randy Sullivan looked at a third strike to end the frame.

Carlson Had Bad Inning

Carlson sailed along on a three-hitter until the sixth when four straight blows shot three runs across for the Cavaliers and tied the game all up. Walsh singled to start it off, and Wiltshire doubled to right. Red Kendall, clean-up hitter, cleaned up with a booming triple to the football stands in left center, and he scored a moment later on Sam Marshall's single.

Then Taylor

That was all the scoring until Taylor tripled to open the eighth and crossed with the winning run. Carlson was touched for two hits in the seventh with one down but got out of trouble, and kept the Cavaliers away from scoring territory after this.

Lose Friday's Game

Battered and befuddled by a series of base hits, errors, free tickets to first and mental lapses, the University of Vermont baseball nine tossed away its first game of its two-day series with the University of Virginia, the invading Cavaliers taking a 10 to 8 decision in a hectic contest.

Something to Yell About

The game did give the fans something to yell about, but the Vermonters' fielding was nothing short of terrible. It was their worst exhibition of the spring as far as defensive play, although inability of Clarence Akley and Lefty Roy Alberghini to find the plate in crucial moments helped the visitors no end.

It started out as if Scotty Scafure, the Cavaliers' stubby right-hander with the looping knuckler, wouldn't be around long, but he was still serving them up at the end and was in possession of the long end of score.

Akley Is Removed

Akley departed in the sixth inning, and Alberghini came in, as usual, in the toughest situation imaginable. Virginia had the sacks loaded, nobody was down, and the score was 5 to 5. Before Lefty could get the side out the three runners on the sacks had crossed and another added, to give Scafure a 9 to 5 lead, to which he clung doggedly the rest of the way.

Honors, Commissions Given Graduates By Military Dep't

Colehamer, Honor Grad In Advanced Course; Appointments Announced

Warren Merritt Colehamer '41 of Newark, N. J., was named the honor graduate in the Advanced Course, R. O. T. C. by the Department of Military Science and Tactics. He has ranked consistently high throughout his four years in R. O. T. C. and captained the rifle team during the past year. John Smalley Greene '41, who as Cadet Major commanded the R. O. T. C. Batallion, was awarded the Loyal Legion Sabre.

The following graduates were commissioned as First Lieutenants in the Medical Reserve:

Renwick K. Caldwell, Burlington; Clifford T. Conklin, Jr., Brandon; William S. Dempsey, St. Albans; Gino A. Dente, Barre; Harry C. Halsted, Nutley, N. J.; Myron N. King, Dorchester, Mass.; Joyce W. Kingsley, Jr., Burlington; Joseph O. Lariviere, Burlington; Lyle J. Monti, Barre; Deane F. Mosher, Newport; James P. O'Neil, Burlington; John S. Poczabut, Florence; Henry L. Pratt, Rutland; Maurice E. Rowe, Barnet; Leo M. Seltzer, Barre; Bartlett H. Stone, White River Junction; Harry B. Werner, New York City; and Jack Wool, Burlington.

Having completed the four year R. O. T. C. course, the following members of the class of '41 received their commissions as Second Lieutenants, Infantry Reserve:

H. A. Chesney, Island Pond; H. B. Coburn, East Montpelier; S. S. Firestone, Dorchester, Mass.; J. S. Greene, Burlington; E. A. Guilbert, Waterbury, Conn.; B. W. Hill, Bennington; T. R. Huntley, Morrisville; J. L. Kotuby, Rutland; C. A. Moore, Londonderry; G. I. Palmer, Williamstown; J. A. Root, Middlebury; G. H. Stickney, East Thetford; A. J. Taggart, Castleton; D. W. Thayer, Burlington; and H. S. Willson, Bethel.

E. E. Gifford, East Bethel, will be commissioned upon reaching legal age, June 20, 1941, and R. D. Copp will receive his commission upon completion of camp requirement.

W. M. Colehamer, Newark, N. J.; W. A. Daniels, Bridgeport, Conn.; and L. A. Simpson, St. Albans, were commissioned as Second Lieutenants, Quartermaster Reserve. All the above appointments are in the Reserve of the Army of the United States.

$1,400 Scholarships Awarded To Six

Six of the ten new Ira Allen scholarships of $1,400 each which have been set up at the University of Vermont have been awarded by the committee on selections.

The recipients are Melvin C. Blodgett of Waterford; Vincent J. Cassel of Cuttingsville; Gordon Cochrane of Chelmsford, Mass.; Winston R. Jacobs of Guilford; William M. Mahar of Fair Haven; Robert J. Pratt of Clarendon.

Scholarship, which is the most important consideration in the selection of candidates, is counted at about 50 per cent, with personality and character figured at about 30 per cent, health and physical fitness 25 per cent.

The committee in charge of selections is composed of George F. Eckhard, dean of the college of engineering; Prof. William R. Adams of the college of agriculture; Prof. George Dykhuizen of the department of philosophy; Prof. Rex M. Collier of the department of psychology; Prof. Howard A. Prentice, head of the department of physical education.

Members of the committee stated that they had not decided whether the other four scholarships would be awarded this year or not. The scholarships are open to men both within and without the state, but not more than six can be granted outside of the state. The scholarships are valued at $350 a year and run for four years. About twenty candidates made application this year and were personally interviewed.

A wind tunnel with air speeds up to 100 miles an hour is being built at the University of Santa Clara.

Scaffolding on the Waterman building is down, with the outside completed and work is well along on the interior. Alumni returning for Commencement were able to inspect the place. It is a magnificent building.

High Ranking Students Win Many Awards For Outstanding Ability

Outstanding ability in many fields, both scholastic and extracurricular, was rewarded in University of Vermont students when prizes were presented at the 137th Commencement exercises Monday morning, marking the 150th year of the University. High standing students in medicine, agriculture, engineering, history, languages, and military science were recipients of awards. Skill in debating, and excellence in athletics and management of athletic teams, won prizes for other talented people at the University.

The awards: The Carbee Medical Prize, for greatest proficiency in obstetrics, was divided between Joyce Walter Kingsley, Jr., B.S., Burlington, and Geoffrey Paul Wiedeman, B.S., Burlington. Of the Woodbury Prizes in Medicine, the senior award, for greatest proficiency in Clinical Work in senior year, went to Renwick Keese Caldwell, B.S., Burlington, and the sophomore award, to the sophomore having the highest standing for two years of medical work, was won by Allan Y. Wolinsky, West Rutland.

Agriculture Prizes

The George H. Walker Dairy Prize, for conspicuous merit in dairy husbandry studies and for character, was awarded to George Howard Bailey, Rochester. Reginald Stewart White, Rvegate, a member of next year's junior class, won the Elwin L. Ingalls 4-H Prize, given for outstanding merit in 4-H Club work, character and scholarship. Floyd Walter Campbell, Strafford, a senior in agriculture next year, was awarded the Thomas Bradlee Prize, for high scholarship and character.

Recipient of the A. Atwater Kent Prize, given a student in electrical engineering for progress in judgment, development of personality and promise of success, was Harold Gunnar Carlson, Brattleboro, a member of the graduating class. The Edmund F. Little Cup, for excellence in mechanic arts, went to William Elwin Young, Barre, also a graduate. The Phelps Prize in Civil Engineering, given for conspicuous merit in professional studies, was taken by Gerald Imlah Palmer, Williamstown, and James Albert Root, Middlebury, both graduating.

Jean Malot Evans, Burlington, who was graduated magna cum laude, wrote the essay which took the Emerson Prize in History. Honorable mention was given to Shirley Leighton Gray, Montclair, N. J., for her essay in the Emerson contest.

Clara Ray Griffel, New York City, received the German literary prize, awarded by the Goethe Lodge of Burlington for general excellence in German.

Two Score Second Time

Jean Malot Evans won his second prize award when he took the Fred T. Kidder Medal, for character, leadership, and scholarship. Harold Gunnar Carlson scored a second time, winning the Wasson Athletic Prize, given for scholarship and athletic attainment. William Irving Pye, Pittsford, was the recipient of the Russell O. Sunderland Memorial Trophy, awarded for qualities of character, leadership and persistence in overcoming obstacles, traits outstanding in the life of Russell Sunderland, late Vermont athlete in whose memory the trophy is given. The Athletic Council Managerial Prize, awarded to the major sport manager deemed most proficient, was presented to Ransom Orcutt Slack, Vergennes.

The Edward Page Butler Debating Prizes went to Faye Ruth Lipman, West Hartford, Conn., first; Janet Clark, Norwell, Mass., second; and Mrs. Kathleen LeBaron Strassburg, Waterbury, third. The Robert Ashton Lawrence Debating Prizes were conferred upon Harold Allen Durfee, North Bennington, first; Inez Rutherford Huntley, Morrisville, second, and Julius George Cohen, Burlington, third.

Walter Harding Maurer, a junior next year, from St. Albans, L. I., N. Y., won the Kirby Flower Smith Latin Prize.

Honor graduate from the Military Department was Warren Merritt Colehamer, Newark, N. J., and winner of the Loyal Legion Saber, John Smalley Greene, Burlington, cadet major of the R. O. T. C. Battalion this year.

ball two seasons, but came down with a strep infection each time. Norm married Kathleen LeBaron, a classmate, this spring. He is scheduled to teach and coach at Richford this fall, where he is to fill a newly created job, director of health and physical education.

Bob Kenney

Veteran track man, a hurdler by trade. Captained the club this year, but was out of competition with a knee that came unhitched. Bob is headed for the banking business.

Frankie Taylor

'Nuf sed. That story has already been written. The Grand Slam will not be forgotten.

Earl Reed

Three-year veteran footballer. Hopes to train for a scout executive's job. Draft may interfere.

Jim and Larry Simpson

Twin backbones of tennis team, both three year men, also leave. Jim is headed for medicine. That takes care of Jim. Larry is all set for the Quartermaster Corps.

Bill Pratt

With three years each of track and tennis goes to the college curriculum. So do Art Wolk, three year tennis man, Arnie Becker, high hurdler for three years, and Bill Wright, basketball manager, although the latter will take the course at B. U.

Elmer Nichols

Two-year football and three year track man plans to enter business. Franklin [illegible] captain and track man, hopes to enter naval aviation. Failing that, he will engage in agriculture production. George Bailey, varsity track manager, is headed for farming.

Ransom Slack

Baseball manager, plans to do research work or enter the business field. Slacko is one of the married men of the class. Mrs. Slack was Alta Plumb '40, Phi Beta Kappa. They have a daughter, Janet. Donald Thayer, tennis manager, plans to enter the army. Jim Root, cross-country manager, has a job, but the military may alter his plans. Ed Roby, track man, plans a time killing U. S. tour, to take up the time until Uncle Sam wants him.

That takes care of most of those prominent in Vermont athletics in the graduating class. There were some we were unable to reach, all of whom made a definite contribution.

No Doubt They'll Crash Through

Now they're going. Life, at times, has a way of being harsh to youthful charm and ability. We think these kids are going to crash through in the more serious game, just as they have in their college years. That extra-curricular training gives 'em an added something when the chips are down that helps them get through.

So long, good guys. We like to think that the 'U' plaque is not a final farewell but will see you

Music, Drama, Art At Summer Sessions

Fine Concerts, Exhibits And Plays Are Planned

Fine musicians, drama, and art exhibitions will offer cultural opportunities for students in the University of Vermont summer session this year with concerts, plays, and art exhibitions scheduled frequently. These appear in the calendar of events of the summer session, published in the catalogue of the University summer session, just off the press, and giving information concerning faculty, courses, [illegible] plans for the various classes and information about the city of Burlington and about entrance to the summer school.

Students of social and professional problems will find opportunities for broadened horizons and helpful contacts in several conferences throughout the session including the Professional Relations Institute, July 15; the Parent-Teacher Institute, July 23-25; the Guidance Institute, July 29-30; the School of Family Life, July 29-August 1.

Prof. Howard G. Bennett, head of the University music department, and his wife, Elsa Kremers Bennett, both pianists of reputation, will give a two piano recital the evening of July 9, following the opening reception of the summer session which will be held at the Southwick Memorial at 8:15 that evening. Elissa Landi, monologist and well-known actress of stage and screen, will give a recital July 21. The summer session drama school will present a group of one-act plays July 24. The Chekhov Theater studio group will come to Burlington to give a play July 28. Ernest Emti, Goddard College, will appear in a violin recital August 4. The Burlington Military Band is scheduled to give a concert on August 5. Several art exhibitions have been arranged with special thought for the students in the summer session. Of particular interest to them will be the [illegible] work of pupils in the arts classes of Edgar Miller and Paul Sample, members of the [illegible] faculty for the summer session.

Dr. Lucas Jenkins, head of the romance language department of Catholic University of America, is visiting Spain and Portugal to collect additional volumes for the Library of Congress.

Norwich University is about to begin construction on a mess hall that will include facilities for a college store and recreation room.

Illiterates Outnumber College Grads in U. S.

[illegible] Mass. (ACP).—Illiterates outnumber college graduates in the United States, according to the Modern Language Association of America.

The association's recent meeting here brought out the following facts:

Among 75,000,000 adults in the United States there are one and two-thirds times as many complete illiterates as college graduates;

One in every seven persons, or 14 per cent, has a high school education;

Approximately half have not reached the eighth grade in school and a majority have such a low general reading ability that it "is not sufficient to provide them with a basis for thinking independently on many matters of importance."

Joseph F. Lechnyr Is Musician of Varied Experience

Note. This is the fourth in a series of articles dealing with the University of Vermont R. O. T. C. band.

Mr. Joseph F. Lechnyr, conductor of the University of Vermont R. O. T. C. band, is a musician of varied musical experience who is respected by all professional musicians of the State. After an honorary discharge at the end of the war, from the U. S. Army in which he was bandmaster of the 70th Field Artillery, Mr. Lechnyr took up residence in Burlington, where in 1929 he was appointed director of the U. V. M., R. O. T. C. band, and the Burlington Military band. Since then, he has devoted his time to both vocal and instrumental music, and has organized musical organizations of great benefit to the State. Among these are: The Burlington Symphony Orchestra, which Mr. Lechnyr organized and conducted for fifteen years; St. Joseph's Orphanage band; St. Michael's College band; the Vergennes Industrial School band; Middlebury College band, for which Mr. Lechnyr was director twelve years; the University of Vermont Men's Glee Club; Middlebury College Men's Glee Club; and the Cathedral High School band, orchestra and Glee Clubs.

In 1930, when Mr. Lechnyr was director of "Burlington's Own" Drum Corps, his group won state and national honors in competition at the American Legion Convention held in Boston, Mass.

Trustees Tackle Financial Problems

New State Fund Formally Accepted

With the help of newly-appropriated State funds, trustees of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College at the initial meeting of the new board during an all-day session here Saturday tackled the job of putting the University back on its feet financially.

The new State fund of $260,000 for the 1941-42 college year was formally accepted by the University and will be released for its use beginning early this week, announced Dr. Paul C. Packer, temporary president, following the meeting.

Both Doctor Packer and Brig.-Gen. Brice P. Disque, temporary business manager, attended the meeting of the trustees. It was reported that the 1941-42 budget revealed that anticipated income and expenses had been brought to within $21,000 of balancing. Doctor Packer expressed confidence that economies could be effected without impairment to the University's educational program to bring the budget, which includes the new State appropriation and $150,000 in gifts from the alumni, into balance.

Governor Attends

All but one member of the board of trustees was present. Gov. William H. Wills, an ex-officio member, dropped in during the afternoon to see what progress was being made by the new board. Horace H. Powers of St. Albans, who was called to Washington, D. C., on business, was the only absent member.

Walter A. Dane '03, prominent Boston attorney, was elected a member of the self-perpetuating board of trustees acting on behalf of the University. His election brings to eight the number of this corporate body, which can have nine.

Dane was present, with J. Howard Moore of New York and Huntington, Frederick W. Shepardson of Burlington, Levi P. Smith of Burlington, Arthur H. Kehoe of New York, Dr. Frank E. Farmer of St. Johnsbury and Joseph B. Johnson of Springfield.

All trustees appointed by the State were present: Thomas C. Cheney of Morrisville, Asa S. Bloomer of Rutland, Donald A. Hemenway of Hartford, Conn.; Wallace M. Fay of Proctor, J. Hervey Macomber, Jr. of Burlington, S. Seeley Reynolds of Middlebury, William C. Walker of Cabot and James E. Manahan of St Albans.

Several Changes

Several changes were made on various committees of the trustees. Shepardson and Macomber were added to the executive committee which already consisted of Bloomer, Cheney, Moore and Powers. Bloomer resigned from the finance committee and three were named to this committee: Perkins, Fay and Kehoe. The auditing committee will consist of Manahan and Hemenway.

No action was taken concerning the choice of a permanent president of the University, it was disclosed by Doctor Packer, who has announced that he has no desire to assume the office. This matter was left until a later meeting of the

Waterman Building To Be Dedicated On Anniversary

E. N. Clark Donor's Classmate and Partner To Make Dedication

One of the features of the 150th anniversary of the University of Vermont, to be held October 3, 4 and 5, will be the dedication of the new $1,250,000 Waterman Memorial building. The dedication will be made on Saturday, the fourth, by Elroy Newton Clark of Denver, Colo., law partner of the late U. S. Senator Charles W. Waterman, who, with Mrs Waterman, was donor of the building. Mr. Clark, who is making the trip East for the occasion, was a classmate of Mr Waterman's at the University.

The elegant new structure, which forms the largest educational unit on the Vermont campus, will be used primarily for administrative purposes, but its five floors will house many correlated activities and will greatly increase the University's capacity for service. At the same time it will relieve the expanding load in several of the other buildings and give their departments more room for operation.

Among the elements in the new building are mechanical and electrical engineering laboratories and many research facilities, including a 75,000-volume working library, department and seminar rooms. The building will also provide a recreational center for men, with game roooms and lounges, supplementing the modern recreational center for women at the Southwick Memorial building.

A cafeteria seating from 400 to 500 persons will be of much service to students and will be available for the numerous conferences held at the University. There are also extensive and much needed faculty accommodations, with meeting and consulting rooms. The elaborate kitchen and refrigerating rooms will be used for added instructional purposes for home economics students, as will much of the other mechanical equipment, such as boiler, ventilating, air conditioning and elevator systems, for engineering students. The University store and service departments and a central telephone switchboard will also be located in the building.

All the work on the building has been completed except for a few finishing touches to the interior. The grounds are being graded and a large parking space is being macadamized. The general campus layout of walks and landscaping has been made to conform to the new building site. The building, which will be one of the most active in the campus group, will be put into use early in October.

Glee Clubs to Meet Without Tryouts

The Department of Music announces a change in the organization of the Glee Clubs this year. In the first place there will be no tryouts this year, those interested attending the first rehearsals as indicated below. More men are wanted for the glee this year especially in the tenor section.

The first rehearsal will be held Wednesday, September 24, at the music building, the following hours:

State Legislature Passes U. V. M. Financial Bill

Administrative Change Defeated Because of Effect on Endowments

After a hectic summer of reorganization and state-wide debate, the University situation is finally well on its way to being cleared up. A special session of the State Legislature adjourned last week after appropriating funds for current expenses of the University for the next two years and setting up a financial plan to retire debts within twenty years. Since the opening of the special session Wednesday morning, September 10, there have been many charges and counter charges, many a welding of groups which previously have been far apart in political thought and an opportunity for vindication for several persons who believed they had been unfairly charged with negligence before the session opened.

The bill as finally amended at the last minute by a perspiring Senate, appropriates $260,000 in each of the next two years to take financial pressure off the University and provides for amortization of debts over a twenty year period without the bond issue proposed by the Governor's advisory committee. The House committee had called originally for two annual appropriations of $250,000 each and a $250,000 fund to be raised by alumni, plus a bond issue "not to exceed $1,000,000." A Senate and House subcommitte drafted a bill on the eve of the special session, cutting down the first items and slicing the proposed bond issue. But this proposal was finally rejected in favor of the present bill.

In its final form the bill makes the following provisions: 1. An appropriation of $260,000 for the fiscal year ending in 1942. 2. An appropriation of the same amount for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1943, to be used only to match $150,000 to be raised by the alumni for operating expenses and to match further money raised by the alumni to be used for general expenses. 3 $68,880 of the appropriation to be set aside each fiscal year for interest payments (at 3%) on notes and for annuity payments on accounts outstanding September 16, 1941, and for pro rata payment of principal of notes and indebtedness. 4 The direct appropriation to be set aside in special funds for use only for operating expenses.

An amendment which would have changed the administrative set-up, to provide for election of trustees by the alumni rather than through the present self-perpetuating method was defeated after

Oratorio To Be Given at Sesqui

Appropriate to the occasion as part of the Sesquicentennial celebration of the University, part of the oratorio "Judas Maccabaeus," the vicissitudes and triumph of a heroic people, will be presented on the last evening of the celebration. The Music Department is inviting all who sang in the chorus to sing again in this festal chorus. The same chorus will sing for the vesper service that week-end when ex-president Neilson of Smith College will be the speaker. For this service the chorus will sing the "Gloria in Excelsis" from the Mozart "Mass in F Major."

Sigma Gamma Wins Scholastic Honors

T. E. P.'s Ranked First In Fraternity Averages

Sigma Gamma and Tau Epsilon Phi are scholastically the highest ranking sorority and fraternity on the University of Vermont campus, according to statistics released on the basis of grades for June, 1941. There is a difference of about ten points between them. The sorority average is 86.21, and the fraternity is 76.31.

On the basis of group averages, Greek letter women average higher grades than any other group, fraternal or non-fraternal, on the Vermont campus. Women of the University have a higher average than men by almost three points, and fraternity men as a group, have the lowest average.

The entire University average is 77.06. Fraternity women are 3.96 points above this and fraternity men 3.05 points below.

Listed in order, according to average, the seventeen fraternities and sororities place as follows: Sigma Gamma, 86.21; Alpha Chi Omega, 82.99; Delta Delta Delta, 80.42; Pi Beta Phi, 79.93; Delta Phi Epsilon, 79.61; Kappa Alpha Theta, 78.94; Tau Epsilon Phi, 78.82; Alpha Xi Delta, 78.02; Delta Psi, 76.31; Phi Sigma Delta, 76.25; Kappa Sigma, 76.11; Alpha Tau Omega, 74.85; Sigma Nu, 72.03; Lambda Iota, 71.90; Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 71.83; Phi Delta Theta, 70.63; Sigma Phi, 67.85.

There will be a Campus Sing next Friday evening on the Library steps at 7.15 o'clock, directed by Professor Milliken and sponsored by Prof. B. F. Ladd and Alfred Amee '43.

Anyone interested in scrubbing business staff of CYNIC come to meeting 4.00 p.m., CYNIC office, Wednesday. Meeting is compulsory for all old staff members.—ANNE COHN, Business Manager.

Students Celebrate Passage of Bill

A crowd of about 800 U. V. M. students staged a big parade celebrating the passage of the University aid bill in the State Legislature last Tuesday. In reality it was a combination parade, rally and snake dance.

The spontaneous celebration started shortly after nine o'clock following an announcement in a local theatre of the passing of the bill. Students who heard it rushed up the hill and routed out hundreds of others, including all freshmen, fixed up a banner saying "Vermont saved," secured torch lights and got the parade under way down Main Street in about forty minutes.

In front of the city hall, the yelling, cheering mob of about 1,000 gathered. Several students and professors gave short talks, each sentence of which was greeted by cheers.

The mayor expressed his happiness that the bill had passed and admonished the crowd to "have fun but don't destroy property."

The mob started north on Church Street with a snake dance while many others fell in line with cars.

Seven-year Law Course Envisaged at Harvard

Cambridge, Mass.—(ACP)—A seven-year combined College and Law School course, open to a few specially qualified students and designed to integrate more closely the study of Law and the other social sciences, is envisaged in a report now being considered by the faculty of Harvard University.

Drawn up by a committee of nine professors, the plan has already been approved by the Law School faculty.

A student enrolled in the proposed seven-year course would take three years of undergraduate work, then enter Law School, and in his fourth and fifth years approximate the curriculum which is now ordinarily prescribed for regular first and second year Law School students.

In his sixth and seventh years, a student would cover the work normally done by third year Law students, plus advanced work in History, Government, and Economics. At the completion of the course he would be awarded an A.B. as well as an LL.B. degree.

Nation's Youth Are More Career Conscious

Philadelphia, Pa.—(ACP)—Despite an uncertain future clouded by threats of war and economic insecurity, the nation's youth are becoming more and more career conscious and thirsty for higher education, Temple University officials have found.

Announcing that applications for admission showed a 9 percent increase this year, Registrar Millard E. Gladfelter makes the following observations gleaned from a survey:

1. Demands for business training and preparation for work in the industries lead all other education trends.
2. Teaching is coming into its own again.
3. Careers that attract women are in big demand, especially in highly-specialized fields.

Freshmen Girls Spend Week-end at Camp Hochelaga

Y. W. C. A. Sponsors Discussions, Hikes And Sports for Girls

Camp Hochelaga in South Hero became the nucleus, the orientation spot for all freshman girls over the week-end of September 13, the place where they were able to enjoy a regular camper's life, sleeping in tents, joining in all sports, and meanwhile become more adjusted to a swiftly approaching college life. Upperclass girls, members of the Y. W. C. A. Cabinet and Mortar Board were there to welcome them, become their friends and advisors, impart some of the feeling of democracy and friendliness which prevails so strongly on our campus, and help them with their problems.

Inspiring Talk

Friday evening the freshmen were entertained at a banquet in the mess hall, prettily decorated with boughs, fall leaves and candles. Dean Simpson gave an inspiring talk to us all, emphasizing the bigger things of college life, the high aims we shall have, the perspective we must keep.

Saturday morning and afternoon the camp was a scene of activity, girls swimming, canoeing, and playing softball. A scavenger hunt later in the afternoon led the separate groups to a large beach, where we made bright campfires to toast weenies and marshmallows. The councillors gathered with the girls around a large fire to explain briefly some of the activities on campus, the different functions of the organizations and clubs. Coming back to camp, nine small groups put on priceless skits, which were the essence of spontaneity. Prizes were awarded, and discussions were held in all the tents after taps.

Lazy Sunday

Sunday a lazy atmosphere prevailed over camp, a time when girls were free to become acquainted with others who will be their companions and friends for the next four years. In the evening a service was held in our woodland chapel, with Doctor Sisson as speaker. A beautiful Y. W. candlelight service followed directly in the large recreation hall. Barbara Butterfield and Betty Cooper spoke to the girls, and as each freshman left, she lighted her candle from the upperclassman's. The week-end was completed by the councillors strolling through the rows of tents, singing Vermont songs.

It was a helpful and inspiring week-end for all the girls who were lucky enough to attend—a week-end packed with fun, small escapades, and serious thoughts. A great deal of credit goes to Gratia Pearl, who was in charge of camp, and all those who helped to make it a success.

University Choir Chooses Members

The Music Department announces that the following have been chosen members of the University Choir for this year. More may be added to the Choir later, preferably from members of the Glee Club. In the soprano section are Beryl Cheney '45, Randolph; Theresa Coderre '43, Swanton, Sally Doremus '45, Rochester; Nora Hill '42, Lyndon; Elizabeth Jenks '43, Burlington; Earlene Jenness '43, Barton, Shirley Lampman '45, St. Albans; Eleanor Langeway '43, Vergennes; and Florence Smith '43, Treadwell, N. Y. The altos are Barbara Clark '44, St. Albans; Judith Gilbert '45, Dorset; Shirley Needham '45, Boston, Mass.; Marjorie Southworth '43, Bethel; Doris Squire '43, Waterbury, and Ruth True '44 Randolph. Tenors are Robert Norton '44, Pleasantville, N. Y., Philip Robinson '45, Burlington; Robert Steinman '42, Brooklyn, N. Y.; and Ernest Stockwell '44, Hartford. In the bass section are Orrin Brawn '42, St. Johnsbury; Keith Calkins '44, Barton; Robert Goss '44, Wilder; William Lane '44, Hardwick; Irving Levine '45, Burlington, and George Millikan of the political science department.

Frosh Gridsters Look Promising

Total of 37 Men Have Reported for Practice

A great deal of work is on hand for the freshmen the next week to prepare them for the opening game with Vermont Junior College on October 4. Last Saturday the squad concentrated on tackling and blocking and from there proceeded to work two full hours on signal drill. They started at it with fine spirit and are learning the plays very rapidly. Coach Fogg praised the cooperation and enthusiasm of this year's club.

Next week on Wednesday the yearlings are slated to face the varsity in a scrimmage at which the frosh will probably be at the disadvantage. After that day Fogg will know a great deal more about his men. He has the hope however that his impressive Freshman squad will consist of [illegible] Hal Moore, "Monk" Marsh, "Dan" Lawrence and "Mickey" Cook, who all show brilliant flare and a keen grasp of fundamentals and show almost astounding potential ability. Coach Fogg stated he is now looking for a fullback and a tackle to add to this group. If a suitable fullback material was not found in the ranks he will try an adequate pass defense using either three quarters or a fullback. Coach Fogg commented on filling the Horsemen's secondary. Don McCallister has shown all speed as do the Marston brothers but inexperience at the halves is what the yearlings lack. The Cynic reporter was unable to get the positions of the freshmen.

Coach Fogg has issued a call for freshmen candidates to report to the field house at 4:30 this afternoon. Equipment will be issued and practice will start immediately. Fogg has announced that he will try to have the yearlings ready to play a game with Middlebury on October 18.

Following is a list of the men who have reported for practice:

Ends: Bartlett, Bennett, Cochrane, Cowles, Davis, Conrad Davis, Fabiano, Fishman, N. Goldman, S. Goldman, Goldstein, Goodman, Goodsell, Hamilton, Haven, Ingram, Lapointe, LaTaille, Lippman, Lylerly, Martin, Mahar, Mickler, Palmer, Powers, Pratt, Rosen, Rurode, Seltzer, Spear, Waldman, Wellman, Witham, Whittier.

Al Weess, a promising 201-pound lineman, dislocated his shoulder in the initial drill and is through for the season.

Sports Cast

By "Itz"

The baseball season is rapidly reaching its climax as the New York Yankees await their National League opponent for the World Series of 1941. From here Durocher's valiant Dodgers still look good. But baseball news is being crowded into the corners of the sports pages as King Football begins to come into his own. Pre-season talk and predictions are usurping most of the space. Boston College, the East's new football champion, hoomed her debut with a crushing 78-0 victory over St. Anselm. The Tennessee Vols tossed their hat into the ring by annexing their thirty-third regular season victory in a 32-6 battle with Furman's Hurricane. Vermont's traditional rivals, the star-studded aggregation of veteran Norwich Horsemen, gave evidence of their power by downing the Montclair Teachers 27-6.

The much-talked about T-formation which is successfully replacing the wing formations at many schools is being dealt severe verbal blasts from many corners, but then Derry Myers, B. C.'s new guide, seems satisfied and so do many of the western schools. The most revolutionary change in the rules provides that a coach may substitute the same man as many times during the game as he chooses. The rule may liven the play, but slow the game and bring more of the coach's strategy at crucial points, but it will also be a constant source of irritation as Saturday night quarterbacks proceed to subject the coach to derogatory criticism for not substituting this or that player at the right time.

The Green and Gold Machine

Vermont's gridiron representatives will be green in more than one respect this year as Coach Fuzzy Evans and Roy Wietz face the momentous problem of building a winning eleven on a foundation of but four of last year's starters and twenty-seven building blocks. The team will be one of the lightest in the last four years. From Saturday's scrimmage comes a clue to the main weapon of the Vermont attack—the forward pass. Fuzzy has three good chuckers in Al Shaw, Johnny Spasyk, and Joe Alpert and two good receivers in Whizzer White and Pat Patterson. Spasyk, Rice and Mayforth will probably do most of the toting, and if Misty can carry like he can block, woe to the opposition.

The varsity will scrimmage the frosh today in preparation for their opening tilt with Northeastern, Saturday. Further clues to the Green and Gold attack can be investigated today. The offense will have to be swift and sure and the play wide open.

Those Weighty Frosh

Coach Sherry Fogg's summons for frosh candidates brought a turnout that would warm any coach's heart. Thirty-seven frosh of assorted shapes and sizes put themselves at Sherry's disposal and the beauty of the situation is that most of these boys have had previous experience in high or prep schools. Of course Coach Fogg will have to break these boys into a new system, but this should not be too difficult a task. Sherry's first problem was one of an unusual nature. It consisted in finding a uniform for 272-pound Leo Spear.

The frosh eleven will sport some mighty heavy boys. Phidippides and I took a few of them back from practice the other day and I never before heard "Piggy" squawk or groan in such agony.

Vermont Tops in Cattle Judging

The University of Vermont cattle judging team of C. C. Drown of Newport, D. P. Dana of North Pomfret, and R. L. Carlson of South Ryegate, with A. C. Smith of Barton alternate, September 16 retained possession of the Charles Cox Cup won last year, as the best collegiate cattle judging team in New England.

The Vermonters, representing the State in competition with the five other New England States and with New York Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Maryland, topped the New England group and placed fourth in the competition among the representatives of the ten state agricultural colleges.

In all-breeds judging Drown placed [illegible] among thirty contestants and Dana [illegible]. George D. Parrish was coach of the team.

Film actress Gale Sondergaard is a daughter of a former University of Minnesota professor.

Gardner Appointed

Prof. Larry Gardner, popular baseball coach at the University of Vermont, was recently appointed associate director of athletics at the University, at a special meeting of the Athletic Council. Professor Gardner's appointment was necessitated by a shift in staff reorganization, caused by the resignation of Sabin C. Abell as graduate manager. This appointment does not affect Larry's status as baseball coach or as assistant professor of physical education for men.

Freshman Girls at First Mass Meeting

Dean Simpson Tells of Sesqui Program

The Women's Student Union, comprising all the women students of the University, held its first meeting at Southwick Wednesday night under the capable direction of Joanna Metcalf '42, President of the Union. After a brief speech of welcome by the President, the members of Student Union Council were introduced to the student body as follows:

Marjorie Abell '43, first vice-president; June Hoffman '43, second vice-president; Mary Lib Metcalf '44, secretary; Mary Tuckerman '42, house chairman; Doris Welch '43, assistant house chairman; Barbara Gallagher '42, chief justice; Joené Agard '42, scholarship chairman; Frances Abel '42, social chairman; Patricia Pike '43, town representative; Natalie Spear '43, Health Council representative; Janet Hackwell '43, Marjorie Witham '43, Louise Davis '42, members of judiciary committee. The office of treasurer was unfilled due to the failure of that officer elected last year to return to college. Election ballots were distributed at the close of the meeting.

Following the reading of the minutes of the last meeting of last year and the reading of the Student Union Constitution by various members of the Council, Mrs. Janet A. Bickford, social director of the University, was introduced. She gave a sincere welcome to the entering and returning students and expressed a desire that, in spite of the prospective opening of the new Waterman Building, Southwick might not be forgotten completely as a recreation center. U. V. M. Sesqui Program Set For Oct. 3-4-5; J. R. Angell of Yale to Speak

Each College To Have Own Program With Conferences First Day; Dr. Dewey Here

The program for the University of Vermont ... observance ... October 3, 4 and 5 was announced today by Dean Hector J. Plaisance, general chairman of committees.

Friday, October 3, will be College Day; Saturday, Convocation Day; Sunday, Alumni Day. Alumni however are expected to have an active share in all events and several are listed for a part on the program.

On Friday each college will have its own sessions, speakers, tours of the buildings and conferences on advancement of learning and changes in educational methods. All colleges are meeting together at the close of the day, following their individual meetings, and will be presided over by Dr. John Dewey of the class of 1879, distinguished American philosopher. The speaker at the general meeting will be James R. Angell, ex-president of Yale University.

Dean Nicholson to Speak

On Saturday a formal convocation will be held in the gymnasium annex with the Rev. Robert F. Joyce '17, of Northfield, as chaplain, and Dean Marjorie H. Nicholson of Smith and Columbia as speaker. Following the general assembly, the ceremonies incident to the dedication of the new Waterman Building will be held, with faculty, students and alumni and friends in attendance at the building. The presentation address will be given by Elroy Newton Clark of Denver, Colo., who is making the journey to offer a final tribute to his classmate at the University and lifelong friend, the late U. S. Senator Charles W. Waterman, class of 1885. Another classmate of Waterman's, William Herman Hopkins of Albany, N. Y., will be the chaplain.

Football Game a Feature

The football game with Trinity will draw many to Centennial Field in the afternoon. This event will constitute this fall's homecoming game. The cane rush will take place between the halves. At the same time open house and a program of demonstrations by the women's athletic departments will be conducted at Southwick Memorial Building.

Gen. Brice Disque Called to Service

U. V. M. Business Mgr. Departs For Capital

Brig. Gen. Brice P. Disque, temporary business manager of the University of Vermont for the past three weeks, left yesterday for Washington, D. C., where he has been called into active military service.

Although he resigned from the army in 1919, General Disque, now sixty-two, has maintained his commission in the reserves ever since and was therefore subject to call. He received his orders in the form of a telegram, cutting short his stay at the University where he and Dr. Paul C. Packer, temporary president, were teaming together under a sixty-day appointment by the board of trustees to furnish U. V. M. with a combination of business and educational leadership during the period of its preliminary financial rehabilitation.

"Not Wholly Unexpected"

"The order to report came so suddenly," said General Disque, "that I haven't yet had a chance to inform the trustees. Doctor Packer, however, knows that I was in line for a call. I was in Washington a few days ago and while there talked with War Department officials about a special problem they had in mind. The order was not wholly unexpected as far as I was concerned, but it came sooner than I thought it would."

General Disque expressed great regret at the necessity for leaving Burlington and the University. "I'm sorry I have to leave right now. Burlington is a place in which I'd like to live. As for the University, the hardest part of that job seems to be over. It doesn't really require the administration it is getting under the present set-up. One head is enough. Only be careful and pick a good one. When a good president is found, I hope people won't be afraid in the light of past experiences to let him run the University."

Will Continue to Help

Even though he leaves his work at the University, General Disque asserted, "There are things I can and will do for the University while in Washington. This situation at the University is only temporary and is rapidly being ironed out. I'd like to stay to see it brought to a successful completion. But as I said before, the hardest part of the task is over. Now all that it needs is good administration and cooperation from the alumni and friends."

First Campus Sing On Library Steps

Professor Ladd and Alfred Anne '41, who are to be this year's sponsors of Vermont's campus sings, will hold the first one of the college year tonight, Friday, at 7.15. As in the past, it will be held on the steps of the Billings Library through the kindness of the librarian, Miss Helen Shattuck.

Mr. George Millikan of the Political Science faculty, well known on campus for his unusual musical talent, will lead the singing. Song books containing words to all popular college songs will be used. The sponsors will donate refreshments.

It is hoped that members of the faculty will join with the students in making this relatively new activity a success so that more may be held in the future.

Called Into Service

BRIG.-GEN. BRICE P. DISQUE

W. A. A. to Go to Port Kent on Sat.

All Girls Welcome; To Hike Up Mountain

Highlight for this coming Saturday's activities for the girls of the college will be the boat ride across the lake to Port Kent, sponsored by W. A. A. Although this occasion marks the end of the Big Sister-Little Sister period, everyone will be welcome. A hike, softball game, and various other diversions are planned for the afternoon's entertainment and there will be an opportunity to buy food on the other side of the lake. In order that the boat may start promptly, it is requested that everyone be at the dock at 1.30 p.m. with the correct change of 35 cents. Slacks may be worn.

Anyone who wishes to return before the appointed hour may do so by notifying one of the six sponsors who will be in charge of separate groups, as the boats run and the hour. The sponsors are Barbara Robinson '43, Marjorie Abell '43, Cathryn Grier '43, Sally Rome '42, Harriet Nelson '42 and Nancy Fawcett '44.

A council meeting was held Tuesday evening and the councillors-at-large will be announced at a later date.

First Convocation Held; Dr. Jacobs Greets Frosh

On Wednesday, September 24 Prof. F. C. Jacobs of the geology department opened the first convocation in the Ira Allen Chapel with a welcome to the class of '45. Professor Jacobs also presented the Sigma Gamma Sorority with the Interfraternity Scholastic Cup. He commented on the excellent scholarship of the young women in this sorority. After this the anthem, "Prayer of Thanksgiving," was rendered by twenty-five members of the Chapel Choir directed by Professor Bennett. The morning address was given by the Rev. H. V. Hines of Woodstock, Vt.

At a recent meeting the Faculty of the College of Arts and Sciences voted that the Howard Prizes for excellence in scholarship during the freshman year be awarded to Mr. John O. Corliss, who led his class in scholarship, and Mr. Saul Boyarsky, who stood second.

Each of these men had an average of better than 95 for the work of the freshman year.—E. Swift, Dean.

Seniors First in Scholarship Here

Senior men and women ranked in scholastic grades above all other undergraduates last year at the University of Vermont according to figures just released from the administration offices. That covers all students except medical students. Those included are agricultural, arts and science and engineering students. The senior women hit their books for an average grade of 81.60, and the men for 80.42, making a class average of 80.99. The only group to top this were post-graduate students and special students who set up an average of 83.07.

With the seniors leading the scholastic race among the regular classes, the juniors came in second, the sophomores third and the freshmen last. In each instance the women were ahead of the men, and in each instance the difference between them increased as the class year advanced.

The junior women scored an 80.89 average and the men 78.63, making a class average of 79.73. The sophomores stood at 76.48 for the women, 74.71 for the men, 75.61 for the class. The freshman rating was 76.76 for the women, 70.47 for the men, 73.72 for the class.

The scholastic average for all classes of the undergraduate colleges was 77.06.

New Light on College Failures

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

New light was thrown on the problem of college scholastic failures through surveys at two Pennsylvania institutions.

State College learned to its surprise that only a third of its reinstated students win diplomas after their reinstatement. Muhlenberg College at Allentown reported success with an innovation in course designed to bring up the level of freshman grades.

Penn State's school of liberal arts is considering rigid tightening of restrictions governing reinstatements, as a result of its findings in this respect.

Dean Charles W. Stoddart, reporting the results of 86 readmissions in a three-year period, commented he was "very much surprised" to find that only thirty-two were later graduated, of the remainder, twenty-five failed again and twenty-nine withdrew.

"Apparently," he declared, "we had been so much impressed by the distinguished fine records of some reinstated students that we did not realize how badly the others did."

Muhlenberg's change in study routine was introduced at the opening of the new all-freshman dormitory last fall. Freshman Dean Harry A. Benfer found that the number of first-year students earning passing grades in all courses jumped from 49 percent to 73 percent in the first year of the new system.

Despite more rigid academic standards freshmen this year have earned higher grades than ever before recorded at Muhlenberg.

In War Department

In returning to the army, General Lucas will be going back to a life he left twenty-two years ago. He resigned from active duty because he said, "They wouldn't let me be a soldier." Rising from the rank of a second lieutenant to brigadier general from 1899 to 1919, he had built up a reputation as a military executive officer and most assignments found him at a desk in an organizing capacity.

To Be in Office

He admitted that his new job is that of a military executive officer, but he hopes to see some tactical service in connection with it. "My job is in the War Department office. There are some 2,000 U. S. Army Post exchanges (stores) scattered over the world. The War Department wants them organized more along the [illegible] with its resulting economies.

Because the transfers have not yet been completed it is not known definitely where General Lucas will be stationed. Despite rumors that the Lucases will leave Burlington in the near future, no definite announcement has been made. Mrs. Lucas will remain in Burlington with her daughter, Mrs. Robert Wolfe, and her son, Lieutenant Lucas, who is stationed at Fort Ethan Allen.

There will be a meeting of the advertising staff of the CYNIC Tuesday, September 30, at 1:15 p.m., in the CYNIC office. Attendance required.—WILLIAM PIERCE.

Tryout for the U. V. M. Players fall play to be held at 4:00 p.m. today in Room 1, North College. All classes eligible.

The Methodist College Group will meet at the Parsonage on Sunday evening at 7:30.

University of Texas scholastic figures show that high school students in the top 25 percent of their class last year passed 88 percent of their freshman work. Frosh Scrimmage With Varsity

The Green and Gold varsity knew they were in a football game Wednesday afternoon when an hour of scrimmage was held with the Kittens.

Those frosh were right in there although they were scored upon three times and played a purely defensive game. An outstanding factor in the scrimmage was the teamwork displayed by the freshmen, most of whom have had previous experience.

Eklund and Martin, two Rutland boys clicked together knocking down the varsity interference in short order.

The touchdowns were scored by Misty Rice and Whizzer White, who took passes from Al Shaw and by Bob Patterson, who ran thirty yards to cross the goal line. Outside of the varsity air attack, the yearlings kept the senior Cats' ground game to but a few yards a try; at times the frosh had the audacity to spill the opposition for losses. Allowances must also be made for the fact that some promising frosh linemen were absent due to religious observance.

By far the most outstanding aspect of the grid Kits is the wealth of backfield talent. With Chuck Lapointe, Jim Fabiano, Monk Martin and Mickey Cochrane doing excellent work, Sherry can turn his mind to the line, where he is faced by a knotty problem.

Although the linesmen tote plenty of beef, they are not exactly blinding in speed. Ecklund, LaTaille and Whittier however, are assured of starting slots in the opener with Vermont Junior College, October 4.

A serious problem for Coach Fogg is a snapperback, but with a thirty-seven man squad, it should not be too difficult to unearth some hidden talent.

The Kittens meet for the first time Wentworth Institute, and it is a matter of much speculation as to how the squad will do against a team it has never met before.

Cats Tangle With Veteran Huskies in Bay State Blitz

Friday the University of Vermont football team will leave for Boston, where it will open the season against Northeastern University's Huskies. This marks the Green and Gold's first invasion of the Bay State metropolis since it played Harvard several years ago.

Boston reports on the intown institution's eleven are very favorable and seem to indicate that N. U. has a much stronger team than it had last season. Captain Joe Dias is the sparkplug of the Huskies. Last year, it will be remembered, he tore the U. V. M. line to shreds in the second half, and more than once he broke into the open, only to be caught by desperately lunging Vermonters. Dias also did a neat job of bewildering the U. V. M. secondary with his amazingly accurate bullet passes.

The center of the N. U. line will be considerably bolstered by Phil Sheridan, who last season started the U. V. M. game as blocking back. By the end of the season Sheridan had played every position on the team. This year, as center, he has proven himself to be a bearcat on defense and an accurate snapper back.

Coach Dunn, the rival mentor, has called off all scrimmaging for the rest of the week, because four of his starters have received slight injuries. The four invalids are Konnie McKinnon, regular end; Bob Otenti, sophomore wing back; Ed Sukouritz, star spinning back; and Len Erickson, sensational veteran guard.

On the home front, U. V. M. has concluded its scrimmages with the strong frosh team and Coach Evans is now in a position to know his team's ability. If this week's scrimmages are any criterion, Vermont may play a very ragged game Saturday, but it will, on the other hand, display a great deal of spirit and also much more power than many expect.

The line will be on a par with the 1940 frontier. Phil Chesarone will be back at center as will Bill Benoit at guard. The other guard position will be filled either by newcomer Frank Swift or by Red Dorion, who saw action last year. Veteran Harry Parris has been a standout this week at tackle. His partner on the other side of the line will probably be big Roger Prior. The ends will be taken care of by veterans Bob Paterson and Whizzer White. However, Bart Barry and Len Kunken, sophomore wings, have played very flashy ball all week against the yearlings, and they may play half of the game against the Huskies.

The backfield situation is rather good, with veterans Misty Rice and Johnny Spasyk showing the form that made them so outstanding last year. Harry Parker and Al Shaw may be the other two starters.

Coach Evans has a couple of surprise packages for the Huskies, in the persons of Hal Mayforth, sophomore "galloping ghoul," and Joe Alpert, passer and punter par excellence.

All in all, Saturday's tussle at Huntington Field is going to be a tough one. Northeastern has a more experienced and a heavier team than the Cats, but the Huskies are perennially late starters. Vermont will present a team which will make up in fight and spirit what it lacks in weight. This fact was proven in the scrimmages with the frosh. One thing is certain, the Green and Gold will not leave the campus tomorrow in a very confident mood, and Northeastern will be very wary of the Green Mountain Boys and will play cautiously throughout the game.

Harriers Report For Practice

Slump in Number Of Frosh Runners

Another season for the Green and Gold "hill and dalers" began on Tuesday when Coach Archie Post assembled his charges for a brief workout. This year finds the Vermont harriers out to seek their eighth straight state title.

Aiding the cause are Lettermen Ford and Charles Webster, this year's co-captains, Jim Holt, Merle Crown, and Norm Stoddard.

Others who ran the long distance last year and who have reported are: Bert Mott, sophomore star sprinter and hurdler who won the 220 yard E. I. C. A. A. title at Worcester, Mass., last year; Duncan Corliss; John Goss; Len Harrington; Bob Steinman; Daan Zwick; Reg White; and Dick Grosvenor.

Last year's frosh team is contributing much in the way of good material. Those of the freshman team who reported to Coach Post are: John Corliss, Bob Goss, Bob Lockwood, Martin McLaren, Dave Wright, Bob Bennett, and George Owens.

The first meet will be on October 4, Homecoming Day, when the Vermont cross-country men meet Union.

Freshman Cross-Country

This year there was a decided slump in the turnout for freshman cross-country. Only nine men reported to Coach Post and of these nine only three have had previous experience.

Those who turned out are: Neill Aiken, Everett Andrews, Howard Bryden, Irving Goldstein, Konrad Stokes, Randall Mershon, Benjamin Vail, Gerald Greemore and Lennie Paul.

Chicago, Ill.—(ACP)—The nation's universities and colleges are keeping pace with the government's defense program, in the opinion of Maj. John L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics of the Western conference.

Physical preparedness programs in the colleges, he said, have two objectives: providing of trained leaders in the field and building of fitness in youth through intensive athletic training and participation.

As evidence of expanding athletic programs in the colleges, the Big Ten athletic czar pointed out that physical plant and facilities of the ten schools have been increased in worth $19,844, 319 since 1919. Accompanying the physical expansion has been a 67.3 percent increase in personnel, coaches, intramural athletics and physical education directors.

"Judas Maccabaeus" To Be Presented

Anselmo Is Soloist On Sunday Concert

As a final function of the week-end celebration a large chorus of the University Choir, students, faculty members and interested townspeople will present a large portion of the well known Handel oratorio, "Judas Maccabaeus." Accompanying the chorus will be Chapel Orchestra with Michael Anselmo as concert master.

Feature of the concert will be a violin solo by Mr. Anselmo accompanied by Miss Marston, "Sonata in G Minor" by Tartini. As the prelude Miss Marston will play "Adagio from the Tenth Concerto" by Handel. The postlude will be the "Allegro" from the same concerto.

Two of the soloists for the concert are of last year's graduating class, Paul Poulin and Thomas Malone; they are both coming from outside the state in order to be in this concert.

The story of the oratorio makes it especially fitting to be presented at this time. Dealing with the trials and tribulations of a conquered people, it describes their struggle for freedom.

The tentative program is as follows: From "Judas Maccabaeus"
Chorus—Mourn, ye afflicted children; Chorus—For Sion Lamentation make; Chorus—O Father, whose Almighty power; Baritone aria—Arm, arm, ye brave, Robert Goss '44; Tenor aria—O Liberty, Thomas Malone '41; Soprano and alto duet—Come, ever smiling liberty, Theresa Coderre '43 and Marjorie Southworth '43; Chorus—Sion now her head shall raise; Chorus—Ah! wretched, wretched Israel!; Tenor aria—Sound an alarm, Paul Poulin '41; Chorus—We hear the pleasing dreadful call; Alto aria—Father of Heav'n, Marjorie Southworth '43; Soprano recitative—O grant it,

Campus Sing Led By Prof. Millikan

300 Students and Faculty Gather on Library Steps

The most successful campus sing ever held on the Vermont campus took place Friday eveing at 7.15 when over 300 students and members of the faculty met for an hour of fun on the steps of the Billings Library.

Prof. George Millikan of the Political Science Department, always a favorite of both students and faculty, was at his best as he directed the singing, and much of the honor for the unusual success of the sing goes to him

Much credit is due the sponsors, Professor Ladd and Alfred Amee '43, who have taken over the activity for this year and who so generously threw out peanuts to all present. Professor Ladd spoke briefly and asked the students to carry on to an even higher degree in the future that new Vermont spirit which predominated over the campus that evening. Alfred Amee expressed his gratitude for the fine turnout and led the group in a cheer for Professor Millikan, without whom, he said, the sing would hardly have been a success.

Plans are underway for another campus sing to be held in the near future. Two barrels of apples have already been ordered, and 200 new song books are being printed. Watch the CYNIC for further announcements.

Freshmen Visit Milton Orchards

Freshman students in Horticulture I recently went to the Winnesquam Orchards at Milton, which are owned and operated by Mark H. Moody and Ruth Moody of Waterbury.

The object of the trip was to study harvesting operations in a commercial orchard, where as many as six thousand bushels are being picked this year, and where special attention was paid to the use of a mechanical sizing machine which sorts the apples according to width and size into as many grades as are desired. The machine in operation was capable of sizing as many as six hundred bushels in a single day.

After studying the sorting, grading, stamping, and branding, of the fruit in its several fancied packages, a trip through the orchard was made to study production of different varieties and methods of handling the harvesting crew.

Interfraternity Dance To Be Held October 11

This year the Interfraternity Dance will be held on the evening of Saturday, October 11. This is just at the close of men's rushing, and the dance is sponsored for fraternity men and the new pledges. Thus far the co-chairmen, Bob Hennessey '43 and Ed Blakely '43, have divulged no news about this gala affair. For further details, or should we say just details, about the time, place, and identity of the orchestra, peruse your CYNIC prolongedly.

Phi Sigs to Hold Dance

This Saturday from 6 to 8 p.m., Phi Sigma Delta Fraternity will held its first tea dance and open house of the 1941 fall season.

In charge of the dance are Bernard Rynowecer '42, Joe Margolis '44 and Stan Feldman '44. Prof. and Mrs. Long will chaperone. A delegation of Delta Phi Epsilon Sorority will assist in serving.

Open House To Be Held at Southwick

Dance Group to Repeat Part of Lilac Pageant

Southwick Memorial Building will be held open to guests here for the Sesquicentennial celebration, on Saturday, October 4. Visitors are invited to inspect the facilities of the building from 4.00 to 4.30 p.m. and tea will be served from 4.00 to 6.00.

The Department of Physical Education for Women will present a demonstration of sports and dancing in the afternoon. At 4.30 p.m., there will be a demonstration of badminton, archery, shuffleboard, fencing, and other sports, in the gymnasium. At 5.00 p.m., the Dance Workshop group will repeat a scene from the Lilac Day pageant, given last May. The pageant, as a whole presented a history of the dance from primitive to modern American. The part chosen as a fitting performance for the Sesquicentennial celebration is the American Scene showing the American contribution to the art of the dance. Dances included will be: Indian Hunting Dance (authentic dance steps of the Sioux Indians), Negro Soft Shoe Dance, American Square Dancing, Jazz (a modern study in syncopation), and Rhythm of Eleven (a modern dance study in 11/8 meter).

Dance Group

The girls taking part in the dancing are:

Marjorie Abell, Cynthia Bailey, Marguerite Benoit, Louise Bianchi, Dorothy Bourne, Ita Casey, Margaret Charles, Patricia Crowley, Janet Dike, Julia Fletcher, Abbe Fritche, Sophie Gorney, Claire LaFray, Mary Lyle, Elinor Nolan, Anne Olmsted, Patricia Pike, Elizabeth Richards, Cleone Riggie, Betsy Roberts, Ellen Stewart, Mary Tuckerman, Dorothy Bullard, Carol Burns, Beatrice Buttles, Norma Charest, Elizabeth Deming, Margaret Durfee, Margaret Fake, Alma Gaylord, Myra Gray, Ramona Hathorn, Mary Hoag, Dorothy Johnson, Ione Lacy, Barbara Lane, Morna Lang, Marie Lanou, Hilda Lund, Frances Mayville, Jane McAuliffe, Harriet Nelson, Ellen O'Brien, Hazel Osgood, Carolyn Phelps, Marion Rhoades, Gertrude Sherman, Betty Smith, Claradella Snow, Nancy Whittemore, Corinne Willard, Mary Williams, Dorothy Wimett.

Five honorary degrees will be conferred as a part of the sesquicentennial celebration of the University of Vermont being observed October 3, 4 and 5. The degrees will be given Saturday, October 4, in connection with the morning convocation exercises at which Marjorie Hope Nicholson of Columbia University will speak.

Recipients of the degrees will be Marjorie Hope Nicholson, professor of English, Columbia University, and William Allan Neilson, president emeritus of Smith College, both receiving the degree of doctor of humane letters; Elliott Carr Cutler, Mosley Professor of Surgery, Harvard University, doctor of science; Elroy Newton Clark, attorney, Denver, Colo., and William Henry Wills, Governor of the State of Vermont, doctors of laws.

Prizes to Battalion

On Saturday morning at 8.30, preceding the academic procession which will form at 9.15, there will be prizes awarded to the Battalion on the front campus. Immediately after this, the academic procession will form for the convocation which will be held in the gymnasium annex at ten o'clock with President Packer presiding.

At the close of the convocation, the academic procession, headed by the band and the Battalion will proceed to the front campus opposite the Waterman building. Here there will be a short program. The highlight will be the dedication, presentation and acceptance of that beautiful addition to our campus, the Charles Winfield Waterman and the Anna R. Waterman Memorial Building. We have watched with increasing awe and admiration as this lovely structure has grown, and now, at last, we are to see it on the inside as well as on the outside. What an excellent supplement to our University this building will be, I think few of us realize.

First the building is to be dedicated by Mr. Elroy Newton Clark '85 of Denver, Colo. Then it is to be presented to the University by Mr. Clark. He was a classmate of Mr. Waterman's, and it seems

Mortar Board Dance To Be Held Oct. 18

On Saturday evening, October 18, the women of the campus will have an opportunity to take the men of their choice to the annual Mortar Board dance at Southwick. This semi-formal affair, sponsored by the senior women's honor society of Mortar Board, is one of the outstanding events of the year at which the girls take the initiative and invite the men.

Committees are already at work on plans for the dance. Nancy Goodwin is general chairman of the event, Gratia Pearl will attend to the decorations, Gloria Oling Frank is in charge of tickets, and Barbara Gallagher is the chaperon committee. Tickets at $1.10 per couple will be on sale in the near future, and further details concerning the dance will be published in the CYNIC.

Point Counterpoint

By Jacob Katz '44

Crisis

It is [illegible] to speak of a crisis of democracy as we always look for a scapegoat in order not to blame ourselves. And [illegible] is human weakness or unavoidable fate [illegible] beyond the possible influence of any [illegible] government we call lightly crises of democracy.

The conception of democracy needs to be clarified. We cannot discuss it in the space at this command to that extent as is necessary but let us find out one or two basic points.

Democracy is not made safe by even the best constitution because democracy has always to learn and improve. One thing above all must be kept in mind; namely, that democracy is only a form of government, a form the substance of which is the people. It is somewhat ridiculous to say that democracy has failed, because at last it is only the people which can fail.

Democracy is nothing else but the form in self-discipline which a people has laid upon itself. It is the idea of the community ready to take the responsibility which is attached to those who advocate arbitrariness of the privileged few and the slavery of the many. Thus in the end, the attack of the dictators is not directed against democracy, which is only a form, but against the people—first it was their own people, now it is the foreign nations. It is the attack upon our very rights as human beings and only if we are ready to accept the lives of slaves we shall not resist.

One more distinction behooves us to make, namely, that it is not our right to impose democracy on the world. Don't misunderstand me, I only want to see that it is our opportunity to give the misled nations of the world another chance to choose their own way of living. If a ship on the high seas sends any sign which can help us, it is the human duty to give as much assistance as possible. When nations go down, when nations lose their course, their true people have to bring effective help even if they will reach the top only after all the own goals years later. We haven't done so, we have a crisis.

The crisis of democracy, however, is in reality a crisis of man. But that must not despair us completely. No things were great at their beginnings. Slaves on their way to a greater freedom still longed for the meatpots of slavery. If we wish, we shall be great in our decisive hour. Achievement is reached in the end. Today there is much talk about the future of America. Its destiny will be decided in these days because today America has to prove its efficiency, its firmness of will, its readiness to sacrifice, its greatness.

More than 2,000 years ago the mighty emperor of Persia marched out for the easy task of subjugating the little nation of the Greeks. In his majestic rage he ordered that even a swelling stream, the floods of which had caused a delay to his Imperial troops, should be punished by being lashed with heavy iron chains. Certainly his soldiers desired glory and power. But the gallant Greeks possessed something more and that was their conception of the dignity of man. Therefore, they were victorious. It is this conception of human dignity which is the fundamental idea of democracy. Today we again appeal to the dictators boasting of a "new order" the eternal order of democracy, eternal because it has its foundation in the dignity of man, an ideal which remains unchanged in all ages.

University of New Mexico student employment director recently sent out a call for an experienced egg candler.

Dissatisfied at U. V. M.? Try College in China!

New York City—(ACP)—Do you think you're having a hard time with College? If you do, try getting your education the Chinese way.

According to a writer in the Columbia University Spectator, you start off by cutting your food allowance down to 15 cents a week—including all meals. For shelter you can spend 5 cents a week, if you can't find anything cheaper, but you must plan your budget so you don't spend more than $10 a year, for your entire support; food, clothing, shelter, and books. Dorms hold thirty to a room.

Classes start at 6.30 a.m. That is so they'll be over by ten when "Japanese visitors" are likely to begin arriving. When that happens you run to a nearby cave, if your campus is lucky enough to have a cave, and classes, if unfinished, continue in there until the bombs stop falling.

Books and college equipment are very little bother. Most of such material was destroyed in the eastern universities. Since then the remainder of your college has travelled about three thousand miles on foot and set itself up in a few old farmhouses in the west. Here, the information available comes out of the professor's knowledge, and a few notes and books that were light enough to carry. For recreation you can take turns with your thousand colleagues, playing with the one basketball.

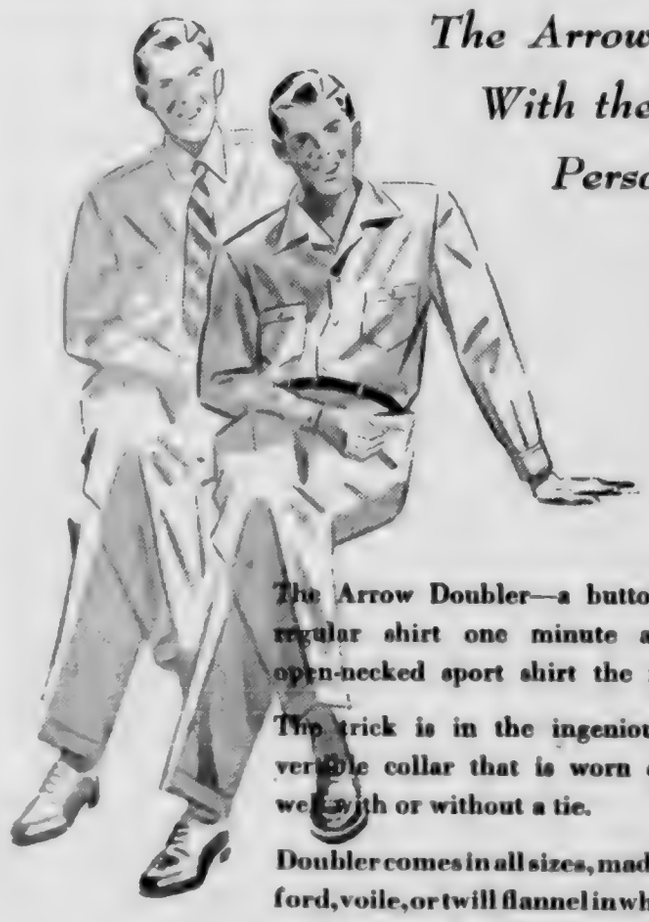
Campus Comment

To the Editor of the Cynic

The first home football game of the season is Saturday. May I hereby request a few pleas in regard to the occasion.

To the athletic manager: Please may we have a reserved cheering section for students, somewhere near the band. This was achieved two years ago and forgotten last year. When we had one, the cheering was really improved.

To the cheerleaders and band: Is it possible to quench your peculiar genius for starting cheers and songs just at the most crucial moment when no one wants to interrupt his absorption in the game. Those cheers can be shifted to the times when they are really needed—those dead points when the cheerleaders here-to-fore have sat around looking rather listless and a great silence prevails. When the team needs cheering up in action—"Hit that line" is much easier than counting the seven rahs in that complicated cheer when you are watching a tricky play. Cheerleaders, please spread out so everyone can see you. We can't cheer if we don't know what goes on.



To the men's honoraries: It has been shown that you can assist the cheerleaders. I remember one game where Carl Schofield and Red Robinson, Boulder '40 did more to stir up spirit in the stands than all the cheerleaders. And why don't you get together with the cheerleaders and band before your smokers and map out a really well organized pep rally that doesn't just flop at the end. It can be done.

Let's hope the freshman's wonderful spirit is catching, and make this a turning point in the eternal fight for better spirit.

at score our Cats succumbed by last Saturday doesn't mean a thing as far as concerned except to put it down as a loss for the season. What we were pri- interested in was how our boys lost, and from what we've heard prospects for ure are far from the dismal picture that presented itself at the beginning of the year.

takes a good team to capitalize on every break that presents itself and our ce off in that direction to Coach "Jimmy" Dunn's Northeastern eleven, but in to the boys from the home of the "Baked Beans," the Cats scored nine first to their opponents six and gained seventy-eight yards in passing to the Huskies seven. What noticeable weakness there was in the Green and Gold eleven ed on the ground attack and there the Vermonters were outrushed 130 yards vards, nearly two to one.

owever, what we're driving at is that it took the "breaks" to beat this '41 edition Green and Gold and Coach Fuzzy Evans, his boys, and the entire student body nd should look forward with heads up to future games and especially toward ng that Norwich gridiron machine.

ecial commendations go to "Johnny" Spasyk, Capt. "Misty" Rice, who played .. terrific handicap (an eye that was half closed), and to those sophomores who, hat they've found out what it's all about, should make it plenty tough for the tion. Heads up, boys!

t Saturday

e Trinity football team which comes here Saturday for that Homecoming Day presents a small, but bristling array that will be fresh from a 20-0 shellacking istered to Union last week. Picking the best from his fine array of frosh last the Connecticut team's coach has moulded a well-oiled machine and it also ts one of the hardest-hitting centers in the East's small colleges. He's a compact rushing, pile-driving machine that goes by the name of Frank Fasi. Indispensable team last year, he's back with a wealth of experience behind him.

st year the Catamounts pushed Trinity all over the field, but lost 8-3. This we say they'll push Trinity around again, but this time we'll win.

ree years ago a big freshman, standing 6 ft. 2 in., and weighing 225 lbs. reported shman Coach "Fuzzy" Evans and because of ability and experience won himself c on that frosh edition of '38 as a starting tackle. He was in ecstasy when the those making the trip to Green Mountain Junior College was announced and he hardly wait for the trip and his chance in the opening game. This boy was to start the game, the first of the season for the frosh, and raced onto the field uit the whistle and the opening kick-off. But tragedy was lurking on the football hat day. On the opening play a terrific block thrown at the big fellow buckled nee in such a way that he went down and could only stand up again with the his fellow players. He was immediately taken out of the game and further nation showed a torn ligament and an operation on the knee was necessary. boy stayed in the hospital for six weeks and then got around with the use of es and a cane. e Norwich Horsemen got their first big test of the season and absorbed a 35-0 g from a Dartmouth team which may go places this year and certainly will have t team next year. It was a good ball game for the first half, but once Dartmouth dling there was no stopping.

ow well this beating augurs for the Cadets' future opponents cannot be told here, ure have been plenty of times when a potentially good team has never recovered one beating. We don't predict this for the Norwich team because two of their acks didn't play, but we do think it's silly for small colleges to keep being ed by the "big boys" year after year just on the assumption that once in fifty they may pull an upset. A more evenly matched game is better for the schools, e crowds, and for the players.

Cats to Meet Huskies at Centennial Field in Homecoming Day Battle

Cat Footballers Fall Fighting to Northeastern Team

Johnny Spasyk Scores Touchdown on End Run; Barry Shines in Debut

Jimmy Dunn's Northeastern University football students required three breaks in order to defeat a fighting, deceptive University of Vermont eleven before a crowd that nearly reached 3,000 at Huntington Field in Brookline. The score, 20 to 6, was hardly indicative of the respective merits of the two opposing forces, as the battle raged furiously until the final gun.

Northeastern has been in the pigskin doldrums for quite some time, but Dunn seems destined to lead his forces to a fairly successful season this year with more and better material than he has had to work with in some time. Saturday's contest marked the Huskies' first opening game victory in Dunn's five-year tenure as coach at the institution. It was also the highest score, believe it or not, the Huskies have rolled up in some time.

The Bostonians capitalized on three breaks to score their three touchdowns: a fumbled punt, a dubious penalty for clipping, and an intercepted pass doing the damage.

Northeastern wasted no time. After Vermont had kicked off, an exchange of punts placed the ball in the hands of the Huskies on their own 40-yard line. Foster punted to Spasyk on his 26-yard line, where he fumbled and Dillon fell on it. That was the first opportunity and Northeastern took advantage of it, the touchdown coming on a pass from Sakovitz to Otenti in the end zone. Although the conversion was blocked, Sakovitz retrieved it and carried it over for the point.

The second score was equally as sudden as the first. Northeastern kicked off to Vermont, and followed a few punt exchanges. Spasyk took a punt on his own goal line and lugged it to his 20, but the play was called back to the one-yard line due to a clipping penalty. The Huskies, bent on another score, pushed over another touchdown, Sakovitz scoring on a fake spinner. In the action preceding this second touchdown, Capt. Misty Rice received a terrific blow on the head and had to be taken out.

In the second quarter Vermont uncorked a beautiful passing game that carried them deep into enemy territory. Johnny Spasyk, a star all afternoon, threw a pass to Bob Paterson who made a miracle catch on the 3-yard line. Spasyk then scored with fine interference on an end run. The kick for extra point was low. Just as the whistle blew for half time Spasyk threw a pass to Bart Barry for a 23-yard gain.

It was still anybody's ball game in the second half until Northeastern gained their third break of the day. Vermont's passing attack was threatening seriously until Grey, Huskie center, intercepted a pass and galloped 60 yards for the final score of the day. He was nearly nailed by Bart Barry on the 15, but managed to keep going for the score, 20-6. The Cats threw more passes but did not threaten seriously again.

It was evident after Saturday's joust that the Catamounts are a fighting, scrappy team this year. The line fought all the way, and even came back in the second half to push the Huskie forward wall all around the field. Captain Rice, Johnny Spasyk and Bart Barry played beautiful ball. Misty Rice has an eye that is swollen to basketball proportions. Joe Dias and Sakovitz were luminaries for the Bostonians.

A number of alumni and friends were present at the game. Among those present were Austin Ross, Jack Husing, Dick Healy, Bill Murphy, Sammy Semansky, Jim Kendrick, Bob Kinney, Les Brown, Jud Richardson, Ralph Caccovo, Joe Wysolmerski. Misty Rice's father and sister, Whiz White's family and Tom Mulcare, former president of the Alumni Council.

Vermont Depending on Aerial Attack; Trinity Paced by Fast Sophomore Backs

Nonplussed by the reversal tagged on his Catamounts by an opportunistic Northeastern eleven, Vermont coach Fuzzy Evans readied his slim squad this week for Saturday's Burlington baptism. Trinity, 20 to 0 winner over Union in its first engagement, supplies the opposition.

"The score exaggerated the difference in strength between our boys and Jimmy Dunn's outfit," said Evans of the Northeastern game. "We played real football with them man for man and minute for minute. A combination of early bad breaks told the story."

An effective passing attack proved the Cats' best ground-gaining weapon against the Huskies, and the Vermont pitching staff, with fullback Al Shaw in the forefront, filled the air with passes in this week's drills. Pass coverage on the offense, which showed room for improvement at Boston, was also stressed. Other sore points which underwent smoothening included blocking and pass defense.

The varsity experimented with several new plays in scrimmages with the burly freshman squad. Trinity formations and plays, which, scouts reveal, basically resemble Vermont's system, were aped by the frosh.

The squad will face Trinity in better health than last week. No one is unavailable, and Hal Mayforth, sophmore scat back whose wrenched ankle sidelined him before the Northeastern meeting, is fully repaired. Reserve fullback Paul Pullmen, slightly hurt before the Huskie contest, is also ready.

Evans plans no major revisions in his starting lineup. Bart Barry, erstwhile end, will continue at halfback. Barry was in the backfield for the first time in his career last week and filled in more than adequately, in the eyes of the coaching staff. The shifting of Barry leaves the end squad, meager enough to start with, quite depleted. Evans and the line coach Roy Wietz are sifting the squad to find efficient replacements for the regular wing men, Whizzer White and Bob Paterson.

Trinity arrives here tomorrow in time to limber up at Centennial Field. The Connecticut gridsters boast a heralded sophomore contingent, paced by two speedy backs, Paul White and Charley Foster.

The probable lineups:

Williams First Foe Of Varsity Runners

Several Veterans Back Including Webster Boys

The varsity cross-country squad is gradually shaping into form for their first encounter with Williams on Saturday, October 4. This meet will be held the annual Homecoming Day at 12.30.

The Webster brothers, along with Mule Crown, Norm Stoddard, Reg White, Daan Zwick, and Jim Holt are the veterans, while Mott Grosvenor, Harrington, Corliss, Duncan have all done some distance running.

Mart McLaren and Bob Lockwood ran for the frosh last year, while Bob Bennett and Georgie Owens are making their initial stab.

Coach Archie Post believes he has a good turnout with a small nucleus and perhaps a good season should the green stalk produce.

freshman cross-country team has practicing a week now. Each day r o'clock these boys perform their about the front campus. Under the l guidance of Coach Archie Post boys are picking up the finer points art of running. The workouts have ted mainly of setting up exercises gging a few easy miles each day.

team faces five tough meets this with Dartmouth, Vermont State . Williamstown, Burlington and lbury, and Middlebury in the order

t year's freshman cross-country had a fairly successful campaign, ng five out of six meets. The only k of the season was administered by Dartmouth. It is no wonder that Archie is pointing for this year's meeting with Dartmouth.

So far only seventeen freshman hill and dalers have reported to Archie. More are wanted! Those who are out for the team are as follows: N. Aiken, H. Boyden, E. Andrew, K. Stokes, B. Vail, R. Mershon, I. Goldstein, G. H. Greenmore, G. Hamlin, I. Pattin, D. Divine, R. Danyon, N. H. Goodshell, E. Bluto, D. Phillips, B. Ker, and D. Danton.

Frosh to Play V. J. C. Saturday

This Saturday the Vermont Freshman football team leaves for Montpelier where it will engage a strong Vermont Junior College team. This game is to be the first of the season for the Kittens this year.

If Coach Fogg's charges emerge victorious, Vermont can be assured that its Frosh footballers will have a good year. V. J. C. has a good team this year, and the Kittens will have to be at their best to [illegible].

Coach Fogg has excellent backfield material at hand this year and he will use it to his best advantage. It is not green—it has had previous experience. Fogg has good material at hand—he has had sufficient time to look that material over and pick out whom he wants to use. As Coach Fogg puts it, "I am not going to predict whether we'll win, but you can rest assured that the team that takes the field is going to fight and play a "hellava" game of football. We may be young and inexperienced when it comes to actual games played together, but when we get through with V. J. C. they'll know that they've been in a football game."

This year the team is very fortunate in having with it exceptionally good players. The backfield will find LaPointe, Martin, Cochrane and Fabiano starting with Mahar substituting for Fabiano if the latter's foot gives him trouble. All these men are each individually capable of being a constant threat to V. J. C. LaPointe is a fine runner and passer. Martin a fine blocking back, and Cochrane and Fabiano also excel in running.

The line has been giving Sherry a little trouble. As yet he hasn't been able to find his best starting front line. This probably is because of the absence of linemen he has to work with. The only sure positions are Eklund at right end, LaFaille at left tackle, Ingram at right guard. The left end position finds Haven and Whittier fighting for the starting honors. Mickler, formerly a back, has been converted into an end and may get the nod. The left tackle position finds Rumble, Waldman and Bernstein battling for a starting berth. The left guard position is easier with only little Newty Goldman and Pratt vying for starting honors. The "Little Scrapper" will probably start for Newty has been showing good work and has been steadily improving. Center has been the main trouble and Sherry has alternately been trying Hamilton, Lippman and Lyerly for this position. Hal Bernstein may be shifted from left tackle to try his hand at this position.

Governor Wills

very fitting that he should make the presentation. President Packer will accept the new building on behalf of the University, and Miss Helen Witham '42 of Mortar Board Society and Mr. J. D. Sawyer '42 of Boulder Society will accept the building on behalf of the student body.

In an interview, the reporter asked Miss Witham what she expected to say when she accepted the Waterman Building on behalf of the student body.

She said, "Well I really don't know yet. I can't say the same thing Dave says. That's really all I know so far. After all the building is to be mainly for the men."

This part of the program will be closed by the band selection, "The Star Spangled Banner."

Scheduled for 12 noon Saturday in the comptroller's office at the University is the unveiling of the portrait of Col. E. Henry Powell, ex-'64, former treasurer of the University, with Mrs. Blanche Powell Spring, presiding. The Waterman Building, symbol of a new era in U. V. M. history. Keystone in the arch of 150 years of history.

150 Years of University History

Tomorrow the University of Vermont begins its celebration of 150 years of eventful history and educational service to the State. It is significant that this celebration comes right on the heels of one of the University's most serious periods of crisis and immediately after the state legislature in a special session made the necessary appropriations to keep the University operating. Governor Wills' courageous stand in the matter and the interest manifested over the fate of U. V. M. has given the editorial board of the CYNIC the hope that this sesquicentennial celebration looks to a prosperous future not to a troubled past. This issue is, therefore, intended as a reminder that the University is worth preserving. The brief history printed below is not complete but merely hits the highlights of a period which saw Vermont achieve statehood and Burlington grow from a logging settlement to a beautiful city. One hundred fifty years cover a nation's growth and a multitude of eventful changes. Today bears are no longer found on the front campus and tall elms instead of charred stumps beautify the landscape. Modern homes line College Street and no scrubby bushes clutter up the thoroughfares. Yes, history has come a long way since Ira Allen first stood here on the hill and dreamed up a University (and, incidentally, other enterprizes of greater profit but far less enduring).

So far as we can discover, the first official mention of founding a college in Vermont is in the constitution of 1777, which declared that "one university in this state ought to be established by direction of the General Assembly."

In 1779, when the State began to grant charters for townships on its own authority, it reserved in each township one right of land, about 320 acres, "for the use of a seminary or college."

When Dartmouth College obtained its charter in 1779, its sponsors proposed that it become the state college for both New Hampshire and Vermont. They had enough influence in the Vermont legislature to obtain in 1785 the grant of an entire township of land, 23,040 acres. In 1786, the Vermont assembly considered a letter from the secretary of the board of trustees of Dartmouth College suggesting that Vermont turn over to the use of that college certain lands which had been set aside for the "propagation of knowledge in foreign parts." In return, it was suggested that Dartmouth might establish "a branch college" in Vermont.

This proposition was debated by the Vermont assembly. It was resolved on March 3, 1787, that "the proposals of President Wheelock, in behalf of the trustees of Dartmouth College, are such that they cannot be accepted."

In October, 1787, Elijah Paine of Williamstown offered to give 2,000 pounds for the erection of buildings if the legislature would locate a college there. This was under consideration for two years and then was adversely reported and the offer was not accepted.

In October, 1789, the project of a university was urged upon the legislature by Ira Allen, who suggested Burlington as a suitable location. His arguments were supported by an offer of four thousand pounds toward the founding of the proposed university if the legislature would locate it within two miles of Burlington Bay. Other subscriptions were added to those of General Allen, making a total of 5,643 pounds and twelve shillings.

In consequence of this offer, a committee was appointed by the legislature "to draft a plan for a constitution and government of a college to be established in this state."

As might be expected, there was disagreement as to the location. After a long debate, a committee of seven was appointed, one from each county then represented in the legislature, "to receive absolute donations and particular subscriptions for a college." But nobody seemed inclined to enter into competition with Ira Allen on this proposition.

In October, 1791, the legislature again took up the subject. A bill was passed authorizing the establishment of a university. There was extended debate and inquiry on the question of location and a vote was taken finally which resulted as follows: Burlington, 89; Rutland, 24; Montpelier, five; Williamstown, five; and several other towns one each. The bill was approved November 3, 1791. The governor, the speaker of the house and the president of the university, with ten others, were designated as trustees.

Early Days of U. V. M.

The first meeting of the corporation of the University of Vermont was held at Windsor directly after the charter was granted, and a committee was appointed to solicit subscriptions and to secure donations which had been offered previously.

The next meeting was held in Burlington in June, 1792, when the present site was chosen for location of the University buildings. A plot of fifty acres, then covered with stately pines, was set off from lands belonging to Gen. Ira Allen. The president's house was begun in 1794, but the work was delayed and it was not completed until 1799. The Rev. Daniel C. Sanders was invited from Vergennes to Burlington and became first president of the University. He was also the sole member of the faculty at first receiving pupils at his home in study preparatory to a college course.

Other college officers were appointed and the construction of a college building begun in 1800. Upon being officially inaugurated as president on October 17, 1800, Mr. Sanders was authorized to employ a tutor to aid him in the work of instruction. The college actually began to function in 1801, with a class of four, who were graduated three years later.

With the exception of a single term in 1804, in which he had the assistance of a tutor, President Sanders was the entire working faculty until 1807, giving six, and sometimes eight or more hours a day to the task of personal instruction. In addition, he carried on the duties of a college presidency, including oversight of the building, donations, lands and other interests of the institution. He was at the same time minister of the parish of Burlington. It may be imagined that he was a busy man, as his successors have been.

In 1807, the Rev. Samuel Williams, LL.D., author of a history of Vermont, was appointed lecturer on astronomy and natural philosophy, said to have been the first instruction of this kind to be given in New England. In the same year, James Dean, a graduate of Dartmouth, became tutor in mathematics and natural philosophy, and John Pomeroy, M.D., gave lectures in anatomy and surgery.

By 1809, the University of Vermont had acquired apparatus in astronomy and physics said to have been more complete than any other in New England, except those at Harvard and Yale. The college library had secured 100 volumes by that time. The course of study was modeled in the main after that at Harvard, Doctor Sanders being a graduate of that institution.

For his services to the University, Doctor Sanders received a salary of $600; the salary of the professor of mathematics was $348.71. There is no explanation as to why the 71 cents. The total income from lands was $1,048.71. That may explain it. The tutor received $300. The corporation appropriated $300 to purchase books for the library and $100 to purchase more "philosophical apparatus."

David Russell became the first "general agent" to rent the public lands, sell lands not public and look after the various financial interests of the University. By 1807 the enrollment had reached forty-seven students. Samuel Hitchcock became the first secretary of the corporation, and the progress of the University seemed to justify high hopes for the future.

But trouble was just ahead.

First U. V. M. Crisis

Ever since the University of Vermont was founded, it has had its problems to solve. Some of them have been minor ones, and some have been serious, threatening the life of the institution.

The first real crisis which developed in the life of the University came between 1807 and 1812. It started with a political war which developed over the Non-Intercourse Act, passed by the American congress in retaliation against Britain and France for what were considered here to be discriminatory trade restrictions. This act designated Britain and France as countries with which the United States would hold no commercial relations. It offered to restore such relations with whichever of these nations first withdrew obnoxious orders and decrees which had been issued against the United States.

While this act was in force, trade was cut off between the United States and Canada. There was intense opposition in this part of Vermont to the action of the United States authorities, inasmuch as the prosperity of this region depended upon free commercial intercourse with Canada. Those who live in northern Vermont today and depend much upon income from Canadian visitors (now largely stopped) can understand something of the earlier situation.

In those days, there was no outlet of any sort, except Canada, for the surplus products of this area. So violent was the resistance to these measures that Vermont was at one time declared by proclamation of the President of the United States to be in a state of rebellion.

President Sanders of the University had been so long identified with both town and college that he could not refrain from uttering his convictions with boldness and

Did you know that the Latin department also figures in odd requests? On one occasion, a person brought in an old parchment, written in Latin, and requested a translation.

The Romance Language department has also been the recipient of many requests for the reading and writing of letters in French, Spanish, German and Italian. Many are from business men about their business. Thus far the requests have not included love letters.

Finnish Translation

Did you know that a Burlington business firm had an inquiry about its product written in Finnish? This letter was submitted to the University for translation.

Did you know that the English department of the University has many requests relative to the source of certain quotations? One such request asked, "In what work of Emerson's did he mention 'a man who built a better mouse trap' etc." The difficulty was, of course, that Emerson did not coin the phrase, he had the idea, but it was stated by Elbert Hubbard.

It is seldom that an author goes so far as to write a complete novel before asking for criticism of writing style, etc. But one was recently submitted to the English department.

Did you know that at a summer resort it was reported that chairs were falling down under the weight of the guests? The management did not like the idea of their guests being let down in this fashion and appealed to the zoology department at the University to determine the whys and wherefores. Investigation revealed that the legs of the chairs had been weakened by the tunneling of the powdered post beetle.

Dobsons may mean fish bait to most people, but not to the lady who, while walking down the street, met a full-grown Dobson fly hurrying in the other direction. She went to the zoology department, handkerchief covering a large welt on her cheek and the Dobson safely locked in her handbag. She was relieved upon being advised that the insect was not poisonous.

Did you know that following the flood of 1927 there was a good deal of apprehension that some of the water-soaked barnyews might develop heat sufficient to cause spontaneous combustion? In order to determine if this situation existed the physics department at the University assisted in installing thermocouples in some of the haymows.

In the same connection, this same department cooperated with the College of Agriculture in the installation of thermocouples in the cement floor of the University barn. The record from this will show if a cement floor is warm enough for Vermont "bossies" to lie on.

While the foregoing are but a few of the many, varied and unusual services requested of the several branches of the University of Vermont, it may be readily seen that the institution stands ready at any and all times to make its services, usual and unusual, available to Vermont and Vermonters.

[illegible] minds rallied to the support of U. V. M. and the college went on to new achievements.

On the twenty-seventh of May, 1824, just when the college seemed to be recovering from its previous troubles, new calamity descended swiftly in the form of a fire which destroyed the main building and seriously damaged the library and considerable apparatus. Then, on top of that disaster, President Haskell, known as "the high priest of this temple of science," overburdened with trials and anxieties, became insane.

The destruction of the building served as a challenge to the generosity of the people of Burlington. Before Commencement of that year, they had rallied to the support of the college and subscribed $8,300 toward the erection of a new building. This resulted largely from the efforts of a group of young men, including Charles Adams, Luman Foote, John N. Pomeroy and Gamaliel Sawyer, all graduates of the college, also Professor Porter and Nathan B. Haswell. The energy and enthusiasm of these young men stirred the community to action and resulted in the erection of a building to take the place of the one destroyed.

While the new building was being erected, the college program was continued in an unoccupied dry goods store at the north end of the college park, or "square" as it was then called.

The cornerstone of the North College was [illegible] Governor [illegible] Young, Nov. 8, 1825. Governor Young laid the cornerstone of the South College the [illegible] 1827. The [illegible] the original [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Annual Teachers' Convention Thurs.

Dr. McConathy of Wesleyan to Speak

About 2,500 delegates are expected in Burlington for the annual Teachers' Convention which starts at noon this coming Thursday at the Memorial Auditorium. A variety of speakers and conferences has been scheduled with the highlight of the three-day period coming on Thursday afternoon when Dr. L. McConathy of Wesleyan College will speak on "Our Schools and the World Crisis." Other events of that afternoon will be the address of welcome by Mayor Burns and the president's address by Willis Hosmer of Spaulding High School, Barre. In the evening, banquets and meetings will be held, among which will be the coaches' dinner and business meeting of which Sherman Fogg of the University of Vermont faculty will be the chairman.

The outstanding speaker on Friday's program will be Dr. Allan A. Stockdale, whose address will be on the subject, "Industry and Education in National Defense." Doctor Stockdale will speak in the general session at 8.45 Friday morning while the rest of the forenoon and afternoon will be devoted to conferences and meetings on education, vocational guidance and secondary education. In the evening, a concert will be given by the Dartmouth Glee Club under the direction of Prof. Donald Cobleigh.

Saturday morning another general session will take place in the Auditorium with two distinguished speakers. One is Col. M. Thomas Tchou, former private secretary to Gen. Chiang-Kai Shek and director of the Labor Department of the Chinese Movement and Mark Sauer, newspaper editor, author and humorist.

All University of Vermont students are welcome to any and all of the sessions or conferences except the evening meetings.

Plans For Convention Discussed At Meeting

A joint committee meeting of the Student Union Council was held last Wednesday in the gymnasium at Southwick.

Miss Joanna Metcalf, president of Student Union, presided over the meeting, at which reports were given by the chairmen of the various committees, and a partial review of the program for the convention was planned.

Also present at the meeting were Miss Mary Jean Simpson, Miss Catherine Nulty and Miss June Hoffman, general chairman of the convention.

Defense Demands Delay Waterman Construction

Exterior of 200 Room Center of Campus Activity Will Not Be Completed For Six Weeks

Inability to obtain some materials on time due to the demands of the defense program has extended the contract for completion of the $1,250,000 Waterman Memorial Building, it was acknowledged by Forrest W. Kehoe, University registrar.

This largest building yet constructed on the U. V. M. campus and one of the finest college buildings in New England will not be turned over to the University by the contractor for another month or six weeks, the construction clerk said. The contract originally called for completion by September 1.

The exterior of this 200-room structure which displaced three other University-owned buildings formerly occupying the site is fully completed, but there are many interior finishing touches yet to be made.

Architecture Colonial

Nevertheless, the contractor will have open for public inspection a good part of this building. It was designed by McKim, Mead & White, New York architectural firm which also designed the Ira Allen Chapel, Robert Hull Fleming Museum and Southwick Memorial Building. It is of the same Colonial style architecture, with brick exterior and white marble trim, granite base and stately colonnaded porticos.

This building will become the hub of university life. From its wide front on Prospect Street facing the campus stem a number of newly-constructed concrete walks across the Green, all converging at the renovated historic fountain directly in front of the main portico, and then fanning out again.

To be used primarily for administrative purposes (the administration offices will not move out of their present quarters in the medical building until the structure has been formally accepted from the contractor), the building will house many correlated activities on its five floors.

Men Have Recreation Center

There is a recreation center for men supplementing the recreation center for women at Southwick. Four bowling alleys have been constructed as a part of these plans. In another part of the basement of this huge building, new machinery is being set up for use in the mechanical and electrical engineering laboratories.

Other facilities include a 75,000-volume capacity working library; 400-500 person capacity cafeteria with the most modern kitchen and refrigeration equipment ob-

Banquets Head Final Week of Elaborate Rushing

The eight fraternities enter the final week of rushing in a campaign aimed at a small group of a little more than seventy freshmen. Banquets, parties and all the usual procedures that creep into this week of activity will be the order of things for a few more evenings. Pledge bids will be given out Thursday afternoon by Professor Carroll in the Political Science office.

The fact that only a small body of freshmen signified even casual interest in the brotherhood proposition when they assembled Saturday morning in the gymnasium to receive their bids for banquets and parties, served as ample means for much perplexity around the campus today. However, the half hundred frosh that did venture to the various houses on the hill were high in their praise of the proceedings.

To top off the week's elaborate program will be the interfraternity dance under the direction of Ed Blakely '43 and Bob Hennessey '43, slated for Saturday evening, October 11.

The University gymnasium will be the scene of this gala affair which is scheduled for 8.30 o'clock. Music will be by the "Catamounts." In addition to the two-man committee, George Little will be in charge of decorations.

The week's schedule for fraternity rushing dates is as follows: Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday evenings, S A E at Twist-O-Hill Lodge. To augment the local chapter members, several representatives from New England fraternities are expected. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Delta Psi will entertain. Tuesday and Wednesday, A T O at Ruth Mary Inn, Waterbury. Professor Butterfield, Dr. Hovey Jordan, H. Dean Pearl, Burlington High School, George Stanley, city engineer and street superintendent, Professor Tupper, Fred Lanahan, Winooski High School, Jim Barry, Shelburne High School will attend. Phi Delts will confine program to their house with the pledge banquet slated for Thursday evening. William Lockwood, former Rhodes scholar will be

All Colleges Hold Individual Program Fridays

Full Day Program Was Climaxed By Evening Convocation

Friday marked the beginning of the three-day sesquicentennial celebration with a separate program for each of the four colleges. The dean of each college presided.

Seniors of the College of Arts and Sciences assembled in the morning at Southwick and were addressed by Professor Shepard of Trinity College. After lunch Dr. William S. Learned of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching and Doctor Packer spoke. The general theme of the addresses was "The Education of the Future."

Engineering students were privileged to hold their meeting in the Waterman Building. Their speakers were Professor Thomas of our own faculty, Professor Holt of Worcester Polytechnic Institute, and Frank Larran, dean of Thayer School of Engineering, Dartmouth.

The annual meeting of the Vermont State Medical Society began Thursday. Friday was devoted to "College Day" with a meeting at nine o'clock at Hotel Van Ness.

Seniors of the College of Agriculture convened at 2.00 p.m. in Morrill Hall. Dean Hills spoke on the semi-sesquicentennial of the State Agricultural College. Other speakers were Professor Terrill and Professor Dykhuizen. J. E. Carrigan, director of the Agricultural Extension Service, also addressed the group.

In the evening at 8.00, seniors of all four colleges assembled at the chapel. Dr. John Dewey of Columbia presided. The address entitled "Progress in Education," was delivered by Dr. James R. Angell, former president of Yale University.

Gold Key to Hold Meeting October 12

Prof. B. F. Ladd, new director of Gold Key, has many new ideas to discuss with the members of the society at their first meeting next Sunday, October 12, in the Kappa Sigma Hall at eight o'clock.

Although he has not as yet definitely decided on these plans, Professor Ladd will go over the general ground and plans to discuss with the members the possibilities of making Gold Key an active working club.

Interest and enthusiasm will be the keynote for members this year, with the expressed idea of translating what Gold Key stands for in active work.

Alpha Chi Breakfast Held Sunday Morning

The Alpha Iota Chapter of Alpha Chi Omega, as its share in the sesquicentennial celebration, gave a breakfast Sunday morning to the pledges and alumnae. As special guest, Miss Margaret Doughty, new head of the home management house was present. Miss Doughty is a member of the Beta Epsilon Chapter at Michigan State. As an added attraction of the meeting, Barbara Bishop '42, president, gave a very interesting report on the national convention which she attended at Pasadena, Calif., last summer as representative of the Vermont Chapter.

Accepting the Intolerable

Platter Chatter

By [illegible]

Greetings again gates hope to stick with you for the rest of the year. Our records will be covered mostly containing [illegible] and reminder of the better [illegible] or [illegible] different being based on [illegible] quality, smoothness and taste [illegible] but not

Dear Charlene: You will get a good [illegible] of the beautiful clarity and power of [illegible] Connecticut now band by making its new "Standard" version of "Concerto in D Minor." [illegible] is a plain [illegible] performance with top honors going to leader Dorsey for a really fine [illegible] on the upper register. Vaughn Monroe displays fine [illegible] on the lower [illegible] but his [illegible] section creates a background incongruous that is an excel- [illegible] lack of taste. Other side is a novelty [illegible] "Down, Down, Down" and not good (according to the writer at least) at any interval. Monroe's good swing, but the [illegible] are of questionable value.

[illegible] Goodman [illegible] One often [illegible] wonders just what a push button band is. Well if you listen to the [illegible] of Goodman Originals on Columbia you'll never be at a loss just what a push button band should swing music. Titles are as original as the arrangements—"Don't Forget to Keep" and "A Smoke Ring Ought to Keep" and "A Smoke Ring Ought to Keep." Clarinet, guitar, trumpet and tenor sax all come through with credit, but choruses but George Auld's [illegible] in "Smoke Ring Ought to Keep" is really exciting. The tempos are just right, too, and you'll have a hard time keeping your foot from tapping to them.

[illegible] states that "Victor" coupling of "Love Me a Little Little" and "Don't Take Your Love From Me" affords a fine opportunity to hear Shaw's new, enlarged band. Both sides are very pretty tunes and extremely danceable. "Little" is a one trick arrangement with figures that will really get you. Unless I'm very much mistaken, the reverse is a revival of a [illegible] old tune of some years ago. Both sides have creditable vocals by a newcomer to the vocalist field—Lena Horne. You can hear Shaw's new string section to real [illegible] It's an excellent performance of popular music by a dance orchestra much larger than ordinary. This one is well worth your time and money.

See you next week, we hope.

Pan-Hellenic Council Announces Rushing Rules for the Coming Year

Pan-Hellenic Council announces the following rules for rushing freshmen and eligible transfers.

No money is to be spent by sorority women to entertain freshmen or by freshmen to entertain sorority women for two semesters. No money is to be spent on eligible transfers by sorority women or vice versa for one semester. (Final parties are an exception to this rule.)

Upperclasswomen are eligible for open bids as soon as they have completed two semesters at U. V. M. Transfers are eligible for open bids upon having completed one semester at U. V. M.

Pins may be worn from the beginning of college throughout the year.

Discussion of sorority or sorority matters is limited to questions directly asked by the freshmen.

Informal Rushing—October 7-November 1 1941

During this period:

1. Open houses will be held at sorority houses on Tuesdays from 7.00 to 8.30 p.m. and Fridays from 4.00 to 5.30 p.m.

2. Open rushing on Saturdays from 1.00 to 7.00 p.m.

3. A freshman or eligible transfer may not accept rides from sorority women or vice versa except on Saturdays from 1.00 to 7.00 p.m. and for final parties. A freshman or eligible transfer may accept a ride from a sorority woman and vice versa with the consent of the Pan-Hellenic president, Gloria Oling Frank, for the purpose of going home.

There is to be no rushing except at the times specified above.

4. Formal Rushing, November 2-November 23 at 10.00 p.m.

Each sorority is to entertain at not more than one final party, the expense of which is not to exceed 35 cents per person. Final parties will take place on the designated days from November 4 to November 14 and will last from 5.30 to 8.00 p.m.

5. Neutral Period, 10.00 p.m. November 23—5.00 p.m. November 24.

Any relations between sorority women and freshman women or eligible transfers or vice versa except for a courteous greeting will be regarded as a serious violation of Pan-Hellenic creed.

6. Signing up, 2.00 to 5.00 p.m., November 24.

Pledging in the evening.

7. Second semester pledging, first Monday in March.

Pan-Hellenic Group To Sponsor Tea Friday

The Vermont Chapter of Pan-Hellenic plans to hold a tea at Southwick on Friday afternoon, October 10, from 4.00 to 6.00. All freshman girls and sorority women are urged to attend.

Those serving at the tea will be Mrs Pilcher, Mrs. Loudon, Mrs. Towne, and Mrs. Graves.

ecipients of Honorary Degrees at Sesqui Convocation

...t to right—Attorney Elroy N. Clark, Denvor, Colo.; Dr. William Allan Neilson, Falls River, Conn, former president of Smith College; Prof. Mar... H. Nicolson, Columbia University; Governod Wills; and E. C. Cutler, M.D., Brookline, Mass.

Tribute to the work of these four men and one women who received honorary degrees from the University of Vermont during special exercises Saturday in connection with its sesquicentennial observance was paid in citations prepared and read by Prof. Frederick Tupper, head of the English Department. Dr. Paul C. Packer, acting president of the University conferred the degree, presenting each recipient with a diploma in testimony thereof. It was the first time in the memory of the faculty members, perhaps in the history of the University, that honorary degrees were conferred at any time except at Commencement. The citations follow.

...r of Humane Letters—Marjorie ... Nicolson. Student and teacher in ... institutions west and east, now a welcome member of the English De...ent of Columbia, ever helpful in the ...shops of wise spirits through the ... of her knowledge, the soundness of ...judgment and the readiness of her ...ght and word, blending with her ... studies a happy alloy of wit and ...om in lively defiance of dullness.

...tor of Humane Letters—William ...n Neilson. Scholar and executive, ... and bred near Scotch wood and ..., undergraduate at Edinburgh, grad... student, instructor and professor of ...lish at Harvard, president of Smith ...ge, maker of many scholarly books, happily illustrating as lover of letters and leader of youth the qualities that he emphasizes in his studies of poetry—the sense of fact that restrains, the reason that strives and seeks and finds, and the imagination that lifts to the heights.

Doctor of Science—Elliott Carr Cutler. Graduate of Harvard and of Harvard Medical, professor of surgery at his alma mater and surgeon in chief of that notable foundation, the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital; a widely known lecturer at medical schools in Europe and America and the writer of a hundred and more papers of high value; distinguished by his service to the wounded in France during the great war and by his unprecedented success in delicate operations at home in times of peace; indirectly a preserver of our university by saving through his consummate skill one who has done so much to save us, the present Governor of Vermont.

Doctor of Laws—Elroy Newton Clark of Denver, Colo. Graduate of this University in 1885, classmate and roommate and fraternity brother of Charles W. Waterman, entering with him in a Denver law office and like him becoming a member of the firm and a distinguished attorney ever close to his college friend in their daily round of notable activity and with him in Mr. Waterman's last hours of life; hence fitly chosen to make the presentation address at the dedication of the Waterman Memorial Building.

"The comrade heart for a moment's play,
The comrade heart for a heavier day,
The comrade heart for ever and aye."

Doctor of Laws—His Excellency, William Henry Wills, Governor of Vermont. Coming to the state in boyhood and sharing ever since then its life, turning in his middle years to public service in House and Senate and finally in his present office; as legislator and executive, ever mindful of the people's needs; facing gallantly the issue of our University's continued career and offering himself as her champion, thus bringing other true men to her aid by his challenge to their courage and self-respect.

Dr. Angell Foresees Strong University

Speaker Addresses 300 At Ira Allen Chapel

Returning to his native Burlington where his father was for five years (1866-1871) president of the University of Vermont, Dr. James R. Angell, former president of Yale University, predicted Friday evening at an assembly in the Ira Allen Chapel that U. V. M. "will emerge stronger and more vigorous than ever" from its present financial misfortunes.

"It will thus be in a position to serve, even more effectively than it has in the past, the instant needs of this ancient commonwealth whose record has been marked by so many historic personalities and by so many heroic deeds. A sturdy people, a people with deep spiritual convictions, a people with a firm grip upon the fundamental principles underlying our republic will see to it that this noble institution is preserved forever to enrich and strengthen the life of the nation."

Doctor Angell added "Facing as it does now a period of rehabilitation in recovery from one of the most serious of threats to its existence, it draws to itself the deep sympathy of all right-minded citizens throughout the entire country."

The speaker, addressing approximately 300 persons in this final event of the University's opening day sesquicentennial program, was introduced by Dr. John Dewey, professor emeritus of philosophy, Columbia University, and a U. V. M. alumnus.

Sophomore Aides

At the first meeting of the Sophomore Aides, sophomore women's honorary society, the following officers were elected: President, Priscilla Perkins; vice-president, Pat Crowley; secretary, Marilyn Eimer; treasurer, Shirley Buckingham. Their first function of the year was serving coffee at the Open House held in Southwick on Saturday afternoon.

The Staff and Sandal has placed candy on sale in the dormitories again this year. With the proceeds of last year they placed the signs on the campus and this year they have many plans including decorating the outdoor Christmas tree. Marjorie Witham is in charge of candy sales. The officers of the society are: President, Janet Hackwell; vice-president, Janet Dike; secretary-treasurer, Helaine Anderson.

Sunday Concert Features Oratorio

Anselmo Is Soloist; Plays Tartini Sonata

As a final function of the week-end celebration a larger chorus of the University Choir, students, faculty members and interested townspeople, presented a portion of the Handel oratorio "Judas Maccabaeus." The chapel orchestra with Michael Anselmo as concert master accompanied the chorus.

The first feature of the program was a violin solo by Mr. Anselmo, accompanied by Miss Marston, "Sonata in G Minor," by Tartini. As a prelude Miss Marston played "Adagio from the Tenth Concerto" by Handel and the postlude was the "Allegro" of the same concerto.

The program continued with the various selections from "Judas Maccabaeus."

Chorus—Mourn, Ye Afflicted Children; Chorus—For Lamentation Make; Chorus—O Father, Whose Almighty Power; Baritone aria—Arm, Arm, Ye Brave, Robert Goss '44; Tenor aria—O Liberty, Thomas Malone, Jr. '41; Soprano and Alto Duet—Come, Ever Smiling Liberty, Theresa Coderre '43 and Marjorie Southworth '43; Chorus—Simon Now Her Lead Shall Raise; Chorus—Ah, Wretched, Wretched Israel!; Tenor aria—Sound an Alarm, Paul Poulin '41; Chorus—We Hear the Pleasing Dreadful Call; Alto aria—Father of Heav'n, Marjorie Southworth '43; Soprano recitation—O Grant it, Heav'n; Soprano aria—So Shall the Lute and Harp Awake, Theresa Coderre '43; Orchestra—March, Chapel Orchestra; Chorus—See, the Conquering Hero Comes; Bass aria—Rejoice, O Judah, and in Songs Divine; Chorus—Hallelujah! Vermont Harriers Defeat Union

The University of Vermont Harriers [illegible] the visitors from Union at last Saturday's Home Coming Celebration [illegible] over the Schenectady, N. Y. route.

Coach Arthur Peet's charges copped the first six places with little Freddie Webster (V) leading the pack home in 22 17. Bud Hoyt (V) was a close second in 22 19 with Charlie Webster (V), Norm Stoddard (V) being tied for third place with the time of 22 40. Mart McLaren (V), up from last year's Freshman squad, placed fifth in his initial varsity appearance. Merle Crown (V), Harrington (V) and Wright (U), first Union man to cross the tape, were tied for sixth position at 24 12. They were followed by Snell (U), Conly (U), Viglieno (U), Shepard (U) and Reed (U) in that order.

On October 11, the hill-dalers will journey to Hanover where they will tussle with the Dartmouth Indian in what should prove to be a real interesting battle.

Frosh Smash V. J. C. In Opening Contest

Lapointe and Martin Star in 25-6 Win

Breaking a one-year scoring fast the Vermont Freshman conquered a fighting Vermont Junior College football team.

Cast in the principal starring roles, were Captain "Chick" LaPointe and "Monk" Martin with twelve and thirteen points respectively.

The 25-6 score is the best indication of the manner in which the game progressed. Only twice were the Kittens in trouble. The first was a lightning like interception of a Fabiano pass, which was run to the Vermont twenty. From here a fourth down pass, gave V. J. C. its only score of the first quarter, and the game. In the third quarter the V. J. C. team came to life with a sustained drive from their thirty-five to the Vermont thirty. Sparking the offensive were the passes thrown by the V. J. C. quarterback. However, the hard-charging Kitten line coupled with fine work by the defensive halfbacks broke the back of the attack. The V. J. C. offense didn't function with any amount of success throughout the rest of the game.

In retrospect to their own case, the Kittens displayed a very powerful and versatile attack. Capitalizing on the threat of Jim Fabiano's powerful passing arm, quarterback "Mickey" Cochrane sent Fabiano, Maher, and LaPointe, these three alternating at the one and four positions, scutting through and around the V. J. C. line. Vermont drew first blood with a 57-yard runback of an intercepted pass by "Monk" Martin. After the V. J. C. team tied the score, Martin came back with a 41-yard runback of an intercepted pass for a touchdown. Both attempts at conversion for the extra point were blocked. The third score was made in the second quarter after a twenty-three yard run placed the ball on the opponent's seven-yard line. Captain LaPointe skirted the end for the score. "Monk" Martin cut off right guard for the extra point. The fourth and final tally was made by Captain LaPointe after a sustained drive put the ball on the enemy three-yard line. The game ended with the Kittens on the opponent four-yard line as a result of a thirty-yard Fabiano-LaPointe pass.

Outstanding in the line were Frank Ecklund, who never permitted his end to be rounded, tackles Fred LaTaille and Carl Ruerode, Scotty Ingram, and Newty Goldman at the guards.

The problems of center and left end remained unsolved. Lippman, Lyerly and Hamilton shined on defense and offense. However preference must be shown Hamilton starting center who played over half the game. Whittier and Haven played greatly-improved ball, so that the end position was no longer a sore spot.

Coach Fogg had little trouble using substitutes, with Haven replacing the ends, Waldman and Bernstein the tackles, and Pratt and Wellman the guards in notable fashion.

Sports Cast

By "Itz"

The Cats took the field Saturday against a reputedly powerful team which had trounced Union 20-0 the week before, but they came on that field confident and full of fight. They battled the hilltoppers on even terms during the first half and gave them a great fight in the second, but fight alone was no match for that Trinity machine and the Cats succumbed by the honorable score of 9-7.

The game was a struggle of Vermont's air attack against Trinity's ground offensive and the Catamounts seemed to have the edge until Foster, behind exceptionally good interference, returned Johnny Spasyk's punt for a score.

What Showed

Unfortunately the Vermont team does not have a ground game. The line is light and although they do a good job defensively, they don't seem to give the ball carriers enough blocking to break them into the open. However, this may be directly traceable to the fact that the Trinity line didn't charge. They seemed to be content to meet the ball carrier at the line of scrimmage. Another noticeable weakness was the lack of blocking given to the safety back on punt run backs, and conversely the inability to get down fast under punts and bring down their safety man. He averaged over fifteen yards a try. Against the Frosh in the first two scrimmages of the year the Varsity showed a weakness to stop yearling passes "down the alley." This same weakness persisted in Saturday's brawl.

On the Cheerful Side

Vermont has one lethal weapon which will always keep them in the ball game up to the last minute and that is the Al Shaw to Johnny Spasyk touchdown pass. This combination really clicks. Al gets off some beautiful heaves and Johnny is right there to nab them. Not one of Shaw's long passes even came close to being intercepted and that's important.

The passing attack as a whole is very well developed and the team can really go places if they can only develop a ground game to go with their aerial offensive.

An Old Issue

And now we come to a subject which was brought to mind while watching the visiting team lounge on the field between the halves of Saturday's game. These boys were hot and perspiring, yet they had to take their rest on the field or they could have gone back to the narrow confines of their bus. The same conditions seem to prevail for all visiting teams, and we imagine that it must leave a bad impression. There is only one solution—a field house to be built either underneath the stands or behind the score board. As a means of financial aid for this project we suggest a series of Saturday night dances sponsored by the athletic department. At any event we should like to hear some student comments on the matter. Do you want a field house for your team? Will you lend material support to a movement to procure one?

Meet the Team

Captain Harold "Misty" Rice is a graduate of Cushing Academy and resident of New Haven, Conn. He came to Vermont as a football center, but now leads the Cats into battle as a blocking back. A hard blocker and vicious tackler, Misty leads the interference on the offense and backs up the line on the defense. Win or lose Misty is in there battling all the way, and the opposition usually remembers him.

There will be a meeting of the Classical Club at the home of Prof. L. M. Prindle, 380 Maple St., on Thursday, October 9, at 7.30 p.m. Initiations will be held.

Women in Sports

The Sesquicentennial Committee and the Physical Education Department wish to express their deep appreciation to the girls who put on such a fine performance of the former Lilac Day material at the open house at Southwick Saturday afternoon. Their diligent practice within the last few weeks, and their enthusiasm made the dances a thorough success, and many favorable comments were expressed by the college guests.

On Thursday from 3.15 to 8.30, Doctor Coburn will give heart and lung examinations to all upperclass girls who will take basketball, hockey, dance workshop, sophomore elementary education and those who will belong to Badminton Club.

Hockey

W. A. A. will entertain Middlebury on Saturday at the Hockey Play Day. The game will start at 2.30, and the players will be members of the honorary varsity squad. Special practice periods will be posted on "Y" bulletin board.

There are already fifty-five girls out for Hockey Club, and thirty-two girls enrolled in the beginners' hockey class.

The next meeting of the special tennis coaching class will be posted in the "Y" room.

The Advanced Tennis Club will play men of the Physical Education Department in mixed doubles sets some time this week.

The Tennis Tournament is now in progress and girls are requested to play off the first round and report the scores immediately.

To be played:

First round—freshmen: T. Jacobs, R. Eisman, D. Wallach, B. Gilbert, B. Haines, M. Stauch.

First round—upperclassmen: P. Clark, N. Binns, B. Webb, B. Roberts, M. Quinn, R. Warren, L. Johnson, A. Carr.

Second round—upperclassmen: T. Coderre, K. Brown, M. Hart, N. Fawcett.

Second Campus Sing To Be Held Friday

The second campus sing of the college year will be held next Friday evening at 7.15, on the steps of the Billings Library.

Mr Millikan will again direct the singing.

Two hundred new song books are being printed; two large floodlights are being installed over the steps of the Billings Library; and two barrels of apples have already been ordered. A new feature for the program is being planned but will not be disclosed until that night.

A newly organized Campus Sing Council has been formed to carry on the activity for this year. It consists of Mr. Millikan, ex-officio; Professor Ladd of the faculty; Marjorie Abell '43; and Alfred Amee '43.

As a means of financing these campus sings, the Council will hold a tag day this week Saturday. Tags will be sold at ten cents each. Remember the swell time we had two weeks ago and contribute a dime so that we may continue campus sings as a new tradition on campus.

Key and Serpent Holds Meeting

At their first meeting, on either the fourteenth or eighteenth of this month, the definite date to be announced, Key and Serpent will elect two new members to fill vacancies in their ranks, one left by the absence of Warren B. Nestler from school, and the other already existing. Watch the CYNIC for results.

Prof. Odell Shepard Drubs Present-day Education System

Trinity Prof. Speaks At Opening Observance Of Sesquicentennial

The present educational system was given a thorough drubbing by Prof. Odell Shepard of Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., and lieutenant-governor of Connecticut at the opening exercises of the University of Vermont's three-day sesquicentennial observance in the Southwick Building Friday morning. It was a meeting of the College of Arts and Sciences.

Professor Shepard first scored the educational system for "its parade of uninteresting facts" only, and its tendency to leave students indifferent. Secondly, he asserted the present educational process is not democratic, that the children of only the more prosperous families attended college.

Says Teachers Muffed Chance

"We teachers have muffed the chance to be the real legislators of the world," the speaker declared. "We had a chance to teach the politicians, the bankers, the clergy, to help them shape ideas from their factual knowledge, ideas that would lead to convictions and convictions to action." Professor Shepard said the teachers stopped after "hading out the facts." He added there would not be so much bewilderment today or so much of the feeling, "We don't know where we are going but I guess we are on our way."

"What the world needs is freer, bolder, more aggressive, imaginative teachers," he said.

Too Many Social Gaps

After outlining what he considered to be the drawbacks of the educational system, Professor Shepard then sketched his ideas of what a truly democratic process of education would mean: 1. Equalization of opportunity for all youths to obtain a college education under a system of public-supported institutions which would lead to the "drying up of all private schools and colleges." 2. Compulsory manual labor for all as a part of this educational process. 3. Elimination of the gap between the working people and white collar class resulting in just one class. 4. Insistence upon the practical utility of every course and department of learning, which does not necessarily mean abolishment of the classics, for instance. 5. Establishment of a universal language to be spoken by students around the world in an effort to break down barriers between peoples. 6. Freedom of peoples from their own petty fears such as loss of caste under this new system.

Can Eliminate Politics

At the conclusion of this address, the meeting, attended by about 150 faculty members and a few students, was thrown open to questions. Dean Elijah Swift, who presided, asked: "You pointed out in your inspiring address the trend toward state-supported educational institutions. Do you feel there is a danger there of political interference or control?" Professor Shepard replied amid deep silence, "you have one alternative. Trustees. Which do you prefer—politicians or trustees? That I believe is a sufficient answer."

Prof. Frederick Tupper introduced the speaker.

among the evening's guests. Sigma Nu will take its stand at the Oakledge Gate House with John Ready of St. Albans, Archie Post and Floyd Arkley of Burlington as Tuesday's speakers. Eugene Closse and Post will be the speakers on the following evening.

Only two of the seven fraternities will hold banquets but a single evening. They are Sigma Phi, who plans a house banquet with the program still in the process of completion, and Lambda Iota who will travel to St. Albans and the Jesse Welden Inn. Thomas Mulcare, head of the U. V. M. Alumni Association, Prof. Lyman Rowell, Dr. Carl McMahon, and Preston C. Cummings will be the speakers.

Gov. Wm. H. Wills Speaks at Dedication Of Waterman Building Here Saturday

Gov. William H. Wills, speaking at the dedication of the University of Vermont's Waterman Building here Saturday, declared that the building stands as a symbol and is a realization in brick and mortar of all that President Bailey had anticipated in added beauty and service to the campus.

The governor then voiced the thought that it also "stands as a challenge to the spirit of loyalty and service to us all."

In carefully chosen words Governor Wills referred to the years of devoted service given by faculty and administrative officers and the values of human relationships between these men and women and their students.

Appeals to Alumni

"The late Pres. Guy W. Bailey had this love for his boys and girls to an uncommon degree," the chief executive asserted. "In fact we all recognize that this regard for and thought of his boys and girls and his continuing desire was that they should complete their education, at whatever the cost, even at great sacrifice. If only those of the alumni who so benefited by his interest in them should see their way to show the same generous spirit manifested by President Bailey toward them, even to the extent of repaying dollar for dollar spent by him for them, I would have no fear for the finances of this institution at the end of this current year."

Wills then reminded his listeners of the dire financial distress into which the University had fallen during the sesquicentennial year, and of its appeal to the State for help.

Recognized U. V. M.'s Service

"After proper debate and deliberation," he remarked, "it appeared evident to the Legislature of 1941 that the University was of more service to the community than the money would be if not collected and they voted a generous sum of money toward its rehabilitation." (The governor referred to a section of the State constitution which says before a tax is raised it should be evident to the Legislature that the purpose for which it is to be raised is of more service to the community than the money would be if not collected.)

"So in 1941 within the confines of Vermont, democracy has spoken. But with that triumph of the democratic way, there is laid a solemn responsibility upon all—upon the faculty of this University that their teaching shall be solely along the lines of democracy; upon the students that they shall adhere to the fundamental principles of the men of 1791, and upon the alumni and friends of this institution that their faith manifested in gifts shall match the faith and conviction of the people of Vermont so that the University shall continue to give community services greater than the amount of money to be collected."

Sesqui Dedication

President Packer presided. The program closed with the singing of "Champlain" after which the academic procession proceeded to the Waterman Building dedication.

Early morning ceremonies conducted by the R. O. T. C. Battalion included procession and formation on the front campus and parading of the R. O. T. C. Band. Citation cords and gold V's were presented by Captain Simpson to members of the freshman drill squad while Joe Lechnyr awarded band charms to deserving members of the R. O. T. C. Band.

A buffet luncheon was served in the cafeteria of the Waterman Building. The afternoon program consisted of the football game between Vermont and Trinity College (see sport page). Open house was held from 4 to 6 p.m. at Southwick with Dean Mary Jean Simpson and Prof. Eleanor S. Cummings as hostesses. The program was conduced by the Women's Physical Education Department. A reception was held at 8.00 at Southwick with Gov. and Mrs. William H. Wills and Pres. and Mrs. Paul C. Packer as guests of honor.

Student Union Convention Soon

Dorothy C. Fisher To Be Guest Speaker

Large-scale plans are under way for the Student Union Convention which this year will convene at the University of Vermont the last week in October. A meeting of the various committees was held October 1, at which time the chairmen submitted reports on the progress of the work to date. Several banquets, workshop groups and entertainments have been scheduled for the three-day period and delegates are expected from all over New England.

Word has been received that Dorothy Canfield Fisher, noted author and critic, will be on hand to speak and a dance will be given by the honorary societies in honor of the guests Saturday night. Among the activities which the Student Union delegates will take in will be the football game Saturday afternoon, the fall play which is scheduled for Friday night, and a sightseeing tour about the city of Burlington. This convention will undoubtedly be one of the biggest events of the year and should be of special interest to every University of Vermont girl living under Student Union rules as it is designed to improve and facilitate student government. All students will be welcome to the big address by Mrs. Fisher.

Girls! Get Dates Now for Oct. 18

Better get your dates now, girls. That fall Mortar Board dance, sponsored by the senior women's honor society, will take place at Southwick on Saturday evening, October 18.

This dance, one of the year's outstanding events, is the opportunity for U. V. M. women to invite men of their own choosing. The Catamounts, under the management of Earl Mills, a graduate of Green Mountain Junior College, and Tom Keighley '44 will play for the occasion.

Nancy Goodwin is general chairman of this dance, Gratia Pearl will attend to the decorations, Gloria Oling Frank is in charge of tickets, and Barbara Gallagher is the chaperone committee. Tickets at $1.10 per couple will be on sale in the near future. Watch the CYNIC for further details.

Collegium To Meet

The Collegium, under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. Millikan, will hold its next meeting Sunday, October 12, at 7.30 at the College Street Church. It is hoped that there will be as large and as enthusiastic a group as there was at the first meeting.

Men Independents Invites Freshmen To First Meeting

To Meet Monday, 7:30 In Fleming Museum; Upperclassmen Welcome

The Vermont Independents, now that men's rushing is over, are holding their first meeting open to freshmen on next Monday evening at 7.30 in the Fleming Museum. It is hoped that each freshman who has not pledged a fraternity will consider this his personal invitation to attend this meeting, for which an interesting program has been planned.

Thus far the Vermont Independents are perhaps known to the new students only by their all-college dance in September.

The Vermont Independents was organized and chartered at U. V. M. six years ago. Its purpose is to help that large group of non-fraternity men who represent about fifty percent of the student body, supplement for themselves their academic life by providing athletic, social and cultural opportunities for its members. The regular meetings and social gatherings of the organization after group participation in a varied program and are designed to give each active member a sense of belonging to a social unit within the University.

The Vermont Independents makes clear the point that it in no way tries to compete with fraternities. On the contrary, it encourages affiliation with a fraternity whenever possible. But in cases when this is not possible, it strongly encourages membership in its own rank. Freshmen and upperclassmen who join the Vermont Independents are in no way obligated to continue membership if they pledge a fraternity.

It is hoped that all upperclassmen and freshmen who are non-fraternity men will be present at Monday's meeting.

Outing Club Plans Camel's Hump Hike

Sunday the Outing Club will sponsor its second hike of the year. The climb up Camel's Hump promises to be an interesting and highly enjoyable one for the hikers.

This year the Outing Club, under the leadership of Paul Sutton '43, president in place of Warren Nestler, who is not here at school this year, is planning many activities, among which are overnight hikes, skiing, sleighrides, and sugar parties.

The other officers of the Club are: Vice-president, Frances Abel '42; secretary, Barbara E. Burns '43; and treasurer, Jack Williams '44.

Membership to the Outing Club is only $1. Hikes for members are 35 cents and for non-members 50 cents.

Men's Faculty Club To Hold First Meeting

The Men's Faculty Club will hold its first meeting of the year on Saturday, October 11, at 8.00 p.m. in the ballroom at Southwick. Wives of faculty members and women members of the faculty are invited.

President Packer will lead a discussion with members of the faculty on current University topics.

A large attendance is urged in order that new faculty members may have an opportunity to become acquainted with their colleagues.

The Methodist College Group will meet Sunday evening at 7.30. Professor Buchanan of the engineering department will talk on the "Long Trail." After the talk, refreshments will be served.

Gala Campus Sing Tonight at 7.15

Flood Lights, Song Books, Apples Planned

Plans are complete for the second campus sing which is to be held this evening, Friday, at 7.15, on the steps of the Billings Library. Everything promises to be a grand success, with two hundred new song books, flood lights, and apples enough for everyone. (Notice the plural of apple.)

The sponsors of the Sing, Mr. Millikan, Professor Ladd, Marjorie Abell '43 and Alfred Amee '43, have planned a fine program, parts of which will not be disclosed until tonight.

Directly after the sing tonight and Saturday have been designated as tag day by the Council. On the success of this drive depends the future of campus sings. By buying a tag for ten cents you can assure yourself and everyone else that there will be many more campus sings. Everyone had a good time at the first campus sing; everyone is going to have a good time tonight; and everyone wants to continue to have good times at these sings in the future. So don't forget tonight and all day tomorrow.

Advanced Military Men on Manoeuvres

If the South Burlington Road residents see a column of troops moving in an advance guard formation they needn't fear an invasion—it is only the members of the junior class advanced military science course.

Formerly, with the exception of a certain amount of practical work on weapons (37 m.m. machine guns and 81 m.m. trench mortars), the juniors have spent most of their time in theoretical study of military science.

However, since the present emergency the War Department has put more stress on practical work. Consequently the juniors are getting work mostly on combat principles including the elementary tactics of the individual soldier, tactics of rifle squads and automatic rifle squads, rifle platoon and weapons platoon work, including work with 60 m.m. mortars, caliber 30 light machine guns and caliber .30 and .50 heavy machine guns.

The juniors are also getting a certain amount of practical and theoretical work on administration, aerial photography, chemical warfare and motor vehicles. The practical work of the past is also being done.

In the past the advanced course students have studied combat principles and seen their application on map problems. Some of this work is still received but practical work dealing with terrain exercises is also carried out. These terrain exercises have been conducted in or near the woods southwest of Converse recently.

When this practical work is being done the students go forth dressed in dungarees, armed either with caliber .30 rifles or caliber .30 automatic rifles—a formidable-looking group to meet on an early morning walk.

There will be a meeting of the girls of the Newman Club at 2.30 p.m. in the north lounge of Southwick, Sunday. All members are urged to attend.

Interfraternity Dance Will Climax Pledging

Tomorrow evening the fraternities on the hill will hold their annual interfraternity dance, climaxing men's rushing. The novel dance will be held in the gymnasium, and the Catamounts are to furnish the swing tunes. Decorations promise to be clever, each fraternity contributing frat banners and hand-drawn posters are also being contributed.

Edwin Blakely '43 and Robert Hennessey '43 are chairmen and Prof. and Mrs. Daniel B. Carroll will be the chaperons.

This dance is being given by the fraternity men in honor of their new pledges and promises to be one of the gayest dances of the season.

for utmost service to the Nation

In these critical times, communications play a vital part in defense. Here is how the Bell System is organized to meet its great responsibility.

American Telephone and Telegraph Company coordinates all system activities, advises on telephone operation, searches for improved methods.

24 associated operating companies provide telephone service in their respective territories.

Long Lines Department of A. T. & T. interconnects the 24 operating companies, handles Long Distance and overseas service.

Bell Telephone Laboratories carries on scientific research and development for the system.

Western Electric is the manufacturing, purchasing and distributing unit.

Highly trained through many years of working together, these Bell System companies provide a nation-wide, unified service. Never have the benefits of this system been so clear as today when the country is under pressure.

The Indians will also have Burnham, their star freshman runner of last year. Burnham won the meet against the Vermont freshmen at that time and is now figuring prominently in varsity activities.

Vermont's chances will depend upon the way the Green and Gold harriers take to the Dartmouth course. Coach Post has two reliable veterans in his co-captains, Fred and Charlie Webster. Hoyt, however, a junior who placed second in the Union meet, is coming along fast and should be right up with the Websters. Stoddard is running better than ever according to Coach Post and can be counted upon for real competition Saturday.

No time trials are planned for the week, but emphasis will be made on speed-up work. Vermont has been undefeated in dual competition since 1939 and this record will serve as a definite incentive for Saturday's race.

Meet the Team

John J. Spasyk is the man at the helm when the team takes the field. A product of Pittsfield High School, Pittsfield, Mass., Johnny made a name for himself by playing three sports in his first year at Vermont. In his sophomore year Johnny was assigned the job of directing the team from the quarterback position and has been there ever since.

A lightning-fast back, good passer, punter and broken-field runner, besides being a smart field general, Johnny promises to make his senior year the best in his football career.

Fall Tennis Is Nearing Close

The fall tennis started off quite well this year in spite of the bad weather. Five of the eight scheduled games of the first round have already been played, leaving Harvey a victor over D. Frank, 6-3, 6-1; Giptein over Black, 6-4, 6-2, Manjoney over Wicker, 6-4, 7-5; Twitchell over F. Powers, 6-4, 7-6; Foti over Norton, 6-0, 6-1.

The remaining three contests of skill have been arranged and will be completed far ahead of the closing date of the first round, October 12. Archie T. Post, director of intramural sports, hopes to set an earlier date for the second round as well as the semi-finals and finals because of the splendid cooperation of all the contestants and the indifference of the weather.

Catamounts Entrain for Maine Today For Tilt with Colby at Waterville

Vermont Gridders Rated As Underdogs; Green and Gold Counting On Aerial Attack

This Friday an undefeated Vermont football team will leave Burlington to journey to Waterville, Me., where it will engage Colby on Saturday in a football contest which may prove to be one of the best New England conference battles.

Although Vermont has lost to Northeastern 20-6 and to Trinity 9-7, this is nothing to be alarmed over. In the Northeastern game it was bad breaks in the way of a fumble a clipping penalty, and an interception that halted the Vermont eleven. In the Trinity game Vermont played good heads-up football and were even forcing the play in the last half until "One Play" Boucher spoiled the Cats' afternoon when he parted the uprights with a field goal that put his team out in front 9-7. Vermont has gradually improved but despite its improvement it is still ragged on blocking and tackling. This was proved in the Trinity game.

For that reason Coach Evans has been having his charges going through intensive blocking and tackling drills all week. Added to these drills were workouts with the freshmen. Coach Evans has given his first and second teams much action in these encounters with the freshmen, especially the second team, and this one has shown marked versatility by outplaying their big brothers. Many of them, namely, Mayforth, Lewkowicz, Alpert and Kunken, showed up very well and will be assured of seeing much action in Saturday's tussle.

Lewkowicz and Kunken proved their mettle in the Trinity contest and have at last come into their own. They showed that when it came to playing football they could give as well as take. Kunken especially gave a good account of himself, and because of this and because of his steady improvement he will have one of the starting ends.

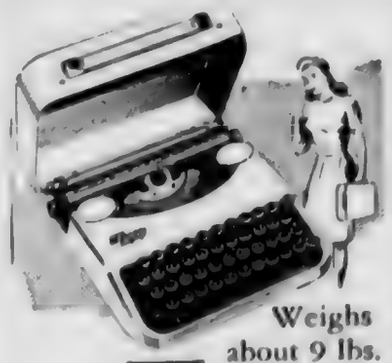
This year the team is much lighter than in former years. This factor has forced them to adopt an aerial attack which proved to be a very good one at that in the Trinity affair. Besides having good passers in Spasyk and Alpert, Coach Evans has also found an excellent combination in Al Shaw and Johnny Spasyk. Al can really heave that ball and Johnny can really hustle down field to receive it. This aerial attack proved to be poison in the previous games and will also be a barb in the sides of Colby when the Cats unleash it.

This week sees a few changes in the lineup. Eddy has been moved to a wing position to allow "Moose" Savin a starting berth and to put a man on it Coach Evans can't make, for a good line.

Len Kunken, Tony Lewkowicz and Hal Mayforth, all sophomores, will see plenty of action this week-end. Len will start at one of the ends. Tony will see action in the fullback slot, and Mayforth will probably go in for Barry in the halfback position.

The starting line-up will find Kunken and Paterson on the ends, Parris and Walgren at the tackles, Swift and Benoit at guards, Chesarone at center. Shifting to the backfield, the line-up will be the same as in previous games with Rice at quarterback, Shaw at fullback and Spasyk and Barry at the halfback positions.

Friday afternoon will find the Vermont contingent in Waterville practicing and getting the feel of the layout.



Frosh Gridsters Hosts to G. M. J. C.

The freshman football squad will play host to the Green Mountain Junior College eleven this Saturday at 2:00 p.m. on Centennial Field.

Coach Jack Hefferman's Mountaineers are not to be seen as an easy ride, as last Saturday they upset the Norwich freshmen by a 13-6 verdict. However, Sherm Hogg's Kittens showed real talent last week-end when they polished off Vermont Junior College 25-0.

Vermont will start Cochran, Fabiano, Martin and Lapointe in the backfield. The ends will be Haven and Ecklund. Tackle positions will be held by Lataille and Ruroede. Ingram and Goldman will start at the guard posts, while Lippmann will begin at center.

Pan-Hellenic Tea Today at Southwick

On Friday, October 10, there will be a tea at Southwick room four until five o'clock. This tea is given for all sorority members, freshmen and transfers and the committee in charge would like to see everyone there. All the freshmen who have not been invited to come are just as welcome and urged to come. The committee in charge would like to know as soon as they know just how many will be here. Dial Plaine 43 is the Chairman of the committee. In the receiving line will be Miss Allison, Mrs. Pickford, Dean Young, Mrs. Young, Mrs. Guest House, Mrs. Pilcher of Redstone, Mrs. Loudon of Slade Hall and Mrs. Downer of Robinson Hall will pour at the tea.

Former Hi-Y'ers Please Leave Names in Office

The Y. M. C. A. office in the Old Mill is interested in finding out how many boys of the freshman class have had former affiliation with Hi-Y while in high school. Freshmen who have been members are requested to leave their names at the Y. M. C. A. office before Thursday of next week.

Rev. Skillman E. Myers Guest Chapel Speaker

Rev. Skillman E. Myers of the Unitarian Church of Burlington was the speaker in chapel on Wednesday, October 8. He spoke on the need of religion and the use of prayer in our own lives. The choir sang very beautifully "Now Let Every Tongue Adore Thee" by Bach.

Y. W. C. A. Elects Secretary

Miss Carolyn Brown has been elected secretary of the Y. W. C. A. to fill the place of Miss Louise Howe, who will not return this year.

Interest On College Tax Unnecessary

Now only Half as Much To Be Paid Says Sen.

An inheritance tax payment of $125,823.34 made to the State of Colorado from funds of the $1,417,359 estate of the late U. S. Sen. Charles W. Waterman left to the University of Vermont was in fact a victory for U. V. M. according to U. S. Sen. Warren R. Austin yesterday. He represented the University in the long legal controversy over the estate.

"Payment of interest was waived," said Senator Austin, adding that this would have amounted to about $123,000, practically doubling the actual inheritance tax payment.

The only point at issue in the last stages of the litigation was over interest, the senator declared. "The Colorado court upheld our claim on that point," he pointed out, saying that the complete reversal of the report in the Press Saturday that "U. V. M. loses Suit Over Inheritance Tax To Colorado" is true.

Colorado's claim to the inheritance tax was upheld by the Colorado Supreme Court last summer, he added.

Photographic Club

Photographic Club will hold its first meeting on Wednesday night, October 15, at 7.30 in the Club's dark rooms at Slade Hall.

Anyone at all interested in photography please attend this meeting as plans will be made for activities during the year.

We expect a large club this year and much activity.

Newly-Organized Catamounts Promise Top-Notch Music For Saturday Night

Saturday night, October 18, the ballroom of Southwick Memorial will be the scene of the annual fall Mortar Board dance. Black cats, jack o' lanterns, and gigantic black witches, astride broomsticks will peer from the walls, windows and corners, creating for the dancers a festive Hallowe'en atmosphere. With these autumnal decorations as the theme of the background, the new Catamounts will be very much in the foreground, giving forth in music sweet and hot for the girls and their favorite men. The Catamounts, popular at U. V. M. dances since their organization in 1937 have been enjoyed by all under the able management of Wayne Barrows '41. During the summer, however, due to the nation's call to arms, several players joined the air corps, were drafted into the army, or took positions in defense factories. As a result, the management of the Catamounts was turned over to Tommy Keighley '44 who in turn selected his men and promises to keep and even to better the reputation of the former Catamounts.

Capable Musicians

The new players of the band are capable musicians with a wide variety of musical experience behind them. In the reed section, Vee Manjoni, soloist and hot tenor sax man, gained his first experience in the high school band and orchestra in Bridgeport, Conn. As a member of a semi-professional dance band he joined and helped his band win second place in a contest of swing bands from all over the United States given in the New York World's Fair in 1939.

In both the year 1939 and 1940 this same band won first place in a swing band contest sponsored by Lowe State Theatre. Ray LaBelle, head sax man, played with the celebrated Tommy Dorsey in Glen Island Casino in New York.

Played for Goodman

In 1938 when Benny Goodman, at his height, had as members, Gene Krupa, Lionel Hamilton, Harry James, and other men who have now reached the top with bands of their own; Ray joined him in several jam sessions in New York City. He was at one time a student at U. V. M. and then attended a school of music in Baltimore, Md., and is now a competent teacher of clarinet and saxophone. Joe Viens, third alto, was a student at U. V. M. in 1939 and then graduated from Burlington Business College in 1940. He has played in a number of resort swing bands and was a member of the Catamounts under the old management. Roger Edgerton, fourth tenor, was also with the old Catamounts and was a U. V. M. student until last year when he entered the field of aeronautics in which he will be an instructor of flying; now as fourth tenor in the Catamounts he makes an excellent section man. Ernie Minotti, trombonist, has played in various swing bands in New England and in the old time jazz bands. He has played at U. V. M. dances for fifteen years.

Earl Mills, hot trumpet player and co-manager of the new Catamounts, graduated from Green Mountain Junior College last year and led the swing band there. He played with the Catamounts in 1937 when it was first organized. Skillie Williams, drummer, is well-known to Burlingtonians as Winooski's stellar basketball player on the all-state team and as a member of Vermont swing bands. Chum Reynolds '42 from Malone, N. Y., and who needs no introduction to U. V. M. students rounds out the Catamount's band at the piano.

Harold Bessett, affiliated with the Burlington Transit Company, is bass rhythm man. Tom Keighley '44, the manager, is the lead man in the trumpet section, and was a member of the Catamounts of old. He played in Vermont Symphony Orchestra and military bands in Burlington.

The members of Mortar Board have chosen as their committee to make this dance a huge success, the following girls:

Nancy Goodwin, general chairman; Gloria Oling Frank, tickets; Barbara Gallagher, chaperons; Gratia Pearl, decorations; Myrna French, publicity.

"Death Takes a Holiday" Is Choice For Fall Play

Scheduled for October 31; R. Hunting and Jeanne Woolley To Be Included in Cast

"Death Takes a Holiday" is the title of the play chosen by the University Players for presentation Friday, October 31, as a feature entertainment during Student Union Convention. A Samuel French play, written by Alberto Casella and rewritten for the American stage by Walter Ferris, it was first produced in America in December, 1929 at the Ethel Barrymore Theatre in New York City. This striking drama has since become one of the important thought provoking plays of our times. It is based on the poetic conception of death (represented as a very human individual), suspending all activities for three days and learning in that space of time why mortal people fear him.

The cast is as follows:

Cora ..... Bernice Lieberman '43
Fedele ..... S. Sirkin '42
Duke Lambert ..... C. H. Marks '42
Alda ..... Janet Hackwell '43
Duchess Stephanie ... Helaine Goldberg '43
Princess of San Luca ... Phyllis Taylor '44
Baron Cesarea ..... R. Hunting '42
Rhoda Fenton ..... Sylvia Wellwood '43
Eric Fenton ..... W. Harvey '43
Corrado ..... K. Calkins '44
Grazia ..... Jeanne Woolley '42
His Serene Highness, Prince Sirki, of Vitalba Alexandri ..... A. Q. Stemecke '45
Major Whitread ..... F. J. Fowler '43

Kerstin Thorberg Will Open Concert Series

Kerstin Thorberg, Metropolitan opera star, will be the first artist in the Mary Fletcher Hospital auxiliary concert series, and will open her fall concert tour in Burlington on Sunday afternoon, November 9, at 3.30 at the Memorial Auditorium. Other artists in the concert series include Vronsky and Babin, duo-pianists, and the young American baritone, Donald Dickson. Concert tickets may be obtained at the Everyday Bookshop on College Street.

Frosh Songster Heard On WCAX

Sally Ann Doremus Is U. V. M. Music Student

Interested students and townspeople who had their radios tuned to station WCAX at 2.15 p.m. last Friday were entertained by a program of songs rendered by Miss Sally Ann Doremus, coloratura soprano, who is a freshman at U. V. M. this year.

The first selection by Miss Doremus was an old favorite, "The Last Rose of Summer," by Sir Thomas Moore. Following this, the young artist sang George Barker's "Scottish Blue Bells." "Il Bacio" by Arditi, was the third song rendered, and in closing Miss Doremus sang a waltz song entitled "Haere Ra" (Goodbye), by Maewa Kaihau.

In spite of her youth, Sally Ann Doremus is already a veteran in the field of vocal music. Her singing career began at the age of six under the direction of her mother, Mrs. W. L. Doremus, who has been her music teacher ever since.

The broadcast over WCAX on Friday afternoon is not Miss Doremus' first experience with the air waves. She has sung on juvenile programs over stations WGY and WOR. She also represented her town, Rochester, Vt., on the opening of station WDEZ in Waterbury, Vt.

Nor do Miss Doremus' accomplishments in music end there. In 1937, at the age of fifteen, Sally Ann Doremus won the State Vocal Contest, thereby receiving a $300 scholarship from the University of Vermont. Miss Doremus also appeared in the Vermont State Music Festival as soloist in 1937.

Miss Doremus is enrolled in the music education curriculum at the University and is a member of Glee Club and Choir.

U. V. M. Women Attend Pan-Hellenic Tea

The Pan-Hellenic tea held on Friday afternoon was well attended by sorority members, freshmen and transfers despite threatening rain and the first hour test in Math 1. Under the direction of Chairman Jean Blume '43, tea was served by representatives of each of the seven sororities on the hill. In the receiving line were Miss Simpson, Mrs. Bickford, Gloria Oling Frank '42 and Doris Welch '43. Tea was poured by Mrs. Graves of Prospect House, Mrs. Pilcher of Redstone, Mrs. Loudon of Slade Hall and Mrs. Towne of Robinson Hall.

SCRIBES will hold their second meeting of the year Thursday night, October 16 at Southwick, 7.30 p.m. Anyone interested in writing is welcome.

Debating Recruits To Meet Oct. 15

Initial Debate To Be On Nov. 7 With Bates

A call has been issued by Mr. Powers, coach of debating, for those interested in debating to meet Wednesday, October 15 at 4.00 p.m. in Room 4, South College. He emphasized that everyone who is interested should attend, since only three of the men are left from last year and recruits will play an important part in this year's debating.

New this year is a plan to organize debating as an intramural activity among the various clubs on campus. Also in keeping with the plan of spreading this activity among the most students will be the debating meetings which will continue for discussion throughout the year.

A debate with Bates College has already been scheduled for November 7. This will be part of the program of a high school debate clinic in St. Johnsbury for all the high schools of that section. The subject will be, "Resolved: That every able-bodied male citizen in the United States should be required to have one year of full time military training before attaining the present draft age." Vermont will uphold the affirmative. The team to represent Vermont will not be chosen till after the debating meeting.

The policy of the debating team on debating trips has been changed this year. In order to give more debators a chance to take advantage of these trips, they will be shorter and more numerous. Debates coming up include meets with St. Lawrence University, Keene Teachers' College, and Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. The subject to be discussed with R. P. I. will be "Resolved: That the Federal Government should regulate by law all labor unions in the United States."

It is to be noted that the debating teams of the University have competed with most of the schools on the Eastern Seaboard including Harvard, Yale, Dartmouth,

Student Forum Being Organized

It is felt that on this campus there is missing an opportunity for the student body to participate in cultural and educational work outside of their regular class hours.

For that purpose the Students' Forum has been founded at this University.

Admitted are all those students who can show interest and knowledge in any one field of study and cultural activity. Meetings will be held regularly and members of the club will speak on their different fields. Professors and guests will be invited and asked to take part in the discussions following each address.

Persons who are interested, are requested to drop or mail a letter stating their field of study to the "Students' Forum" box, c/o CYNIC Office, Old Mill, immediately.

The term foundation and continuance of the forum will depend on sufficient response on the part of the students.

Democracy In Colleges

[illegible] Colleges and universities [illegible] have received [illegible] to being authoritative [illegible] the [illegible] of Democracy. [illegible] there can remain at least [illegible] which the press has granted [illegible] freedom [illegible] Democracy [illegible] representation [illegible] the people [illegible] by calling [illegible] to all sects to realize [illegible] various interests and to [illegible] representation.

Democracy puts great [illegible] on a country when the freedom of learning [illegible] Democracy [illegible] to fight against [illegible] forces as [illegible] England [illegible] many years ago an able [illegible] of Nobility [illegible] might say, "Oh, [illegible] my [illegible] go to the universities." That [illegible] sounded a [illegible] undemocratic condition [illegible] Such a statement would be utterly foreign to the American attitude. Any boy at any [illegible] as a matter of course to American universities. In this sense, un-democratic as the least appropriate epithet that could be applied to the University of Vermont where the students come from every type of home and whose family or money count not at all with faculty or student body. If any college is more democratic in this sense than Vermont, I do not know where it is.

The word is sometimes used to describe the contested study in a college curriculum, that is that they do not serve the needs of most students, aloof from the majority, reserved for the select few. Let us look at this meaning. Democracy has been defined as a social term "where everyone has a chance, and feels that he has it." Democratic education then should assist in giving that chance to everyone capable of profiting by it. The so-called "practical" courses in the University of Vermont and elsewhere [illegible] justify them [illegible] on this ground without argument. They teach a student to be an engineer, a chemist, a dentist, a doctor, etc., and so help to find the [illegible] balance.

But suppose some students want to find their place in music or art or in writing. The latter will be a small one, and its financial remuneration small. Must we ignore them because they do not represent the majority? Nay, if democracy is an ideal where every man is to be given a chance. Many a Vermont town keeps a [illegible] fund just to send one or two students to college every year. Then the same difficulties exist to keep open the best educational doors to education.

Some subjects are called impractical. Languages [illegible] hard to define as [illegible]. What is "practical" learning. Chemistry, engineering, agriculture and business are practical. But surely government and history are practical to a voter who wants to learn the experience of the past and the wisdom of Solomon. Are social studies practical in a society threatened with social disintegration? Even classical Greek and Latin may be very practical to those few who come to see the significance of two great civilizations on which our modern world built its security.

Vocational schools whose main aim is to educate for the sake of living. In all [illegible] it is worth while to [illegible] to whom music, [illegible] art give satisfaction? Can the [illegible] give a taste for these things to one [illegible] but the standards [illegible] and [illegible] but a nation that has neither will lose by itself take who can. Promote learning [illegible] of the mind may prove to society set aside as useless. There is [illegible] ground for argument about [illegible] studies. There is room [illegible] them. The only [illegible] attitude toward learning is to open the question and hear the case [illegible].

Practical [illegible] are [illegible] only road open to [illegible] [illegible] education. At the University of Vermont and elsewhere it is [illegible] to not open to all persons [illegible] ability. Most [illegible] have done it since it is [illegible] [illegible] Buildings have been built, [illegible] funds, and scholarships and grants [illegible] and bestowed by the state. Many a student today gets a college education that he could not get if dependent on the resources of himself and his family alone.

At the University of Vermont some six hundred students were financially aided last year. But it remains unfortunately true that many able students cannot go to college. This, however, is no reproach to the college. All colleges live up to their income or beyond it. They can lower the cost of education only as generous philanthropists, or organized society, make it possible. If the state desires that all who are capable receive education beyond the level of the secondary school, then the state must make it possible. That would mean very heavy expense, for the first result of free or very low tuition would be a great increase in number of students and resulting additional costs in equipment and instruction. Nevertheless this may be coming, for certainly in this day of exacting demands on applied science, and of bewildering problems in society, the state needs all the skill, and all the trained minds, that it can produce.

Platter Chatter

[illegible] get together for awhile all the following selections which represent a pretty good cross section not only of types of orchestras, but also of types of [illegible] presentations.

[illegible] Artie Shaw's version [illegible] the [illegible] So Glad" is at a take-off on a [illegible] [illegible] calling it "Yes In-[illegible]." The latter band does a fine job of [illegible] "Columbia" even to the characteristic [illegible] of the colored people. The [illegible] is very simple but swings [illegible]. James' trumpet leads a fine brass section [illegible]. Listen to the plaintive [illegible] Dick Haymes vocal. Reverse side is a very pretty song, "It's So Peaceful In [illegible] Country." Fiddles seem to be [illegible] a swing [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the excellent string section [illegible] in [illegible] of all brands. A very [illegible] [illegible].

[illegible] [illegible] Lee years, Hawkins has been acclaimed as one of the best and certainly one of the most original sax players in the business. His [illegible] originals on the "Okeh" label—"[illegible] It Around" and "Rocky Comfort"—provide ample opportunity to hear the man's particular style of improvising. "Rocky Comfort" is a fast tune built on various swing phrases. In addition to prodigious tenor sax there is a fine hot trumpet chorus. But "Passin'" really takes the cake for music played with feeling. Much slower, it affords not only admirable tenor throughout, but also wonderful backgrounds in a colored style than which there is none whicher. Tone is perhaps a little sloppy, but the feeling is all there.

Glen Miller.—From the 20th Century Fox film, "Sun Valley Serenade," have come two tunes recorded on "Bluebird" by Mr. Miller and his orchestra. "I Know Why" is about as simple and pretty a selection as you will hear in a long time. Paula Kelly does a more than adequate job on the vocal. Her backing by the Four Modernaires will make the chills go up and down your spine with its rich, close harmony. The reverse is another novelty, "Chattanooga Choo Choo" and, although there is not much to the piece, it is played in an extremely clever manner, having everything from musical train effects to Tex Beneke's vocal.

Until later, then.

The student body: The cheering this year has been atrocious (censoring takes care of a better word). All the fighting spirit that was instilled last year has vanished. When a small body can sit and cheer the way the visitors from G. M. J. C. did at the freshman game and make the Vermont student body look like a bunch of sheep even when they (G. M J. C.) were behind its time something was done. It it's the feminine cheer leaders that instill the fighting spirit, all well and good, let's get women cheerleaders or at least someone that will make the students let out a yell once in a while but it certainly makes one feel uncomfortable to sit in the cheering section at a college football game and have everything so quiet that he can hear his neighbors' watch

The cheerleaders: Your job is a tough one, but it's up to you to be on your toes every minute inciting the student body on Don't let any lag catch up with the cheering section. Make them holler 'til they're hoarse and then consider your job well done. The freshman team belongs to our University. Where were the cheer leaders at the last freshman game?

Help

Following closely in the steps of the Rugby Club a call has been issued for men who wish to form a fencing club at the University.

The sport of fencing has been extinct at this college for two years now, but the boys sponsoring the movement are now looking for men (experienced or not) to form a nucleus and above all they are looking for a fencing coach. Can anyone help?

Cats Trampled By Colby Mules 13-0

Only U. V. M. Score Nullified by Penalty

Colby rebounded from two previous defeats under the spur of an all-sophomore backfield to defeat University of Vermont 13-0, at Seaverns Field Saturday. A cold, November-like chill and leaden skies prevailed all afternoon.

The White Mules struck in the second and third periods with Phil Caminiti racing 31 and 11 yards around his own right end for the scores. Ed Loring added the extra point after the second touchdown

All afternoon the Mules ate up yardage through running of Caminiti, Ray Verrengia and Bud McKay, who gained 200 of Colby's 269 yards by rushing. After a stalemate first period featured by a kicking duel between Verrengia and John Spasyk of Vermont, Colby struck on a break to score the first touchdown

Loring recovered Spasyk's fumble on the Catamount forty-six. McKay went to the thirty-one on a reverse and Caminiti raced around his own right end thirty-one yards for the score

In the second half, Caminiti took the kickoff in his own end zone and raced to the Vermont thirty-five, where he was brought down by Misty Rice, the only man between him and the goal

The running of Verrengia and McKay put the ball on the eleven-yard stripe from where Caminiti again skirted his own right flank to score

Loring added the point and Colby led, 13-0.

Late in the third period, Spasyk's efforts carried the ball to the Colby nineteen, from where he passed to Len Kunken in the end zone.

The score was called back for a five-yard penalty on Vermont and the threat faded. Spasyk kicked out on the Colby eleven, but the Mules brought the ball back up the field, from where Verrengia kicked to Spasyk on the Vermont four

Another exchange of kicks netted the Catamounts fifteen yards from where they carried on a brief threat with first downs on the thirty and forty-two.

The Catamounts opened their air attack in the final period with Spasyk and Shaw heaving, but Colby's defense was adequate Late in the game, the Colby second team started a drive that was halted by the gun with Dam Scioletti sparking the play

The sophomores and Loring dominated the play for Colby and Spasyk carried the load for Vermont. The little halfback performed triple threat duties to outpass and outkick his rivals. Chesarone and Barry also played well for Vermont, with the former intercepting two passes in the first half

The lineups

Vermont: Kunken le, Parris lt, Benoit lg, Chesarone c, Swift rg, Walgren rt, Paterson re, Rice qb, Spasyk lhb, Barry rhb, Shaw fb

Colby: Bubar re, Weidul rt, Liss rg, Loring c, B. Shiro lg, Hutcheson lt, Helin le, Rodicki qb, Brooks rhb, Caminiti lhb, Verrengia fb.

Colby	0	6	7	0	13

Touchdowns: Caminiti 2. Point after touchdown: Loring 1 (placement)

A fencing team will be organized provided enough men sign up. If successful, it will be counted as a winter elective for freshmen and sophomores by the Physical Education Department. Sign up on one of the notices posted on the bulletin board in the Gymnasium, Old Mill and Williams Science Hall. Both experienced and inexperienced fencers are welcome.

Vermont Gridsters To Join In Big Canadian Celebration At Montreal

Combined Varsity-Frosh Team to Star On Gala Queens University Centenary Program

The University of Vermont varsity and frosh football teams will combine forces to help Queens University celebrate their 100th anniversary in a big night affair that promises a great deal of color and thrills for a crowd that is expected to be near capacity All of this will take place on Wednesday evening, October 15, at 7.00 o'clock Eastern Standard Time in spacious McGill Stadium, and the whole show is under the auspices of the Royal Canadian Air Force for the benefit of "Wings for Britain"

The feature attraction of the ceremonies is the football exhibition game to be played under American rules between the University of Vermont and the Montreal Bulldogs a city team which has been playing a schedule in a Canadian league. To supplement the football game it has been planned to have airplane manoeuvers, military drills and performances by the several bands which will be present

The Bulldogs will hold quite an array of luminaries some of which played large college football in the states. Johnny Ferraro is probably their outstanding performer He was an All-American a few years back at Cornell. He will be ably assisted by "Slug" Segatore, a lineman from Loyola, Jerry Searigh, a center from Minnesota, Eddie Keefer, an end from McGill, Lloyd Daniels, another end from Queens, Jim Riddle, quarterback from McGill, Norm Seglowitz and Ted Edwards, backs, from Glebe Collegiate. In the kicking department the Bulldogs seem to be well fortified, inasmuch as they can call on either Gordy Noseworthy, Ray Mullins, or Jimmy Riddle. Pete Jolkus is the heady quarterback who calls the plays The Catamounts will have their troubles with Ferraro who is a triple threat back He has been bothered lately with a bad ankle and may not see too much action Three other Bulldogs were hors de combat in their last contest and it is hard to say whether or not they will be available for duty. These three men are "Hi" Living, Small, and Hamilton.

Meet the Team

Bob Paterson

Bob Paterson is a senior and future engineer. He came to Vermont from Spaulding High School, Barre, Vt., where his excellent line play won him a place on the all state team. Has played plenty of end for the Cats in his three years on the varsity and bids fair to make this his standout season. Address—Delta Psi House. Current interest—brunette

All those interested in receiving experience as touch football officials are requested to report to Coach A. T. Post, Director of Intramural Athletics.

Coach Evans wants to take no chances with his already injury-riddled squad and plans to substitute freely with the regular men seeing a minimum of action. This exhibition game will furnish Ambidextrous Al Shaw an excellent opportunity to develop his new cosmic pass. The frosh will see a great deal of action as will the second team of the varsity squad

The boys will leave Burlington at noon on Wednesday and will stay at the Queens Hotel

Vermont Harriers Lose To Dartmouth 21-36

The Vermont harriers dropped their first decision of the year to the Dartmouth Indians at Hanover last Saturday by a 21-36 margin.

Dartmouth copped the first three places, while Vermonters took fourth, fifth, sixth, tenth and eleventh.

Burnham, the Indian ace, took the race and broke the Hanover course record in doing so. The first Vermonters were Fred Webster and Bud Hoyt, who were tied for fourth position. Charlie Webster crossed the tape sixth; Mart McLaren was tenth and Merle Crown took eleventh position.

The Vermont harriers go to Brunswick, Maine, next Saturday to meet the Bowdoin College hill-dalers.

Vermont Teachers

On Friday morning, October 10, Dr. Allen A. Stockdale of the National Manufacturers' Association addressed the teachers. He told of the challenge to democratic institutions afforded by the destructive forces in the world of today.

After Doctor Stockdale's address, the teachers formed smaller conferences, discussing their own immediate problems of teaching.

Debaters Prepare 1941-42 Season

Plan to Make More Students Debate

Vermont debaters opened the 1941-42 season with a meeting Thursday afternoon in the Old Mill.

A committee composed of Fulvio Bardossi, Faye Lipman, Julius Cohen, Harry McNamara, and Lilla Blumberg was selected to plan the club program for the year with particular aim of interesting a far greater number of students in debating. If any of you students have suggestions of topics for debate by all means leave them in the V. C. A. office at your earliest convenience.

The debating teams are eager to debate subjects which interest the entire student body and it is to them whom we turn for ideas. With your cooperation and expressed interest, we look forward to a banner year.

We hope those of you who were unable to attend the meeting today will be present next week.

Mrs. Fisher To Be At Convention

Plans for the Women's Student Union Conventions which will be held from October 30-November 1 are progressing rapidly.

Delegates from Eastern and near-Western colleges will be present during the many social and business events scheduled.

Dorothy Canfield Fisher and Professor Heinrich of Middlebury College will be among the speakers. Discussion groups will give the delegates opportunities to discuss vital questions of Student Government.

The University is honored in having the Convention meet here and it is hoped that all members of Student Union will manifest their interest by attending events to which they are invited.

Mrs. Fisher's address should be of special interest to all students, as well as the tea to which Student Union members and guests will be invited.

Pat Crowley Reporter For New Magazine

Design for Living is a new magazine largely devoted to colleges, their styles, their slang, and their activities in general. It is published monthly by the Popular Science Publishing Company and can be bought at newsstands. This magazine has a particular interest for all the girls at U. V. M. since the current styles and news from the Vermont campus are ably reported by our member of the "Deb," or college, board, Miss Pat Crowley.

Faculty Endorses Student Forum

Success Now Depends On Support of Students

The plans for a Student Forum were announced in the last issue of the CYNIC. The student body must now respond if this project is to be successful. That there is a need for such an organization and that such a forum will be a rallying point for intellectual activity on the campus is the opinion expressed not only by students but also by faculty members. Professor Elliott Merrick points out that a student forum will give students an opportunity to discuss interesting subjects which come up only indirectly in the classroom. A mutual exchange of ideas will help foster school spirit in the deeper sense of the word. Students must come to the meetings prepared to participate actively. There is no need for another social hour organization.

Other faculty members who have given their endorsement to the plan include George Millikan, Professor Evans and Professor Carleton. All of them look forward to a forum which will give the students a chance to do their own talking, instead of soaking up information which outside speakers bring to them. The forum will act as an integrating agency and a force for supplementing particular knowledge with general knowledge in other fields. Last but not least, it will lead the members to an examination of the educational system and an evaluation of its merits and demerits, with a view to improvement.

The plan now awaits the support of the student body.

Mortar Board Dance Tomorrow Night

Hallowe'en Atmosphere Will Prevail

U. V. M. girls and their favorite men will gather in holiday mood tomorrow night at Southwick when the annual Mortar Board dance gets underway to the sweet strains of the newly organized Catamount band.

A hallowe'en atmosphere will prevail, with plenty of black cats, witches on broomsticks and jack-o'lanterns. During intermission, refreshments will be served by a committee under the direction of Miriam Fiske '42. This dance, the first semi-formal affair of the season, will be chaperoned by Prof. and Mrs. George Dykhuizen, Mr. and Mrs. George Millikan, and Dean Simpson. During the evening, various members of Mortar Board and their escorts will also stand in the receiving line.

Gloria Oling Frank, who is in charge of tickets, has announced that beginning today (Friday) they will be sold not only in the bookstore, but also at the coffee corner near the "Y" room.

The price is $1.10 per couple, and as usual, it is the privilege of the fair sex to purchase the tickets and invite the man of her choice.

Alpha Chi Omegas Hold Annual Dessert Hour

A large crowd was present last night at the Alpha Chi dessert hour which is held every year about this time. Tables were set up in the house and from 6 o'clock to 7.30, dessert was served to visitors by the members of the sorority for fifteen cents. A choice of apple pie a la mode and date delight was offered with coffee to drink. The affair was under the direction of Ethel Shippee '42 and Barbara Clark '44.

Cats Claw Bulldogs, 28-13 In R. A. F. Benefit Game

Varsity-Frosh Combine Gains Early Lead; Paced by Spasyk, Mayforth and LaPointe

Using a well-diversified air and ground attack and paced by the running of Johnny Spasyk, "Hal" Mayforth and "Chuck" Lapointe, the Vermont varsity and freshman squads combined to give the Montreal Bulldogs a 28-13 beating before a crowd of 5000 in a night game played as a benefit for Wings for Britain at Montreal Stadium.

Fifteen plays after the opening kick-off a line plunge by Tony Lewkowicz netted the first score of the game and the Cats were never headed after that although Montreal tied the score in the second period with a long pass. Soon after, however, "Chuck" Lapointe of the U. V. M. freshmen broke loose and galloped 54 yards behind beautiful blocking to the second Green and Gold score. Fabiano's place-kick made the score 14-7 and the Cats and Kittens were away with a lead which they lengthened in the third and fourth quarters, although the Bulldogs came within an ace of tying the game up again in the third quarter, in which a 66-yard sustained drive terminated by Edwards' touchdown, fell short of the mark because of a blocked placement. That ended the Bulldog scoring for the evening, and left the rest of the crowd thrilling to be done by the Vermont teams which proceeded to do so in a good fashion. In the fourth period Lapointe again took the initiative and, after several good gains plunged over for the third Vermont score. A Spasyk to Rice pass was good for the extra point. Then followed the game's longest run. A few minutes after the third Catamount touchdown the Bulldogs sent Vermont deep into their own territory by virtue of a long punt. On the next play Hal Mayforth broke through right tackle and dashed 60 yards before he was hauled down from behind on the one foot line. Spasyk plunged over on the next play and place kicked the extra point giving the Green and Gold a 28-13 lead which remained until the end of the game a few moments later.

The Canadians made several good gains on lateral and forward passing, but could not cope with the Vermont ground attack and downfield blocking. The Catamounts' use of four teams also tired the Canadians tremendously as they were unable to cope with the fresh streams of substitutes being rushed into the game by Coach Evans.

Capt. Misty Rice, on behalf of the Cats, received the "Yank in the R. A. F." cup donated to the winning team by Betty

Open House Starts Sorority Rushing

Various Activities Planned for Girls

Women's informal sorority rushing began Tuesday, October 7 with open house at all the sorority houses. Friday afternoon, October 10 open house was cancelled because of a Pan-Hellenic tea held for all sorority girls. Open house for all freshmen and non-sorority women will continue to be held every Tuesday evening, 7.00 to 8.30 and Friday afternoon, 4.00 to 5.30 until November 1 when formal rushing will begin.

Saturday afternoon, October 11, freshmen and non-sorority upperclassmen were invited to various functions for the first time by sorority women.

Alpha Chi Omega entertained their rushees first at the house and then at a tea given at the Gate House of Oakledge Manor. Two of their alumnae were present.

Alpha Xi Delta and their invited girls went to the freshman football game together.

Delta Delta Delta and their freshmen enjoyed a movie at the Flynn.

Delta Phi Epsilon and their friends went bowling at the Bowlaway.

Kappa Alpha Theta took their invited friends to Mrs. French's farm outside the city where they enjoyed a weenie roast.

Pi Beta Phi and several of their alumnae entertained freshmen at a tea at the Brick House in Williston.

Outing Club To Go On Overnight Hike

Saturday and Sunday promise to be a big week-end for the Outing Club. Under the supervision of Harold Pease '43 it is sponsoring an overnight hike to the Mabel Talvor Butler Lodge. The station wagon will leave the gym about five o'clock after the Vermont-Union game Saturday afternoon. Hikers should bring a blanket roll or sleeping bag—pajamas are not necessary—heavy shoes, a drinking cup, and a toothbrush. The hike, which will include rock-scaling, is guaranteed to be a thrilling experience for only one dollar.

Sunday the club plans to have the trek up Camel's Hump, which was supposed to take place last week-end but was postponed because of bad weather.

W. A. A. Will Hold Open House at Southwick

On Wednesday, October 22, the Women's Athletic Association will hold "open house" at Southwick from 7.30 to 8.30. A well-prepared preview of all the winter sports of the various clubs will be given with demonstrations. Club managers will be present to answer any and all questions concerning their sport and they also like to "sign up" those who desire to participate in any of the winter activities. Natalie Spear '43 chairman of the W. A. A. open house committee, will be glad to answer inquiries concerning the meeting (Tel. 3188). Everyone is urged to turn out for this important get-together.

Gold Key Meets With Prof. Ladd

Gold Key, men's sophomore honor society, held its regular meeting at the Kappa Sigma house Sunday evening at 8.00 p.m. with Pres. Bob Lockwood presiding. Prof. B. Ladd, Gold Key's faculty advisor, outlined the purpose, ideals, and functions of Gold Key and advanced plans for the coming year.

It was the general consensus of opinion among the members that in the past, Gold Key has lacked initiative in promoting school spirit and enthusiasm. With this fact in mind, plans were discussed for a forthcoming fall dance, winter sleigh ride, and a freshman men's smoker. A publicity committee consisting of Bob Goss and Bud Pierce was elected. Also elected was a Fall activity committee consisting of Gil Manheim, chairman; Bob White, Tom Keighley, and Keith Calkins.

Brief mention was made of several other matters including ushering at football games and greeting of varsity athletic teams, before adjournment at 10.30.

Don't forget to come to the First Church Sunday evening, October 19 at 7.30. We have a return engagement of Dr. Ewart Edmund Turner, who has won hosts of friends locally by his lectures on previous occasions. This year he will speak on "Hitler's Battle for South America." Following this the Pilgrim Fellowshippers will gather at Mr. Jones' residence for a social hour and refreshments. Everyone is welcome.

Alumni Notes

Francis Colburn, a graduate of the University of Vermont in 1934, has had one of his paintings selected for this year's Carnegie Institute show. The selected painting is entitled "Playground." He is now a teacher of art in the Barton and Orleans high schools.

Daniel B. Dyer, class of 1924, was unanimously re-elected president of the Vermont Headmasters Club, October 11. He is the principal of Essex Junction High School.

The present City College of New York was established by the state legislature ninety-four years ago.

It is fatalistic to assume that our economy has matured, thus condemning us to government relief. This is not in keeping with our past history, the inventiveness and, expansion of our nation, and the survival of our nation and economic system through past crises. Cats Seek First Win Against Stubborn Union Team

Cats to Meet Dutchmen At Centennial Sat.

A determined Green and Gold football team will take the field Saturday afternoon at 2.00 o'clock against an equally determined Union team. The determination lies in the fact that each will be pointing for its first win of the inter-collegiate season. The Catamounts have succumbed on successive Saturdays to Northeastern, Trinity, and Colby. All have been ding-dong affairs with the result always in doubt until the final gun. Union's record is even less impressive, as evidenced by their losses to Hobart, 13-0; Trinity, 20-0; and Middlebury, 6-0.

An opportunity to compare relative merits of the two combatants is furnished by a parallel study of the efforts against Trinity. Trinity walked all over Union and yet was forced to boot a field goal to nose out the stubborn Cats. Comparative scores are always a poor medium for ascertaining ability, but in this instance it is all the observer has to go by.

As a matter of fact this Union team and that of last year is a far cry from its undefeated club that scored seven wins and one tie to be one of the few undefeated teams in the East. This was two years back when Sam Hammerstrom, selected on the Associated Press "Little All-America" team, led the Dutchmen. Since his tenure at Union it has been a different story. To date over a period of the last two seasons they have lost eight straight football games. It remains to be seen whether or not they will break this string of losses against the Cats.

Coach Fuzzy Evans will lead his charges into the fray in fine physical shape. The game with the Montreal Bulldogs caused no casualties, with the exception of Dick Desso who sustained a leg injury. Whiz White, scrappy flank guardian, has come along fast from injuries inflicted in the Trinity battle. He should see plenty of action even if he does not start. Hal Mayforth's return to action will bolster the backfield considerably, as he is a hard and shifty runner. Hal has been out all year with an ankle injury, but he is now reported to be in shape and may get the starting nod. Coach Evans kept Al Shaw, Bart Berry, White, and Swift out of the Montreal game, but everyone else had a workout.

Union comes here with two very fast backs in Hillick and Killian. These two gave Middlebury a good deal of trouble last week. The New Yorkers may be stronger than most people think. Those who saw them play Middlebury say that the second half was all Union, but they did not have luck enough to push over a score. It is said that their line is the weak spot.

The Catamounts will probably line up as they have in the past, but Coach Evans said that Lewkowicz, who has shown good work of late, may start in the backfield. At the ends will be White and Paterson, Walgren and Parris at tackles, Benoit and Swift at guards, and Chesarone at center. Captain Rice, Barry, Spasyk, and Shaw will comprise the backfield.

In a gridiron series forty-one years old Union and Vermont will play their fifteenth game Saturday. Of the games played thus far, the Dutchmen have captured seven, lost five, and tied two. Throughout this series Union has scored 120 points to Vermont's 111.

What About the Field House?

By "Scots"

The sports editor in a past issue of the Cynic brought up a point which it seems to us is important. Facilities at the University gym are not the best that might be afforded a visiting team. Locker room space is filled by our own gym students and the visitors must use cramped quarters with poor facilities to dress for their important games.

Although this issue is brought before the minds of the students during the football season, a field house could be well used by the four sports which go on at Centennial Field, namely, football, baseball, track and tennis. There is nothing worse than playing a hard game of football or nine innings of baseball and then having to walk the distance from the field to the gym before taking a shower. Track men, instead of having to lie down in the grass after running a strenuous race, would be much better off if they had a warm, covered place to go to while waiting for their next event.

The sports department has brought the issue squarely before the minds of the students. It's up to the students to accept the challenge.

What have you to say?

Marriage Relations Courses Not Needed

Pittsburgh, Pa.—(ACP)—Professors at the University of Pittsburgh don't need marriage relations courses!

This was brought out in a survey of marriage figures among the elite of the faculty; 93.8 percent of the University's professors are married as compared to the national marriage rate of only 61.1 percent.

To put this into a more concrete example, nearly nine and one-half profs out of ten are married. The national figures, taking in even the Ozark mountains, average only six persons out of ten. The marriage rate among profs doesn't carry over to other university employees, however. Only 67.4 percent of the officers, faculty, and clerical assistants of the University are married. This is still above the national figure.

The latter marriage rate was discovered when 515 out of 1,581 persons were found unmarried.

T. C. U. Using New System in Numbering

Fort Worth, Texas—(ACP)—Texas Christian University is using the new player numbering system being given a try-out at numerous schools over the country.

The new system, inaugurated for the benefit of the spectators, aims to make it easier to follow the play and to know who's doing what down on the field.

All the ends wear a number on the 80's; tackles are numbered in the 70's; guards in the 60's; centers in the 50's; quarterbacks in the 40's; fullbacks in the 30's; left halfbacks in the 20's; and right halfbacks in the 10's.

In addition, in the line, the left ends, tackles and guards wear odd numbers; right ends, tackles and guards, even numbers.

PRIZE CONTEST FOR NEW CHEERS

We are offering $5.00 for the best new cheer submitted. Entries should be neat, and contain words and motions. Please turn in entries to Doctor Prentice's office, any of the cheerleaders, or at the Cynic office.

Contest closes a week from Friday. No limit to number of entries from each person.

Middlebury Girls At U.V.M. Playday

Seniors will be given nine classes in Defense Work alternating with their regular gym classes this semester.

Seniors Lead Campus In Scholastic Average

Senior men and women ranked above all other undergraduates last year at the University of Vermont, according to figures just released from the administration offices. That covers all students except medical students. The senior women hit their books for an average grade of 81.60 and the men for 80.42, making a class average of 80.99. The only group to top this were post graduate students and special students who set up an average of 83.07.

With the seniors leading the scholastic race among the regular classes the juniors came in second, the sophomores third and the freshmen last. In each instance the women were ahead of the men, and in each instance the difference between them narrowed as the class year advanced.

The junior women scored an 80.89 average and the men 78.63, making a class average of 79.73. The sophomores stood at 76.48 for the women, 74.71 for the men, 75.61 for the class. The freshman rating was 76.76 for the women, 70.47 for the men, 73.72 for the class.

The scholastic average for all classes of the undergraduate colleges was 77.96.

Professor Koelen Discusses Art

The Vermont Art Association had a largely attended and interesting meeting in the Fleming Museum Art Gallery when Professor Koelen of Bowdoin College gave the address. The exhibitions and lecture with colored slides by Konrad Prattiemann, added interest to the meeting.

Friends of Barse Miller whose paintings and summer classes are so much valued on the campus, will regret to hear that his son, known as "Speed" was instantly killed by an auto Sunday in Los Angeles, Calif.

Two of the campus art students have a toothsome job in anticipation of many good things to come as they prepare signs for the cafeteria including every imaginable tasteful tid-bit. They would like "inside" information concerning the foods.

The cooperation of students is requested in the proper handling of admission books to all home athletic contests. Students are warned that these ticket books are not transferable. They are issued directly to the student involved, and any use of them by other persons is sufficient reason for confiscating the book.

Director of Athletics.

Miss Larson to Teach At the Univ. of Georgia

We wish Miss Blenda Larson the best of success as she starts Saturday for her new position in the Physical Education department in the University of Georgia. We wish to express our appreciation of her fine work in the dance and in the Field Day production.

We extend a welcome to Miss Betty Lou Witters of St. Johnsbury who graduated from the University of Maine with her major work in Physical Education.

Methodist Group

The Methodist College group will meet Sunday, October 19, at 7.30 to hear a talk given by Doctor Marvin of the College of Arts and Science. Refreshments will be served later in the evening.

Chapel Speaker

Rev. G. E. Goodliffe of Morrisville was the guest speaker in Chapel Wednesday, October 15. He used as the theme for his talk Chapter 13 of 1 Corinthians. The choir sang "O Sing Unto the Lord" by Henry Purcell.

Scribes Discuss Plans For New Magazine

The Scribes held their regular meeting at Southwick on Thursday evening under the chairmanship of Harry McNamara. After the reading of poetry the remainder of the meeting was devoted to the discussion and planning of a new college magazine. They discussed sources of material for this projected popular campus edition and it was hoped that the content would be made up largely by contributions from the general student body. There will be another meeting next Friday at Southwick at 7.30 p.m. All members and anybody else interested are urged to attend.

Upperclassmen And Frosh Invited To "Open House"

Upperclassmen are urged to take special note of the W. A. A. "open house" at Southwick tomorrow evening from 7.30 to 8.30. This will be their chance to renew their membership in the W. A. A. by joining one of the clubs this year. The invitation to the "open house" also, of course, is extended to the class of '45. All housemothers are cordially invited as well. Demonstrations will be given in the following sports: Basketball, volleyball, archery, badminton, modern dancing, ping-pong and shuffleboard. Managers of the following sports will be on hand to answer questions: Skiing, skating and bowling. Interested persons may sign up with any of the clubs. After the demonstrations have been "put on," anyone desiring to participate in any of those sports may do so if she is wearing gym shoes.

Cider and doughnuts will be sold by the Hockey Club, which is trying to raise money to finance a trip to Bennington. Natalie Spear '43 is chairman of the committee which is in charge of this elaborate preview of all the winter sports; it's for your benefit so don't miss it!

Revelry Reigns At Mortar Board Dance

Over five hundred tickets were sold last Thursday night at an unusually successful fall Mortar Board dance. Although the night was rainy, the ballroom at Southwick was crowded with gaily dressed couples, dancing to the music of the newly reorganized Catamounts. The decorations were on the Hallowe'en motif with black paper cats, witches, pumpkins and multi-colored fall leaves scattered plentifully about the room. A Joe College and Betty Co-ed of cornstalks also were present. Refreshments of cider and doughnuts were sold by Dorothy Laughery '45 and the chaperones were Prof. and Mrs. George Dykhuizen and Mr. and Mrs. George Millikan.

Gold Key Schedules Freshman Smoker

At the weekly meeting of Gold Key, Sunday evening at the Kappa Sigma hall, plans were discussed for a freshman men's smoker. A tentative date was set as November 4. Plans include refreshments, songs and speakers for groups of twenty-five freshmen at a time. The sponsors hope to hold the smoker at the Fleming Museum.

Gold Key members also talked over plans for a few publicity stunts to advertise the fall play. Gold Key emblems were distributed and the meeting adjourned at 9.00 p.m.

Key and Serpent meeting Wednesday, October 22, at 7.30, at the Phi Delt House.

Choir To Sing Faure's "Requiem"

Handel's "Messiah" Also To Be Presented

The University Choir and Chapel Orchestra will present as part of its annual Christmas concert Sunday, December 14, excerpts from Handel's "Messiah." For the Lenten Easter concert Sunday, March 22, a more modern work, Faure's "Requiem" will be presented. Faculty, townspeople and students who assisted in the choruses for the Brahms' "Requiem" and Handel's "Judas Maccabaeus" are being invited to sing without tryouts. Additional members of the faculty and Men's Glee Club will be admitted without tryouts.

Tryouts for women's sextet and/or double quartet Wednesday evening at 8.30 will constitute sufficient basis for determining admission of candidates from Women's Glee Club. Persons who do not wish to try out for sextet or double quartet may try out for the chorus Thursday at 4.00 p.m. Candidates selected from the Wednesday tryouts may attend the first full chorus rehearsal Thursday, October 23. Those selected in the tryouts Thursday will be notified in time to attend rehearsal on October 30. Balance of parts as well as qualifications of candidates will be taken into consideration.

Rehearsals for the full chorus will be held every Thursday night, beginning October 23, at the chapel from 7.00 to 8.00, with the exception of Thursdays, which fall on holidays or during mid-year examinations.

All-Sports Club Gives Banquet

The All-Sports Club gave a dinner in honor of alumnae members Thursday, October 9, at the cafeteria dining hall in the Waterman building.

The banquet table was attractively set with a center piece of fall flowers and novel place cards.

Among the guests were two founders, Misses Helen and Anne Squire. Others present were Miss Cummings and Miss Larsen of the physical education department, Mary Howe, Katherine Kyle, Eleanor Bayley, Dawn Nichols, Jean Finney, Catherine Peterson, Elizabeth Doton, Catherine Grier, Barbara Gallagher and Charlotte Hyde.

Miss Crow, who served as mistress of ceremonies, asked Catherine Peterson to summarize this year's All-Sports program for the alumnae.

Cards of regret from Janice Carkin of Minnesota and Rosemary Ropes of Connecticut were read.

A very successful evening was enjoyed by everyone.

Blue Stockings Elect Myrna French '42, Pres.

Tuesday evening, October 14, the Bluestockings held a meeting at Southwick. Because Doris Jareckie, the president elected last year by the society, did not return this year, Myrna French '42, the former vice-president, became president. Marolyn Powers '43, a newcomer to the Bluestockings, was elected vice-president and membership chairman. The combined office of secretary-treasurer is filled by Elizabeth Chaffee '42, and the social chairman is Geraldine Annis '42. The members discussed plans for this coming year.

The offices of the Dean of College of Arts and Sciences and the Dean of Women expect to move to the Waterman Building on Wednesday, October 22, and will not be open for business on that day.

Fletcher Series Singer

KERSTIN THORBERG

Fletcher Concerts Will Feature Four Noted Artists

The Mary Fletcher Hospital Auxiliary for the first time is offering series tickets to students at most reasonable rates. These tickets may be obtained at the Book Store in the Old Mill and will entitle the holder to seats in the unreserved section of the Memorial Auditorium for the concert series. Kerstin Thorberg, whose picture appears above, is the leading singer of the Metropolitan. Madame Thorberg has been outstanding in many and varied roles in opera and is equally successful as a concert singer. She will give her concert here Sunday afternoon.

The other artists in the series include Vronsky and Babin, the noted duo pianists, and Donald Dickson, the young American baritone who has sung for two years on the Chase and Sanborn hour with Charlie McCarthy. All these artists are young and should appeal to the students for their youth as well as their talents.

Y.W.C.A. Plans Mass Meeting

A Y. W. C. A. mass meeting will be held at 7.30 Wednesday evening at Southwick. All members are asked to attend and those wishing to join should come out. Membership cards will be considered invalid unless they are signed by the secretary. Miss Carolyn Brown at that time. Red Cross yarn will be given out and plans for the winter are to be discussed. Refreshments will be served.

Sororities Entertain Rushees At Coffee Hour

Saturday afternoon, October 18, the six sororities on the hill brought their rushees to the football game against Union. The majority of the girls showed their school spirit by staying throughout the game, enduring the cold rain of the last quarter. After the game the sorority girls and their friends warmed themselves at the coffee hour given at Southwick. There they became still better acquainted. Plans are being made by each sorority for separate gatherings to be held next Saturday afternoon.

War Relief Committee To Hold Benefit Dance

This Saturday night at 8.30 the gymnasium will be the scene of a dance to be held by the War Relief Committee. Music will be furnished by the Catamounts and Prof. and Mrs. Witham will chaperone. Sally Rome and Johnny Spasyk are co-chairmen for this dance for the benefit of combined war relief societies.

Vermont Dairy Men To Hold Annual Meeting Nov. 5-6

Operators and Managers To Convene In The New Waterman Building

The Vermont Dairy Plant Operaters' and Managers' Association is to hold its twenty-first annual meeting on November 5 and 6. The sessions are to convene in the Waterman building, University of Vermont, Burlington, in connection with the Short Course Conference for dairy plant operaters and milk distributors, being offered by the department of animal and dairy husbandry.

Committee Members

The officers and program committee are: George B. Dimpfle, Newport, president; C. H. Bowen, Bellows Falls, vice-president; H. B. Ellenberger, Burlington, secretary and directors; L. D. Ware, Richmond; M. V. Collins, Morrisville; T. H. Wood, Woodsville, N. H.; D. O. Hedding, Randolph; and M. R. Juckett, Essex Junction.

An incomplete list of prominent speakers from outside the State already scheduled for these meetings includes Dr. Leland Spencer, professor of marketing, Cornell University; W. A. Wentworth of The Borden Company, New York City; Dr. J. W. Bartlett, professor of dairy husbandry, Rutgers University; Dr. W. Bruce Sellers, senior extension economist, U. S. Department of Agriculture; Dean E. G. Woodward of the University of Connecticut; Dr. H. J. Brueckner, professor of dairy industry and a market milk specialist, Cornell University; I. W. Yates, dairy sanitarian, Philadelphia; and Frank E. Mott of the Boston Health Department.

The following local people will address the group: Dean J. L. Hill, of the College of Agriculture; Dr. Florance B. King, professor and head of the home economics department; Dr. E. O. Herreid, professor of dairy manufacturing; L. D. Ware, president of the Dairy Council of Vermont and manager of the Richmond Cooperative Association; L. E. Carrigan, director of the Agricultural Extension Service; and W. H. Chilson, in charge of laboratory, United Farmers' Cooperative Creamery.

Banquet Wednesday

The banquet is to take place on Wednesday evening, November 5. Gov. William H. Wills and H. P. Hood 2nd of Boston, president of H. P. Hood and Sons, are the speakers. There will be music, singing, magic and dancing. Cups will be awarded to the best U. V. M. student judges of dairy products and dairy cattle.

Complete programs may be obtained from Prof. H. B. Ellenberger, head of the department of animal and dairy hus-

Frosh Debaters To Meet Thursday

All members of the freshman class interested in debating are invited to meet at four o'clock Thursday afternoon, October 23, in Room 4, South College, Old Mill Building.

There is conducted every year a schedule of debates for freshmen, as under existing rules freshmen are not expected to participate in varsity debates. Prospective debates for freshman teams which may be all men, all women, or mixed teams are with Green Mountain Junior College, Middlebury freshmen, Dartmouth freshmen, St. Michael's freshmen, and Vermont Junior College. Some other freshman teams may be contacted later in the year. Also there will be a number of debates with teams from some of the high schools in the State High School Debating League.

One Say on the Forum

A glance over the Student Forum box this morning revealed that there are still absolutely [illegible] of those questionable people [illegible] around. We mean that part who will complain a feeling of indifference and criticism [illegible] the Forum. There will always be those [illegible] plan to gather [illegible] opinions. If successful, it could be the method for a genuine revival in the undergraduate [illegible] advocate last week.

The proposal [illegible] aroused much comment and the kicked [illegible] unity of interests between our various colleges and especially on the campus. There is the [illegible] and the disagreement. A common problem. [illegible] would bring [illegible] ways more or less [illegible] to all the others. That fact is not in keeping with the [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] undemocratic or unfeasible.

The student forum would [illegible] by [illegible] those students who have an active interest in some particular kind of study and are anxious to communicate to [illegible] ideas that have [illegible] and effective application. [illegible] knowledge will prepared knowledge to cover fields. The value to the participants and the [illegible] be a full person discussion based on actual knowledge. The [illegible] of the [illegible] will be a broadening [illegible] bringing the intellectual as well as social component of all the participants. The contact [illegible] with other minds will be far superior to mental [illegible] [illegible] from the printed page.

What [illegible] can be [illegible] but [illegible] to that total element of [illegible] student participation. The members [illegible] and listen to some interest aroused by [illegible] the presentation. If they agree or disagree and a few questions [illegible] they [illegible]. Total [illegible] negligible. But on a forum where one's [illegible] is truly shown by the eyes [illegible] the influence will be far greater and far more [illegible]. In other words the point is not to [illegible] prepared [illegible] but to [illegible] the discussion with a purpose.

[illegible] the [illegible] for such a forum, it would be sufficient. But we are positive [illegible] on the basis of true progressiveness and spirit. Furthermore, the [illegible] can be [illegible] by a group [illegible] interested in collection with a view to needed improvements. Today is opportune for [illegible] a [illegible] that will think constructively and [illegible] solutions for [illegible]. The campus is not immune to that [illegible] "what, me [illegible]?"

That is our say on the forum. The game speaks for itself. May the student body give it a hearing.

Gold Key Awakening?

[illegible] to [illegible], aimed at its inactivity, Gold Key has taken steps to [illegible] its existence and to make its influence felt on the campus. A new amendment to the Constitution states that all members be elected [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] from the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] large. [illegible] the society's duties will result in a truly representative selection of deserving men. The amendment itself is [illegible] by the [illegible] of a will to remedy a bad situation. Of course the success is still [illegible] to [illegible]. It will work only if the present [illegible] members are determined not to play favorites. That [illegible] under. We hope Gold Key will have the spirit to live up to it.

Union Stops Listless Catamounts, 7-6

Vermont Scores Easily In Opening Minutes But Bogs Down In Rainy, Uninspiring Finale

By Bill Roeder

Vermont's eleven, off on the right foot in the opening minutes, finally slumped to the occasion and succumbed, 7 to 6, to the slightly less mediocre Union College Dutchmen at Centennial Field Saturday. Played before 2,000 rain-soaked bystanders, the game staggered to a new low in futility, creating these melancholy statistics.

Victory-less Vermont lost for the fourth successive time.

Unobtrusive Union, whose two-year record compares favorably with that of the Philadelphia Phillies, scored not only its first win of the season, but also its first touchdown.

For the entire first half, which was atmospherically dry, the Catamounts looked, talked and acted like a football team or reasonable facsimile of same. They moved efficiently and expeditiously to a score, continued to gain at will, and completely curtailed Union's invasive movements. With the falling rain in the concluding half, however, Vermont skidded to a dead stop. The scarce-believing Dutchmen immediately seized upon this curious let-down as an excuse to win the ball game.

From the standpoint of interest, this game began at a disadvantage, and the play contributed few enlivening features. The Union backfield, hapless at the outset, became progressively more proficient. And Johnny Spasyk, the phantom bantam who directs Vermont's field activities, was conspicuous by his vitality.

Cats Score Early

Late-comers missed the Catamount score. It came four minutes from the opening kickoff, the climax of an uninterrupted 70-yard parade.

During this pilgrimage the Union line appeared to have about the consistency of a feather-pillow. Vermont backs filtered through it for five consecutive first downs and a score in fourteen plays. Spasyk, Capt. Misty Rice, the bucker-blocker, and two sophomore neophytes, Hal Mayforth and Tony Lewkowicz, took turns at devouring yardage.

Spasyk set the scoring snowball in motion, returning the kickoff 20 yards to the Vermont 30. Then, on third down, he jack-rabbited off tackle for 11 yards and a first down on the 45. Here Lewkowicz masked a reverse and scampered away to the Union 36. From this point the Catamounts stalked to a score, gaining ground in wholesale lots. Lewkowicz made the touchdown, hurtling over from the 1-yard line. Spasyk's placement was unsuccesstul.

Twice again in the first half Vermont backed the Dutchmen into their back yard, far but fruitlessly. Each time the New Yorkers held for downs, once on the 14 and once on the 30.

Dutchmen Strike Back

Union's backs, almost statuesque in the first half, when they realized less than a dozen yards from scrimmage, sprang to life in the third quarter. Ed Enstice flagged down a Spasyk pass and ran it back 24 yards to the Union 48. On second down Sherry Hillick ran 15 yards off tackle to Vermont's 34, sliding out of three seemingly inescapable traps. Then Bob Killian cantered around left end to a first down on the 11, and Hillick bolted over in one play. Lee Sherman place-kicked the point as frosting for the Garnet's first score of the year.

Flushed with their success, the Dutchmen took the game in hand. They brooked no further Vermont ventures into their estate, and were hammering past the Catamounts' 20-yard line as the whistle sounded.

Debating Season Opens With Keene

Plans for Intramural And Interclass Debates

The intercollegiate debating season will be opened when the debating team from Keene Teachers College, of Keene, N. H., meets the Vermont team, Friday evening, at 7.45, in the North Lounge at Southwick. The topic for debate will be, Resolved: "That every able-bodied male citizen in the United States should be required to have one year of full-time military training before attaining the present draft age." Vermont will uphold the affirmative side, and the constructive case will be presented by Julius Cohen '42, and Abraham Swartz '42; the rebuttal will be handled by Fulvio Bardossi '42, and Julius Cohen '42. A decision will be rendered by a board of three judges. Following the debate, questions and discussion will be in order.

On October 31, a debating team from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, of Troy, N. Y., will visit the U. V. M. campus and engage the Vermont debating team in debate on the topic, Resolved: "That the Federal Government should regulate, by law, all labor unions in the United States." On November 7, the Vermont team will go to St. Johnsbury, where a debate will be held with Bates College, before a debate clinic which is being jointly conducted by U. V. M. and Bates, at St. Johnsbury Academy. Other debates in the near future will be with St. Lawrence University, and Boston University.

The debating club met on Wednesday afternoon in the Old Mill. The committee which was chosen at the last meeting, presented a plan by which the club will operate for the coming year.

The proposed plan is to organize intramural debating as a campus activity and in this way spread the activity among the student body. Interclass debates with prize-winning cups have been suggested and individual awards for excellence in debating will be presented. Any suggestions of topics for debate will be greatly appreciated. Please leave them in the debating office.

We hope that more of you will come to the meeting next Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock in 1 South College.

Catamounts to Play For War Relief Dance

U. V. M. fellows and their dates will dance to the music of the Catamounts on Saturday night at the War Relief Committee dance in the gymnasium, at 8 o'clock. Professor and Mrs. Witham will chaperone this dance for the benefit of combined war relief. Sally Rome and Johnny Spasyk are co-chairmen; tickets are 40c a couple, 25c a person.

Collegium Sunday evening at 7:30. "What is Personality." Sponsors, Professor and Mrs. Millikan. Social hour and refreshments. Everybody welcome.

Frats Announce Additional Pledges

SAE's Plan Tea Dance After R. P. I. Tilt

With activity among the seven Greek letter fraternities, far from fever pitch this week, three of the houses announced additional pledges, although rushing is but a memory to somewhat over a hundred freshmen who took part.

The Delta Psi fraternity last night issued the following names: Howard Bryden '45 of Vineyard Haven, Mass.; Roy Danyow '45, Enosburg Falls, Vt.; Randal Mershon '45, Stamford, Conn.; Stuart Haven '45, Vergennes, Vt.; Gene Hamilton '45, Barre, Vt.

Gordon Manson '45 of Burlington and Charles Plumley '45 of Ludlow, Vt., have been added to the list of SAE pledgees.

The Phi Delts likewise announced an addition to their ranks with the pledging of Larry Lyerly '45 of Bridgeport, Conn. The highlight of the Phi Delts weekly Monday meeting was the passing of chocolates by Don Nutter.

The Phi Sigs pledged Jerry Gershaw '45 of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Stan Goldman '45.

While the Owls were today proclaiming last week-end's tea dance as an 'all-out' success, the SAE's furthered plans for their tea dance scheduled to follow the forthcoming gridiron tilt with R. P. I. Red Dower and band furnished the music for the Owl affair which was under the supervision of R. C. Doherty '43 and L. E. Burningham '43.

Mr. and Mrs. George Millikan and Prof. and Mrs. L. S. Rowell served as chaperons for the late afternoon dance.

Outing Club To Hike Mansfield

This Sunday the Outing Club is organizing a hike up Mount Mansfield, the highest mountain in Vermont. Now is the best time of the year for hiking, and the top of Mount Mansfield, owned by our University, is the best place to hike. With some cooperation from the weather man, the mountain top may be covered with frost feathers, which is a sight worth seeing.

The hikers will leave the gym at 9.15 Sunday morning. Warm clothes and shoes should be worn, and a lunch and thirty-five cents for transportation should be brought. Students wishing to go should leave their names in the slot in the box below the Outing Club bulletin board in the Old Mill, or notify Daan Zwick '43, who will lead the hike.

Independents Elect Program Committee

There will be a joint meeting of the Vermont Independents Monday evening, October 27, at 7.30 in Southwick. After short business meetings, the men's and women's groups will combine for a social meeting. This is the first such meeting of the year, and all independents are invited. Martin McLaren is program chairman.

The organization of the Vermont Independents is well underway, and the treasurer, Charles Webster, has announced that dues for this semester are payable to him.

ATTENTION: There will be a meeting of Pilgrim Fellowship Sunday at 7:30 at the Parish House of the First Church. We have something new in store for you so come and bring your friends. There will be a social hour and refreshments and Everyone is Welcome!

Experienced Cast to Give "Death Takes a Holiday"

Leads for Fall Play on October 31 in Capable Hands of Jeanne Woolley and Copeland Marks

"Grazia"

JEANNE WOOLLEY

With the performance only one week away, the rehearsals for the Fall Play are beginning to shape up. The entire cast has had previous dramatic experience, so "Death Takes a Holiday" ought to be one of the best plays that the University Players have presented.

His Serene Highness, Prince Sirki, of Vitalba Alexandri (alias Death) is portrayed very convincingly by A. Q. Steinecke '45, who was a member of the Weston Summer Theatre this past summer.

Jeanne Woolley '42 is well known in U. V. M. dramatics, having been in Group Plays and Fall Play during her freshman year, co-director of Group Plays sophomore year, and in the Junior Week play last year.

Duke Lambert, better known as Copeland Marks '42, has the honor of being the only Aggie ever to be admitted to the University players. He was in the Fall Play his freshman year, co-director of Group Plays sophomore year, and also was in the Junior Week Play that year. "Copey" is business manager of the Players. He spent this past summer with the Oakledge Players.

Janet Hackwell '43, who so humorously portrayed the role of a drunken actress in "You Can't Take It With You," will this time have the rôle of a thirty-year-old widow. During her freshman year, Janet appeared in the class play, "When the Whirl Wind Blows," Group Plays, and "What a Life," the Junior Week play. When she was a junior in high school, Janet won the prize for being the best high school actress in New England.

Roger Hunting '42, aged by his many performances, having been in the Spring and Fall plays every year for three years, this time totters and quavers through the part of the eighty nine year-old Baron Cesarea and provides the comic relief in "Death Takes a Holiday." Hunting has been with the Springfield, Vermont, Dramatic Club for several years.

Stanton Sirkin '42 has changed his rôle from Fedele to Corrado. Sirkin was in the Group Plays during his freshman year, and last year impersonated an internal revenue agent in "You Can't Take It With You."

Wendell Harvey '43 appeared in the Group Plays his freshman year and had one of the leads in the Junior Week play last Spring. Harvey also played with the Oakledge players this past summer.

Student Forum To Hold Meeting

Campus Interest Rising Continuously

As the interest in the Student Forum on part of the students and faculty is mounting continuously, it has been decided to call a meeting for next week. The exact day and time will be announced shortly.

It is necessary, however, to have a reliable count on how many and who will participate actively in the forum. The students interested are therefore requested to leave a notice with name, address, and special activity in the Student Forum box in the CYNIC office, Monday, October 27, 12 noon at the latest.

It is felt all over the campus that the forum can be a great success and it is hoped that it will not fail because of individual laziness.

Flying Cadet Head Coming October 28

Capt. Edward Halterman, chairman of the Flying Cadet examining board, will be at the Hotel Vermont October 28, 29 and 30.

Before an applicant may apply to the board for the physical examination he must provide himself with three letters of recommendation, his birth certificate and a properly executed application.

Anyone who makes application now will probably not be called before the first of the year. If the student desires deferment for any length of time he should state so on his application.

If a person passes the examination the results are good up to a period of six months. After that, in most cases, a re-examination is required.

Anyone desiring further information about making an application may apply at the military department.

Deans Offices Move To Waterman Building

By Wednesday, October 22, the offices of the Dean of Arts and Science and the Dean of Women will have moved from their crowded quarters in the Old Mill to the northwest wing of the Waterman Building.

A spacious reception room and office with private rooms for Dean Swift, Dean Simpson, and Miss Harris will make available to the students a better and more complete service.

Miss Witters Takes Ph. Ed. Dept. Post

Miss Betty Lou Witters, who comes to U. V. M. this week to take the place of Miss Blenda Larson in the women's physical education department, is a graduate of St. Johnsbury Academy and of the University of Michigan, where she received the degree of Bachelor of Education, with her major work in physical education. Miss Witters studied the dance under Miss Ruth Bloomer, who has taken work under Martha Graham.

Miss Witters has taught in St. Johnsbury Academy summer school and conducted the intramural sports program in the University High School at Ann Arbor, Mich. Many of the freshman and sophomore women have already met Miss Witters and members of all classes will have a chance to meet her at the W. A. A. open house which is being held this Wednesday evening at Southwick. The women of the college extend her a cordial welcome and hope that this year will be a very successful one for her.

What Is Wrong With Education?

By Jacob Katz '44

Why should not the son be educated as his father had been? Why should not the teacher educate as he has been taught? Surely, they make the reservation that they would include whatever good has been discovered in the meantime. They forget however that there is no evolution without occassional revolutions. Sometimes an educational reformer appears. First of all he has thought of something they have not themselves. Then he is an impulsive person; that means he makes occasional mistakes, "he shoots beyond the mark," thus, it is easy to point out some minor blunders and rest satisfied and untroubled again. Why disturb oneself? Man wants a peaceful middle and old age. Things will work out anyway till his death.

But the reformer is a genius. One must have a surer barrier against him than one's mediocre thinking. Thus, the reformer is declared to be outside society. In an authoritarian state he is accused of too free thinking and in a democracy he is said to have dictatorial aspirations. If pragmatism, "progress," science are the fashionable philosophies of the day, he is said to be against them and the learned scholar who had been stirred by the fear that he might be forced to learn something new (not only a new fact but a new idea) sleeps happily again.

Always something is wrong with education, but today especially. Our old conceptions have suffered a horrible havoc and democracy had to learn the lesson of patriotic devotion in order to survive. But education still waits for its reformer.

On many of the defense projects encountered by the Bell System, the work sheets—showing telephone facilities needed and time allowed—would make a good, conservative engineer's hair stand on end.

For example, take the Navy's huge new air base near Corpus Christi, Texas, which covers 14,500 acres, includes 29 separate flying fields and 481 buildings. Closely connected with the base are Defense Housing projects for 1700 families.

Imagine the complex problems involved in planning telephone facilities for this new "city" where formerly there were sand dunes—in obtaining and installing miles and miles of wire and cable, switchboards, telephones by the thousand.

But telephone engineers and construction men took hold—proceeded to shatter records—completed their huge task in seemingly impossible time. For men with the "will to do," there's a real thrill in such Bell System work!

undefeated frosh eleven will receive a real test Saturday at Centennial when they face a strong aggregation from Wentworth Institute. At the last we did not see a single cheerleader, and the handful of rooters from made more noise than the home team supporters. The yearlings have a and they would like to feel that the school is behind them. Football is a game and takes a good share of the player's time. The rewards aren't great doesn't receive his laurel wreath. It is difficult for a writer to give a line man because his work is not as spectacular as that of a ball carrier blocker. But there is no excuse for close-mouthed fans or for the absence to lead them in their cheers. Saturday's game is going to be a tough one for let's give them the benefit of wholehearted support.

Can Use It Too!

U. V. M. hill and dalers have been Vermont's most consistent winners. This defeated Union and Bowdoin, were nosed out by Dartmouth, and will face over their home course at 12.45 on Saturday. These boys run a four and course, and they could very well use any encouragement which the stu- could offer. Encouragement at the finish line is of little help, but there is point right back of Southwick from which one can view about one-third mile course. Here one can see the first three to six minutes of the race, and the last to twenty minutes as the runners head back toward the finish line. Here is cheers will help. The time is awkward, but your presence will certainly be especially if it's feminine. What about it, Redstone Campus?

Something Smells Around Here

C. V. Akley '42

A keen subject for debate on any college campus is the comparable intellectual capacity of the athlete and student. In the group of athletes I would include all of those college students who spend a lot of their valuable time participating in University extra-curricular activities, etc.

At this very moment let us suppose that a group of students at Podunk Teachers College is discussing the prospects of the school's grid machine for the coming season. The immediate worries of the body are centered on the possible ineligibility of the team's star halfback if he fails to pass a coming exam. One of them mutters, "What's the matter with Joe, anyway? Is it the usual 'all brawn and no brains?'" "Oh, I don't know," chirps a second, "It's hard to say whether the stuff is too much for him, or whether he just doesn't give a d--n. I can't see why the coaches persist in getting a bunch of guys up here who are not going to be able to stay in school. Oh well, that's not my worry. I have all I can do to study for that ten minute quiz in 'Poly Sci.' that is coming up a week from Tuesday. That stuff is plenty tricky. So long MEN." As the brainstorm departs, one of his running mates calls after him, "Will I see you at the game Saturday, Mortimer?" "What game? Oh, the football game. Heavens no! I just can't spare the time, and then there is the long walk over there, you know."

Fortunately, this is the spirit and attitude of a very small minority of our student body. From this absolute disinterest, spirit runs all the way up the ladder to those few who are saturated with eagerness to participate in anything that will improve conditions at Vermont. The fellows who go out for the college football team are certainly included among those few. The average college football player's inability to drag down the grades that his fellow students seem to get with comparative ease can be attributed to many things, some with which the average student may not be familiar. Perhaps the most important handicap is the considerable amount of time that a member of the squad has to devote to practice, games, and trips. The squad arrives on the practice field at four o'clock, and it is at least six-thirty before the boys sit down to a much-needed supper. If Saturday's game is at home the players are excused from classes at ten-thirty for lunch, taping, and many other duties that must be performed before they take the field. Then, after the game, it is usually getting along towards five o'clock before the player has taken his shower, received medical attention for any injuries, and left the gym. When the team takes a long trip away from home it is necessary to leave town early Friday morning, which forces the whole squad to miss all Friday and Saturday classes. Did you ever try to study on a bus? A practice session is usually held upon arrival at the enemy camp, and then in the evening, before retiring, a blackboard talk is held, at which time the coach explains any last minute changes, and brushes up on the fundamentals and strategy to be used. On Saturday morning a certain pre-game nervousness or excitement exists which is not conducive to study. Most of the fellows just hang around and wait for the morning to pass. That night, after the game, the squad again puts up for the night because the long trip home would be too much of a good thing after a hard game. Arriving back in town sometime Sunday afternoon, most of the fellows are physically exhausted because of the game and long trip, and are more than willing to hit the hay early.

This physical exhaustion is another important handicap that the athlete has to face. After a tough scrimmage the average player is so tired that he is fortunate if he can keep awake more than an hour over a book. Hour test or no hour test, he just has to quit and go to bed. This is the way it goes for the first three months of the college year, and can one wonder that a fellow's grades are a little shaky after such a long grind?

Now it is perfectly obvious that every student cannot play football, even if he should be so inclined. A great many are not physically able, and others do not have the temperament and liking for the game. That much is granted, but I can't for the life of me see why every single student in the University does not feel it his duty and privilege to attend all home games, and give his moral support to the team. Successful or not, that team is your team, it is representing your school, and if that does not mean anything to you, I would like to know what in H ll you and all of your brothers and sisters are doing here. If you think you are getting an education without participating in the various college functions and activities, you could have accomplished practically the same thing through a correspondence course. Don't say that you haven't the time for such things, because if you will just force yourself to get started in something you will find out how much time you have been wasting that could have been used productively. I personally feel that any person who spends four years at the University of Vermont should do something for the college during that time so that his fellow students will at least know that he passed this way.

Victory Hungry Cats Seek First Win Over Wildcats

Vermont Team Weakened by Injuries Will Face Powerful New Hampshire Foe Tomorrow

It will be a crippled University of Vermont football squad that will get on the bus for New Hampshire Friday morning at 8:00 o'clock. Thus far in four starts the boys have yet to win a game, but each contest has been furiously combatted with the outcome always in doubt. The Green and Gold have yet to be conquered by more than two touchdowns and they are out to see that they won't be.

Saturday afternoon the Cats will be taking an experienced eleven with a powerful line, a number of good backs, and a will to avenge the humiliating defeat hung on them last year by the Green and Gold. Led by Captain Gordon, 210 pounds of crashing power, the Wildcats are a dangerous foe. Gordon is a hard working football player along the pattern of our own Captain Rice. He is an excellent blocker, a strong line plunger, and an outstanding defensive man. Ably assisting him in the backfield are Hall, Clark, Begin, and Efstandes. Hall has been a great offensive luminary all season, but he sustained an ankle injury in the Springfield game and may not be available for duty against Vermont. In case of his absence the Wildcat passing attack may not be as effective. It is reported that they throw passes from anywhere on the field and they click very often. Begin is a good passer, but he is best on long heaves. Stacey Clark is back again with George Sauer's charges and he may cause no little trouble, because he is fast and shifty. The ace in the hole of this New Hampshire is Efstandes, who is a classy runner. He runs back the punts and is very slippery. The outstanding member of the line is a Vermont boy, Bove, a native of Rutland. He is a rugged guard.

Swift Out

Although New Hampshire's record does not sound too impressive, they displayed plenty of power last week when they licked a strong Springfield aggregation by a score of 14-6. They beat Lowell Textile 54-6, lost to Bates 7-6, and tied Maine 7-7.

Coach Evans has worked his squad against Wildcat plays all week. Tuesday was devoted to a defensive scrimmage, Wednesday to an offensive scrimmage, and Thursday to kicking and passing. The Vermont line-up may appear slightly patched up on Saturday. Frank Swift, scrappy guard, is out with a back injury. He may be out for some time, and will not even make the trip. Whizzer White is still out with a bad leg, and Al Shaw will see very little action due to a bad charley horse that has been troubling him for a couple weeks. Joe Alpert has been looking very good in workouts of late and he may be called upon to carry the passing burden. Hal Mayforth will undoubtedly share a halfback position with Joe. Bart Barry will be returned to his old familiar end position, and Bish McGill will be in there pitching in place of Swift at guard. Dwight Eddy's work the past week or so has earned commendation and it is believed that he will fill in most anywhere in the right side of the line.

Coach Fuzzy Evans will take a squad of twenty two men. They will return right after the game rather than stay there overnight.

Kitten Gridsters Face Wentworth

Kittens Will Retain Usual Line-up

A strong Wentworth team will meet the Kittens at Centennial Field this Saturday. Wentworth, fresh from victory over the Boston University freshmen, is expected to provide stiffer competition than any team which our freshmen have encountered so far.

The starting line will probably be Frank Ecklund and Stu Haven, ends, Fred LaTaille and Phil Waldman, tackles, and Newty Goldman and "Scotty" Ingram guards. The starting center will either be "Ham" Hamilton or Bud Lippman. The backfield will consist of Bill Maher, "Monk" Martin, "Mickey" Cochrane, and Capt. "Chuck" LaPointe. Conspicuous by their absence will be Jim Fabiano and Carl Ruerode. Ruerode, first string right tackle, is nursing an injured rib. Fabiano, triple-threat back, is out with a broken bone in his foot. Mal Muckler, back, is expected to see action because of this latter injury.

Coach Sherry Fogg has put the freshmen through their paces to good advantage. The outstanding work of Larry Lyerly, who has been shifted to guard during these sessions, gives indication of providing an excellent substitute necessary at that position.

The backfield will be functioning in the same excellent manner, which permitted them to run wild against the Montreal Bulldogs.

Outing Club to Hold Hallowe'en Party

On Friday night, October 31, there will be a Hallowe'en party put on jointly by the Lakeside Winter Sports Club and the U. V. M. Outing Club. Paul Sutton, committee member, announces that it will be held at Oak Lodge Manor and the admission will be 25c. Everyone is to dress in the spirit of the party by coming attired in his most ensemble. There will be dancing and a sleigh ride shown. As an added inducement there will be cider and doughnuts served.

The committee would like to have everyone planning to attend this party put his name in the Outing Club box before next Tuesday. This will facilitate arrangements for transportation.

The Outing Club box is on the first floor of the Old Mill by the coke machine.

W.A.A. Hockey Team To Attend Play Day

This is a big week-end for the W. A. A. hockey teams, which are sending delegates down to Bennington College, to participate in the First Vermont College Hockey Play Day. The girls are leaving early Saturday morning to enter into round-robin tournaments with other delegates from Russell Sage, Vassar, Mt. Holyoke, Bennington, New York State Teachers and Skidmore Colleges. Coaching of the team will be given by advanced players from the Mohawk Hockey Club of Albany, who will choose one of the teams to play with them in a demonstration game after the tournament is completed. The purpose of this play day is to improve the playing of all delegates, and to give them a chance to meet other girls who are interested in this sport.

The delegates are divided into two teams.

A Team—P. McElfish, D. Bullard, P. Perkins, C. Grier, S. Parker, N. Fawcett, I. Brown, E. Craven, D. Buley, A. Rowe, P. Clark, Substitute—R. Hughes.

B. Team—C. Perry, J. Stimson, M. Anthony, D. Arnault, N. Whittemore, C. Hyde, C. Hughes, P. Easton, P. Hughes, R. Jepson. Substitute—R. Cheney.

Carnegie Music Set Now Available

Beginning Monday, October 27, the Carnegie College Music Set will be available for the use of students and faculty of the University during the hours listed below. It is at present located in the large classroom in the rear wing of the Main Building, 70 Williams Street. Student supervisors will be in charge during these hours to play the phonograph and handle the records.

About 900 records, 100 books on music and many scores are included in the set. It was the gift of the Carnegie Foundation several years ago, and is intended for the use of the University, state normal schools, and other schools not having a similar set. The public is also welcome.

Hours (until further notice): Every day, Monday through Friday 4:00-5:00 p. m. Monday and Friday 7:00-9:00 p. m.

Burlington Camera Club Extends Invitation

The Burlington Camera Club wishes to invite any of the students interested in photography to its regular meetings. These are held on the second and fourth Thursday of every month in the classroom of the Police Station. Talks on the various phases of photography are given, and from time to time, traveling exhibits are shown.

Permanent President To Be Chosen Saturday

Postponed from Saturday, a meeting of the University of Vermont Board of Trustees for the selection of a new permanent president will be held this coming Saturday. Dr. Paul C. Packer, temporary president, announced.

Doctor Packer indicated that last Saturday's meeting was called off because not all matters were ready for action by the trustees. It had been announced earlier that the new president of U. V. M. might be named at this meeting.

At the same time, Doctor Packer said he was leaving Saturday evening to return to his post as dean of the College of Education, University of Iowa.

Parties Held For Freshman Rushees By Sororities Sat.

Seven sororities entertained 104 freshman women at rushing parties Saturday afternoon. Ideas carried out, in some cases, were unique in rushing history.

The Alpha Xi Deltas took thirteen freshman women bowling. Marguerite Benoit '43, Leominster, Mass., was in charge.

A rushing party tea dance to which fourteen rushees and their drags were invited was held at the Alpha Chi Omega House. Prof. and Mrs. Robert E. Long and Mrs. Sanford France were in line. Chairman of the affair was Mary Germain '43, Glens Falls, N. Y.

A vaudeville show in a bowery dive was the Tri Delta theme developed by Sarah Wilson '42, Gray, Me., chairman, and her committee. The twenty guests took part in the entertainment.

Thirteen rushees were guests of Delta Phi Epsilon at a tea held at the Golden Pheasant Tea Room. Ruth Spiwak '42, Forest Hills, N. Y., was in charge.

The home of Jean Hall '42, Charlotte, was scene of the Kappa Alpha Theta Hallowe'en party. Twenty rushees were invited. Janet Rust '42, Burlington, and Alison Carr '44, Ossining, N. Y., were co-chairmen.

An informal party at Oakledge given by the Pi Beta Phi's was attended by twelve freshmen. Tea was served. Phyllis Savage '43, Burlington, was chairman.

The Sigma Gamma Sorority held a scavenger hunt, and later convened at the home of Beverly Carr '43, Burlington, for refreshments. Chairmen were Beverly Carr '43, Burlington, and Virginia Close '43 White River Junction. There were ten guests.

Hunter College students voluntarily withdraw from school when they fail to meet minimum standards of scholarship.

Death Learns Why People Fear Aim In Fall Play Friday

University Players Prepare Well-Known Play for Convention

The University Players will present "Death Takes a Holiday" at Southwick Memorial, Friday at 8:30 p.m.

The entire cast now under the direction of Mrs. Paul K. French, have had previous dramatic experience, at the University and elsewhere.

The play is based on the poetic conception of death suspending all activities for three days, and learning in that space of time why people fear him.

The cast follows:

Cora	Bernice Lieberman '45
Fidele	S. Sirkin '42
Duke Lambert	C. H. Marks '42
Alda	Janet Hackwell '43
Duchess Stephanie	Helaine Goldberg '43
Princess of San Lula	Phyllis Taylor '44
Baron Cesarea	R. Hunting '42
Rhoda Fenton	Sylvia Wellwood '43
Eric Fenton	W. Harvey '43
Corrado	K. Calkins '44
Grazia	Jeanne Woolley '42
Prince Sirki	A. Q. Steinecke '45
Major Whitread	F. J. Fowler '43

Tickets may be purchased from members of Sophomore Aides and Gold Key. It is hoped the student body will support the event. Delegates to the Student Union Convention will be guests of the University Players.

Key And Serpent Discusses Rallies

Compulsory Student Assemblies Suggested

At the Key and Serpent meeting on Wednesday night, the members discussed the idea of changing the method of awarding the football blankets. Nothing certain was decided, however, but a definite plan will be determined at a meeting on Tuesday night, October 28.

The problem of arousing some spirit at the so-called pep rallies was discussed. So far, these have been nothing more than "peep" rallies and could stand a great deal of enlivening.

Another topic that the members brought up was that of student assemblies. No definite idea has been formed about these but several ideas were offered. These meetings would be held every two weeks or thereabouts, and the suggestion was tendered that they be compulsory. There would be speakers at these meetings. As it is now, we have no way of getting the student body together at any one time or place, but through these assemblies the student body would be more unified. The ancient saying, "A chain is only as strong as its weakest link" is applicable to the University of Vermont and perhaps these gatherings would be the way to strengthen our chain.

There are two vacancies in the Key and Serpent Society, one of which will be filled sometime soon.

Miss Florence Woodard of the Department of Economics was in New York City recently to present a paper to a graduate seminar of Prof. Carter Goodrich at Columbia University.

U.V.M. Seniors At Toronto Contest

Vermont Boys Sixth Of Twenty-two Teams

The University of Vermont dairy products judging team has just returned from Toronto, Can., where it competed with teams from twenty-one other states and provinces in an International Intercollegiate Contest sponsored by the Dairy Industries and Supplies Association and directed by the American Dairy Science Association.

Among the twenty-two teams Vermont boys ranked sixth in judging all dairy products, milk, ice cream, butter and cheese. A team from Ohio State University won the contest. On individual products the Vermont group stood second on milk, eighth on ice cream, tenth on butter and fifteenth on cheese. The team, all seniors in the College of Agriculture, included A. C. Smith of Barton, N. R. Stoddard of Groton, D. P. Dana of North Pomfret and W. H. Bourdeau of Middlebury, alternate. They were accompanied by their coach, Dr. J. A. Newlander, associate professor of animal and dairy husbandry.

Mr. A. C. Smith made an outstanding record, ranking second among the sixty-six individual contestants as a judge of all products, his total score being only one-third of a point different from that of J. I. Kohl of Ohio who won first. Smith, who was awarded the Dairy Industries and Supplies Association silver medal, had previously won a nine-team contest recently held at the Eastern States Exposition, Springfield, Mass. In this international contest he again proved himself an all-round judge, ranking fourth as a judge of milk, fifth on butter, fifth on cheese and tenth on ice cream, among the sixty-six competitors, thus establishing a record hard to beat. University of Vermont students not only learn how to produce but also how to judge quality dairy products.

F. B. I. Representative To Speak at Museum

On Tuesday evening, October 28, at 8 o'clock at the Fleming Museum, a representative from the Federal Bureau of Investigation at Albany, N. Y., is going to speak on "The F. B. I. and National Defense," under the auspices of the Burlington Branch of the American Association of University Women. This meeting is free and open to the public, and everyone is urged to attend.

The Dean of Women's Office will be closed for students during the following hours: Thursday, October 30 from 3:30 P.M.; Friday, October 31 from 11:30 A.M. to 2 P.M.; Saturday, November 1 from 10 A.M.

Student Union To Welcome Delegates Of Eastern Schools

Full Program Begins Thursday; Workshops On Student Problems

Plans for the Student Convention which has been under way since last May will reach their culmination in a splendid three-day program beginning this Thursday. Although those in charge admit that last minute plans are more than slightly confusing the convention promises to be very successful.

The arrival of thirty-four girls from twenty-one colleges has kept the heads of the various committees working steadily all fall. Without their cooperation the convention could not be a success. The committees and their chairmen are as follows: Registration—Louise Davis '42. Entertainment—Irene Agard '42. Hospitality—Barbara Gallagher '42 and Sally Rome '42. Housing—Gloria Oling Frank '42. Decorations—Gratia Pearl '42. Publicity—Myrna French '42. Transportation—Miriam Fiske '42. Information—Patricia Pike '43. Educational Program—Mary Tuckerman '42. Cooperating Committee of Faculty and Students—Cathryn Grier '42. Communications—Helen Witham '42. Finance—Joyce Woodruff '42.

Delegates Come From Afar

Delegates are coming from as far west as Ohio, and as far south as Virginia. The following colleges are represented: Western College, Allegheny College, Alfred College, Rider College, Flora Stone Mather College, Massachusetts State College, New York University, New York University School of Commerce, Russell Sage College, Pennsylvania College for Women, Hood College, Colby College, University of Maine, Bates College, Connecticut College for Women, University of Richmond, Wilson College, University of New Hampshire, Wells College, Pembroke College, Middlebury College.

Several of the features on the programs will be open to the public rather than to merely the Student Union delegates. The tea on Thursday afternoon from four until six is open to all the women students of the College. In order that the congestion will not be too great the freshmen and juniors are asked to come the first hour and the sophomores and seniors the second hour. The address by Prof. Waldo Heinrichs on Thursday night is open to the faculty, and men and women students of the University.

On Friday, all the women students are

Michael Anselmo To Give Recital

Mr. Michael Anselmo, violinist, accompanied at the piano by Prof. Howard Bennett, will give a violin recital, Tuesday, November 11. Mr. Anselmo and Professor Bennett are both faculty members of the Department of Music. The recital will be held at Southwick Memorial at eight o'clock in the evening. The concert will be open to the public and to University students. Those who attended Mr. Anselmo's recital last year at about this same time will remember his superb performance and will reserve the night of Armistice Day to attend again this year. Those who missed it before have a treat in store this coming month. The night of the eleventh is an open date since there are no classes on Armistice Day.

Only a diamond will do

There come occasions in the course of life when gratification and happiness are so profound that adequate expression becomes difficult. These are times when the deathless fire of a diamond can convey the emotions that defy speech.

The gems you choose for these spokesmen should be worthy of their mission. You can make sure of this by purchasing them only from a jeweler of unquestioned integrity.

We shall gladly help you in the selection of a stone for any occasion . . . shall gladly explain the four important qualities which determine the worth of any diamond.

Profit by our scientific study of gems through the American Gem Society.

Meet the Team

Bill Benoit, Guard

He's listed on the roster as weighing 170 and standing an even 6 feet. Hails from Bulkely High, New London, Conn. Right on he is Bill is always in the thick of the tangle on line plays and is a good man to have clearing the way for the backs on end sweep plays. Bill is enrolled in the business curriculum and is a member of Phi Delta Theta Fraternity.

Kittens Lose To Wentworth 14-6

Bill Mahar Scores Vermont's Lone Tally

On quest of their third straight victory the Kittens Saturday opposed a big Wentworth team from Boston.

After a hard fight the Kittens went down to the tune of a 14-6 score.

Electing to receive the Boston team secured the ball and drove down the field to the Frosh ten where they were held for downs. Fullback Mickey Cochrane punted out to his own forty. Again the Boston team drove back, climaxing the drive with a pass to Matt Keefe for the tally. Cloutman's attempt at conversion was wide.

For the rest of the second period it was the Frosh threatening by way of Chick Lapointe's end sweeps and Monk Martin's line smashes.

The Kittens' lone score came five plays after the half. With stellar blocking and swift running, they tallied from the fifteen-yard line on an end sweep by speedy Bill Mahar.

After an exchange of punts the yearlings took the ball on their own ten-yard line. And attempting a fake kick the hard charging Wentworth line broke through to smother the runner for a safety and two points.

The last quarter found the Kittens "on the move" again but their drive was stopped deep in Wentworth territory.

It was another long pass to Matt Keefe which set up Wentworth's last score. He gathered in a long pass and was pulled down on the Vermont thirteen. After some futile line plays again it was Keefe who nabbed a pass in the end zone.

In defeat it was again the fine play of linemen "Scotty" Ingram, Frank Eklund and Fred La Taille which was outstanding.

In the backfield it was again "Chick" Lapointe making fine runs with some fancy blocking by his backfield mates.

Credit must be extended to Wentworth Institute who boasted some fine players in center Vern Bliss, Matt Keefe who can really catch a pass and Stu Cline their quarterback.

A marked absence was that of Jim Fabiano, triple threat back. Jim has a broken bone in his foot. It is hoped that he will see more action soon.

Cats Yield to Wildcats' Superior Manpower, 40-19

Vermonters Score Three Touchdowns; One Comes Four Minutes After Kickoff

Vermont's gridders absorbed their fifth successive drubbing Saturday at Durham, N. H., when the University of New Hampshire Wildcats clawed them unmercifully, 40 to 19. The teams see-sawed through a feverish first half but New Hampshire's twin backfield freely dented through the fatigued Catamount regulars after that. The story back of the big score lay, as usual, in Coach Fuzzy Evans' dearth of reserve strength.

A Dad's Day crowd of 7,000 watched the Wildcats, strung by Bob Paterson's preliminary touchdown dash, climb back into a 20 to 12 halftime lead.

Paterson sped seventy eight yards to a score in the game's opening minutes after taking a pass from Johnny Spasyk. But New Hampshire, sparked by Tuffy Fitsandes, clicked for two touchdowns in as many minutes and added a third soon after. Fitsandes' runs set up the first, and he passed to Harry Mackel for the second. Little Stacey Clark missed scoring on a thirty-yard end run when the Wildcats were caught offside, but a seventy-yard march resulted in a genuine score, Charlie Judd plunging over from the 3.

A Vermont passing flurry, with Spasyk and Joe Alpert the alternating battery, was largely responsible for the Cats' second touchdown. This air voyage moved them fifty-five yards to the New Hampshire 4, from where Spasyk tallied on an end sweep.

Paul Pullinen made Vermont's last score, traveling sixty yards with an intercepted pass. This came after the Wildcats had built the count up to 40-12, shredding the exhausted Catamount line with three touchdown drives.

Varsity Harriers Show Heels To Williams, 23-32

The Websters Cross Finish Line Together In Near Record Time

Amid snow flurries and bits of frosted rain which inhabited the atmosphere last Saturday afternoon, the hard running Vermont hill and dalers showed Williams College's cross-country team the way by trouncing them 23-32.

The two gentlemen mainly responsible for this victory over Williams are Freddie Webster and his brother Charlie, as they both crossed the finish line arm in arm. The winners covered the four and one-half mile course in the amazing time of 21:37, just two seconds above the school record.

After the race Fred said to his brother, "Gee Charlie, we might have set a new course record if we only tried a little harder."

Because of this tie for first place, Vermont was able to annex its third victory of the current year. So far the only setback which the Vermont cross-country team incurred this year has been at the hands of Dartmouth.

The boys lined up for their four and one-half mile jaunt from in front of Morrill Hall and finally took off at exactly 12:50 p.m. Chapman of Williams set a terrific pace, and led for almost three and one-half miles. Charlie and Freddie matching the Williams ace stride for stride, soon wore down the leader and passed him with a little less than a mile to go. However, Chapman finished third only fifty yards behind the winners.

The race was nip and tuck the whole way, with no one particularly in command. This fact can be borne out in the exceptionally good times turned in for the race, for there was hardly more than two minutes difference between the first man and the thirteenth.

The results are as follows:

F. Webster (V), 21:37, and C. Webster (V), 21:37, Chapman (W), 21.43; Moore (W), 21:46; McLaren (V), 21:48; Griggs (W), 22:03; Hoyt (V), 22:20; Stoddard (V), 22:40; J. Corliss (V), 22:49; Goodbody (W), 22:51; Harrington (V), 22:52; Crown (W), 23:11.

Frosh Runners Trim W.H.S., 17-42

On October 25, at Morrill Hall the Vermont Frosh track team met the boys from Williamstown High School. The events started at 1:15 p.m. and it could be seen from the start that the Vermont boys had the edge on the invaders. The final score was 17 to 42 in favor of the U. V. M. Frosh. The men finished in this order:

Aiken (V), 16:42; Anderson (V), 17:08; Mershon (V), 17:17; MacKenzie (W. H. S.), 17:21; Stokes (V), 17:21½; Patten (V), 17:28; Bryden (V), 17:28½; Hills (W. H. S.), 17:36; Divine (V), 17:54; Goldstein (V), 18:30, Stephenson (W. H. S.), 19:29, Smith (W. H. S.), 20:04; Walker (W. H. S.), 20:31.

New Fencing Club Being Organized Here

A fencing club has again been formed at U. V. M. Such a great number of boys are interested that the first meeting of the Fencing Club will be held in the cage at 4:30 p.m. on Thursday, October 30. All other boys who have had any experience in this sport or who would like to learn this popular art are urged to come to the meeting. The physical education department has stated definitely that this sport can be used as a winter elective if the boys are in earnest. At the meeting officers will be elected, aims of the club discussed and the time of the meeting as well as time of practices set.

Touch Football Gets Underway

Displaying a variety of tricks, a flashy Tau Epsilon Phi seven walked away with its initial touch football match, smearing the Independents 32-13. Tep superiority was apparent from the start, with end runs and accurate passing adding up to nineteen points in the first frame while the Independents were held scoreless.

The first score was made two plays after the opening kickoff. A pass from Stroyman to Gipstein was responsible. In the same period, on interception of an Independent pass was enough to start the Tep march downfield again, this time Schuman on the receiving end of Kavelitz's heave. On a bad pass from center, cagey Sig Sysko of the Independents kicked, and Kavelitz ran the ball back for a touchdown. Stroyman's pass to Schuman netted the extra point for Tep.

The second period was nip and tuck, the Independents holding Tep to only seven points, rolled up with end runs and flankers. Gipstein's educated toe was responsible for the extra point.

The Independents' first taste of blood occurred in the third period, when the Goss-Sysko combination clicked against Tep's slow reserves. The extra point pass was blocked by lineman Glazen.

In the fourth round Tep applied the coup de grâce; a bullet pass reminiscent of the Parker, thrown by Strogman to Kavelitz accounted for six points. The Independents also scored, gaining the extra point.

Key And Serpent Plans New Awards

At their regular meeting Tuesday evening, Key and Serpent, men's junior honorary society, decided to sponsor the first in a new series of pep rallies beginning tonight at 7.00 p.m. in the gym cage. The members announce a new injection of pep into this pep rally for tomorrow's R. P. I. game.

Final discussion took place on awarding of football blankets, the final decision being a similar method of award to last year. The awards will be made at the annual Football Hop on November 22, also given by the Key and Serpent. Some plans for this affair have already been discussed in the meeting with the whole club as the committee.

Honor Groups to Give Dance Saturday in Gym

Orrin Brawn Sings On Local Station

U. V. M. Baritone Is Heard Over WCAX

Orrin Brawn '42 will be heard over a series of regular Friday evening radio broadcasts on Burlington Station WCAX at 7.30. A baritone, Orrin is well known to University students. He is accompanied at the piano by Nora Hill '42.

As a student in the Musical Education curriculum, Orrin sings in the University choir and has sung many solo parts in oratorios and concerts presented by the Music Department, including "Merry Wives of Windsor" and "Judas Maccabeus." A member of the Men's Glee Club during the past three years, he is the president of the Glee Club this year.

Orrin had previous musical experience and training before entering the University. During the time spent at U. V. M. he has studied voice under Mrs. Elizabeth Bradish of the Music Department.

The length of the series of broadcasts is not definite but they will continue every Friday evening for some weeks. In the two programs already presented, Orrin has sung varied types of songs including "Water Boy," a Negro spiritual; "Down Among the Dead Men," an English Drinking Song; and "A Pilgrim's Song" by Tchaikowsky.

Remember the recital to be given by Michael Anselmo well-known violinist, at Southwick Memorial, Tuesday, November 11, at eight o'clock. Mr. Anselmo will be accompanied by Professor Bennett.

Convention Program

Yesterday afternoon a tea was held from 4-6 at Southwick with the ladies of the Faculty Club as hostesses.

Prof. Waldo Heinrichs of the Department of History at Middlebury College, gave a very fine speech on "Today's Challenge to Democracy" at the Chapel last evening.

Today, business meetings and workshop groups are scheduled. At 11.30 Dorothy Canfield Fisher spoke at Southwick Memorial. Her topic was "Whither and Where."

Student Forum To Meet Next Tuesday

The first meeting of the Student Forum will take place Tuesday, November 4, at 7.45 p.m. in Southwick.

Faculty members and students will outline the aims and purposes of this Forum and after a discussion by the new members a definite plan of action will be adopted.

Students interested in a more active campus life, broader and greater knowledge are welcome.

Fraternities Plan Teas And Dances

Nine Chapters to Have Full Week-end

All but three of the University's nine fraternities will stage lively social events tomorrow evening, presenting teas and informal dances. The six houses to be in the swing of things following the RPI-Vermont game will be: Sigma Phi, Kappa Sigs, Phi Delts, Owls, Delta Psi, and Phi Sigs.

The "Sigs" will stage their annual Hallowe'en party replete with witches, hobgoblins, corn stalks, and what-have-you in the line of traditional Hallowe'en fixtures from five until nine o'clock. Arrangements for this gala early evening party are under the direction of Norman Tucker '42. Prof. and Mrs. F. D. Carpenter will be the chaperons.

Simultaneously the Phi Sigs will go "all out" in welcoming chapter members from RPI. A three-man committee including M. P. Reiser, Paul Gold, and Gerald Didinsky are in charge of arrangements for the dance which will be chaperoned by Professor and Mrs. Prentice.

Co-chairman Richard Flynn and Joe Hendricks announced last night that there will be a Phi Delt tea dance with Dr. and Mrs. Marvin as chaperons.

The Delts' tea dance will likewise be staged following the gridiron battle, with Ed Corliss, assisted by George Little as chairman. Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Gardner will chaperon.

With the announcement of a tea dance tomorrow afternoon under the direction of Richard Swift, the Kappa Sigs simultaneously proclaimed their annual "Bowery Brawl." This annual affair will be headed by Lawrence Killick, and is scheduled for a week from tomorrow following the Norwich-Vermont football game. Chaperons for the tea dance will be Prof. and Mrs. Witham.

Little less than a week after the celebration of Navy Day, Lambda Iota will mark this week-end with the sea and ships as the motiff. A gigantic bridge will extend from the street to the main room, where music will be furnished by Harry Lewis and his Rhythmares, an imported band from Boston way.

In charge are William Robinson and L. W. Loringham, both class of '45. Chaperons will be Professor and Mrs. G. W.

Gold Key Sponsors Freshman Smokers

The first of a series of Freshman Smokers sponsored by Gold Key will be held Tuesday evening from 7-9.30 in the Waterman Building. It will be in the form of an informal get-together between Gold Key members and the freshman boys. At this writing the speakers had not been decided upon, but it is intended to have one speaker from the athletic department and one from the general faculty. Refreshments of cider and doughnuts will be served and school songs will be sung. Freshman boys are requested to watch the mail for a postcard inviting them to the smoker. The men will be chosen in alphabetical order. All freshmen who receive invitations are requested to be present.

Notice

The Committee on Student Elections has set the following dates for the meeting for nominating candidates and holding elections for the various classes:

Class	Nominations Meeting	Election
Sophomore (1944)	Nov. 5	Nov. 10
Senior (1942)	Nov. 5	Nov. 12
Freshman (1945)	Dec. 3	Dec. 10

All meetings for nominations will be held in Room 27 Science Hall at 4:00 p.m. All elections will be held in the Cafeteria, except as the Office of the Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences in the Old College Building may open 1:00 p.m. and from 2:00-4:30 p.m.

Additional nominations may be made by petition signed by at least fifteen members of the class concerned and filed with the Committee on Student Elections at least three days in advance of the election. Each is limited to eighteen of the Committee.

E. Sawyer
Secretary

ATTENTION! FRESHMAN MEN: A smoker is to be held in the Waterman Building in the student lounge, off the Cafeteria, on Nov. 4, 7:30 to 9:00. This is the first of a series of smokers to be given for the freshman men by the Gold Key Society. There will only be a limited number at each smoker. The presence of the freshman men who receive invitations is requested. The names will be selected alphabetically, and each man will be notified by mail

A Few Suggestions

By [illegible] '42

The financial situation at the University of Vermont has been colored far and wide throughout the land in the past year or so, [illegible] the administration many worries, and the functions of all departments [illegible] a lot of valuable time in [illegible] discussing various possibilities of alleviating the condition. The alumni [illegible] being organized for a drive that will start in the near future. Every possible method of raising and earning money will be backed over, and many of them will be successful when pursued; but of what [illegible] value will all of these fine efforts be toward financing the college? Will they merely consist of sporadic attempts for the purpose of meeting a deadline, or will some program be forwarded which will insure a reasonable and continuous income?

In my humble opinion there are several sources of income which could be tapped right here on this campus and practically all of them have to do with the new Waterman Building. Is this magnificent structure going to be set aside for visitors to admire from a distance, or will it be given over to the endless student activities, which would derive great benefits from its centering influence? After all, in years to come, when today's students look back on their four years in college, it is not going to be the pride in which they walked along its corridors that they will remember; on the contrary these graduates will return the treasured memories of the invaluable associations and contacts made with instructors and fellow students while normally enjoying some social activity. And it is upon the benefits gathered from the latter that they will judge the worth of this building.

One suggestion which, although not apt to prove the source of much material revenue, would be a godsend to those fellows up the hill who enjoy feminine company, but who just don't have the money to spend on the fair sex, is to install a "Vic" in the large dining room of the cafeteria. Practically any student could then enjoy a dancing date, with refreshments thrown in, for less than fifty cents, and also just think of the worries lifted from the shoulders of the several house mothers. At the present time the week-night dater is practically forced to drag his sweetie downtown, take in a show, or hive up at Lyndon's, the Sugar House, or other evil-disposed joints and then stagger back up the hill under the influence of those potent "cokes," or something better.

Another thing that appears to be a bit on the juvenile side is the fact that no cigarettes are sold on the campus. Certainly college students, men and women alike, are old enough to know whether or not they want to use the vile things, and any benefits acquired from the exercise necessary to walk to the nearest store hardly pay for the inconvenience suffered.

Now for a Mild Suggestion as to how the college could really insure itself a neat little sum each year. Several of the eastern colleges have installed bars, for men only, in some of their college buildings. Beers and ales are sold to the faculty and to students of age until 10:30 p.m. I guess that this is "dyed-in-the-wool Vermont" and that such a thing would be unthinkable, but just the same such sale has been perfectly legal for eight or nine years, and the profits saved in taxes such enterprises are not to be snickered at. Disregarding the profit angle, it would result in keeping more and more students up here on the campus where they belong, instead of making it necessary for them to make nightly sojourns to the various beer parlors in the area. Of course, enterprising fellows would still have to smuggle beers up to their rooms.

Rev. LeRoy Rice Speaks

In chapel on October 29 the Rev. [illegible] Rice [illegible] compared the [illegible] at the war at Cana to the trials [illegible] He [illegible] and [illegible] Professor [illegible] rendered "The Heavens Are Telling" by Haydn.

"Something Does Smell Around Here"

To the Editor of the Cynic:

Clarence Akley is right. Something does smell around here, smells up. And it is not our football team [illegible] the active organizations on campus, the inert mass of the student body, the corpse, that stinks; stinks so that a member of the men's senior honorary society can smell it.

It takes no autopsy to know that the corpse is male. There are [illegible] seventy-five fellows around campus who show signs of life in that they play on teams and engage in some of the more extra-curricular activities here at college. And there are others who have the time because they must work, but there are five hundred more who, I think they have done their duty to Vermont when they pick Vermont's opponent in the football pool. After a poker game or two, a frat, a couple of hours of sleep, a book, and perhaps a session at the Student House, how can you expect a fellow to find time for attending meetings of various organizations?

The women at Vermont seem to find time. The few voices that cheer at the ball games are soprano—if they have not already become hoarse whispers in the attempt to make up for the rest of us. Outing Club and I. R. C. members, Cynic workers, and Glee Club aspirants range from sixty to seventy-five per cent women. And still the scholastic average of women at Vermont remains far above that of the men in college.

People have been trying to change the odor. The editorials of the Cynic have been shouting for months. Other columns and letters have pleaded for a change in spirit. Various organizations have discussed it at meetings. A few individuals have tried action.

When I came to Vermont, I was under the impression that the honor system existed in a great measure to foster College Spirit and activities. Even now I still think that Boulder, Key and Serpent, and Gold Key exist for some other purpose than to wear those pretty pins now that the freshmen don't wear beanies. It's time that Boulder started rolling up sleeves, to bring the student body back to life. The first hundred and fifty years are the hardest—there's still plenty of life left in U. V. M.

Sincerely,

DAAN ZWICK '43

Bluestockings Has English Ancestry

Where did the name Blue Stocking originate and why?

Well, back in the days of Doctor Johnson, the seventeenth century with its frock coats, tails and silk stockings, there was in London a place known as Montagu House, the home of a certain Miss Montague, who affected an interest in the literary affairs of the day. Meetings were frequently held there and prominent men of letters often took part in the discussions.

Among these men who were accustomed to appear at these gatherings was a certain Mr. Benjamin Stillingfleet, by no the wittiest of the party and a favorite of the ladies. Mr. Stillingfleet was wont to wear instead of the conventional black hose a pair of blue worsted stockings. This mode was popular in France at the time and certain literary-minded females tried to introduce the custom among English women, with no marked success. However, Mr. Stillingfleet and his stockings were justly popular, and upon one occasion when he was missing from the party the conventional question became "Where's Bluestockings?"

The ladies who supported this custom were dubbed the "Bluestockingers." By 1760 the origin of the name had been forgotten and the "Bluestockingers" became merely "Blue Stockings." Such then, is the history of the name "Blue Stocking."

As for Blue Stockings' more recent history, here at the University, it began about in 1920. In that year Miss Mayo and the Dean of Women, Mrs. Wright, found the existing literary club of pledges to organize an honorary society somewhat on the line of the "Scribblers" of Women, for the purpose of fostering creative writing.

Independents In Joint Meeting

The Independents held a joint social meeting at Southwick at 7:30, Monday evening, October 27. The Men Independents elected the following vice-presidents: S. Sysko '42, M. Crown '43, M. McLaren '44 and M. Blodgett '45. Robert Turner '44, was elected secretary for the following year. A program committee for the first semester is as follows: M. McLaren '44, chairman; D. Davis '45 and E. Bluto '45. It was suggested that each vice-president conduct one meeting during the year under parliamentary rules.

A social gathering was held after the meeting in which games were played, dancing, and refreshments were served.

A meeting of the Men Independents will be held in the Fleming Museum Monday evening, November 3 at 7.30.

'Sigma Gamma Sorority Hold Scavenger Hunt

The flying snowflakes Saturday afternoon didn't dampen the spirits of the Sigma Gammas as they held a scavenger hunt and weenie roast for their rushees.

Meeting at the Waterman Building at 2.00 o'clock, each group was given a list of articles to bring to a designated spot the articles varying from a horseshoe which was obtained from the firemen at Central Fire Station to an autograph of a college official.

A prize was given to the group who successfully completed their "haul" first.

Refreshments were served following the hunt, at the home of Beverly Carr, 422 North St.

New Examinations for College Graduates

Philadelphia, Pa. (ACP)—For the first time in history, college graduates who anticipate entering the teaching profession are facing a battery of comprehensive examinations that will test their fitness as educators.

The American Council on Education has a new teacher testing project that leaders of the organization believe will be the next great step in the improvement of education in the United States. First use of the new examinations will be next spring in certain cities in the East and Mid-west.

It is the purpose of the special committee devising the tests to develop a threefold service. First, a battery of carefully constructed tests will be prepared and made available to the cities cooperating in the experiment.

"Second, the committee will give all possible assistance to the cooperating schools in the study and exchange of ideas directed toward the improvement of all other means of selecting candidates, including investigation of the so-called 'imponderables.'

"A third aspect of the service is that data will be made available for research in teacher education. Such research may be carried on either by the staff working under the direction of the committee or by teacher-training institutions taking part in the project."

The tests are to include (1) "examinations that may be required of all candidates, on the theory that admission to the profession in any capacity should be restricted to those above a certain minimum in intelligence, culture and professional knowledge," and (2) "examinations to show mastery of subject matter to be taught."

W.A.A. Notes

A most successful W. A. A. open house was held at Southwick Wednesday night. Previews of winter sports were given by W. A. A. girls and all freshmen participated in these sports afterwards. Swimming, skating, and skiing plans were outlined by the managers. Cider and doughnuts were served. A W. A. A. meeting of the Council, Council-at-Large, and All Sports Club was held. Welcome was given to Miss Betty-Lou Witters, the new physical education instructor of St. Johnsbury, a graduate of University of Michigan.

Cambridge, Mass.—(ACP)—Harvard scientists report a Russian astronomer, standing by his telescope less than 150 miles from the invading German army has discovered a new comet.

Dr. Fletcher Watson of Harvard was informed by cablegram that Astronomer G. Neujmin sighted the comet at the Russian observatory in Simeis, East Crimea.

Catamounts Seek First Win Against R.P.I. Today

R. P. I. Has Three Out of Four Wins and Boasts a Well-balanced, Powerful Eleven

For the sixth time this year the University of Vermont football forces will take the field in quest of their first gridiron victory. This Saturday the opposition will be furnished quite ably by an RPI aggregation that has won three out of four games and has been scored upon only by one team. This will be the last game before the important state series contests with Norwich and Middlebury.

The Catamounts will once again be decidedly below their full strength, with Coach Evans saving his injured so that they will be available for the last two games. It is very evident that the Green and Gold have not been at their full power since the second game when they held a strong Trinity team, that beat Coast Guard last week, to a 9-7 score. Since then a great deal has happened, and it is a wonder that their games are so close. Whizzer White was lost for the year, Al Shaw has been out of action, Frank Swift was seriously injured, Hal Mayforth has been slow in coming around after his ankle injury, and several substitutes have been banged up and could not be counted on too heavily. Coach Evans will have to patch up his line up as best he can, and in order that no one else would turn up with an injury he held no scrimmage session this week. As a substitute he drilled his men in blocking and tackling fundamentals, wind sprints, kicking and passing, and dummy scrimmage. The freshmen ran off some RPI plays while the varsity watched.

Coach Duke Nelson of RPI, who was here two weeks ago scouting the Union-Vermont game, seems to have a well-balanced squad. His line is very powerful and the backs are good runners. Rensselaer won its opener with Drexel 21-0, defeated Hamilton by the same score, lost to Coast Guard 34-0, and last week trounced Union 32-0. The Engineers have a veteran line with but one or two sophomores. Their backfield seems to be the well balanced type wanted by all coaches. All of the backs can run, a couple are very good blockers, and their kicking is much better than average. Hoopes is an outstanding back who has done fine work all year for the Nelson coached eleven. McFarland looked good against Coast Guard. Lemke showed his heels to the Union team as he scored four touchdowns. RPI uses a modified "T" formation with a single wing. They do not possess much of an aerial game, but their strong land attack more than compensates for this. Time after time their excellent punts have pulled them out of dangerous holes.

The Cats will line up with Barry and Paterson at the ends, Walgren and Parris at tackles, Eddy and Benoit at the guard posts, Chesarone at the pivot, and Spasyk, Rice, Lewkowicz, and Mayforth in the backfield. Coach Evans will rely heavily on his reserve material Saturday to see a lot of action. In the line Savin, Prior, McGill, Pulleyn, and Kehoe will be shuttled in and out constantly. Joe Alpert on the basis of his showing against New Hampshire last week will play a great deal against RPI. Paul Pullmen has recovered sufficiently from a leg injury and should be worked in the backfield some.

Saturday's contest will be an attempt on the part of the Catamounts to get their first win under their belts before the state series.

Strong Freshmen Oppose Norwich

Frosh Expect Close Battle with Horsemen

Coach Sherm Fogg's fighting frosh will jaunt over to Northfield this Saturday to tangle with the Norwich freshmen.

The "little Horsemen" have a one and one record, with a win over the Williams frosh and a close loss to G. M. T. C. The Kittens, on the other hand have overcome V. J. C., G. M. T. C. and dropped a game to the strong Wentworth Institute outfit with a total of 33 points against their opponents' 20.

With Fabiano still lost to the Vermont eleven, all evidence points to a close contest. Coach Fogg expects to use the same lineup this Saturday as employed against Wentworth. The backfield will probably be Mahar, Martin, Cochrane and Lapointe. Ends are Ecklund and Haven. LaTaille and Rutoede will hold down tackles; Ingram and Goldman at guards with Hamilton centering.

Sororities Prepare Final Rushing Parties

The following dates have been selected by the sororities for their final rushing parties: November 4, Sigma Gamma; November 5, Delta Phi Epsilon; November 6, Kappa Alpha Theta; November 12, Delta Delta Delta; November 13, Pi Beta Phi; November 14, Alpha Xi Delta; November 18, Alpha Chi Omega.

Pilgrim Fellowship Have Hallowe'en Party

Witches and ghosts will be on hand at the Hallowe'en party to be given by Pilgrim Fellowship, Saturday, November 1, at the First Church Parish House.

Time: 8:00 to 11:00
Admission: 10 cents
Everyone is welcome.

Dana Whitman to Speak

All you on the campus who want to hear your favorite topic, "Yellowstone Park" discussed by Dana Whitman come to the Methodist college group, November 2 at 7.30. There will be pictures as an added enjoyment and refreshments to whet your appetites. How about it?

Art News

An exhibit of costume period accessories, sponsored by the Athena Club, will be held at the Fleming Museum Art Gallery from November 1 to 30.

John S. Millis Is Elected U. V. M. President

A Native of California, Millis, Not Yet 38, Has Served as Dean of Lawrence College; Dr. C. H. Beecher Elected Dean of Medicine

John Schoff Millis, a native of California, graduate of the University of Chicago and for the last two years dean of administration of Lawrence College, Appleton, Wis., was unanimously elected the fourteenth president of the University of Vermont by the Board of Trustees in meeting here Saturday.

President Millis will not be thirty-eight until November 22, making him one of the youngest college presidents in the country. Indicating he had previously informed the trustees' committee on selection of a new permanent president to succeed Guy W. Bailey, who died October 22, 1940, that he would accept a bid to become president of U. V. M., Millis was here to receive the congratulations and best wishes of the trustees following his election. The new president took over his duties immediately, announcing he would be in his office in the morning.

Name Medical College Dean

At the same time, the trustees appointed Dr Clarence H Beecher, M.D., a former mayor of Burlington, Dean of the College of Medicine, succeeding Dr. Hardy A Kemp who resigned September 1 to accept a new position with the Ohio State University Medical School. Dr. A. Bradley Soule, Jr., M.D., also of Burlington, was named assistant dean of the Medical College, a newly created office.

Both Doctors Beecher and Soule have been members of the three man administration committte named to take charge of affairs of the Medical College following the departure of Doctor Kemp. Both are graduates of the University of Vermont Medical College and have been members of its faculty for several years. Doctor Beecher as professor of medicine and Doctor Soule as professor of radiology.

Trustees Happy Over Choice

Visibly happy that a choice of a president had finally been settled on, along with the appointment of the Medical College Dean, the Board of Trustees adjourned to Saturday, November 22, when they will meet for the first time with the new head of the University.

Just as relieved appeared Dr. Paul C. Packer, who has been tempoary president of U. V. M. for the last two months during the financial rehabilitation of the University. An independent audit had showed the University to have accumulated a deficit of nearly $1,000,000 over the last few years.

Dr. Packer Departs

"I'm happy about the whole thing," declared Doctor Packer before his departure on the midnight train to return to the University of Iowa where he is Dean of the College of Education. "With the help the State Legislature has given the University and the loyalty of the alumni body the money stipulated by the Legislature, I'm sure everything is back on the right road and the University will continue to grow and progress under Millis."

Waterman Building Now Being Used

The Waterman Building is in use! Although, in the corridors, carpenters mingle with office workers and interior decorators with students still, many of the University offices on the first floor are open for business in their new home.

The north wing of the main floor is the arts and science wing. Here are found (not with the aid of a compass as some would have one believe) the offices of Dean Swift of Arts and Sciences and Dean Simpson and Assistant Dean of Women Harris. A spacious outer office, serving all three, leads to a suite of offices on one side of the corridor for Deans Simpson and Harris and to Dean Swift's office on the other side. Part of the outer office is glass-enclosed for confidential work.

Connected to Dean Swift's office are an assistant dean's room and a room for committee meetings or classes.

In the north wing are also found Mr. Powers' V. C. A. office and the office of the building manager, Mr. Wreston.

Along the main corridor are the University administration offices which were moved from the Medical Building, the alumni office, and the switchboard and information office.

The psychology department is occupying the western end of the north wing as offices, laboratories and classrooms.

The education department and summer school office will be moved to the first floor of the south wing this week.

It is expected that, with classrooms, laboratories and the University Book Store and cafeteria, the student body will be making constant use of the building in the future.

Student Union Confab Climaxed By Dance

Saturday evening a dance sponsored by the Honor Societies was held in the gym, as the final event of Student Union Convention. Delegates to the Convention, escorted by U. V. M. men, were guests at the dance. Bob Jary and his Vermont Collegians furnished the music.

John J. Spasyk '42 and R. L. Carlson '42 were co-chairmen of the dance. Prof. and Mrs. H. G. Millington were chaperones.

R.O.T.C. Can't March—No Coats

The R. O. T. C. band and the U. V. M. student corps have been invited to participate in the Sesquicentennial and Defense Day parade in connection with the observance of Armistice Day here in Burlington.

Due to the fact that there is no provision made by the Government for furnishing the R. O. T. C. with overcoats, it was impossible to respond to this invitation. The Military Department would be responsible to the Government for these boys if any complications ensued as a result of the R. O. T. C. parading without overcoats. However, the President, Faculty and student body are heartily in accord with the patriotic purposes and sentiments which prompt these activities.

The student band does play for the U. V. M. football games, but in doing this they wear their own overcoats over their uniforms. This is, of course, a University or student activity and not an official military formation.

U.V.M. Fall Play Is Well Given

Steinecke and Woolley Deserved Commendation

Last Friday evening, the University Players, this time under the guidance of Mrs. Paul K. French, scored another success in their long series of excellent productions.

An excellent cast headed by Jeanne Woolley '42 and Allen Steinecke '45 presented the Broadway hit "Death Takes a Holiday." Steinecke was very well chosen for the part of Death alias Prince Sirki of Vitalbi of Alexandri. His talent was exhibited at its best in several love scenes. Jeanne Woolley interpreted the part of Grazia, the lovely young heroine, with gracefulness and taste. Janet Hackwell '43 as Alda received compliments from many. Playing the Duke was Copeland Marks '42. Helaine Goldberg '42 played the Duchess. Corrado, Grazia's disappointed lover was Stanton Sirkin '42. Eric, the Englishman was Wendell Harvey '43; the Baron was humorously played by Roger Hunting '42; the Princess was Phyllis Taylor '44; Rhoda was Sylvia Wellwood '44; the Major was Frank Fowler '43; Cora the maid was Bernice Lieberman '45; and Fedele the butler was Paul Sundberg '43.

The lighting, stage set, and makeup were all good.

The lighting was particularly commendable. We venture to predict more and even greater successes for Steinecke in the future.

Guests of the University Players were the delegates to the Student Union Convention. Also in attendance was a large crowd of students and townspeople.

Student Forum Meeting Scheduled for Tonight

The Student Forum will hold its first meeting on Tuesday, November 4, at 7.45 p.m. in Southwick.

Prof. P. D. Evans and Mr. G. L. Millikan will address the group, after a short outline of the aims and purposes of the forum has been given by one of its members.

A discussion will follow the speeches in which each member will have an opportunity to express his own ideas and make suggestions before a definite program will be adopted.

All students interested in a group which will try to discuss constructively and solve campus problems as well as broaden their own knowledge are welcome.

Faculty and student tickets for Norwich game at Northfield, Saturday, at 2.00 p.m., on sale at the Old Mill Book Store until 5.00 p.m. this Friday. Special price if tickets are purchased in Burlington—$1.15.

Prof. Benj. Ladd To Attend Boys' Club Meet

A meeting will be held Thursday evening, November 6, at 7.15 in the V. C. A. office in the Waterman Building, at which time plans will be discussed. It is expected that Prof. Benny Ladd, who has been instrumental in organizing the Boys Club in the city will attend the meeting. Professor Ladd will explain the work and point out how the University students can be of assistance in helping to carry on this very worthwhile enterprise. Following the meeting refreshments will be served.

There will be a meeting of the French Club Wednesday night at 7.30 in the South Lounge at Southwick. Very important.

Turning Point?

The most thrilling Dartmouth game I've ever seen was the one in which Dartmouth defeated Cornell in the last few seconds of play. Cornell had the ball on the Dartmouth 1-yard line and was about to score the winning touchdown when the Dartmouth team intercepted a pass and ran the length of the field to victory.

Cornell had the ball, Cornell had the opportunity, Cornell had the game in its grasp. Then suddenly the tide turned and Dartmouth was victorious.

Now that the Vermont campus has definitely turned its attention to the war effort, now that the Vermont student has definitely decided that he is in the war, now that the Vermont student has definitely decided that he is in the war to win, now that the Vermont student has definitely decided that he is in the war to win, he is in a position similar to that of Cornell on the 1-yard line. He has the opportunity to score a touchdown for democracy. He has the opportunity to help win the war.

But he must not fumble. He must not lose the ball. He must not be intercepted. He must not be thrown for a loss. He must not be penalized for offside playing. He must not be caught napping. He must not be tackled for a safety. He must not be thrown for a touchback. He must not be forced to punt. He must not be blocked. He must not be caught off-side. He must not be thrown for a loss. He must not be penalized for holding. He must not be caught napping

Alpha Chis To Hold Bridge Party

Alpha Chi Omega will hold a bridge party on Friday from 2:30 to 5:30, November 7, in order to do their part in their national project of defense work. Alpha Chi Omega will meet the challenge of the times with a strong 1941-42 defense program. The delegates of all the chapters of Alpha Chi Omega have unanimously decided to support the work of the American Aid Red Committee of the British War Relief Society and to pledge $2,000 for the maintenance of twenty children in a bomb-shock hostel furnished by the British government.

By this national project Alpha Chi Omega intends to refute the too frequently heard accusation that sororities lack social consciousness, and at the same time will do their part in taking a definite stand against the enemies of civilization.

Alpha Chi's defense effort isn't going to stop with this hostel for bomb-shocked children. Their national investment chairman has invested $5,000 of their funds in United States bonds.

Betty Smith '44 has been appointed chairman of this defense effort. The bridge party will be open to all students and members of the faculty, house mothers, indeed, to the entire public. Refreshments will be served and two prizes for both auction and contract bridge will be given, all for the small price of thirty-five cents.

Doctor Soule was born [illegible] Vienna, October 27, 1905, [illegible] Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. [illegible] of East Otto. Following graduation from the St. Albans High School in 1923, he attended the University of Vermont, receiving the degrees of A.B. in 1925 and M.D. in 1928. After an internship at the Mary Fletcher Hospital, Doctor Soule was resident in X-ray at the Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston, in 1932.

Since 1933, he has been attending radiologist at the Mary Fletcher Hospital. He holds similar positions at the St. Albans Hospital and at Heaton Hospital, Montpelier.

He has been a member of the faculty of the College of Medicine since 1929, serving successively as instructor and assistant professor of pathology, and since 1937 as professor of radiology. In 1930-31 he was attending pathologist at the Bishop DeGoesbriand Hospital and assistant attending pathologist to the Mary Fletcher Hospital.

Helped in Reorganization

During the reorganization of the College of Medicine, Doctor Soule was a member of the committee on reorganization, which committee acted as administrative committee of the college following the death of the late Dean J. N. Jenne in 1937 until the appointment of Dean Hardy C. Kemp in 1939. Since Dean Kemp's resignation September 1, Doctor Soule has been a member of the three-man administrative committee of the College of Medicine.

Certified in 1935

Doctor Soule was certified in his specialty by the American Board of Radiology in 1935. He is a member of the American College of Radiology, the American Roentgen Ray Society, the New England Roentgen Ray Society, the New England Cancer Society and the Vermont State Medical Society, of which he is former secretary. He has served both the staff of the Mary Fletcher Hospital and the Chittenden County Clinical Society as president.

He is also director of the University of Vermont College of Medicine tumor clinic, president of the Vermont Association for the Crippled, trustee of the Burlington dental clinic and is a member of the Vermont State Merit System Council.

DR. A. BRADLEY SOULE

Made Important Survey

Doctor Soule has been interested in social and economic phases of health and medical practice and in 1939 made a survey of group hospitalization and medical insurance for Governor Aiken's special committee on health insurance, and for the Vermont State Medical Society.

He is a communicant of the Protestant Episcopal Church and is a member of the vestry of St. Paul's Parish in Burlington. On June 29, 1931, he married Miss June Yale Crouter of Philadelphia, Pa. They have one daughter, Caroline Yale Soule.

ATTENTION! FRESHMAN MEN: A smoker is to be held in the Waterman Building in the student lounge, off the Cafeteria, on Nov. 4, 7.30 to 9.00. This is the first of a series of smokers to be given for the freshman men by the Gold Key Society. There will only be a limited number at each smoker. The presence of the freshman men who receive invitations is requested. The names will be selected alphabetically, and each man will be notified by mail.

Women's Relation To Modern World

Is Topic of Mrs. Fisher's Student Union Talk

Mrs. Dorothy Canfield Fisher noted [illegible] and author addressed the girls of the University of Vermont at South[illegible] week Tuesday morning at eleven thirty. Mrs. Fisher's talk was one of the select[illegible] prelude to the Student Union Convention.

Mrs. Fisher discussed opportunities available for women in various fields, stressing particularly her belief that women have not availed themselves by training for or participation in, many positions in the business and industrial world to which they could be well fitted. Her talk was very informative and inspiring, and no doubt aroused in her hearers a new interest in planning and developing one's talents in order to qualify and even excel in pursuits requiring initiative and executive ability.

Mrs. Fisher's discussion of women's relations to the modern world of highly specialized business, industry and professional life was not only interesting but also very helpful.

Although Indiana born Mrs. Fisher is a Vermonter with an A. B. degree from Ohio University, and a doctorate from the Sorbonne and Columbia University. Her name has become known to the reader's world as the author of such literary works as "Hillsboro People," "Understood Betsy," "Made To Order Stories," "Her Son's Wife" and the more recent best seller, "Seasoned Timber."

There are two things that she loves very dearly. First, Vermont with its ideals and traditions, and secondly, young people. This latter interest led her to found, under great difficulties, the Convalescent Home for Delicate Children in France in . . . . and later, after establishing residence in Vermont to become the first woman on the State Board of Education.

Our pride in her as an author is surpassed only by our pride in her as a human being and a good citizen.

... Heinrichs traced world ... from the Peace of Ver... which closed the war which was to make "the world safe for democracy" to the present world situation. He reviewed the establishment of the League of Nations and World Court, the devices through which "world collective security to replace war" could be secured. With the failure of the League came a gigantic rearmament race. Germany conquered Austria which she used as a "back door" into Czechoslovakia. Denmark served as a "springboard" to Norway. The seemingly invulnerable Maginot Line was hedged and France fell within four weeks. Nineteen months after Chamberlin returned from Munich bringing his "peace with honor," England was subjected to the worst air raid in all history. She took new hope when Churchill replaced Chamberlin; when "appeasement gave way to forceful leadership."

Recalling Hitler's determined words "If I go down in defeat, I'll drag all the world down in flames with me," Heinrichs stated that the achievement of his goal was in sight.

However, Heinrichs said he was confident in our generation. He closed his address with a quotation from Wilson: "You are here to enrich the world, not to impoverish it."

Professor Heinrichs was introduced by Joanna Metcalf '42, president of Student Union.

Alumni To Launch U.V.M. Fund Drive

J. H. Moore '14 To Lead Campaign For $260,000

J. Howard Moore, U. V. M. '14, of New York and Huntington, president of the University of Vermont Alumni Council, prepared yesterday to launch a campaign among alumni and friends of the University to raise $260,000.

Of this amount, $150,000 must be raised before June 30, 1942, under the terms of the recent legislative grants of help to the University. This is for operating expenses of the University.

The remaining $110,000 which must be raised by June 30, 1943, may be made up of gifts to the University for specific purposes, not for operating expenses.

Moore's recent resignation from the Board of Trustees became effective Saturday. He had stipulated in submitting his resignation from the Board that it take effect the day following the appointment of a new permanent president to permit him to devote his energies to the financial drive.

He has been active the past few weeks making preparations for the campaign which will open immediately and concluded the preliminaries with a conference with John S. Millis, new president of the University, and an alumni group Saturday.

"We are all set to go," declared Moore in commenting on the campaign plans. "And we'll be under full steam at once."

Cat's Win

Just at the quarter's end, the Engineers became mildly menacing. Ward Cunningham, their fine end, broke through to block a punt off Spasyk on the Vermont thirty-five and recover it on the twenty-eight.

Inspired by this opportunity, the Red and White smashed to a first down on the eighteen in four power plays. Lemke carried on all but one of these plunges, but when he tried again, the Cats were ready. Rice and Harry Parris came on to down him for a net loss of three yards in three attempts. George Belcher was short with a field goal try at this point.

Three minutes before the half's end, Vermont launched its last scoring drive. Commencing from the R. P. I. forty-one after an outside punt, Alpert tore off tackle for nine yards, and Spasyk made three more for a first down on the twenty-nine. Here R. P. I. went offside, yielding five more yards. A pair of diving, shoestring pass catches by Rice and Bart Barry, brought the Cats within the five-yard line, and Spasyk twisted off left end, dodging nicely, for the touchdown.

This time John completed the conversion.

The second half offered little in the way of excitement.

The loss was a severe comedown for the Engineers, who last week massacred Union, 32 to 0. And the Vermont win gave some pause to those who were planning to be elsewhere when the Cats meet Norwich at Northfield Saturday.

New President Is One Of Youngest College Heads In U. S.; 'Willing To Work Heart Out'

Gov. William H. Wills, ex-officio member of the Board of Trustees, who has taken a deep personal interest in seeing the financial affairs of the University straightened out, was present at the trustees' meeting and warmly thanked Doctor Packer, whom he had enlisted to help in the situation, for his efforts during the last two months.

"Willing to Work Heart Out"

Intimating that he was well acquainted with the University's financial picture, Millis expressed confidence that the corner had been turned and promised after his election, "I'm willing to work my heart out to make things go right. I like Vermont and Burlington, that is, what I have seen of them and hope the people as well as those associated with the University and its affairs will have confidence in me."

A big, strapping six-foot-plus man, Millis looks somewhat older than his thirty-seven years. Pleasant and bespectacled, he has an easy manner, smiles readily, and makes friends quickly. He is married and has three children.

Father Well-Known Economist

He was born November 22, 1903, at Palo Alto, Calif., the son of Harry Alvin and Alice May (Schoff) Millis. His father is professor of economics at the University of Chicago and widely known as an economist, Professor Millis has been a member of the U. S. Immigration Commission and the National Labor Relations Board as well as serving on a number of Illinois and Chicago boards dealing with social and economic problems. The elder Millis is now chairman of the NLR board.

Millis married Katherine Roseberry Wesner of Baltimore, Md., on June 13, 1929. Mrs. Millis was graduated with a bachelor of arts degree from Goucher College and holds a master of arts degree from Columbia. Their children are, Jean Ann, 10; Alice Gertrude, 7; and Harry Ward, 4.

Millis received a bachelor of science degree from the University of Chicago in 1924, majoring in mathematics; master of science in 1927 and doctor of philosophy in 1931, both in physics from the University of Chicago.

A Former Athlete

His professional career began as master and athletic coach at Howe School, Indiana, 1924-26. Millis played football in college under Coach Alonzo Stagg, but admitted he was only "a fourth or fifth stringer" in the days when the University of Chicago was a power in football. He added he was better as a swimmer and basketball player.

Convinced that his field was teaching, not coaching, Millis returned to his alma mater as a fellow in 1926-1927, then became an instructor in physics at Lawrence College. He remained with this college, which has an enrollment of approximately 770 students, for the next fourteen years, but gradually branched out from the instructional field into the administrative field. He was made assistant professor and served in that capacity, 1929-31; associate professor, 1931-34; professor in 1934; Dean of the College in 1936 and Dean of Administration in 1939. He has had published "Laboratory Outline of Physics" and articles on "Atomic and Molecular Spectra in Physical Review."

Millis is a member of Sigma Xi, Phi Kappa Sigma (social fraternity), American Physical Society, and Rotary Club. He is an Episcopalian.

Given Carnegie Assignment

During the 1940-41 year, Millis traveled about the country under a grant from the Carnegie Corporation for the Advancement of Teaching studying the administration methods in colleges and universities. It was in connection with this work that he visited the University of Iowa and there met Doctor Packer. He also became acquainted with Dr. Walter A. Jessup, head of the Carnegie Foundation, and between these two became one of the recommended candidates for the U. V. M. post.

The new President of U. V. M. said he had never visited Vermont until last year when he and Mrs. Millis passed through the state on a vacation trip. He returned about a week ago at the invitation of Doctor Packer to survey the situation here.

He explained that while he is able to leave his post at Lawrence College immediately to take over his duties at U. V. M., he has some commitments in Wisconsin such as addresses and winding up his professional and personal affairs there that he will be back and forth between Burlington and Appleton, Wis., to some extent until January 1 when he expects that he will be permanently settled here with his family.

President Millis Emphasizes Policy of Faith and Activity

Last Tuesday afternoon in a spacious office in the south wing of the Waterman Building, President Millis, newly-elected head of the University of Vermont, took "time out" from his busy schedule to chat informally with a CYNIC reporter. Inspiring, cheerful, and full of charm and gusto, he seemed to fill the whole room with enthusiasm, an enthusiasm to tackle a big and difficult task.

The president is not entirely new to climate like Vermont's since there is only one-half degree difference in the latitude of Burlington and Appleton, Wisconsin, where for the last fourteen years he has been located at Lawrence College. As for local topography, President Millis said, "I grew up near a lake in the foothills of California, so I'm glad to see a similar view again." The newly-appointed president remarked enthusiastically that he has been "delighted" with the welcomes given him and that the people of Burlington (a "very lovely town") are wonderful.

Confidence in Faith

Swinging the conversation for a moment to a more serious and pertinent subject the youthful new U. V. M. head stated, "There's a tremendous amount of work to be done." He went on to express his confidence in the faith which Vermonters have in their University—the basic "real honest-to-goodness" faith which is so important to the maintenance and growth of an institution. "This fundamental idealism—'faith' is the best word for it—plus unselfish work results in an excellent institution," President Millis said with conviction. The University of Vermont, judged by its "products," has a good reputation and is favorably known over the country, according to an assertion made by the president. "Real and tried devotion in the University is like tempered steel which has been through the flame," stated President Millis, "and I was attracted by this. My job is both a challenge and an opportunity to me. . ."

"Open Door Policy"

"The students here seem loyal and devoted to their University," remarked the president, and he added amiably that he hoped they would see fit to use him as their president. The president is used to calling everyone by the first name and before long he expects to know the U. V. M. students as if "we were all one family." Even now, he feels that he and the students know each other enough to say "Howdy!" President Millis advocated the "open door policy" of relationship between himself and the students. "I want them to come to feel that their problems are of paramount importance," he said vigorously

Busy though he may be, President Millis recognizes the importance of regular physical activity. In college he "messed around" in athletics, did some coaching after graduation, and at present is especially interested in squash and bowling as a medium of exercise and relaxation. Also among his hobbies may be listed trout fishing, duck hunting, bridge, cribbage, and dancing (once for a period of four years he attened every student dance held at Lawrence College).

The interview was spiced with the president's ready humor and infectious laugh. When the visit came to an end the reporter felt that he and his fellow students were truly fortunate to have as the fourteenth president of their worthy institution a man of such dynamic spirit, keen insight, and good-natured disposition.

President Millis Addresses Forum

Student Group Plans Permanent Organization

The first meeting of the Student Forum was held Tuesday, November 4 at Southwick with approximately forty people in attendance and President Millis, Professor Evans and Dean Simpson as guests Fulvio Bardossi '42 presided

Jacob Katz '44 gave a talk presenting the aims of a Student Forum and what it might be. The aims are

1. To improve and broaden one's knowledge by each member's giving a talk on a pet subject of his, to be followed by general discussion

2. To confront and discuss campus problems and adopt a resolution from the findings

3. To see that the resolution is carried out on the campus by appointing a committee to put it through the proper channels

President Millis spoke a few words, emphasizing the fact that the existence of the University depended on our faith in it and in the power of education. In this he saw the significance of the Student Forum. Professor Evans warned that a club to be a success has to make its own program and not depend on outside talent. He also told the members not to be afraid to handle radical ideas—that there should be freedom in discussion at all times. Dean Simpson took the opportunity to defend the inactivity of the Faculty-Student Council. The Council cannot function well unless it has ideas from the student body to keep it going

The rest of the meeting was devoted to the business of forming a Student Forum. It was finally decided to hold a meeting next Tuesday at 7.15 at Southwick at which time officers will be elected and more details decided upon. Suggestions for programs and their arrangements were discussed. The motions that the Forum itself select the problem to be dealt with the following week and a person vitally interested in the subject to be chairman, specialized subjects to be left out; and that a committee of three be appointed to push through the resolutions adopted by the Forum were passed.

Football Theme For Sigma Gamma Party

Sigma Gamma entertained its rushees at a final party held in the banquet hall of the College St. Y. M. C. A. last Tuesday night. The football theme was carried out with several games under the direction of Marjorie Smith '43, and Florence Smith '43. The room was decorated in yellow and purple with cleverly shaped peanut football men acting as table decorations and favors. The food arrangements were carried out by Beverly Carr '43, and Ethelyn Chaffee '42. The party, itself was under the direction of Thelma Schoeneman '43, and Dorothy Thornton '43.

On Saturday, November 1, the sorority took its rushees to the football game and met after it, at the home of Jeanne Knickerbocker '44, on North Prospect Street.

Power's Models In Show At Southwick

Six John Power's models, coming all the way from New York, will be at U. V. M. Wednesday, November 12. The purpose is the Mary Lewis Fashion Show sponsored by the Town and Country Dress Shop for the benefit of the University of Vermont and the British War Relief. This fashion show is to be held in Southwick at 8:15.

Local models, as well as the John Power's models, will be used.

All types of fashions will be shown, including mother and daughter styles, sport clothes, town dresses, and a winter military wedding.

Miss Lewis will be remembered as fashion director of the World of Fashion Building at the New York World's Fair. She was also, at one time, the vice president of Best and Company and Saks Fifth Avenue. The use of cotton for more formal clothes was first advocated by Miss Lewis.

Each sorority and the Independents, as well as two non-sorority girls, will be represented by girls serving tea. Dean Simpson will pour at the Fashion show.

Introducing the Faculty

Prof. J. A. Bullard

with a Bachelor of Arts degree, when he majored in mathematics and studied a considerable amount of Latin and Greek (but which he is not sorry). Professor [illegible] was awarded a prize and graduated [illegible] Lodge of Phi Beta Kappa.

[illegible] he [illegible] Academy [illegible] Harvard [illegible] Bullard [illegible] the practical side of teaching. He pointed out that there are [illegible] of thought in the consideration of a question, the most obvious and the natural solution. However, Bullard recommends a greater discussion of [illegible] the principles of mathematical theory applied to practical cases to get concrete results than in the study of the theory itself. He is personally interested in experiments in mathematics and has already made check [illegible] the theory. However, the trend in research engineering nowadays is to solve the problem completely by theory and formula and then build the machine to see if it works. This method has been found to be cheaper in industry than a hit or miss procedure.

Contrary to his own attitude, Professor Bullard considers that a student of mathematics, mechanics, or any other science should first spend his time on and master the fundamental principles of his subject before he attempts to apply them to problems. He does not believe in blind substitution of figures in a formula. One should always see the reason behind the formula.

In the middle of Professor Bullard's room are occupying a good share of the space is an ever-inspiring apparatus somewhat suggestive of a Rube Goldberg machine. However its accomplishments are a little more scientific. The official name of this contraption is the photo-elastic study of stress distribution (distribution of internal forces in a material). Professor Bullard glibly demonstrated how the machine works. A piece of transparent material, either glass or a plastic, is arranged in a circle between two polarizers and stress applied. (The plastic will have to be kept in a jar of water while not in use to preserve their photographic [illegible]). A ray of light from a mercury vapor lamp is passed through the polarizer and measurement about onto a screen. The interested image is a bull [illegible] pattern from which may be plotted the internal stresses in that material by any three points and their position and shape in relation to each other.

In connection after experiments like these, Professor Bullard does gardening [illegible], such as cutting his lawn or shoveling snow. He is a lover of the outdoors and used to engage in many outdoor sports [illegible] had more time. His only exercise [illegible] now is walking. In the past Professor Bullard used to go on hikes and probably was an accomplished walker in his time. Once he and several others started out on a walking trip across the State of Massachusetts from west to east. However, the trip had to be called off when they had gotten half way across on account of a violent rain storm.

The next meeting of the Student Forum will be held next Tuesday at 7.15 p.m. in Southwick. Officers will be elected and therefore the attendance of everybody interested in the forum is requested.
Be sure to be early.

Four Came Back

Letter to Student Body.

Dear members (?) of "Le Cercle Français" because only four members appeared at our meeting Wednesday, November 5, 1941 (tsk—aren't you ashamed?), we are holding another meeting next week Wednesday, November 12, 1941 at 7:30. Please come, everyone!! This is a very important meeting that no one should miss. Refreshments (bribery) will be served.

Honor List

Pilgrim Fellowship: Prof. George Dykhuizen will be with us Sunday, Nov. 9, to speak on "Religion on the Campus." The meeting will be held at the Manse, 16 South Winooski Ave. at 7:30. There will be the usual hymn sing, devotions, social hour, and refreshments. Let's see you all there to take part in this pertinent subject!

Student and faculty tickets for the Norwich game at Northfield, Saturday 2 p.m., on sale at bookstore in Old Mill until Friday, 5 p.m. There is a special reduced price of $1.15 if tickets are bought in Burlington. This price is for tickets only and does not include car fare.

W. L. Gardner,
Associate Athletic Director

There will be a meeting of the Newman Club, November 18. The speaker of the evening will be Father Joyce. For further details watch the CYNIC.

Plowing in a 1600 mile telephone furrow for defense

To assure coast-to-coast telephone facilities adequate to meet future defense needs, the Bell System is constructing a 1600 mile, $20,000,000 cable line between Omaha and Sacramento.

Several newly developed "plow trains," working from opposite ends of the line, are burying the cable for maximum protection. They dig deep furrows, lay two cables in them and cover them with earth—all in one continuous operation. Their meeting will mark completion of the first all cable line across the continent. Carrier systems will be operated in the cables — one direction of transmission in each.

This vast project is just one of thousands in which the Bell System is now engaged to provide additional communication facilities so vital to Army, Navy and defense industries.

[illegible] will take the trouble to turn back to a previous sports cast they can [illegible] writer picked the Coast Guard to unseat the Horsemen. Now the Sea[illegible] in size and weight, is approximately equal to the Cat starters. They [illegible] averaged twenty pounds to a man, but Norwich did not have a psychological [illegible] over the Coast Guardsmen. Their comparatively small linemen tore that [illegible] forward wall to pieces. They charged hard and fast, blocked expertly, [illegible] the bigness of the Norwich line its own stumbling block. Our boys can [illegible]. In the line it's always the low man that wins. And the low man with [illegible] and confidence will be surprised at how much the Norwich forward wall [illegible] ballyhoo. Ask the Coast Guard!

[illegible] misinterpret. We are not trying to prove anything by comparative scores. [illegible] merely trying to undermine, not with emotions but with facts, any psychological [illegible] that the Cadets may hold. We have heard this coming upset with Norwich [illegible] with awe as "that Norwich game." It's no different than any other game [illegible] that the will to win here should be ten times what it was for any other game [illegible] have played better teams, and have shown favorably. So to the team we say—[illegible] don't let them scare you, you won't let them beat you. The Rensselaer team [illegible] too, and you tore the * ? ! out of them.

dus to Northfield

[illegible] ever a Catamount team needed support it is this one that will face Norwich at [illegible] Field on Saturday. They will need your cheering and your backing. We don't [illegible] tell you what the tumult in the Norwich stands will be like. Our boys have to [illegible] even and it's up to everyone who has a means to get down to Northfield with his [illegible] vocal cords. And kindly leave any sense of inferiority at home. Open [illegible] make plenty of noise. You will be at a football game, not an opera. [illegible] football is a game of nerve and emotion as well as ability. The stands can build [illegible] nerve and emotion. If the team loses, you lose. You're just as much a part of the [illegible] defeat as the men on the field. We won't say anything about school spirit. [illegible] phrase has already become hackneyed. You know what your duty is. Do it! ! [illegible] We're expecting to see a couple of U. V. Kappa Sigs, T.E.P. In Football Finals

[illegible] Last Monday night [illegible] any time getting started toward winning the inter-fraternity football finals in the first half of their series with Kappa Sigs Wednesday. They started [illegible] a touchdown on the very first play of the game after they had brought the kickoff deep into Sig territory. A series of short passes, Stroesman to Basch to Kruchtz back to Stroesman and the T E P's led on. The try for the extra point failed.

The second period's action was that of the stalemate type. Each team would force deep into each other's territory only to lose the ball on downs. The T E P's were held back by two penalties, each 20 yards for blocking in the backfield.

Finally the Sigs broke the ice with three plays left to the first half. They drove to the T E P's goal line after five runs by Conti and Manjoney. Then on the next to the last play of the first half a jump pass Conti to Killick clicked and the T E P's now were leading by 1 point. The try for the extra point failed and the first half ended in favor of the T E P's 13-12.

Today, the second half of the play-off will be played on the field adjacent to the gym.

Bowling To Begin

By December 1 Archie Post hopes to have the interfraternity bowling matches in full swing. This, the fourth year of the round-robins between the fraternities, will start a new era in bowling by the school. The matches will be bowled three times a week on the new alleys in the Waterman Building. The alleys are almost completed but the new pins and bowling balls are not here as yet. There will be no excuse for poor bowling this year because of warped wood.

The rules thus far are as follows: Bowling three times a week, five man teams, must be a minimum of at least four men to represent each fraternity. There is a discrepancy as to which way that fifth man score should be added. As far as Mr. Post is concerned they will add the lowest man's score to the team totals. Won and lost averages will be taken.

Catamounts Primed For Encounter With Strong Cadet Aggregation

Norwich Due For All-Out Effort In Their Finale; Cats Concede Nothing

Saturday afternoon at Sabine Field in Northfield, the curtain will go up on the Vermont Catamount's bid for the state championship, when the Green and Gold encounters a heavily favored Norwich grid team. This game will be the finale for the greatest Norwich football team in history so the Horsemen will go all out in their attempt to garner their second successive state championship by a crushing victory over their arch rivals.

The Cadets now have a record of five wins and two losses, the defeats having been received at the hands of Dartmouth, 35-0 and Coast Guard, 18-13. Following the latter game Norwich partially attained the state championship by smearing Middlebury, 34-0. Last week, their vaunted passing attack hampered by the rain, the Cadets squeezed by the New Hampshire Wildcats when Walt Domina, in the last three minutes of play, ran back a punt some seventy yards for the lone touchdown of the game.

The Horsemen came out of last Saturday's tracas in fair shape, the extent of their injuries being two sprained ankles, one of which was received by Zipper Zoukis, substitute for Jack Hughes, who had previously sprained his ankle in a practice scrimmage. Both boys are still limping around, but they expect to see action this Saturday. In addition, Bill McCallister, Cadet quarterback, had a swollen hand, and Jack Lee, Jack Jones, and Neil Stone had severe body blisters.

According to information from Northfield, Coach Don McCallister is attempting to bring his charges out of their languid attitude, fearing that they may become too cocky because of the Catamount's poor showing. He has been drilling his boys in blocking and tackling because of their poor showing in these departments in the New Hampshire game. When the weather is in its favor, Norwich's passing attack has been practically invincible, and Saturday will be no exception if the gridiron is dry.

Star-Studded Lineup

Norwich's star-studded lineup will include such players as triple-threat, Little All-American, Walt Domina, the Horsemen's highest scorer; the fleet-footed Hughes brothers; signal-caller Bill McCallister; a couple of glue-fingered ends, White and Leibul, the latter being one of the nation's highest scoring wingmen last season; Jack Lee, a sensational sophomore guard; and the bulwark of the Cadet defense, Captain McClosky, who stands six and one-half feet tall and weighs more than 230 pounds. With a second team almost on a par with the varsity, Norwich plans to alternate the two units in order to wear down the smaller and lighter U. V. M. squad.

At Centennial Field an injury-riddled Green and Gold team, its spirit rejuvenated by its upset victory over R. P. I., has been engaging in stiff drills against the freshman team all week. Given a rest Monday, the Cats had tackling and blocking practice and a dummy scrimmage on Tuesday, followed by the aforementioned scrimmages with the frosh the rest of the week. The spirit that the players exhibited was highly encouraging and doesn't bode well for the Cadets.

Before last Saturday's win the Cats had been victory-hungry for five consecutive games. The Cats should have won the majority of these games, but they lacked that certain "something." Whatever that "something," was the Cats regained in the Rensselaer game, as the 16-0 score indicates. Despite the fact that many of the Vermont players were considerably banged up in Saturday's encounter, many of these hurts were of the minor variety. In addition, there is the encouraging news that Frank Swift and Al Shaw may be in condition to enter the Norwich fray.

Pullinen to Play

In recent games, Coach Evans has had the opportunity to develop several green players. Outstanding among these are Paul Pullinen, the big back who made a spectacular début in the New Hampshire game by running an intercepted pass three-quarters of the field for a touchdown; Joe Alpert, junior back, who saw much action last week, and who passed and ran extraordinarily well and made several superb defensive plays; Moose Savin, whose work in the line earned him a starting position last week; Dwight Eddy, who also started last week and who spent a good deal of the afternoon in the R. P. I. backfield; and Tony Lewkowicz, who is improving by leaps and bounds in the backfield.

If the Rensselaer game is any criterion, the heavier Norwich frontier is going to find the Green and Gold forward wall no pushover, what with Paterson's and Barry's stalwart protection of the flanks, Walgren's excellent aggressive tactics on the defensive, Bill Benoit's steady play in the guard slot, and Phil Chesarone's ability to back up the line.

The backfield, spearheaded by Johnny Spasyk, played a bang up game and is continuing to do so. Hal Mayforth was very elusive on the end runs, and Misty Rice bucked the line powerfully. Vermont should have no trouble with its punting, for Spasyk has averaged fifty yards per punt in every game. In Spasyk, Alpert, and Shaw, Vermont has three accurate passers of whom Norwich had better be wary.

Although they are aware of the fact that they are underdogs, the Catamounts, thoroughly respecting the great Norwich grid machine, will enter Saturday's game in a determined mood and are hoping to spring the upset of the year in New England. Their spirit is the best it has been all season, and they have renewed confidence in themselves. A capacity crowd of three thousand skeptical fans is going to turn out Saturday to see whether that upset is possible. With a good part of the students there to cheer them on, the Green and Gold may surprise the experts.

Kitten Gridsters To Meet Midd. "45"

Fabiano Back; Game On Armistice Day

The Vermont freshman football team banking on the adage, "A good offense is the best defense," has been practicing offensive formations for the past week. As a result the team has been keyed to a high pitch for its coming scrap with Middlebury frosh. Other factors which have caused an uplift spiritually are the excellent showing of the team in defeating Norwich, and the return of Jim Fabiano to the fold.

The victory over Norwich was dramatically spotlighted by the "Touchdown Twins," LaPointe and Fabiano. This, in spite of the fact that Fabiano participated for but one play. The play resulted in a touchdown pass. A slight dimming of these factors is the loss of both right tackles, Ruerode and Waldman.

The team has won three games and lost one. The mythical state championship falls into the Vermont fold, on condition of victory over Middlebury. The game will be played away, Armistice Day.

Varsity Hoopsters Holding Practices

As the hoop season rolls around once more, it appears that Coach Fuzzy Evans will find it necessary to rebuild.

Capt. Red White and Bob Dougherty are the only varsity holdovers who saw appreciable action last year.

With the loss of Capt. Paul Corley, Frankie Taylor, Don Maley, and Dick Healy by graduation, Fuzzy will probably have to call on some good stock from last year's freshman team. Paul Pullinen, who is still out for football saw some action last year as did Milt Kaufman, Russ West and Dick Grosvenor. Whether or not these men will all be out is questionable.

Reno Conti, Jerry Didinsky, Larry Killick and Gil Manheim are all up from last year's great Frosh outfit, hoping to see plenty of action this season.

Adequate Orientation Program

... orientation program is in ... division. Freshman Camp, in ... the beginning of orientation, but the follow-up falls far short of what it should be. Compulsory attendance at Freshman Camp might be the germ of the solution, but the greatest changes are necessary in the method of orientating freshmen during their first days on the campus, at the time of enrollment, and the commencement of class work. Rather than the aimless rushing around and the filling out of innumerable forms and questionnaires that now constitutes our initial freshmen processing, we might much better install an organized program. This program might include such things as a campus pilgrimage, a history of the school with an explanation of all the time-honored traditions and, above all, a thorough explanation to the freshman that his main purpose in college is "the acquisition of an education"; he must have an active will to learn, not merely using his head for a receptacle into which his instructors should pour knowledge. (At present the first thing a freshman learns from upperclassmen is what professors should be avoided as "tough markers" and which fraternity is "the best on the hill.")

2. Men's Guidance Program

The men's guidance program might very well take a leaf out of the Dean of Women's book and adopt a simular set-up. This, of course, does not mean as stringent restrictions for men as there are for women, but it is apparent that the present lack of restrictions is all too inadequate.

(a) Dean of Men

A Dean of Men should be the counsellor for all men, whether Arts and Science, Agriculture, or Engineering, just as Dean Simpson serves as general counsellor for all women. The deans of the respective colleges have enough to do without having to act as counsellors to students. From the Dean of Men all rules and regulations governing activities and living conditions of male students would originate. This would be a vital step toward making students feel that the University is taking an interest in their personal welfare and needs.

(b) Freshman Rules

A set of freshman rules should be drawn up, so that the freshman may appreciate the fact that he is a freshman. The old-time hazing may have been an evil but it served the purpose of making the freshman feel that he was a part of the school and that it was necessary for him to prove his worth. Today, with a total absence of restraining freshman rules for men, a good many freshmen come here with a "wise guy" attitude that implies, "Here I come! Get out of my way because I'm gonna own this joint by Christmas." With a system of rules and restrictions, the man of worth will be chosen for his brain, for his willingness to work, and for reticence suitable to a freshman, and not for his loud mouth and vacuumatic skull.

(c) Freshman Dormitories

While it is a good thing for college men to be allowed to care for themselves and to make their own decisions, it would be advisable to maintain dormitories for Freshman men for two good reasons: (1) Living together would foster a school spirit among the underclassmen, that would overshadow the fraternity spirit. Today, the reverse is true. Fraternity spirit overshadows school spirit. Proctors should be student upperclassmen who would have the students' inter

An Introduction

This is not a publicity stunt. Nor is it an attempt to blow off steam and tell everyone how to run his own business. Nor is this issue the result of "smartaleck" thinking and a desire to thumb our noses at anyone.

This issue represents some serious thought on the part of the members of the CYNIC editorial board. It is an analysis from the student's point of view of the institution to which we all belong—The University of Vermont.

Every suggestion contained in these columns has been mentioned by either students or faculty members at one time or another. Every proposal is made with but one idea in mind: that it make the University, a higher ideal to live up to.

For years now people have been talking about the faults of U. V. M. For years now people have been criticizing and suggesting. But very little has been accomplished. Somehow the talk goes up in smoke.

So here we go sticking our necks out with a plan and an analysis. The plan we realize is open to plenty of criticism and the analysis may be cockeyed. But so long as it starts the ball rolling we can stand the criticism.

We have made some challenges. We hope the people who have been challenged will respond with a vengeance.

As we look about on the campus, the glaring defect is proper school spirit and coordinated effort. The purpose of this issue is to suggest how it might be obtained.

Come on, everybody, get mad and start shooting!

A Plan of Action

I. Building School Spirit

A. Impressing prospective students with University prestige.
  (1) Public relations committee.
B. Instilling freshmen with school spirit.
  (1) Adequate orientation program.
  (2) Men's guidance program.
    a. Dean of men.
    b. Freshman rules.
    c. Freshman dormitories.
    d. More frequent mass meetings.

II. Maintaining School Spirit

A. A Center of Student Activity.
B. More frequent convocations of the entire student body.
C. More faculty-student contacts.
D. An agency to discuss student problems—Student Forum.
E. An agency to act on student problems—Student Council.

III. Invigorating Student Activities

IV. Improving the Standards of the University

A. Analysis and Revision of Curricula.
B. A.B. degree.

Challenge

To the Students

"Life is fighting upstream. Only the dead fish floats downstream with the current." Most of you are content to do just that. If there is a lack of school spirit on the campus, part of the fault lies with you—who ask everything and give nothing. All of you are good at crabbing and finding fault. How many of you roll back your sleeves and back your words with some action? The class elections are a farce. The societies have to beg you to join up. Most of the work you leave to a small handful of individuals at whom you have the brass to holler when they don't run things to suit you. Get wise to yourself, student body. If you lack the proper attitude, the University is beyond saving. Come to life—start giving from within and you shall receive from without.

To the Faculty

You have shown loyalty to the University by sticking with it in its greatest crisis. We appreciate that loyalty and the fine work you are doing. But there are some of you who are also drifting downstream. Are you willing to analyze yourselves? Then ask yourselves these questions: Am I skimping on that extra effort that makes all the difference between a stimulating lecture and an intellectual handout? Am I infusing my subject matter with vitality and living ideas, or am I rattling the dry academic bones in the bag of boredom and futility? Am I drawing new meanings and new significance from accepted knowledge or am I serving up facts in the form of cold cuts or rehashed potpourri? And last, but not least, am I meeting the students halfway socially and intellectually or am I unapproachable and aloof outside of the classroom? Don't forget that you don't have to be "easy" to be respected. Intellectual integrity and demanding standards gain a slow but enduring respect from students.

To the Fraternities

You are performing a worthwhile social and guiding function. But every one of you has become obsessed with the idea that the University revolves around you. Get wise to yourselves! You are each of you just a small part of the entire University setup. It's about time you discarded your narrow, self-centered struggles for individual glory and gave a little more thought to your school. We know you do a lot of cheering at pep rallies and games, but when it comes to a showdown do you place the University ahead of your fraternity? Are you primarily interested in school spirit or fraternity spirit? Are you fundamentally University men or fraternity men? You have much power to do good. Yet your small-time, burlesque machine politics have made student elections on this campus a farce. Your short-sighted and childish desire for honor has resulted in the shameful attitude on the part of your members that the office itself is more important than the purpose behind it. You are always the first to shout about school spirit, but you are also the most successful at tearing it down. You've got the stuff. Let's see you do something with it.

To the Honor Societies

You are the leaders of campus life. You are the men to whom every student looks for an example and a guide. But how much influence do you really exert? Right now a freshman writing a good forceful letter to the CYNIC or airing his views in a bull session has more influence for constructive achievement than all your futile officiating at pep rallies and cane rushes. If we get right down to brass tacks what do you do for school spirit and for University improvement? Do you really concern yourselves with campus problems? Have you ever introduced any constructive reforms? Remember you are supposedly the most outstanding men on the campus. You are supposedly the ideal representatives of the student body? Are you living up to that high ideal? After all, an organization is no better than its leaders.

2 Maintaining School Spirit

We have brought the best available students to the University. We have installed in them a school spirit during their freshman year. The next big problem is to maintain and develop this spirit so that it redounds to the advantage of the students and the University as a whole.

To accomplish this, it is necessary that we make student activity a vital, important thing, not only as a mean of expression for the individual but as an instrument through which each student may exchange his best for the collective best that other students and the faculty have to offer. It is in striving toward this aim, that development and maintenance of school spirit has its base.

A. A Center for Student Activities

A well-organized extra-curricular and social program is the need of every campus. Right now social life on the U. V. M. campus is hit-or-miss with no real effort being made on the part of anyone to bring all types of students together in social activities which will broaden their outlook and give them a better knowledge of their fellows. The Waterman Building affords an excellent center for activities of this sort. It can serve the same function for the entire student body as Southwick has in a lesser degree for the women. Entertainment and recreational facilities could be located in this building and space allowed for student activities. Here the students could meet as members of the same University, instead of associating only as fraternity, sorority and dormitory groups.

B. More Frequent Student Convocations

It has often been said that the only time one ever sees the entire faculty and student body of the University together is on Founder's Day. The recent Sesquicentennial observances emphasized the vital rôle University convocations play in the life of an organization. Why can't we have more frequent mass meetings of the entire student body and faculty? We hate to advocate anything compulsory but it is necessary to require attendance at these convocations. If they were made a regular part of the academic schedule, everyone could look forward to them and plan to attend. Any changes or proposals of interest to students and faculty could be announced at these gatherings. Speakers from the student body as well as faculty could handle the programs. Gathered together in a single assemblage everyone would feel himself a part of an organization greater than himself and all embracing, worthy of his respect and service.

C. More Faculty-Student Contacts

The two preceding points already illustrate several ways in which faculty members and students could establish more satisfactory social and intellectual relationships. We feel that these relationships outside the classroom will be a source of pleasure and satisfaction to both groups. Students could abolish the "apple-polishing" complex and professors could learn much about the problems and attitudes of their students. The opportunity is there if only both groups will unbend a little.

Five Outstanding Professors Retire To Halftime Duty Next Year

Dean Hills, Professors Tupper, Burns, Groat, and Butterfield Have Taught for Years at U. V. M.

Five outstanding professors at the University of Vermont, according to an announcement made by the officials of the university, are retiring to half-time status at the end of the present academic year after completing a combined total of over two hundred years of service to their institution. They are L. Hills, dean of the college of agriculture; Frederick Tupper, head of the English department; George L. Groat, head of the department of commerce and economics; George P. Burns, head of the botany department, and assistant dean of the college of agriculture; and Arthur D. Butterfield, professor of mathematics in the engineering college. All are giving up their full schedules and will carry only a few of their courses and activities after their retirement.

Dean Hills came to the University as a chemist in the Vermont Experiment Station at the college of agriculture in 1888, and five years later became professor of agronomy and director of the Experiment Station. In 1898 he became dean of the college of agriculture. A graduate of Massachusetts State College and Boston University, he received an honorary degree of Doctor of Science from Rutgers University and from his Alma Mater, Dean Hills is past president of the association of Land-Grant Colleges and Universities.

Professor Tupper was educated in the schools of Charleston, S. C., at the College of Charleston and at Johns Hopkins University. He spent much time in study on the continent, and was given an honorary L.H.D. at the University of Vermont in 1906. He came to the University as professor of English language and literature in 1894. Professor Tupper has been special lecturer at Columbia, Harvard, Ohio State University and Brown, and is a past president of the Modern Language Association of America. The author of numerous books and contributions to philological and literary magazines, he is a member of the Authors' Club of London, and of Authors of New York. He is recognized as an international authority on Chaucer.

Professor Burns came to the University in 1910 after teaching at the University of Michigan, as professor of botany and botanist in the Vermont Agricultural Experiment Station. He was educated at Ohio Wesleyan and the University of Munich where he received his Ph.D. degree. He has been the author of numerous articles in scientific journals, and Experiment Station bulletins.

After completing his education at Syracuse, Cornell and Columbia Universities, Professor Groat taught at several institutions before coming to Vermont in 1913 as head of the department of commerce and economics. He has been especially interested in labor problems and legislation, and has written several books and published many articles on these subjects.

Professor Butterfield first came to the University of Vermont in 1898 as an instructor in mathematics. In 1905 he left to join the faculty of his alma mater, Worcester Polytechnic Institute. He returned to the University of Vermont in 1922 as professor of mathematics and geodesy. Professor Butterfield has published many articles on various subjects in his field, and, in 1938, was awarded an honorary degree of Doctor of Engineering by Worcester Polytechnic Institute.

Dramatic Club To Present Plays

Announcement has been made of the casts for the one-act plays to be presented by the Dramatic Club.

Members of the cast of "Quiet Please" are Judd—Roger Hunting '42; Jeff—Alice Steinecke '45; Catherine—Margaret Bachelder '45; Clergyman—Abraham Schwartz '42.

Teps Win Game Over Kappa Sigs

Friday afternoon, on a field of mud, Tau Epsilon Phi and Kappa Sigma met in the second half of their championship game. On the first play following the kickoff, Killick intercepted a TEP pass and ran 50 yards for a touchdown, putting Kappa Sigma out in front 18-13. A few plays later TEP, on a pass to Basch, scored to regain the lead 19-18. The Kappa Sigs came back strongly and scored two quick touchdowns, but failed to convert the extra points.

Going into the final period, with Kappa Sigma leading 30-19, TEP'S outlook was blacker than the overhanging clouds. However, the Tau Eps pushed over a touchdown and converted the extra points, so that with 15 plays remaining, they trailed 26-30. The Kappa Sigs were held on the next five plays and then TEP began a slippery march down the field to score. The extra point was converted, and with six plays left TEP led 33-30. Kappa Sigma put on the pressure and just barely failed to score on the kick-off when the very slippery ball was thrown wide of an unmolested receiver. The next five Kappa Sig passes failed to click, and TEP took over on its 10-yard line as the game ended.

Frosh Harriers to Meet Middlebury Here Sat.

Saturday, November 15, will find the Vermont Freshman cross-country team playing hosts to the Middlebury Frosh cross-country team in their hill and dale meet of the current season.

The Frosh harriers' record this year is very impressive. Led by their high scoring ace, Aiken, the Frosh have been in the win column three times and only once in the lost column. That one was the Dartmouth meet in which the Hanovers beat the Frosh in a hard fought battle.

Norwich Overpowers Undermanned Cats As Domina Passes Mates To Victory

Mayforth Injured in Bruising Game; Evans Forced to Use All of His Subs

A courageous band of Catamounts bowed before the powerful onslaughts of one of the mightiest football teams welded together at Norwich University and finally succumbed by the disastrous score of 59-0. There was no doubt in the minds of the capacity crowd of 3,500 as to which team packed the most power, but for the first few minutes the Green and Gold eleven put up a terrific battle and gave the over-confident Cadet rooters a few doubtful moments before time and the tide of fresh substitutes finally wore down the last bit of resistance.

The opening kickoff brought the stands to their feet as Capt. "Misty" Rice met Domina, the ace of the Norwich backfield, with a terrific head-on tackle, causing him to fumble and resulting in a Vermont recovery on the 32-yard line in Norwich territory.

Domina Passes

Here the Cats pulled their first gamble to try for an early score and the initial play saw Spasyk throw a long pass down the middle which barely eluded the outstretched fingers of "Hal" Mayforth. Foiled in this attempt, Spasyk opened up the ground attack with a 6-yard gain off-tackle, but the next play resulted in a 4-yard loss and on last down Spasyk kicked out on the 22-yard line.

The first Norwich play of the game produced some beautiful blocking and a long touchdown run which was called back because of off-sides. The stands had hardly settled back when Domina, on the same play, broke through for a first down, being brought down by Mayforth. Then two passes and a tricky reverse carried the ball to the Vermont 5-yard line. Here, a stiff resistance and two fumbles by the Cadet backfield gave the ball to the Cats on downs and they proceeded to kick out on the first play. Then it happened. Domina started a run toward the right end and, when seemingly trapped, stopped and threw a long pass to Cronin, the left end, over the head of a Vermont secondary and Norwich had its first score. This was the same play that had produced Norwich's first score last year. The try for point was low and the Cadets led 6-0. Vermont could do nothing with the ball either in the rushing or passing department and Norwich again unfolded the first of a passing attack that befuddled the Vermonters all day. A long toss, Domina to Liebel, brought the ball to the 4-yard line, and on third down Hughes plowed over for the second score. The try was good and the "Horsemen" were in the lead 13-0.

Vermont Threatens

After the kick came Vermont's first and last real scoring threat of the day. Spasyk broke into the clear for 25 yards, followed by a reverse that netted the Cats 9 yards. A plunge by Pullinen gave them a first down and a holding penalty against the Cadets made it three in a row. This was followed by a 5-yard loss as the big Norwich forward wall broke through, but a long pass, Spasyk to Barry, put the ball on the Norwich 10-yard line. On the first down Spasyk carried to the 4-yard line. A plunge through tackle netted one yard and then with third down and only three yards to go to pay dirt a fumble by the Green and Gold and a Norwich recovery produced the "straw that broke the Cats' back." They sank back exhausted as Domina carried on a long run to the Vermont 20. Then a short pass on the flank produced the third score of the half and gave the "Horsemen" a lead of 20-0. The tide had definitely turned and Vermont was never again in the running.

The second half saw mayhem committed as the Cadets proceeded to run wild. Passes and intercepted passes helped the Norwichmen roll up an unusually large score. The only Vermont ray of hope came on a run by little "Johnny" Reed which brought the ball to the Horsemen's 23-yard line, but here the Cats' attack sputtered and failed.

Sensing no need for risking any further injuries to his already crippled team, Coach Evans pulled out his battered first stringers and let them finish the last quarter. The Cadets' first-stringers remained in the game and when the game ended they had rolled up a total of 59 points.

Outstanding for Norwich were Domina, Hughes, Liebel and McCloskey, while Paterson, Benoit, Rice and Spasyk shone for Vermont.

4 Improving UVM Standards

The last point being given thought is that a revision of curriculum is necessary to bring about more effective degrees and training. We are not insinuating, however, that our curriculum is bad but we could get much more out of college than we do now and we owe it to our parents and to ourselves to do something with the opportunities which we possess by suggestions. We feel that all improvement will not be able to solve the problem of curriculum entirely because the root of the evil lies with our parents and high school system.

The greatest fault of our system might well be the overlapping of curricula. Dean Packer already suggested the re-integration of curricula by combining certain interrelated fields to establish one division. At the present moment we have 34 curricula in the Arts and Science College and We think it is necessary to combine some of these curricula and establish them as independent units. A history major, to give an illustration, demands a different kind of introductory history course than a literary scientific or science student. The same applies to other studies. Our education could progress at a much quicker rate if our courses are devoted up-to-date to the students in such a way that each one of them gets that course necessary for the best acquirement of knowledge essential to the curriculum in which he is majoring.

Perhaps it is essential in order to make these changes effective that some of our faculty members will no longer be as benevolent as at present and demand minimum standards from their students and progress in their lectures in such a way that even the most stupid of the stupid must be very stupid to flunk out. This impedes the real students, the men who want to get an education tremendously. There is also wide demand on this campus for a reading period of a few days before mid-years and finals.

Up to now this and similar recommendations have been abandoned because it was feared that certain students would take advantage of that condition and fool around rather than study. Also the highly recommended and in some colleges adopted "unlimited cut system" was outruled for that reason. But should we be concerned at a place of higher learning with the attitude of the sugar bowl game with the people who came here [illegible] or cows downstairs?" The latter are too great and outdated [illegible] matter we shall scroll at [illegible]

There is much left open for [illegible] and discussion and we hope that [illegible] points for faculty reels as stimulating [illegible] Leaving the last week's [illegible] theory to task to students in other colleges and often heard the remark "U. V. M. is a soft school." We think that faculty and a few responsible students should get together and [illegible] remedy at least something.

Let us put forward a few [illegible] questions before we close: (1) Are we training students so that they can aspire adequate knowledge or do we merely assign them work so that they can get a degree? (2) Do we want to give only the stupid fellow a break or do we intend to help the smart one to go ahead and do that more rapidly? (3) Can we not cover much more material in some subjects by getting the most out of our students? They only need to be pushed. They are capable of following the professor.

A.B. Degree

Another step towards improving University standards would be the acceptance of Dr. P. C. Packer's suggestion to encourage greater use of the BA degree. In many other colleges throughout the country a liberal arts education leads to the BA degree: at this University it is only given after the successful completion of some Greek and Latin courses. As Dean Packer pointed out, "the BA degree permits the granting to a very large number of students in the arts and science college a degree that is not only coveted by these students but would be commonly understood by graduate schools throughout the country. In general this recommendation means that with few exceptions the only undergraduate degrees the institution would give would be the BA and BS. Deviation from the practice of giving these two degrees commonly leads to greater cost in providing for unnecessary differentiation of curricula and most certainly, if unchecked creates a less substantial education program for the undergraduate students." The adoption of this recommendation would be of the greatest benefit to the student body because it would lead to the establishment of a definite arts and a definite science curriculum and would once and for all rule out the overlapping of curricula.

Lafayette Honored At Big Ceremony

Pilgrimage Celebrates Anniversary Of Old Mill

France was called upon to rise again during a pilgrimage to General Lafayette's statue on the north end of the University of Vermont campus Tuesday afternoon at 2.30 p.m. A special public ceremony was held around the granite base of this large bronze statue, given to the University to commemorate Lafayette's laying of the Old Mill building cornerstone in 1825.

A message addressed to Lafayette and the liberty-loving French people, now under the heel of Hitler, was read at the exercises, while the Alliance Française laid a wreath on the statue, symbol of France.

Mrs. Martha M. Evans, wife of Prof. Paul D. Evans of the University, delivered an address in French, and Col. H. Nelson Jackson, World War veteran and organizer of the Vermont department of the American Legion, spoke in English. Miss Gail F. Klinger, U. V. M. senior of Cornwallville, N. Y., spoke on behalf of the student body. Presentation of the wreath was made by Mrs. Roland F. Doane for the Alliance Française.

Legion to Participate

Lending emphasis to the occasion was a squad of R. O. T. C. students who fired a military salue over the statue. The Legion Drum and Bugle Corps furnished music. Prof. Leon W. Dean, chairman of the committee on arrangements for the Lafayette ceremony, was master of ceremonies, assisted by Professor Evans, Professor Doane, Stanley E. Whittle, John J. Picher, Moses J. Desautels and Mayor John J. Burns.

U.V.M. Debates New Hampshire Today

Shall we allow union leaders to rule the lives of the nation's workers and the businesses of her capitalists? On the heels of the worst strike wave of recent months comes the University of New Hampshire debating team to cross clauses with the U. V. M. team of rhetoric experts on Friday, November 21. The question is "Resolved: That the Federal Government should regulate by law all Labor Unions in the United States." The Vermont debaters Julius Cohen '42, Fulvio Bardossi '42 and Daan Zwick '43, will uphold the affirmative.

A banquet for past and present members of the Debating Club is being arranged by Faye Lipman '43 to be held at the Waterman Building before the New Hampshire debate.

On Sunday, November 16, the Chapel Orchestra will rehearse at 2.30 p.m., both the strings and wind sections. The Choir will rehearse at 2.45 p.m. and both will take part in the chapel service at 4.00 o'clock.

How About It?

What has happened to the bell in the Old Mill?

According to the old tradition students set it ringing when Vermont beat Middlebury. But for several years now the tradition seems to have been forgotten.

This year Vermont faces Middlebury after a very disastrous gridiron campaign. But the old fight is still there and the Catamounts have a good chance to come through tomorrow against the Panthers.

If they do—why not set the Old Mill bell ringing again? (P.S.—Someone should tie a rope to it first because from what we've been able to find out there's no means of ringing it.)

The sound of the old bell should be a welcome one to all those waiting for a revival to hit U. V. M.

Bluestockings Hold Open Meeting Next Thursday

Allene Corliss, Noted Popular Writer and Novelist, Will Speak

Bluestockings, as feature attraction of its Open Meeting secheduled for November 20, will have Allene Corliss, noted Vermont and nation-wide author as its main speaker. The Open House, part of Bluestockings' extensive plans for the coming years, is expected to draw a large crowd from the women of the University, particularly those interested in writing, to hear this outstanding speaker. As has been stated before, November 20 will be the deadline for manuscripts trying out for this honorary society although the Open Meeting is by no means limited to those who wish to join. Refreshments will be served.

Allene Soule Corliss is a native Vermonter whose father was a well-to-do farmer in Fairfield. For some years she lived in St. Albans, moving to Bennington and then back to St. Albans. She contributes regularly to such magazines as Good Housekeeping, McCall's, Ladies' Home Journal, Woman's Home Companion, etc., and one of her latest stories may be found in the last issue of the Woman's Home Companion. About four or five years ago, her story, "Summer Lightning" was made into the movie, "I Met My Love Again" with Henry Fonda and Joan Bennett at which time Mrs. Corliss went to Hollywood to assist with the script. She has traveled extensively, Bermuda, Mexico, etc., and in summer does her writing on an island in Lake Champlain. Mrs. Corliss is an easy and interesting speaker probably due to the fact that she is so interested in people.

The committees in charge of the Open Meeting are: Posters, Dot Thornton '43; refreshments, Geraldine Annis and Marolyn Powers '42; serving and decorations, Judith Perry '42.

U. V. M. Band In Parade

U. V. M.'s R. O. T. C. Band did the University proud in Burlington's Armistice Day parade. The military band marched in the local parade along with some fifteen hundred other people, representatives of Burlington's social, educational, religious and fraternal organizations.

Hobo Day, Pep Rally to Precede Middlebury Game

Boulder To Give Victory Dance in Waterman Cafeteria Tomorrow Night After Annual Clash

In what has been forecast as the season's biggest week-end, beginning today with Hobo Day and ending tomorrow evening at the big Boulder Victory Dance after the Middlebury game, Boulder Society, with the aid of both Key and Serpent and Gold Key has announced the first step in the Societies' attempt at rebirth of school spirit and student activity at U. V. M.

The week-end events will come to a climax at the Victory Dance which will be held tomorrow evening in the cafeteria of the Waterman Building from 8.30 to 12.00, to the strains of the Catamounts. The cafeteria will be open for refreshments and one of the largest crowds of the year is expected to turn out for the first dance to be held in the new Waterman Building. Chaperones at the dance will be Doctor and Mrs. Marvin and Dean and Mrs. Swift.

The events of the week-end begin today with the so-called Hobo Day. Students will have a chance to voice their preference for the prize winners, the best hobo of each sex, at the pre-Middlebury game pep rally this evening. The winners will be selected by the applause of the students and the two winners will be awarded their prizes.

At tonight's pep rally, sponsored by Boulder, aided by Gold Key and Key and Serpent, the speakers will be Capt. Misty Rice of the football team, Coach Fuzzy Evans, Prof. Howard A. Prentice, and Joe Corbett for Key and Serpent. The pep rally, which starts at 7.00 p.m., will include speakers, music by the R. O. T. C. Band, a big bonfire, free cigarettes, and plenty of cheering and noise.

Tomorrow afternoon will witness the annual clash between Middlebury and U. V. M. with the Catamounts out to beat Middlebury and recover prestige lost in last Saturday's game, followed by the Victory Dance at night at the Waterman Cafeteria.

Michael Anselmo Presents Recital

Prof. Bennett Plays Piano Accompaniments

Mr. Michael Anselmo presented his second annual violin recital at the Southwick Memorial Building, Armistice Day evening. He was accompanied by Prof. Howard Bennett.

Mr. Anselmo has been a member of the University of Vermont in the music department for over a year, and besides his teaching has been soloist at many University functions, as well as college orchestras. Last year at about this time he played a recital of violin music, including the Mozart Sonata in E Minor, Mendelssohn Concerto, and Beethoven Sonata in G Major. Last summer he organized and conducted a summer session orchestra.

During the past three seasons he has appeared as guest soloist with the Vermont Symphony, playing the Mendelssohn and Beethoven concertos, and Lalo's Symphonie Espagnole. Before coming to Burlington Mr. Anselmo had been first violinist in the Cremona String Quartet for five years (and had been soloist and concert-master at radio station WOR). (His career began in New York, where he made his début at Aeolian Hall at the age of sixteen.)

Highlight on the program for November 11 was the Concerto in G Minor by Max Bruch. Also included was a Duo by Franz Schubert in which both piano and violin shared in the solo interest. Professor Bennett, who played all the piano accompaniments, and the piano part of the Duo, needs no introduction to Burlington audiences.

The program consists of:

Sonata in G Minor ..... Tartini
Concerto in G Minor ..... Bruch
Duo, Opus 162 ..... Schubert
Mr. Anselmo and Mr. Bennett
Romance ..... Wieniawski
Scherzo Tarentelle ..... Wieniawski

Ramona Hathorn and Harriet Woods Elected

As a result of the election held Monday, November 10, Ramona Hathorn '44 was elected secretary of the Sophomore Class to fill the vacancy left by Mary Louise Howe.

The Senior Class in their election Wednesday, November 12 chose Harriet L. Woods '42 to fill the vacant office of secretary.

New Magazine To Be Published By Students

At a joint Bluestockings and Scribes meeting, final preparations were made for the collection of contributions for the new magazine. Every student who is proficient in writing poetry, short stories, or features is requested to deposit his material before November 25 in the CYNIC office for approval by the editorial board of the magazine consisting of faculty members and students. The magazine, it is expected, will be published before Christmas vacation.

Dr. Daggs Reports To Washington

From the University of Vermont goes help for the United States Army's diet worries. Dr. Ray G. Daggs, acting head of the department of physiology of the Medical College, has received one of the seventeen special commissions as Major in the Sanitary Corps, food and nutrition subdivision of the Medical Corps.

Major Daggs, on leave of absence from the University, was ordered to report on November 13, at the Walter Reed Hospital in Washington where he expects to be stationed for a month before being transferred to a corps area headquarters where he will be in charge of the nutrition of men stationed in the various camps in that corps area.

A Bucknell graduate, Major Daggs received his Ph.D. from the University of Rochester where he studied under Dr. J. R. Murlin, head of the army's food and nutrition commission during World War I. Since coming to Vermont Major Daggs has been instrumental in reorganizing the department of physiology and the animal research laboratory. He has published numerous articles on the subjects of nutrition and endocrinology. Active in the Vermont Chapter of Sigma Xi and University Research Club, he has been president of both organizations, and is a member of the committee on graduate studies and degrees.

E. An Agency to Act on Student Problems

[illegible] Now in recent years this organization had been subjected to progressive curtailment [illegible] The student body does not elect its representatives to that important office because it thinks that they are the most capable persons to see that action should be taken on existing student problems but because "politicians" and other political considerations force them to do so.

The Faculty Student Council is supposed to represent the student body [illegible] but [illegible] interested [illegible] only guessing on the needs of the University [illegible] it will inaugurate a [illegible]

There will be a meeting of the French Club Wednesday night at 7.30 in the South Lounge at Southwick. Very important

3 Invigorating Activities

We feel that one of the greatest problems to be considered by the students is the question of how to invigorate student activities. That is the question we present for students as a question worthy of study. It is now for the students to think the suggestions over and take action on them.

[illegible] are very apropos. Just recently [illegible] the suggestions as given only [illegible] have been offered. Some were illegal [illegible] questions aroused answers. [illegible] That pursuit of knowledge is not profitable [illegible] many members of these organizations [illegible] or take entertainment tickets [illegible] be purchased [illegible] must group [illegible] from to "Smoke" they have to [illegible] to the campus group [illegible] around [illegible] They [illegible] to prepare [illegible] plans [illegible] to accomplish [illegible] activities [illegible] by securing a [illegible] out of organizations to maintain [illegible] healthy [illegible]

Vital organizations, however, are killed on this campus because too few men [illegible] [illegible] of them are [illegible] but they are pushed around by forces behind them because they have excelled in one field of school activity which among their fellows are more popular [illegible] grade [illegible] of them. Activities are not built to satisfy the desire and self interest of an individual but they were established for the sake of accomplishment [illegible]

We all possess [illegible] is school is not an [illegible] learning only but that we [illegible] have a sane healthy and sound social life. Why doesn't we now see that the best is gotten out of our established societies? We elect them! But we forget that popularity is not criterion enough [illegible] every office on the capability to do the most for the organization. Let us [illegible] pledge to give only a few important offices to any individual student, it won't take [illegible] to cover them otherwise. The women have a point system and it works very well, why can't the men have it. It might give less honor to the individual men and who cares about that—but it definitely will help to make organizations more active on this campus. It will give more capable people a chance; it will invigorate all our student activities.

4 Improving UVM Standards

We feel, after having gone through [illegible] during the last years that a [illegible] is necessary to bring about more effective means of stimulating the interesting [illegible] We are not [illegible] the committee's statement, but just students who feel that we could get much more out of college than we do now and we want help. The [illegible] of our faculty [illegible] and be able to do something with our suggestions, which of course, can only be suggestions. We feel that all improvement will not be able to solve the problem of personality entirely because the root of the evil lies with our public and high school system.

The greatest fault of our system might well be the overlapping of curricula. Doctor Packer already suggested the re-integration of curricula by combining certain inter-related fields to establish one division. At the present moment we have [illegible] curricula in the Arts and Science College alone. We think it is necessary to combine some of these curricula and establish them as independent units. A history major, to give an illustration, demands a different kind of introductory history course than a literary, scientific or secretarial student. The same applies to other studies. Our education could progress at a much quicker rate if our courses are divided up among the students in such a way that each one of them gets that course necessary for the best acquirement of knowledge essential to the curriculum in which he is majoring.

Perhaps it is essential in order to make these changes effective that some of our faculty members will no longer be as benevolent as at present and demand minimum standards from their students and progress in their lectures in such a way that even the most stupid of the stupid must be very stupid to flunk out. This impedes the real students, the men who want to get an education tremendously. There is also wide demand on this campus for a reading period of a few days before midyears and finals.

Up to now this and similar recommendations have been abandoned because it was feared that certain students would take advantage of that condition and fool around rather than study. Also the highly recommended and in some colleges adopted "unlimited cut system" was outruled for that reason. But should we be concerned [illegible] at a place of higher learning [illegible] attitude of the sugar [illegible] with the people who came here [illegible] to study honestly." The [illegible] give great and justified benefit [illegible] we shall see off at [illegible]

[illegible] much left open yet [illegible] discussion and we hope [illegible] the faculty feels as [illegible] During the last week [illegible] to talk to students [illegible] leges and often heard the [illegible] "U. V. M. is a soft school" [illegible] that faculty and a few responsible students should get together [illegible] remedy at least something.

Let us put forward a few [illegible] questions before we close: (1) Are we training students so that they [illegible] adequate knowledge or do we merely assign them work so that they [illegible] degree? (2) Do we want to give only the stupid fellow a break or do we [illegible] to help the smart one to go ahead [illegible] that more rapidly? (3) Can we [illegible] much more material in some [illegible] getting the most out of our [illegible] They only need to be pushed. [illegible] capable of following the professor.

A.B. Degree

Another step towards improving University standards would be the [illegible] of Dr. P. C. Packer's suggestion [illegible] greater use of the BA degree. In [illegible] other colleges throughout the country a liberal arts education leads to the BA degree: at this University it is only given after the successful completion of some Greek and Latin courses. As Doctor Packer pointed out, "the BA degree permits the granting to a very large number of students in the arts and science college a degree that is not only coveted by those students but would be commonly understood by graduate schools throughout the country. In general this recommendation means that with few exceptions the only undergraduate degrees the institution would give would be the BA and its Deviation from the practice of giving these two degrees commonly leads to greater cost in providing for unnecessary differentiation of curricula and most certainly [illegible] unchecked creates a less substantial education program for the undergraduate students." The adoption of this resolution would be of the greatest benefit to the student body because it would lead to the establishment of a definite arts and a definite science curriculum and would once and for all rule out the overlapping of curricula.

The winners will be selected by the applause of the students and the two winners will be awarded their prizes.

At tonight's pep rally, sponsored by Boulder, aided by Gold Key and Key and Serpent, the speakers will be Capt. Misty Rice of the football team, Coach Fuzzy Evans, Prof. Howard A. Prentice, and Joe Corbett for Key and Serpent. The pep rally, which starts at 7.00 p.m., will include speakers, music by the R. O. T. C. Band, a big bonfire, free cigarettes, and plenty of cheering and noise.

Tomorrow afternoon will witness the annual clash between Middlebury and U. V. M. with the Catamounts out to beat Middlebury and recover prestige lost in last Saturday's game, followed by the Victory Dance at night at the Waterman Cafeteria.

Michael Anselmo Presents Recital

Prof. Bennett Plays Piano Accompaniments

Mr. Michael Anselmo presented his second annual violin recital at the Southwick Memorial Building, Armistice Day evening. He was accompanied by Prof. Howard Bennett.

Mr. Anselmo has been a member of the University of Vermont in the music department for over a year, and besides his teaching has been soloist at many University functions, as well as college orchestras. Last year at about this time he played a recital of violin music, including the Mozart Sonata in E Minor, Mendelssohn Concerto, and Beethoven Sonata in G Major. Last summer he organized and conducted a summer session orchestra.

During the past three seasons he has appeared as guest soloist with the Vermont Symphony, playing the Mendelssohn and Beethoven concertos, and Lalo's Symphonie Espagnole. Before coming to Burlington Mr. Anselmo had been first violinist in the Cremona String Quartet for five years (and had been soloist and concert-master at radio station WOR). (His career began in New York, where he made his début at Aeolian Hall at the age of sixteen.)

Highlight on the program for November 11 was the Concerto in G Minor by Max Bruch. Also included was a Duo by Franz Schubert in which both piano and violin shared in the solo interest. Professor Bennett, who played all the piano accompaniments, and the piano part of the Duo, needs no introduction to Burlington audiences.

The program consists of

Sonata in G Minor ..... Tartini
Concerto in G Minor ..... Bruch
Duo, Opus 162 ..... Schubert
Mr. Anselmo and Mr. Bennett
Romance ..... Wiemawski
Scherzo-Tarentelle ..... Wiemawski

Ramona Hathorn and Harriet Woods Elected

As a result of the election held Monday, November 10, Ramona Hathorn '44 was elected secretary of the Sophomore Class to fill the vacancy left by Mary Louise Howe.

The Senior Class in their election Wednesday, November 12, chose Harriet L. Woods '42 to fill the vacant office of secretary.

New Magazine To Be Published By Students

At a joint Bluestockings and Scribes meeting, final preparations were made for the collection of contributions for the new magazine. Every student who is proficient in writing poetry, short stories or features is requested to deposit his material before November 25, in the CYNIC office for approval by the editorial board of the magazine consisting of faculty members and students. The magazine, it is expected, will be published before Christmas vacation.

Dr. Daggs Reports To Washington

From the University of Vermont goes help for the United States Army's diet worries. Dr. Ray G. Daggs, acting head of the department of physiology of the Medical College, has received one of the seventeen special commissions as Major in the Sanitary Corps, food and nutrition subdivision, of the Medical Corps.

Major Daggs, on leave of absence from the University, was ordered to report on November 13 at the Walter Reed Hospital in Washington where he expects to be stationed for a month before being transferred to a corps area headquarters where he will be in charge of the nutrition of men stationed in the various camps in that corps area.

A Bucknell graduate, Major Daggs received his Ph.D. from the University of Rochester where he studied under Dr. J. R. Mueller, head of the army's food and nutrition commission during World War I. Since coming to Vermont Major Daggs has been instrumental in reorganizing the department of physiology and the animal research laboratory. He has published numerous articles on the subjects of nutrition and endocrinology. Active in the Vermont Chapter of Sigma Xi and University Research Club, he has been president of both organizations, and is a member of the committee on graduate studies and degrees.

Harriers Take 4th In New England Run

Webster Led Team, Seeks State X-Country Crown

Coach Archie Post's cross-country students ran a very satisfactory fourth in the team standings of the New England intercollegiate cross-country championship at Fenway Park last Monday. In winning this fourth position the Vermont harriers bettered their performance of last year when they finished fifth. The University of Maine, who nosed out the Green and Gold last year for fourth, had to be satisfied with fifth this year.

Individual and team honors went to Rhode Island State's runners, who cleaned up on nearly all the glory. Junior Bob Nichols broke his own record he set last year, establishing a new mark of 20 38's almost 20 seconds faster than his previous record. His teammates set a new mark also by finishing in third, fourth, fifth, and tenth places in the field of 98 to give the Rams a low point score of 23, shattering the previous low total of 29 established by Maine in 1927.

Nichols finished with a 300-yard lead over Robbins of Connecticut, who was followed across the line by Taylor, O'Sullivan, and Barrett of Rhode Island State.

The Catamount scorers were Charlie and Fred Webster, who finished 18th and 19th respectively, and Stoddard, Hoyt, and McLaren, who came in 30th, 31st, and 33rd.

Every member of the Cat squad was in good shape after the run, and they should be in fine condition to wind up the schedule successfully Saturday against the Middlebury Panthers. Middlebury is stronger this year than they have been in the past, and Coach Post wants to guard against over-confidence. Since Saturday's meet will mark the last appearance of the Webster brothers and Stoddard, it is important that they complete their cross-country careers in a blaze of glory. Mr. Post is going to intensify the drills this week in an attempt to have his charges in perfect shape. He would like to see these seniors do a fine job both from the team and personal standpoint.

The team scores in the New England meet were as follows: Rhode Island State 23, Connecticut 66, Northeastern 88, Vermont 131, Maine 139, M. I. T. 177, Springfield 191, Bowdoin 191, Tufts 249, Massachusetts State 255, Boston University 285, New Hampshire 297, Bates 342.

Student Forum Discusses First Problems Tuesday

The next meeting of the Student Forum will take place Tuesday, November 18, at 7.30 p.m. in Southwick.

Officers will be elected and two questions will be put forward for general discussion: (1) Should U. V. M. make greater use of the B.A. degree? (2) What should be done about freshman dorms and freshman rules and regulations?

At the last meeting the above questions were voted for discussion and two committees were appointed to look up any material advisable.

Everybody is welcome.

Riddled Cats Tangle With Clawless Panther Team

Six Seniors Bow Out In Season's Finale At Centennial Field Saturday Afternoon

Tomorrow for the second consecutive year there is no state title at stake when the Cats tangle with the Panthers in the traditional grid finale of both schools. The title nestles safely in the icebox of Norwich University, and will remain there for at least another year.

What will be at stake however, is a tradition almost as old as the game itself, built upon the years of rivalry; an unbroken string of state meetings, with the honor going to the school that possesses the longer end of the tally when the final whistle blows.

The Cats held a light scrimmage yesterday. Practice was held on timing of plays, and a short dummy scrimmage used up most of the period. Although the boys will be out there doing their utmost for U. V. M., they have been tremendously weakened by injuries. Hal Mayforth is out with a nose injury incurred in the Norwich massacre; Al Shaw and Torry Lewkowicz are still limping about. Paul Walgren, Frank Swift and Whiz White, however, are about recovered from leg injuries. This has bolstered the team tremendously, and will give the Green and Gold additional strength.

Capt. Misty Rice will lead his battered crew tomorrow, gunning for their third straight victory over the Panthers, while big Tony Wishinski will captain the Middlebury eleven, virtually at full strength for the tussle, in their struggle to avenge last year's 33-0 trouncing at Porter Field.

Fuzzy will probably start the same team that took part in the Norwich debacle except that Alpert and Reed will replace the injured Mayforth. Ben Beck will field an eleven almost untouched by injury.

Sororities Hold Formal Parties

Freshmen See Various Themes Carried Out

Five of the University's seven sororities have entertained rushees at their final parties during the last two weeks.

Sarah Wilson '42 was chairman for the Tri Delt pearl party at the house with twenty-six guests.

Thelma Schoeneman and Dorothy Thornton helped to entertain twenty rushees at Sigma Gamma's football game party at the Y. M. C. A.

Pi Phi held its Gay Nineties party with Carol Provost '44 and Mary E. Metcalf '44 as co-chairmen.

Alpha Xi Delta and Alpha Chi Omega will hold their final rushing parties within the next week. Alpha Xi's party is this Friday night with Margo Benoit '42 in charge; Adpha Chi's will be held next Tuesday with Phyllis Pierce '43 in charge.

These final parties climax freshman sorority rushing; they will be followed by a neutral period after which the freshmen will make their choices.

Delta Phi Epsilon held their final rushing party November 5 at the home of Mrs. I. Diatlove, 345 North Bend. The party took the form of a carnival with members representing sideshow entertainers. The committee in charge was composed of Anita Berman '44, Constance Colodny '44 and Estelle Berkson '44. About fourteen rushees were in attendance.

A winter wonderland was the scene of the Theta's final rushing party which was held at the home of Mrs. Paul K. French of Pearl Street. Following the dinner served there, the rushees enjoyed dessert at the Theta House which was decorated to portray a night club. Janet Rust '42 was in charge of the party.

W. A. A. Council Meeting To Be Held Tuesday

There will be a meeting of W. A. A. and all sports managers on Tuesday night at 7.15, at Southwick. Managers of fall sports will please bring the list of girls who have made membership.

On Wednesday, at 4.15 p.m., the Sophomore Defense Class will have a lecture, the first of a series on the fundamentals of first-aid given by Dr. A. G. Mackay.

All sophomore women who did not have the heart and lung examination are asked to come to the Old Mill to Dean Swift's old office where Miss Cummings will have a campus office, so these sophomores may sign up for appointments on Wednesday or Friday morning.

Mrs. Carpenter Shows Souvenirs of Finland

Mrs. F. D. Carpenter, as guest speaker at Collegium on Sunday evening, gave a very interesting description of her trip to Finland just before the war began. She noted how Vermont resembled Finland, and what a modern country it is, especially in its social work. Her numerous postal cards showed the beautiful modern white buildings of Helsinki and the attractive lakes and parks of the country. She also brought a great many souvenirs, books, costumes, and a Finnish flag which the members enjoyed examining.

Campus Problems To Be Discussed By Student Forum

Students interested in academic and social problems of the University will convene again Tuesday evening, at 7.30, at Southwick.

Two questions will be discussed by the Student Forum at this time. The first topic will be making greater use of the B.A. degree as Dr. P. C. Packer has suggested. The committee in charge of this section of the program is made up of J. Katz '44 and Anne Cohn '42.

The next problem to be reviewed under the leadership of N. C. McNamara '42, S. D. Feldman '44, and D. M. Zwick '43 is whether or not there should be freshmen rules or regulations for men.

At this meeting of the Forum the elections of officers will take place. Also, the problems to be discussed at the next meeting will be voted upon from topics suggested by the students present. All students are urged to attend.

Much Spirit Shown At Hobo Day Rally

Winding up Hobo Day in the finest Pep Rally of the year, Friday night's yell-fest was a huge success. Over a large number of contestants for the most poverty-stricken hobo on the campus, the audience chose Ernest St. Mary '43 as the king and Mary Fifield '45 as the queen. Queer combinations and odd get-ups were the theme of the day as everything wound up at the cage. Speakers included Coach Fuzzy Evans, Assistant Coach Roy Wietz, Freshman Coach Sherry Fogg, Capt. Misty Rice, Boulder member C. V. Akely, Key and Serpent man Joe Corbett.

A huge snake dance led by the R. O. T. C. Band proceeded downstreet after the huge bonfire on back campus.

Dairymen Honor Dr. Ellenberger

Dean Hills, Mr. Douglas Pay Tribute to Iowan

The culminating feature at the recent banquet of the Vermont Dairy Plant Operators and Managers Association in the Waterman Building, was the honorary recognition given Dr. H. B. Ellenberger. The association presented him with a testimonial on gold leaf and enclosed in a gold frame. This recognition climaxed his service for twenty years as secretary of the association. The tribute read and appropriately presented by George B. Douglas is as follows:

Football Blankets To Be Presented at Dance

Football men get a break at last! Saturday night they will be the guests of honor at the annual Football Hop to be held, it is hoped, in the Waterman Cafeteria. After a grueling season with the usual number of broken bones and pulled ligaments, the men will receive a tangible reward for their efforts. Football blankets are to be awarded to varsity players.

The rest of the campus will be on hand to cheer and to swing out with the Collegians from Barre. Chaperons will be Coach and Mrs. "Fuzzy" Evans, Professor and Mrs. Rowell, and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Gardner. This informal dance should be a fitting successor to Boulder's Victory Dance held last Saturday in the Cafeteria.

Victory Dance At Waterman Building After Midd. Game

Large Crowd Attends First Dance There Saturday Evening

The Waterman Building's career as a dancing spot was set off to a flying start last Saturday evening with the Boulder dance. It was very appropriate to have the first dance held there come on such a memorable occasion. The day started perfectly when Vermont beat Middlebury 7-6, was brought to a close in the same spirit as it was begun. After tea dances at all the fraternity and several of the sorority houses, there was a large crowd, and we mean crowd, at the Boulder Dance. In a group they trouped. Many Middlebury students, although disappointed at seeing their alma mater crushed on the football field, stayed to enjoy the festivities afterward.

The Catamounts were true to form and played some very neat jive.

Because this was the first dance held there, the floor was a little sticky, but the keynote of the evening was gaiety and the dancing rhythms were not upset. Without doubt, the floor will become smooth with a few more dances.

There were no decorations at the dance, but the predominance of red frocks in the crowd amply compensated for this lack.

The chaperons were Dean and Mrs. Swift and Professor and Mrs. Rowell.

Usually at college dances the refreshments have been Coca-Cola, but Saturday night there was a great variety. With the Cafeteria open, there was a choice of assorted sandwiches, Coca-Cola, and milk.

Tea Dances Held After Game Sat.

The last football game of the season was followed by victory tea dances at many of the Greek-letter houses on campus. Most of the decorating committees chose a football theme as their motif for brightening up the houses.

The fraternities and sorority who celebrated the victory over Middlebury are: Phi Delta Theta, Tau Epsilon Phi, Lambda Iota, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Phi Sigma Delta, Sigma Nu, Sigma Phi, and Alpha Xi Delta.

Musical Program To Be Given In Chapel

There will be a special musical service this Wednesday, November 19, in chapel when an interesting program has been arranged. It will include two organ selections played by Miss Marston, the prelude, "Cantilene" from Symphonie Romane, by Widor; and the postlude, "Now Thank We All Our God" by Karg-Elert; a violin solo by Mr. Anselmo, the "Romance" from D Minor Concerto by Wieniawski; and three numbers to be presented by the Chapel Choir, "The Heavens Are Telling" by Haydn, "Ave Verum Corpus" by Mozart; and Handel's "Hallelujah Amen." The Chapel Orchestra will accompany.

Once again a Vermont drive began but a determined Middlebury line held them on Middlebury's 14-yard line and a fourth down attempted field goal by Spasyk failed. The half ended with Middlebury driving into Vermont territory only to be halted when Spasyk intercepted a Blue and White pass.

The kickoff of the second half found Vermont stymied by a definitely superior Middlebury offensive. For a moment it seemed that Vermont was going to start on another touchdown march as they went on a sustained drive of 35 yards, but a fumble by Alpert and two unsuccessful forward passes gave Middlebury the ball on its own 28-yard line. An exchange of punts at this point found Middlebury resting on its own 35-yard line. From here Middlebury drove 65 yards for a touchdown. Urban sliced off tackle by 7 yards. Hollister bucked for three and a first down. A line plunge, Shea to Hollister, netted five and another plunge, this time Shea to Urban yielded two more. This time Middlebury uncorked a beautiful reverse. On the same set-up, Shea faked to Hollister, spun around, and went for 35 yards before Spasyk hit him on the 1½-yard line. It took three line plunges for Middlebury to put it over. Hollister's attempt for the conversion was low and wide. The third quarter ended four plays later with Vermont leading 7-6, and in possession of the ball on Middlebury's 28-yard line.

Middlebury Marches

The fourth quarter began with a Spasyk-Barry pass which went good for 13 yards. Another pass was intercepted. Middlebury began to march once again, but was stopped when Spasyk intercepted Hollister's pass. The Cats' offense apparently had bogged down for Johnny was forced to kick. For the second time in that period the Blue and White began to march, ripping off long yardage on Urban's fine dervish runs and Hollister's passes. The gun sounded, ending the game with Middlebury still hammering away, trying to pierce the Vermont defense.

Bits . . .

By Itz

Conked on the head early in the opening period, Gen. Johnny Spasyk played half of the Panther-Catamount tilt in a daze. Johnny doesn't remember scoring or kicking the point which meant victory, but U. V. M. rooters won't forget it. John called the plays and toted the pill like a robot. His football sense worked automatically and nobody was the wiser until after the game when Johnny confided one of the strangest of football tales.

Capt. Harold "Misty" Rice ended his gridiron career Saturday in a blaze of glory. "Misty" made about half of the tackles and his blocking reminded us of the blocking of one of Vermont's greats, Pike Trigilio. Four times Captain Rice led the play around the left end and each time he hit two Middlebury men out of the play. Aside from his blocking and tackling, "Misty" also acquired the habit of snaring passes in his spare time.

The Battle of Centennial has yielded as long a casualty list as will be found in many another battle. The second half of the Middlebury game was fought with a makeshift line, and how Chesarone, Benoit, Walgren ,and Paterson were missed! If U. V. M. had to field a team for another game we are afraid that both Fuzzy and Roy would have to enroll, and Mgr. Norm Boyden would have to find himself a uniform.

To the coaches, managers, and team members: The Sports Department and the student body, too, we are sure, would like to thank you for the splendid spirit you showed in overcoming bad breaks and injury jinks to give us a team which fought and battled their way through a season studded with pitfalls and unpleasant surprises. They were a fighting team and we enjoyed backing them!

U.V.M. Harriers Climax Season With 15-43 Trouncing Of Middlebury

Freddie (left) and Charlie Webster—Two Reasons Cross Country Team Succeeds

The Vermont harriers ran all over the Middlebury Panthers here last Saturday by scoring a neat 15-43 win to annex their eighth consecutive Vermont state Title.

Co-captains Charlie and Freddie Webster wound up their sparkling running careers by coming in first position in the time of 22 minutes 9 seconds, just short of the course record established by Freddie last year. Norm Stoddard, who also ran for the last time, placed third in 22 22, followed by Bud Hoyt and Mart McLaren at 22 24. The first Panther to show up was Al Davis in sixth place.

Coach Archie Post's boys, aside from copping fourth in the N. E. I. C. A. A. Run and annexing the State crown, lost but one decision to the Dartmouth Indians. The Cats took the scalps of Union, Colgate, Bowdoin, Williams and Middlebury to complete a banner season.

Benoit, Chesarone Co-Captains For '42

Chick Lapointe Named Freshman Captain

Elected practically unanimously as co-captains of the 1942 University of Vermont football team were William J. (Bill) Benoit of New London, Conn., and Philip J. (Phil) Chesarone of Waban, Mass., it was announced yesterday by the athletic department of the University, which tallied the votes handed in by the players directly after the close of the Middlebury game Saturday.

Corbett, Manager

Chosen manager was Joseph E. Corbett of North Tonawanda, N. Y., while Richard Hay of Burlington was selected freshman manager. Assistant managers elected were Edward S. Boyden of Burlington and Wayne H. Page of Hyde Park.

Both Benoit and Chesarone have played two years of varsity football for the Catamounts, and have been outstanding in the line, Benoit at guard and Chesarone at center.

Elected honorary captain of the freshman football team was Ralph R. LaPointe of Winooski, whose play with the Kittens this fall was one of the highlights of a season that saw the team win four out of five starts. LaPointe specialized in broken field running and pass catching.

Bud Hoyt To Lead U.V.M. '42 Harriers

Heading the Vermont cross-country team as captain next fall will be John P. Hoyt, Jr. of Milton, with Ray R. Pestle, Jr. of Wattsfield the manager.

This election result was announced by the athletic department at the University following the vote of the lettermen held after winning the State title for the eighth consecutive year Saturday.

Freshman manager next fall will be Robert L. Bickford, Jr. of Newport, with Ralph P. Soule, Jr. of South Portland, Me., and Merrill R. Whitcomb of Springfield elected assistant managers.

Neil Aiken of Georgetown, Mass., undefeated freshman harrier was elected honorary captain of the Kittens' cross country team.

Fraternity Pinmen To Begin Practice

The intramural bowling season will get under way about December 1.

It is understood that a man has been engaged to supervise the completion of the new alleys in the Waterman Building. It is hoped that these may be ready for use by the opening date, however, it may be necessary to bowl the original strings at the Y. M. C. A.

In other years the competition has all taken place in one open league on the round-robin basis. This year, if a late opening is imperative, the teams may be divided, as in basketball, into two groups with the group leaders bowling for championship.

Coach Archie Post states that the schedule will be posted in the near future. He also says that at present it would be a good idea for the bowlers to sharpen their eyes and rejuvenate any coordination or develop new ones in the matter of hitting the "king pin."

The Sigma Nu Fraternity led off in last year's honors, with the A. T. O. next and Delta Phi trailing.

Intramural Basketball Soon To Get Underway

The University intramural basketball season will open at Commencement during the first week of December.

The fraternities and other groups participating will be organized, as in previous years, into two leagues. The games will be conducted in round robin manner each team meeting all other teams in the league. The Champions of both leagues will then meet in a final championship playoff.

The Independents held top honors in 1940 with the Kappa Sigma Fraternity runner-up and the Phi Delta Theta in the third slot.

Immediate team formation and organization is essential if the season is to get under way directly following the Thanksgiving recess.

Dr. Beecher Announces Medical Aptitude Test

Dr. C. H. Beecher, dean of the College of Medicine of the University of Vermont has announced that a special medical aptitude test will be given on Friday, December 5 at 3 p.m. in Williams Science Hall for all students who failed to take the test in May and are planning to apply for admission to any Grade A medical college in 1942.

Students planning to take the test should register at the office of the dean of medicine, Room 6, Medical Building, paying a fee of two dollars.

Golf Practice Elective For Winter Term

Golf practice was made an elective for the past winter term. This development was the result of the insistence of two or three individuals one of whom secured a list of nearly fifteen persons who would elect practice golf for the winter term. However, many of these persons have now failed to appear and unless an immediate increase of interest is shown the golf elective will be dropped.

PRESIDENT MILLIS

Waterman Cafeteria Scene Of Sing

President to Attend Gathering Friday Night

University of Vermont students attending the campus sing Friday night will be honored by the presence of President Millis, who has just returned to Burlington after a short visit to his home in Wisconsin.

The scene of the sing will be the Waterman Cafeteria Rotunda. The event will be a very informal one; everyone will be asked to sit on the floor, not because there are no chairs, but just because it will be more fun that way. The new song books, attractive in their green and yellow covers, will be used. There will be eats in abundance, enough for everybody.

Professor Milliken, who is always a favorite among both students and faculty and who just can't be beat for his ability to lead, will be in charge of the singing. Marjorie Abell, Alfred Amee, and Benny Ladd will be on hand, as the sponsors, to de-bag the eats. And together with all who attend, they will make this the most successful campus sing yet

Remember the place and time: Waterman Cafeteria Rotunda, Friday evening, 7.15 o'clock

Alpha Chi Gives Final Rushing Party Tuesday

Tuesday night the last final party of the women's rushing period was given by Alpha Chi Omega sorority at the house with the theme a Song Party. Popular songs were illustrated with posters on the walls and several vocal selections were given by Marjorie Southworth '43. Nell Hermann '44, and Barbara Clark '44 were among the other entertainers, and favors in the colors with the theme were presented. Phyllis Pierce '43 was in charge of the affair.

NOTICE

For the three academic colleges the Thanksgiving recess will begin Wednesday, November 26, at 11.30 a.m. and close on Monday, December 1, at 7.30 a.m. Dates and hours should be carefully noted. Wednesday, November 26, classes will meet in accordance with the following schedule:

Military Science	7.30- 8.10
First hour	8.20- 9.00
Second hour	9.10- 9.50
Third hour	10.00-10.40
Fourth hour	10.50-11.30

Students are warned to read the schedule carefully and make sure that no classes are missed through misunderstanding.

Wednesday afternoon classes will be omitted and not held Tuesday, November 25. On November 25 all classes will meet at the usual hours.

Classes in the Medical College will meet at the usual hours on the above dates, Wednesday afternoon classes being omitted.

The attention of students is called to the following extract from Part II, Section 4b of the Regulations of the University of Vermont:

"A student . . . who absents himself without permission (secured in advance from the dean of his college), from any University exercise or exercises on the day immediately preceding or following a recess or holiday . . . may be placed on probation. . . . While on probation, the student shall be excluded from beneficiary aid for the current half year, from employment for a remuneration by the University, and debarred from membership in athletic teams, musical, dramatic, debating clubs, publication boards, and other analogous University organizations."

The above regulations will apply to all classes Wednesday, November 26, and Monday, December 1.

Requests for permission to be absent from classes Wednesday, November 26, or Monday, December 1, must be in writing, must set forth reasons in full and must be filed with the Dean of the College in which the student is enrolled (men) or with the Dean of Women (women) not later than Monday noon, November 24. Excuses will be granted only for imperative reasons.

E. SWIFT, Secretary.

There will be rehearsals in Chapel, Tuesday night, November 25, as follows: 7.00-8.00 p.m., Choir; 7.45-9.15 p.m., Chapel Orchestra strings. There will be no other rehearsals this coming week due to the Thanksgiving vacation.

Sorority Rushing To Have Neutral Period

From ten o'clock Sunday evening November 23 through pledging on Monday, November 24, there will be a neutral period during which the sorority girls and freshman women and transfers may not speak to each other, other than a short greeting. Freshman women are asked to cooperate with sorority women on this and realize the necessity and importance of this period

Those freshman women and transfers who receive sorority bids will make their choices at Southwick Monday from three to five in the afternoon. Those with last names beginning with a letter from A through M are asked to go from three to four, the others from four to five. This applies to those girls who have no classes at this time

Pres. Millis Returns From Wisconsin

President Addresses Alumni Rally En Route

Pres. John S. Millis of the University of Vermont was back in his office in the new Waterman Building yesterday after a brief trip to his home in Appleton, Wis.

Mrs. Millis accompanied him on his return to Burlington. They went house hunting. President Millis had indicated following his election as the fourteenth president of U. V. M. on November 1 that he and his family probably would not take over the large residence on South Willard Street, formerly occupied by his late predecessor Guy W. Bailey and Mrs. Bailey.

He spoke at a big U. V. M. alumni dinner rally in New York Monday evening, but was forced to leave early to meet his train for Burlington. Between eighty-five and ninety alumni from the New York metropolitan area gathered for the dinner, all but one or two of whom saw the new president of the University for the first time. A business meeting followed the speaking program.

President Millis will preside at the first meeting of the University's board of trustees in the Fleming Museum, Wilbur Room, Saturday. Incidentally, the new U. V. M. head will observe his 38th birthday anniversary on that day.

Party To Be Held For All Debaters

A kitchen party will be held tonight at 6.30 in the Waterman Building for all those interested in debating. The supper will be informal and will be held in the dining room on the third floor, and will be more or less of a get-together for the debating group. Faye Lipman '43 is in charge of the supper. Following the meal the debate with New Hampshire will take place in the dining room on the question, Resolved, That the Federal Government Should Regulate Labor Unions. The speakers for the University of Vermont who will uphold the affirmative are Julius Cohen '42, Daan Zwick '43 and Fulvio Bardossi '42. The debate is open to the public.

The first decision inter-class debate will be held next Tuesday in the debating office at 4.15 with R. Norton and J. Felopulos against Margaret Libbie and Barbara Zimmerman. All are of the class of '44. The first inter-class debate was held last Tuesday on the question Resolved, That Dates Should be on Unlimited Number of Cuts

There will be a showing of the Middlebury game film at the Fleming Museum, Friday, at 4.15 p.m. All interested are cordially invited

Coach JOHN C. EVANS.

Annual Football Hop To Be Held Saturday Evening

Music To Be Furnished By Barre Collegians, Vermont's Premier Band

Campus comment indicates keen interest and anticipation in the annual Football Hop scheduled for this Saturday evening from 8 to 12 at the Waterman Cafeteria. The informal dance sponsored by Key and Serpent, men's junior honor society is the second event of this kind to be staged in the new building. The price is only $.77 per couple (including tax)!

The musical program for the evening will feature the Collegians' Orchestra, Vermont's outstanding band attraction. Organized several years ago in Barre, this fine group have made for themselves an enviable reputation through their many college organization and ballroom engagements in all sections of northern New England. Among the bigger college dances at which they have played include the Dartmouth Freshman Frolic and the Middlebury Sophomore Hop, as well as practically all the fraternity houses at Middlebury and Norwich and many at Dartmouth and Vermont. The band has been featured for several years at the Crystal Ballroom in Barre during the fall and winter season where they attract capacity crowds, and during the summer season at Paradise Ballroom, Woodbury Pond Pavilion and Lake Morey Casino.

Included in the personnel of this eleven-piece organization are several men who have been featured with outstanding traveling orchestras including Paul Lane, former student at Vermont featured in the orchestras of Bob Munotti and Sid Carsley. Other featured members of the orchestra include Stan Murray, youthful tenor sax man and arranger, Charlie Hoar, hot trumpeter and vocalist, Ray Taylor trombonist and Herby Corey featured vocalist.

This band is not stylized and its arrangements run from sweet to swing, from lilting waltzes to killer diller flag wavers, so it really is enjoyable to everyone and has proved time and time again to be a typical college band.

An important event of the evening will be the presentation of blankets by Larry Gardner to the senior football men who because of their good playing have been voted most deserving of this honor.

The following committees are in charge of the dance:

Floor Committee: Bert Mott, Edward Blakely and Milton Kaufman

California Alumni Present Picture

A painting has just been presented to the University of Vermont from funds raised over a period of several years by alumni residing in California. The fund was raised by W. C. Sawyer of the class of 1901, a press photographer in Los Angeles.

The painting has been purchased and sent to Burlington as part of the sesquicentennial observance. It is entitled Live Oaks and Spring Sunshine and is painted by J. Frank Dierks, a nephew of Mr. Sawyer. A decorative canvas with warm coloring it depicts the mountainous country of California. Art critics have characterized it as one of the finest examples of the atmospheric effect has been reproduced and the technical work of the artist ranks it as of high quality.

The painting has been framed and marked with a gold plate attached to the frame. The title of the painting and name of the artist and the sesquicentennial. Presented by California Alumni. It will be hung in the Waterman Building.

Art News

On Tuesday in the Medical Building, where the art girls still hold forth (I've heard they are moving soon), there were twenty-five scout leaders being shown how to pound, cut, punch, paint, etc. They were taught by students, alumni and faculty; and they will in turn teach four hundred girl scouts how to raise a racket and learn artistry at the same time. There were so many crafty accomplishments that it was hard to choose the best, but the metal crafts took first place and the etched glass second.

As late as 1919 in a midwest college now out of existence, women students were not allowed to play croquet "because it made them take immodest postures."

On the theory that colleges should teach students to use their hands as well as their heads, Dartmouth College has established a student workshop.

Vermont Harriers Swamp Middlebury

Victory Retains State Cross-Country Title

Last Saturday Charlie and Freddie Webster ran their last cross-country for Vermont, and it certainly was a superb finale for their amazing college careers as cross-country runners. They both tied for first place; they were both co-captains of a Vermont team which has won the State cross-country title for eight consecutive years; and they both helped beat Middlebury, their arch rival, by a perfect score 15-43, with the displacement method.

There is also a human interest item that goes along with their great run last Saturday: an item which shows the brotherly love and cooperation existing between the Webster boys.

Charlie Webster was first coming into the final quarter of a mile. He could have won by himself; he might even have broken the record for the four-mile course; but he didn't. Crossing in front of Morrill Hall, he waited for his brother, Fred, who had slowed down and fallen behind due to a slight cramp in his side. And thus they came in together.

Two reasons why the University of Vermont cross-country team has been so successful these past three years are Freddie and Charlie Webster. Each has set excellent examples as captains and as team members to their fellow hill and dalers. The team has always come first with the Websters. At all times they have exemplified the true Vermont spirit in victory or defeat. With the graduation of Charlie and Freddie Webster, the school not only graduates two great cross-country runners but also two fine fellows.

Future Promising

Arch Post's charges came through with another banner year, boasting a record of four wins and one defeat, that one setback being at the hands of Dartmouth, an eternal thorn in Archie's side.

With the well above average records sported by the last two frosh harrier outfits, the varsity will be top-notch next year. The Kittens have a mass of varsity material to offer, among them being undefeated Neil Aiken, this year's freshman flash. Others who show promise are Patten, Mershon, Anderson and Bryden, who have consistently placed near the top.

Coach Post prophesies a strong varsity next year, and hopes for a bunch of frosh marathoners as up to par as this year's roster was. Disappointed over the defeat handed his charges by Dartmouth, a meet which he had been pointing for, he has set his sights on the Indians for next year. Nevertheless, he is loud in his praise of the fine job done by this year's outfit.

Varsity Squad Ends season With Two Wins--Six Losses

By Les Kunken

With a squad that never fielded more than twenty five men at any time during the past football season, Coach Fuzzy Evans and Roy Wietz placed an aggregation on the gridiron that gave its opponents a hearty battle in every fray. Limited in numbers to start with, the team became riddled with injuries as the season progressed and when the final game with Middlebury rolled around, the Cats could not even enter two complete units on the field before game time.

One heartening note for next year is that every underclassman on the squad received ample experience to prepare himself for his next year or two. The Freshman outfit are State champs and promise a marvelous backfield for the returning varsity men.

September 27—In the first game at Boston against Northeastern, a scrappy, husky combination atoned for their previous year's defeat by squelching the Cats 20-6. Diminutive Johnny Spasyk tallied Vermont's lone score. Sophomores Walgren and Barry were the only second year men to earn starting berths, and they more than proved their worth.

October 4—Before a large Homecoming Day the Catamounts met their second disaster of the season as a last period Trinity field goal sunk the Cats 9-7. Vermont put up its best fight of the year against the invaders but the Trinity jinx, which has seen Vermont bow in every one of its series with the Episcopalians, finally decided the outcome. Johnny Spasyk caught one of Al Shaw's beautiful heaves for the first blood of the game.

October 11—Colby had also lost two contests when they met Vermont, but the Cats unable to cope on their scoring plays, handed the Mules a 13-0 win on their home grounds. A Spasyk to Kunken pass in the end zone was nullified for offsides to frustrate the Vermont scoring column.

October 15—At an invitation from the Royal Canadian Air Force to play a night benefit game in McGill Stadium, Montreal, a determined Cat eleven assisted by the Kittens soundly beat the Montreal Bull Dogs, members of the professional football league in Canada, in an exhibition game that was played with intermittent showers. Spasyk (what! him again?), Captain Rice and Frosh LaPointe shared scoring honors. Sophomore Hal Mayforth broke loose for a dazzling 64 yard run in the 28-13 win.

October 18—Although the Cats were unsuccessful in their preceding games they were heavy favorites to trim the Dutchmen from Union. Vermont fans were doomed again when the team was upset 7-6 in a sloppy game. It was Spasyk for the score.

October 25—New Hampshire took great delight in romping over Vermont 40-19 at a Dad's Day crowd for the former. Man power was the Vermont undoing as seniors Pullmen, Paterson, and Spasyk piled up the Cats' largest score of the season.

November 1—Fired by their showing the previous week, Vermont ran over Rensselaer 16-0 in a rain that deprived many loyal fans from seeing their team's first win. Johnny Spasyk scored ten points by booting a perfect field goal. Paul Pullmen backed over for his second score in two weeks.

November 8—Let's forget this one. 59-0 is a terrible shellacking to receive especially from Norwich.

November 15—This was the game to win and the team did come through squeezing out a 7-6 triumph over Middlebury. With seniors Capt Rice, Spasyk, Savin, Shaw, White, Pullmen, and Paterson playing their final game it was only appropriate that Vermont close a poor season with a well-earned decision over their rivals. It was Johnnys' (Reed and Spasyk) day as the two put on a beautiful exhibition in the curtain game.

Too much honor cannot be bestowed on seniors Johnny Spasyk, Capt. Misty Rice, and Bob Paterson, who were the mainstay of the team. The other four seniors, Savin, White, Pullmen, and Shaw also contributed greatly to the cause.

Frosh Football Team Ends Successful Year By Winning Freshman State Title

This fall the U. V. M. frosh football team ended a successful season by defeating Middlebury and Norwich freshman teams for the Freshman State Title. But Middlebury and Norwich were not the only teams to be defeated by the mighty frosh.

The Vermont '45 opened the season in Montpelier by defeating Vermont Junior College 25-6. In this game Coach Fogg first showed to the football public the powers of his backfield. With LaPointe, Fabiano, Martin, and Cochrane running and passing, V. J. C. did not have a chance. In the line Frank Ecklund played a great game.

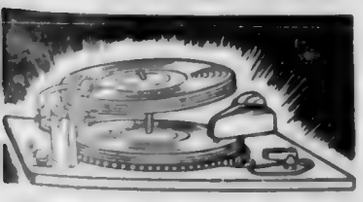
The next game on the Kitten's schedule was with Green Mountain Junior College at Burlington. This was a close game and through the alertness of Ecklund the frosh were able to win by the narrow margin, 2-0. A bad center by Green Mountain sent the tailback into the end zone where he was tackled by Ecklund. Cochrane, by his great punting, kept the visitors from scoring. Mahar and Martin played great ball in the backfield.

The frosh joined with the varsity to defeat a team in Montreal. In this game the freshmen looked good and they helped much in gaining a victory. However, in this game Jim Fabiano, star back, suffered a broken bone in his foot and was thought to be lost to the freshmen for the remainder of the season.

After the Montreal showing the Vermont frosh opened against Wentworth in great spirits. But with the loss of Fabiano the team seemed never to get under way. Play after play bogged down and only their great defensive playing kept the score down. The men of '45 lost this game 6-14.

Bouncing back from their defeat by Wentworth the Kittens played Norwich hoping for victory and one step nearer to the Mythical State Crown. It was Chuck LaPointe's day as the Frosh beat the Cadets 13-6. Chuck scored all the points and along with Bill Mahar and Monk Martin, was the chief ground gainer of the day. In this game Coach Sherry Fogg had an ace up his sleeve, and in the third quarter he showed it. In this quarter he sent in the injured Fabiano and the Colts were taken by surprise. On the first play Fabiano faded back and threw a long pass to LaPointe who gathered it in to score. Lataille and Ecklund starred in the line.

The last game of the season was with Middlebury and everything hinged on this game. If the Frosh took this game they would have clinched the State Title. But more than that they wanted to beat their old rivals, Middlebury. This game was a real struggle and the Midd. '45 put up a great fight. But the passing and running of the touchdown twins, LaPointe and Fabiano, was too much for the Midds. Early in the game Ecklund intercepted a pass and raced for a score. Passes and runs by LaPointe and Fabiano combined three more touchdowns. The Middlebury Frosh clawed back for 14 points but the Vermont team held, and took the game and the Freshman State Title. Ecklund and Haven at end, Lataille at tackle, and Ingrams and Lyerly at guard, played great ball in the line. Mahar and Martin again showed up great in the Vermont backfield.



Much credit goes to Coach Sherry Fogg who did a wonderful job with the freshman team. His team won four and lost one, compiling 72 points against their opponents 40. The Vermont '45 won the Freshman State Title and beat their old rivals Norwich and Middlebury, decisively. Fogg had a great backfield, composed of LaPointe, Fabiano, Martin, Mahar, and Cochrane. He developed a strong line and players like Haven, Ecklund, and Liggonis all improved over the course of the season. Next year the Varsity will have several good men to work with men that have proved themselves and come through when the going gets tough.

University Store At New Location

The University Store has at last moved to its new location at the Waterman building. At least the doors are open and the stock is all there, but they are very anxious to wait on you, for there are obstacles. The obstacles are new shelves being installed, sawdust on the floor, the chief office in the hall and men working everywhere. Within a week your University Store hopes to be able to show you what it can really do for you. For instance there will be a new display of NOT textbooks, for Christmas, for building a library, and the well known "Pocket" series with which to begin or continue.

Speaking of Christmas your first consideration should be Christmas cards. Orders have to be placed EARLY for name cards and we have samples from three concerns. There will also be all kinds of other Christmas cards, boxed in boxes, and some with the University Seal. Next will come the most complete display of Christmas gifts that the University Store has ever attempted. These gifts are all at very reasonable prices which will come within any student budget. There are gifts with souls for all ages, useful, ornamental, and not tokens of friendship.

The Supply Department has never had an opportunity to really show the extent of its stock. In it now can be found office supplies and equipment to suit the most discriminating executive, and the most meticulous of secretaries, and all kinds of aids for students' study tables.

Lastly the store hours have been extended to accommodate the late shoppers who come for dinner in the new cafeteria by remaining open from 8.15 a.m. to 7.30 p.m. Please come often and shop well. We will see that you get the best in service and full value for your money.

Students To Eat Meat; Uniform Meals Approved

Meals at the University in the past were unscientific and disorganized. "There will be some changes made in the mass eating habits of University student," said food director Percival Grassmount yesterday in an exclusive interview with your reporter. Uniform meals will be served at all times.

Red-blooded meat will be the staple of diet. Vegetables are banned as being weakening. (Contain vitamins.) The consumption of ersatz products is strongly recommended. Frankfurters are banned before the country goes completely to the dogs.

Courses Radically Revised At UVM

Many New Courses To Be Introduced

The leaders of the new order have undertaken to bring unity out of the chaos formerly existent in the academic curricula of the University of Vermont. They have revised courses to meet the demands of a new society and the concepts now being advanced by the vanguards of the new civilization.

Following are courses most in need of revision:

History

Ancient history abolished. Following courses to be taught: 1. Origins of the Master Race. 2. Heroes of the Master Race. The Master Race as Representative of World History. History of all other nations lacks significance.

Political Science

International Law: The law of the Master Race. International Relations: Duties of the slave races; rights of the Master Race. Comparative Government—unnecessary as there is only one ideal government. A new course in Scientific Propaganda will be given to political science majors.

Home Economics

Family Relations: The care and raising of large families. Child Development: Creating the proper soldier-citizen attitude. Clothing: How to knit sweaters out of spaghetti, sauerkrout sandals, etc.

Philosophy

Logic: Detailed study of the one true logic of the leaders. Ethics: Detailed study of the "might makes right" ideology of the new order. History of Philosophy: Development of the super-race concept.

Psychology

Restricted to future leaders. 1. Mob psychology. 2. Aesthetics: Erotic art as the ideal. Beauties of warfare—bomb bursts, etc.

Zoology

Evolution: Master Race as the end of the evolutionary process. Heredity: Detailed study of the best means of propagating a pure Master Race.

Music

Detailed study of marches, battle songs, and party anthems.

Social Calendar

December 1—Military demonstration. Practice in heiling and goose-stepping.

December 5—Lecture, "The Cultural Values of Periodic Warfare," by Gen. Fritz Blitz.

December 8—Great bookburning rally. This night's entertainment will be devoted to the destruction of the complete works of Roger Williams and Thomas Paine. Also the Declaration of Independence.

December 10—Dedication of Ira Allen Chapel as a military barracks.

December 11 — Mechanized dance. Special features: Blitz conga and supertank trot. Demonstration of new dance rage—the Big Bertha.

December 15—Scavenger hunt—to collect scrap metal for the government.

December 16—Play, comedy, "It Can't Happen Here."

New Regulations

With the statement that there was too much freedom on the University campus, Director Ratsbane introduced yesterday by unanimous vote of the University Council—majority vote of which is controlled by Director Ratsbane—a new set of regulations to become effective today.

1. All men to have two nights out weekly.

2. Each man must sign out every evening upon leaving the barracks.

3. Ever student must report at 5.30 for a two-hour period of intensive military drill.

4. A supervisor will be present at each lecture given by a University professor to be sure the professor interprets the course correctly.

5. Any student seen going into the Sugar House (that den of iniquity) shall be immediately courtmartialed.

6. Each freshman upon seeing an upperclassman shall commence goosestepping when ten yards from said upperclassman and shall continue to goose step until he is ten yards beyond him. Minimum requirement for height of each step shall be three feet.

7. All student government on the campus is abolished. This will make for efficiency and fair distribution of offices.

8. A committee of one to be appointed to take care of all University functions such as running dances, organizing pep rallys, and serving as ushers. This also will make for greater efficiency.

Storm Troopers Stage Raid On Sugar House

Stormtroopers of the New Order at an early hour last night, conducted a successful raid on the Sugar House, long known as a center of radicalism and unprinciple thinking. Among students arrested in the raid were Jim Rickey '42 and his notorious Spanish colleague Cuba Libra.

In the future the Sugar House will be a center for the intoxication of students' minds with the high ideals of the New Order and not with the weakening doctrines of a decadent and fallen democracy.

In the the new regime intoxication shall be a patriotic and scientific program, not a matter for individual license.

Students Led By Troopers Cheer New U.V.M. Director

President Millis and Board of Trustees Dismissed by New Order

In the wake of a successful coup d'etat which saw the forces of a strong and determined New Order party take over the weak and inefficient New Deal Government the University of Vermont yesterday underwent a complete reorganization. Stanley Muchmore Ratsbane became the new director of all University activities. This action was in keeping with New Order principles emphasizing the need for governmental guidance in the education of the nation's youth.

In his first speech yesterday from the third floor of the Waterman Building rotunda, Director Ratsbane announced to a jubilant student body, no member of whom was absent, that the outmoded principles of democratic education are a thing of the past. Education is not unlicensed freedom but a preparation for a life of unquestioning devotion to the leaders of the New Order. "Students," he stirringly concluded, "let us realize our duties as warriors and join in solid ranks for the march to fighting glory, and the heights of world domination by our victorious fatherland. Obedience to the leaders and death on the battlefield are the privilege granted only to the youth of the New Order."

The happy students led by a group of stormtroopers demonstrated their allegiance to the New Order by cheering loudly the new director, the leaders of the new government, and the glorious future of the new education.

The students gave concrete evidence of their devotion by voting to give up their Thanksgiving holiday in order to devote it to special military drill and instruction in the University regulations. The students voted by means of special affirmative ballots printed beforehand in anticipation of just such a demonstration.

Former President Millis along with the former Board of Trustees were dismissed because of their ignorance of the principles and methods of the New Order.

Pres. Millis Urges Use of Public Relations Program

Also Speaks of Library and Musical Dept. Needs in Luncheon Address to Faculty Group

Expressing a zest for the challenging [illegible] extended him as new President of the University of Vermont, Dr. John S. Millis spoke Saturday of provision for the betterment of faculty members and of what he called the present lack of any proper public relations department and pointed out needs for students' post housing and other problems needing attention.

Speaking at a luncheon meeting in the Waterman Building before the local chapter of the American Association of University Professors, Doctor Millis declared:

"I wonder if any college president ever did a more daring as dangerous as I am going to do today in speaking about the reorganization of an institution. I come here with a real appreciation of the faculty of the University. I come here with a genuine feeling of optimism, as I have never met a constituency so willing to do something about helping themselves in a given situation.

"Faith is the greatest asset. It is here in abundance. I ask, not your sympathy, but your forbearance, indulgence, faith and loyalty. It is a challenging opportunity here, one that I welcome, and together we can tackle it for the welfare and future glory of the University of Vermont.

Can Improve At No Extra Cost

"I am not convinced that Vermont must be reorganized," Doctor Millis continued. "But I am convinced that we must study all of the aspects of this institution. We must be sure of our ideals and then discuss their implementation. I am convinced that our quality can be improved without the expenditure of more money."

Dwelling upon desirable immediate changes within the institution, Doctor Millis said: "The University's public relations are not excellent. There has been no attempt to sell the college to its constituency. Every is an important job of selling to be done.

"There is plenty of room for some clear thinking and action in our salaried services," he stated. "Some of our students are somewhat poorly housed. Generally speaking, we are not sufficiently well [illegible] our students' problems."

With regard to library facilities, President Millis said that the library is the heart of any educational organization. "Here," he said, "one feels the pulse or the circulatory system of the institution. The library is excellent in many areas. Long replacements will be necessary. The number of books available is not as important as the circulation, which is the barometer of the library's effectiveness."

Retirement Commitee Needed

Of faculty reorganization and welfare, he said, "There should be a retirement plan and provision made for it. The Board of Trustees is aware of the need. We hope in the next few years that a plan may be worked out for its financing. Nowhere in the by-laws is there any provision with reference to tenure." Here he suggested that a committee of faculty members meet and discuss the matter and make recommendations.

In speaking of the collegiate structure, Doctor Millis said, "Four colleges is what we ought to have, no more, and probably no less. But the inter-relationship of the four should be the subject of considerable planning and development."

Of the physical education department he said, "If we are of the opinion that it is

Students Flock To Campus Sing

If last Friday's Campus Sing was any indication, U. V. M. is surely waking up. The student lounge in the Waterman Building was jammed with students and faculty sitting on the floor and camped on the window sills. Led by George Millikan, spirit was high the entire evening.

About 300 voices blended beautifully as they sang the various songs in the Campus Sing Book. The singing was much more effective indoors than it has been outside. It was easier for everyone to stay on pitch, and the soft tones of humming were much more effective.

The Campus Sing double male quartet was on hand as usual with some snappy numbers.

After the sing, Benny Ladd and Alfred Amee tossed lollipops and molasses kisses to the assembly.

Campus Comment

To the Editor of the CYNIC

Would you please publish in your next issue of the CYNIC our feelings in regard to some developments last week in connection with the Middlebury game? We feel that these events demonstrate a new kind of student spirit at the University, and one that we certainly hope will continue and grow in strength.

(1) The attendance and demonstration of spirit at the pep rally on Friday evening, November 14, the night before the Middlebury game, was outstanding, and is greatly to be commended.

(2) The demonstration of enthusiasm and spirit at the game on Saturday by the student body, by the Band, and by the players typified the new, aroused Vermont spirit.

(3) We wish to publicly thank Professor Ladd and representatives of the Gold Key, Key and Serpent, and Boulder Societies, who rendered valuable assistance in ushering at the game.

(4) We wish to commend especially to members of the student body, Donald Nutter, who volunteered and came out and practiced regularly with the football squad because of the scarcity of players during the latter part of the season. Sanford Savin also, is to be especially commended for his services as a player, after not having played since his freshman year.

(5) In conclusion, we wish to especially commend the Coaches, Captain Rice, Manager Boyden, and the members of the football squad, for their splendid efforts under most trying conditions during the past season.

The difference between winning and losing two more games was for the lack of a few more reserve players. We feel that the team did a good job this year, and trust that the rest of the student body feels likewise.

Pilgrim Fellowship Will Be Held Sunday

Pilgrim Fellowship will be held as usual Sunday, November 30, at seven-thirty. A modern play with a London bomb shelter as setting will be read. Doug Dana will lead devotions and there will be hymn sing, social hour and refreshments all of which will take place at the Manse, 16 South Winooski Ave. A good way to end your Thanksgiving vacation.

an important part of our function to aid in the physical development of our youth, then it is time that our physical education department be elevated from its present 'Orphan Annie' status."

He deplored the relative lack of facilities in the fine arts. "The music department is unfortunately geared into the teacher training program and is not serving the entire University. Dramatics are on a somewhat hit or miss basis. Our non-instructional facilities are lacking. Students cannot indulge their yen to putter in the artistic or the semi-artistic according to their abilities or inclinations. The arts college is the trunk of the tree. As the health of the arts college goes, so goes the health of the entire school."

Proud of Medical College

Of the other colleges within the University, Doctor Millis commented, "The College of Agriculture is the most significant part of the institution to much of our constituency. We are all proud of our College of Medicine. No institution in the country has such a golden opportunity for doing a significant job of training men for medical service to the State. I have not visited the College of Engineering as yet, but I have great faith in that department's faculty, and know that they will be able to help decide what may be done there."

In closing, Doctor Millis expressed a deep and abiding faith that the only salvation of a world in chaos is education.

Prof. J. A. Bullard, who presided, pledged the faculty's best efforts and cooperation to the new president.

Lt.-Gov. Mortimer R. Proctor, representing Gov. William H. Wills, spoke briefly and gave Doctor Millis a vote of confidence when he said, "No Vermont legislature ever faced any problem more hopefully or more courageously than it did the University of Vermont problem. I am sure any legislature will continue to do so under the able leadership of President Millis."

Vronsky And Babin To Give Recital

The Concert Will Be Held Monday Night

The internationally famous duo-pianists, Vitya Vronsky and Victor Babin, will present the second concert in the series sponsored by the Mary Fletcher Hospital Auxiliary. The recital will be held in the Memorial Auditorium, Monday evening, December 1 at 8.15 o'clock.

Both the artists were born in Russia. Vitya Vronsky's birthplace was Kiev and it was there that she studied at the Conservatory. At the age of five she made her first concert tour as a solo pianist. She continued studies in Berlin under such masters as Arthur Schnabel and first visited England in 1928 where she made a concert tour.

Studied Under Schnabel

Victor Babin was born in Moscow. He went to Berlin to study piano under Arthur Schnabel and composition under Franz Schrecker. He has made his début in the field of composition by publishing a pianoforte concerto, works for one and two pianos, and a number of songs.

While in Berlin together as fellow students, the two young artists met. After their marriage they renounced their separate careers to create their own glowing art. Since that time Mr. Babin has made many arrangements for two pianos which reveal the close unity and harmony of the two artists.

The young Russian pianists made their American début six years ago in 1935 and were hailed as a sensation. Their transcontinental tour last season covered twenty-two states of the Union and Canada. They appeared with the New York Philharmonic as soloists and were heard over three international hookups.

Hosts of Friends

The two young people have made hosts of friends from coast to coast by their friendliness and charm. It is said that their success lies in their perfect accord of tastes and temperaments. Their style has been spoken of as that of "two Romantics, almost vocal in style, for they make their pianos sing like matched voices." The sparkling quality of their youthful personalities flows out from their fingers affecting the whole audience. Their genius has been complimented by many famous critics.

The selections in the program are outstanding and unusual. The first number, the three movements of the "Sonata in G" by Bach, is especially interesting since it was originally written for a harpsichord with two keyboards and pedals. It has been adapted for performance on two pianos by Victor Babin. The other numbers which make up the first part of the program are "Melodie" by Gluck, and the "Duettino concerto after Mozart" by Busoni.

In the second part of the program, Vronsky and Babin will play four movements of Rachmaninoff's "Fantasia," Opus 5. Four numbers compose the last part of the program, the three movements of "Scaramouche" by Darius Milhaud, a "Scherzo" by Saint Saens, the "Polka and Fuge" from Schwanda by Wemberger and a "Military March Rhythm" by Victor Babin.

The third and last concert in the series will be January 7 when Donald Dickson, famous baritone of concert stage and radio will sing.

Holden Stars

A stirring representation of the rigorous life in old Texas is brought to the Strong Theatre this week. "Golden Boy" William Holden, Claire Trevor, and Glenn Ford augment the success of "Texas."

"Texas," a mighty saga saturated with breathtaking action, spectacular stampede, and awesome gun fights, is not just another western movie. It's different—it's real—it's definitely a "must."

This cinema completes its four-day engagement at the Strong on Wednesday, November 26.

There will be rehearsals in Chapel, Tuesday night, November 25, as follows: 7.00-8.00 p.m., Choir; 7.45-9.15 p.m., Chapel Orchestra (strings). There will be no other rehearsals this week due to the Thanksgiving vacation.

Kentucky's Danville college, with 340 students, offers eighty scholarships.

U. V. M. Dairy Judges Awarded

Arnold C. Smith and Colin C. Drown Win

At the twentieth annual banquet of the Vermont Dairy Plant Operators' and Managers' Association recently held in the new Waterman Building at the University of Vermont, cups were presented to the high ranking student members of the dairy products and dairy cattle judging teams.

The Dean J. L. Hills cup, donated by the Vermont Dairy Plant Operators' and Managers' Association for "annual recognition of the best U. V. M. student judge of all dairy products," was presented by Dean Hills to Arnold C. Smith of Barton. His record at the Eastern States contest in Springfield, Mass., and at the National contest in Toronto, where he won first and second, respectively, and also his work in class, ranks him as the best student judge of all dairy products for the year 1941.

Other Awards

The Ellenberger cup, donated by Dr H. B. Ellenberger, head of the department of animal and dairy husbandry, University of Vermont, was presented by him to Colin C. Drown of Newport as the best U. V. M. student judge of dairy cattle, all breeds, for the year 1941.

Other cups presented at this time were: The Smith cup for "annual recognition of the best U. V. M. student judge of milk," donated by A. W. Smith, manager of the United Dairy System, Springfield, Mass.; the Weinreich cup for "annual recognition of the best U. V. M. student judge of butter," donated by C. F. Weinreich of the Cherry-Burrell Corporation, Chicago, Ill.; and the Beardslee cup for "annual recognition of the best U. V. M. student judge of cheese," donated by C. E. Beardslee, vice-president of The Borden Company, New York City. All three of these were awarded A. C. Smith of Barton.

Boulder, Mortar Board to Meet

Planning Constitution For Student Body

At a meeting last Monday evening of Boulder Society, senior men's honorary, plans were laid for a joint meeting with Mortar Board, women's senior honorary, this evening in order to discuss plans for the constitution of the proposed student government which the societies plan to begin and then hand over to the student body.

So far all that has been done is merely a discussion of general plans at the meeting of Boulder, and all that they have thus far talked over will also be presented to Mortar Board for consideration.

Nothing more than a good working foundation is expected to be accomplished at tonight's meeting.

Dr W. H. Shehadi Joins University

Has Had Experience In Beirut, Syria

William H. Shehadi, who comes from the American University of Beirut, Syria, has just joined the medical staff of the University of Vermont as assistant professor of radiology.

Doctor Shehadi was graduated from the American University in 1927, with a D.D.S., and was admitted to its medical school, from which he received his M.D. in 1931, with honors. He remained at the university as an instructor in anatomy, specializing in radiology. He continued his study and became assistant radiologist of the American University Hospital and medical college.

Doctor Shehadi has had considerable experience in general medicine, and was medico-legal expert for the courts of the Lebanese republic at Beirut. He also spent some time in graduate work at the Universities of Berlin and Vienna. In 1939 he returned to the United States for a year of graduate study in radiology at Massachusetts General Hospital, and in July, 1940, went to the Dartmouth Medical School, doing work in pathology and radiology.

Born in Providence, R. I., Doctor Shehadi travelled about the United States and Europe with his father, S. A. Shehadi. In 1914 he and his family were caught in Syria by the outbreak of the first World War. His father volunteered for Red Cross service and was head of a Red Cross unit until 1923, when he joined the administration of the American University, his alma mater, organizing the alumni association and doing public relations work.

Doctor Shehadi spoke of the similarity between the medical school at Vermont and his own alma mater, in size of student body and location. The American University of Beirut requires five years of study before granting an M.D. It is chartered by, and registered in, the Department of Education of New York State, as a class A medical school.

Lt.-Col. Colby Here For Brief Visit

Lt.-Col. Elbridge Colby, former assistant professor of military science and tactics at U. V. M., paid a brief visit to the department recently.

He came here the fall of 1932 and was on duty here until the summer of 1938. During this time Lieutenant-Colonel Colby, who has a Ph.D., wrote a book entitled "American Militarism." It was a book dealing with military politics and history from the Revolution down through the World War day.

At that time he was a captain; while he was at U. V. M. he was appointed a major and after leaving here a lieutenant-colonel.

Since leaving here he has been on duty in the historical section at the Army War College, the National Guard Bureau and with the General Staff Corps all at Washington, D. C.

After his short visit here Lieutenant-Colonel Colby returned directly to Washington to assume his duties there.

NOTE—Unitarian Men's Choir will not practice this week, but will practice next week.

R. O. T. C. Band Gains Recognition

Although the Vermont football team did not win the State football title this fall, U. V. M. was not entirely deprived of State honors. By general consensus of opinion and by multitudinous press acclammations it has been determined that our R. O. T. C. Band has gained the Vermont State title for college bands. The R. O. T. C. Band outlined and outplayed completely both the Middlebury and Norwich bands, the latter being the occasion of a great deal of publicity.

In regard to the Norwich game, the Free Press says: "The Vermont band was as much better than the Norwich musicians as the Cadet footballers were better than the Cats. Whether or not the Maroon and Gold hornblowers were playing the same composition at the same time never will be known," among other nice things.

Speaking about the Middlebury band, the Daily News says: "The downstaters' band drilled during half time, forming a 'V' and an 'M' for the admiration of the respective rooters. Better of the music makers was the Vermont group which probably gives them the State title, with Norwich a poor third."

The Vermont Cynic

The Official Student Newspaper of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College

VOL. 46 DECEMBER 2, 1941 NO. 19

The Curriculo Again!

[illegible] the many letters we have received from students on [illegible] the subject of "personal rambles." We hope that it will not be the last. We thoroughly agree with Dr. Pierce that the Cynic should promote discussion among all faculty, students and alumni on matters of importance. Since more than Dr. Pierce's comments are the subject matter for [illegible]. Let's have more!

Last night we ran into the subject when we got a few people to fill Pierce's letter and wanted just a sentence or two about it. We were thinking of the educational program individually tailored to suit the student. How long should that be? Instead we found a way to offset [illegible] point. As we pointed out [illegible] we cannot expect to offer [illegible] (1) either omitting the present requirements of all candidates for [illegible] (2) providing for special courses for students who are to be taught individually.

But Dr. Pierce's statement that medical students could not have thorough and grounding [illegible] solves the problem. As we pointed out in a previous editorial, emphasizing [illegible] was to be the best place and the best equipment with the high standards of scholarship. Therefore, if a medical student or an engineering student or a business student takes [illegible] courses, it is not wrong that they will have to put in the same [illegible] work as the straight arts student.

It might be well to suggest that they take courses in arts students electing [illegible] hours of [illegible] and attention to [illegible] be spent because of [illegible] the schedule be balanced at about 11:30 instead of 9:30 as [illegible].

As matters now stand, discounting the large amount of work as a required course. What we mean is, should not some [illegible] be [illegible] and extended [illegible] thought. [illegible] might well require a heavy schedule of [illegible] to [illegible] students who are perfectly willing to be taught elsewhere.

Naturally the existence of the present grounds of the students will leave a great deal of the problem [illegible]. Curriculo revision is still necessary. And [illegible] eliminating the specialized courses, we might point out that in the matter of electives there is much that can be changed. For instance, pre-medical students, business students etc. are required to take certain prescribed arts courses. In many cases, these students feel [illegible] to see anything valuable in the courses. They regard it merely as a chore to be completed.

Possibly it is for the better [illegible] to the schedule of these students for arts courses but by good choice can be had in the selection of the courses. As Dr. Pierce points out, these students will have [illegible] to follow these [illegible] of learning after they have retired. But if allowed to take courses with a really interested view, the possibility is that they will make most of an attempt to follow up some of their interests after they leave school. As the matter stands they take courses [illegible] that really excite, they will not think of it as [illegible] to be required to give such [illegible] thorough study. What we're getting at is this: advise specialized students on arts courses they might well take with an eye to help them to pick out courses which will be valuable to them. But don't force on them a course such as English 2 or History 1 or what have you merely because you feel that they must have some [illegible] no matter what it is.

"Teach Down? No! Teach Up"

To the Editor of the Cynic:

The writer is glad to see the article in reference to the Freshman Cynic Forum [illegible] question should the curriculum of those entering [illegible] be changed?

Several comments were made in the conference by the Committee on [illegible] which would require [illegible] freshman year. Some students are [illegible] ready to [illegible] second year. Some students are [illegible] through their [illegible] work [illegible] and others [illegible] taught only enough to [illegible] their [illegible] [illegible] this proposal as [illegible] a groundhog in the industrial arts [illegible] student who may be [illegible] to [illegible] the [illegible] of the course. The result of [illegible] [illegible] to teaching to.

In the word "suggestion" above [illegible] I am sure the faculty of the College of Medicine does not feel that English [illegible] "requirements." Rather they are "suggestions" for the proper preparation of the student to take his future place in profession and citizen in the community. However, we feel that students specializing [illegible] should be [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Museum Showing Japanese Prints

There is now on display at the Fleming Museum a collection of Japanese color prints. Japanest color block prints are highly treasured by the western world, and they are indeed very interesting, for they show the great Japanese power of stylization and depict a great variety of scenes. Nothing is too small or insignificant, or too large or grand to be conceived by the Japanese artist. There are colorful scenes of Japanese life, pictures of Japan's scenic wonders, and pictures of birds, animals, flowers, and even fish by such artists as Hiroshige, Kobo, and Shason to name a few. The purpose of these prints is for decoration of Japanese homes, and they are therefore in harmony with Japan's architecture which is light, flimsy and unstable, so that it can withstand better the violent volcanoes and storms of Japan.

These prints which are on exhibition make excellent gifts and may be purchased at prices ranging from fifteen cents to five dollars.

Interfrat Basketball Tournament Starts Soon

Coach Archie Post, director of intramural athletics, recently announced that the interfraternity league would get under way the week following Thanksgiving vacation.

Several of the fraternity teams have been working out regularly in anticipation of a closely competed league.

The official schedule will appear in the next issue of the Cynic.

Seniors Offered Style Fellowships

Five Fashion Fellowships to be awarded members of this year's senior class have just been announced by the Lobe Coburn School for Fashion Careers in New York. Each fellowship covers the $700 tuition in the School for the year 1942-43.

"These competitive Fellowships bring students of exceptional ability to the fashion field," said Iuha Coburn, president of the School, in making the announcement.

"Demands for trained young women to become executives in the fashion field is increasing every day. Last year 83 percent of our class had accepted positions before they graduated. In 1942, I believe it will approach 100 percent."

Women members of the senior class who wish to register for the fellowship awards must mail registration blank and the first paper, an informal autobiography, to the School no later than December 5. Two more papers, a set of test questions and a fashion research project are spaced at convenient times.

"A letter to Seniors" containing complete information, with registration blank, may be obtained in the office of Doctor King of the home economics department.

Scribes to Meet This Wednesday

The next meeting of Scribes will be held Wednesday evening at Southwick at 7.30. Everyone is welcome and anyone who has manuscripts is requested to come and bring them.

Scribes and Bluestockings together, will publish a magazine either before or after Christmas. It will consist of short stories, essays and poems. Anyone who has writing ability and would be interested in contributing material to this magazine, may leave his contribution in the Cynic office.

The English department and the Publications Board will read over the material and select the best to be used in the new magazine.

All Ariel proofs must be returned to Jenks Studio by December 3.—Dudley Davis, Ariel Editor.

U. V. M. Bowling Alleys Are Opened With Exhibition

Archie Post Announces New Rules Applying To League Bowling

The University of Vermont officially inaugurated a new sport last evening at eight when the first ball was thrown to formally open the U. V. M. bowling alleys in the new Waterman Building. This simple ceremony preceded an exhibition match between a picked team of high average University of Vermont men bowlers and the well known Moffit five, leading women's team in the city.

This week's Bowling Schedule at Waterman Building.

Be there on time. The days and hours are as follows:

December 2, 4.30 p.m.—Sigma Alpha Epsilon vs. Phi Sigma Delta, Phi Delta Theta vs. Alpha Tau Omega.

December 3, 7.00 p.m.—Kappa Sigma vs. Tau Epsilon Phi; Lambda Iota vs. Sigma Nu.

December 5, 4.30 p.m.—Delta Psi vs. Independents, Faculty vs. Sigma Phi.

A full schedule for the balance of the year will appear in next issue of the Cynic.

Bowling Rules

1. Duck pins are to be used.

2. Matches shall be rolled on days and at times stated in the schedule.

3. Practice strings shall be rolled prior to the starting times for matches as stated in the schedule.

4. Five-man teams. Two strings per man. Competitive man-for-man bowling.

5. If a team holds but four men, the absent man shall be credited with the same score as that of the lowest of the four men present. If a team holds fewer than four men, it shall forfeit the match.

6. If a team forfeits two consecutive matches it shall be dropped from the league, and all points scored for or against this team shall be erased from the season's records. Likewise, the individual pinfall from such matches shall not be counted toward the individual totals for the season.

7. Scoring:

(a) Five (5) points for high team per match.

(b) One (1) point for high single string.

(c) One (1) point for high double strings.

8. Rules for use of the alleys will be established by Mr. Howard Brooks, the manager of our new alleys. All men of all teams are expected to observe the rules. Men who fail to do so, will forfeit their rights to roll in our league.

Approximately 70,000 college students this year hold scholarships valued at more than $10,000,000.

Every student at Berea College, Kentucky, must work part time, and all students live in dormitories.

At the end of the interview a book salesman came in to show his new line of texts. No sooner had he spoken, than words from Doctor Stultz said, "You came from Virginia, don't you." He did.

We met Doctor Stultz on the street a few days later. He explained that he has traveled widely and can recognize accents from almost any part of the country.

Charles Boyer Stars

She wanted their marriage to last he wanted it to begin. This is the most suitable epitome of "Appointment for Love" currently playing at the Strong Theatre.

Starring Charles Boyer, the disappointed husband, and Margaret Sullavan as his career woman, this cinema is hailed by critics as outstanding.

"Appointment for Love" deals with a problem undoubtedly shared by many married couples yet the problem is handled in a light-hearted manner that gets it over much better than would have been the case had it been treated seriously.

Five Seniors Elected to Phi Beta Kappa

C. W. H. Partridge

Barbara R. Bishop

F. Bardossi

W. M. Suojanen

G. H. Stickney

Members Chosen On Outstanding Marks

Wednesday afternoon five members of the Senior Class were elected to Phi Beta Kappa at a meeting of Alpha of Vermont Chapter of the national honorary fraternity.

Members are chosen on the basis of outstanding scholarship and high moral character. Those elected are:

Fulvio Bardossi '42, literary scientific. Bardossi is editor-in-chief of the Cynic, a member of Tau Kappa Alpha and debater.

Barbara R. Bishop '42, secretarial. Miss Bishop is president of Alpha Chi Omega Sorority, belongs also to the Y. W. C. A. and I. R. C.

C. W. Partridge '42, chemistry. Partridge a member of Kappa Sigma Fraternity was editor of this year's Freshman Handbook, and also was on the Outing Club council.

G. H. Stickney '42, electrical engineering. Stickney is taking advanced military.

W. M. Soujanen '42, business. Soujanen is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity, news editor of the Cynic and recipient of an honor scholarship.

Next Tuesday evening these students will be initiated into the society at the annual winter meeting at Southwick. Following the initiation ceremonies there will be a banquet at Robinson.

At eight-thirty there will be a public address by Pres. Lewis Webster Jones of Bennington College on the subject "The Scholar and the Community." This will be under the auspices of Phi Beta Kappa.

Nine High Schools To Present Play

Games and Races To Be Included In Play Day

This Saturday nine different schools from the northern part of Vermont will meet here to participate in the annual high school play day. They are Alburg, Burlington, Bellows Free Academy, Cathedral, Essex Junction, Mt. St. Mary, Waterbury, the Weeks School, and Winooski. Sally Rome '42 is in general charge of the play day and at this time there will be an examination for the official rating of girls in basketball under the direction of Mary Howe, chairman of the official rating board of Vermont and a former graduate of the University. The examination will be open to anyone who wishes to take it and the Headmaster's Club of Vermont has recommended that there be an official rating for girls' basketball rules. Quite a number is expected to take the test.

Other state officials who will be present Saturday are Louise Willis who will judge, also a graduate of the University, Olive Krogman who is on the committee and Miss Betty Lou Witters who is the basketball chairman of the State.

The program Saturday will consist of a demonstration and interpretation of basketball rules for this year, relay races, basketball and volleyball games, and a demonstration and interpretation by Miss Barbara Crowe. The different schools will be put on four color teams, probably representing Harvard, Yale, Dartmouth and Army, and will play on these teams for the remainder of the day.

The play day and basketball examination is sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association of the University and the national section on women's athletics.

Judge Grout To Speak At Men's Faculty Club

Judge Aaron H. Grout will be the speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the men's faculty club of the University of Vermont which will be held in the faculty rooms of the Waterman Building this week Saturday at eight o'clock. His subject will be "A Layman's Ideas on Education."

Civil Pilot Course Opens in a Week

The civil pilot training course for the second semester will begin within a week or two for which a quota of twenty students will be necessary. If this quota is not secured, then it will be lowered to ten since quotas are only allowed in multiples of ten. Applications must be made as soon as possible to Dean Eckhard at his office in the Waterman Building.

Qualifications are the same this semester as the last except that the physical exam is a little harder, including an eye refraction test. Besides passing the physical exam, an applicant must be between the ages of nineteen and twenty-six inclusive by January 1, 1942 and have had one full year of college work.

The course consists of seventy-two hours of ground school work and the government provides thirty-five to fifty hours of flight training. A civil pilot's license is awarded at the completion of the course. Three semester hours of credit is given for this course in all three colleges. The ground school classes will probably meet at 4.30 p.m. For further information and details, see Dean Eckhard.

Music Department To Give Christmas Concert

The music department of U. V. M. will present its annual Christmas concert Sunday afternoon, December 14, at four o'clock in the chapel. The chorus will consist of the University Choir, members of the faculty, residents of Burlington, and members of the student body. The chorus will present Handel's well-known oratorio, the "Messiah." Prof. Howard G. Bennett will direct the chorus and Miss Natalie Marston will accompany at the organ. Solos will be sung by members of the chorus and the chapel orchestra will accompany the chorus.

Independent Women Holding Dance Fri.

Semi-Formal Dress; Begins After Game

On Friday evening, December 5, the Independent women are sponsoring a semi-formal dance for all Independents. This event will begin after the basketball game and will continue until 1.00 a.m. Girls attending may have a one o'clock social evening. All Independents are urged to attend.

On Monday evening, December 8, both the men's and women's organizations of the Independents will hold their regular meeting. The men's group will meet at seven-thirty in the Fleming Museum; the women will hold their meeting at Southwick at seven-thirty. A joint meeting of the two organizations will be held the following Monday. All members are strongly urged to attend.

V. C. A. Cabinet Holds Discussion Meeting

A meeting of the cabinet members of the Vermont Christian Association was held Thursday evening in the Waterman Building. Several plans were discussed for the future which included the second campus-wide religious conference for students and the sending of delegates to the National Assembly of Student Christian Associations in Miami University, Oxford, Ohio from December 27 to January 3.

S.A.E. Convention Begins Tonight With Big Smoker

U. V. M. Chapter Host To New England Alums, Officers and Delegates

Delegates to the New England S. A. E. Convention here launch activities tonight in a smoker at the Vermont Beta Chapter house. U. V. M. actives will welcome about sixty guests, including ten province alumni officers and more than thirty official delegates.

Tonight's "get-acquainted" smoker springboards a week end of convention business, capped by a formal dinner dance tomorrow at the Hotel Vermont roof garden.

Roger B. Hunting '42, general chairman, is assisted by the following committee heads:

David W. Webster '33, Housing; J. C. Ditore '42, Dance; Lawrence O. Clayton '30, Publicity; and C. Richard Congdon '34, Program.

Dessert Bridge Aids U. V. M. Fund

One hundred and sixty guests were entertained at a dessert bridge party held last night in the lounge of the new Waterman building, under the auspices of the Alpha Xi Delta Alumnae and the Mothers' Club. Proceeds will benefit the University of Vermont alumni loyalty fund. Forty tables were in play.

Bridge and mah-jong were enjoyed. The ladies' high scorer in bridge was Mrs. George Preston, with Emory C. Mower winning the first prize for the men. Second high honors were won by Mrs. Esther Kaplan and Albert Blume. Henry Way won consolation prize.

The prize awarded in mah-jong went to Mrs. Max Ahrens.

Christmas tree greens and red candles added an appropriate seasonal atmosphere to the lounge in the south wing. Mrs. Dan Nichols was chairman of the arrangements' committee.

Refreshments were served.

A special scholarship is maintained at Dartmouth College for a "religious man from Missouri."

The Vermont Cynic

The Official Student Newspaper of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College

VOL. 60 DECEMBER 5, 1941 NO. 20

[illegible] student forum held its first meeting. Over fifty students were present and by the time it seemed very likely that the forum would need the small auditorium of the Library for its continuance problems. The forum was organized at a time when many students were expressing the feeling that [illegible] expression. Since there as yet seems to be no general student [illegible] the campus, many students have had their interest aroused to a very real extent. The student forum was to be the start of a movement by which the student body would be united and a better university spirit fostered. If the students could discuss their problems in an open meeting and present their suggestions to the proper committees we would be well started to a solution of these problems. At least that was the idea behind the forum.

Since that time the Cynic has had several meetings. The attendance has been disappointing to the planners. A total of [illegible] has shown up for all the meetings. The rest of the student body is too busy with other things. Many of these students who showed so much interest in the idea at the first meeting failed to show up at subsequent gatherings. Yet all those approached on the subject agreed that there was a definite need for student action and unity.

From the lack of interest shown, we can draw only two conclusions: either (1) the need for student unity and discussion of problems does not exist any more because the unity has been achieved and the problems solved, or (2) the students are not interested in achieving unity and solving their problems.

You don't have to be a prophet to see that the first conclusion is about as close to the truth as the latest Nazi communique. And we hate to admit the second alternative. Here was a definite opportunity for student opinion to vent itself. A direct answer to the frequent assertion—"Why bother? There's nothing we can do about it." And only a handful of students had the initiative to respond. If the forum had at least been tried and found wanting, then there would be a good reason for student disinterest. But now enough have tried it.

Next week another opportunity will be offered to the students. An open convocation is scheduled. At that time members of Boulder and Mortar Board will present a plan for a student government. In order to evolve a good plan, the students must be there to discuss the proposal. Will the student body find time to apparently crowded and engrossing program to attend this meeting?

We think the showdown has come. Up to this time, students have had reasons for criticism and they still do. But with the forum now available and a student government in the offing, they no longer have the excuse that "leading" is as far as they can go. They've got a chance to act now.

Unless they do, we think it may be safely said that U. V. M. need not bother with improvements. The students are so satisfied that they turn down all opportunities to work for a better University. Utopia is here and we can therefore, turn our editorial column over to the feature editor, who ought to be able to fill it with touchy jokes.

Frankly we don't like to play Cassandra and cry havoc in every issue. What's more we don't expect to rouse us on any revival at U. V. M. But we would like to feel that the student body is worth prodding. So far writing editorials has been about as fruitful as pouring water down a rat hole. Who's gonna call our bluff and start something?

Point Counterpoint

By Irene Katz '44

We, the Cream of the Crop

We are all successful. We are the best. We plan to get an education by hook or by crook. We are the cream of the crop. We are on the way [illegible] of prosperity.

We could do some serious [illegible] better in spite of being the smartest, greatest and most. We sometimes agree that we don't attend discussions we have not first read general preparation completed as provided the book by the session [illegible] [illegible] or the afternoon's topic. We assume that our assignment of work can wait until [illegible] [illegible] our unprepared condition in class tomorrow.

Of course, we do not need any student forums as we do not have any job to accomplish or progress to be made, that is for sure. We [illegible] and that is that. We have [illegible] what we just [illegible] tell us that we cannot live everything that we have to put forth more effort and study things if we want to get any satisfaction out of them. We say we don't forget about that—what do you think? People tell us that this is our school that we must be responsible enough to hand it down to the classes to come better and still better. We cannot help anything. We should do something for people coming after us. How stupid! We can do things if we can benefit—that is sound and real. Do we forget that what we have is due to work done by students who attended this University before us. Let us forget about it! Why bother?

This is our attitude. We think it sound and believe in it.

Where were you sixty students, however, who have different ideals? Where were you sixty who attended the first meeting of the Student Forum? Where were you when the second, third, and fourth meetings came around? Where were you the next time, you who were unable to attend the first meeting? Where were all of you who had been so enthused and promised your fullest cooperation? Was it just a flash in the pan? Do you read so easily? Do you forget so easily?

Let us not pretend and say that we are interested while the next minute we do not think of it any more. Let us not move a finger and continue on our careless and irresponsible path. It is so much easier. It is dangerous however, in times like these when political forces clash and we have to determine where we stand.

Let us go ahead in the old and easy way. Do not let us try to find a place to stand and build on in these moving and rapidly changing times. It is our decision. Archimedes once said, "give me a place to stand on and I shall move the earth." Do we want to find that place here and move our University upwards towards the unattainable goal?

Pilgrim Fellowship Meeting Sunday Eve

The Pilgrim Fellowship Group will meet at the Manse, 16 South Winooski Ave., Sunday evening at 7:30. The guest speakers will be Mr. and Mrs. Max Webster who will talk about "Building a Home." This is a subject in which everyone should be interested, so come and bring your friends. Donald Morgan will lead devotions and there will be a [illegible] sing, social hour and refreshments. All students are welcome to attend. The meeting will be held at the residence of Reverend Jones at seven thirty.

Notice

Students are advised that the Christmas recess begins on Saturday, December 20, at 11.30 a.m. and closes on Monday, January 5, 1942, at 7.30 a.m.

On Saturday, December 20, classes in the three academic colleges will meet in accordance with the following schedules: (Military Science) 7.30-8.10; 8.20-9.00; 9.10-9.50; 10.00-10.40; 10.50-11.30. Classes in the College of Medicine will meet as usual.

The above dates and hours should be carefully noted to avoid unnecessary absences.

The attention of all students is called to the rules concerning absences immediately preceding or following recesses. University Regulations II, 4b. Students desiring excuses for absences must submit applications conforming to the following:

1) Applications must be made in writing, must indicate mail address, must set forth reasons in full and be filed with the Dean of the College in which the student is enrolled (men) or with the Dean of Women (women) not later than Monday, December 15, at NOON. The responsibility for proper and prompt filing lies with the student. It should be clearly understood that belated applications will not normally be considered.

2) EMPLOYMENT—Each applicant will file with his excuse request a statement in writing from proposed employer on the employer's letterhead, giving date when, time of day when and place where he is to report, setting forth the nature of the work to be done and the need of reporting prior to Saturday, December 20. This signed statement and his personal request should be filed as indicated above under (1). If the applicant's collegiate record justifies favorable action, excuse will be granted, effective at such time as will enable the applicant to reach his destination at the time indicated.

3) Excuses will be granted to men by vote of the Council; to women in the discretion of the Dean of Women.

Applicants should note that failure to file their applications by NOON, December 15, may result in denial of their petitions. Applicants are advised to hand all papers personally to their respective Deans and not to trust them to others, or to the mails, or to lay them on some desk. No excuses will be granted except for imperative reasons. The citing of trivial reasons will simply result in waste of time.

Hoopsters to Open Season Tonight Against Hartwick

Catamounts Are Fielding Inexperienced Team Hartwick Team Is An Unknown Quantity

The varsity basketball squad of the University of Vermont will see its initial action of the current season against a team from Hartwick College of Long Island, N. Y., tonight December 5, in the Burlington Memorial Auditorium.

The starting five will be selected from seven men who have displayed outstanding skill during pre-season practice. The seven include: Dick Kipp who will be playing his first game with the Vermont varsity in the center spot; Capt. "Red" White a veteran letterman, who will be in line for one of the guard positions, Paul Pullinen, another veteran and Bob Carlson, a senior who ranks near the top thus far in his first year on the varsity court will also take ample part in defending the hoops. Vermont's three top flight forwards are Bob Dougherty, one of last year's most sensational players; Milt Kaufman, an old hand on the court, who earned his varsity letter as a sophomore and Larry Killick this year's outstanding sophomore, who will definitely see plenty of action with the varsity.

J. Goodrich one of the best of last year's freshman quintet reported for practice last week. This brings the tally of varsity men up to sixteen. Those who will be ready for action tonight are R. West, W. Conrad, R. Bennett, G. Didinsky, W. Corey, G. Manhiem, R. Conti and N. Gipstein.

The New Yorkers are rather of an unknown quantity for the Burlington game is the first on their schedule also. Although Hartwick is not a big college, they are reported to have a squad composed largely of experienced veterans who have worked together in pervious years. In 1940 U. V. M. crowded Hartwick to a 44-24 defeat. This year Coach "Fuzzy" Evans will be starting a comparatively inexperienced team which has never operated as a unit in actual play and is decidedly lacking in height. Because of this fact the University squad may have its hands full in the matter of duplicating last year's feat.

Hockey Team Now Being Organized

The dim hopes for a varsity hockey team, which yesterday seemed doubtful, became a reality when the U. V. M. Outing Club authorized a liberal appropriation for the purchase of hockey equipment and approved an amount for general maintenance of a team.

No coach has yet been engaged to tutor the pucksters as it may be possible to do without coaching services.

Jim Stephen and Fred Bundy, men with hockey experience together with Bob Lockwood and Stew Evans look like the mainstays of this year's aggregation. These men have shown constant interest in hockey becoming a varsity sport and through their work the team has become a reality.

No practice has yet been called, but one is expected in the near future.

Fifteen Report For Ski Team

Fifteen candidates have reported for varsity ski team practice which is being held regularly four days a week. No coach has yet been announced, but perhaps Sepp Rusch will be engaged.

Capt. Bud Sutton, Bud Pierce, Art Patterson and Bob Goss are all from last year's varsity and with plenty of hopeful stock, should enable the U. V. M. skiers to have a fine season. Jumping, which has always been the Vermont weakness may be improved this year with the construction of the new Underhill jump near completion.

The official season will start after examinations and will include the I. S. O. meet at Middlebury, the Norwich Carnival and numerous other meets.

This year's freshman class at University of Minnesota is topping all predecessors in patronage of symphony concerts.

Phi Sigs and A. T. O.'s Take Bowling Matches

The Intramural Bowling season, under the management of Archie T. Post, opened Tuesday night. This year there are twelve teams in the League; the ten fraternities, Independents and Faculty. The season will carry through to March 18 and during this time there will be many good games bowled.

Tuesday night the Phi Sigs defeated S A E and A T O's took the Phi Delts into camp. Both games were very interesting and if these are a sample of the remainder of the schedule, the season will be a success indeed.

Congress Declares War

Washington, December 8.—The United States, through its Congress, declared war today on Japan.

The vote in the Senate was 82 to 0.

In the House, Rep. Jeannette Rankin (R.-Mont.) was the only dissenting vote in 389. Miss Rankin voted against America's participation in the first World War.

Washington, December 8.—President Roosevelt asked a united Congress today to declare war against Japan after revealing that American forces lost two warships and 3,000 dead and wounded in the Japanese surprise dawn attack on Hawaii.

The President made no mention of Germany and Italy.

The text of Connolly's resolution.

"Declaring that a state of war exists between the Imperial Japanese government and the government and the people of the United States and making provision to prosecute the same.

"Whereas, the Imperial Japanese government has committed unprovoked acts of war against the government and the people of the United States of America.

Therefore, be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

"That the state of war between the United States and the Imperial Japanese government which has thus been thrust upon the United States is hereby formally declared; and the President is hereby authorized and directed to employ the entire naval and military forces of the United States and the resources of the government to carry on war against the Japanese government; and, to bring the conflict to a successful termination, all of the resources of the country are hereby pledged by the Congress of the United States."

Christmas Concert To Be Held Dec. 14

Chorus Of 80 Voices To Render the "Messiah"

The annual Christmas concert of the music department will be presented Sunday afternoon, December 14, at four o'clock in the chapel. The concert has been arranged and will be directed by Prof. Howard G. Bennett, head of the music department. The chorus of approximately eighty voices will be composed of the University choir and the Men's Glee Club, augmented by faculty members, interested townspeople, alumnae, and students. The main part of the program will be devoted to excerpts from Handel's "Messiah." The entire chorus will sing the following numbers: "And the Glory of the Lord," "O, Thou Who Bringest Good Tidings from Zion," "For Unto Us a Child Is Born," "Glory to God in the Highest," and "Hallelujah Chorus."

In addition to the choral numbers, solo parts to be announced in the next issue, will be sung by members of the chorus. The chapel orchestra will play the "Pastoral Symphony" from the Messiah. The program will also include traditional and more recent Christmas carols to be sung by the chorus.

Kappa Phi Kappa Holds Meeting

The regular meeting of Kappa Phi Kappa was held last Wednesday evening in the new education offices in the Waterman Building. Fifteen members and guests were present.

The meeting was in charge of O. M. Brawn '42 and C. M. Abbott '42. The guest was Mr. Millikan of the political science department. His subject related to the United States and the far-eastern policy, and the excellent interpretation which he presented relates exactly to the new development which took place there Sunday.

During the business meeting which followed, plans were discussed relative to a chapter news letter and A. F. Amee '43 was chosen to prepare the first one which is to come out just before mid-years. The next meeting was scheduled for Tuesday, December 23.

VERMONT BETA of Sigma Alpha Epsilon wishes to express appreciation of the cooperation extended by other fraternities and sororities on the campus during the S. A. E.'s New England Convention last week-end.

Canterbury Club Hears Rev. Mullen

With events in the Far East as they are, members and guests of the Canterbury Club, college Episcopal Church group, were most fortunate to hear Rev. Edward G. Mullen of Manila, Philippine Islands, at last Sunday's meeting of the club. Mr. Mullen presented a very enlightening view of the welfare of those outpost islands together with a complete and interesting report on the church's work there. Mr. Mullen spoke, among other things, on the mixture of races in the islands, the islands' proximity to Japan, the Malay States, and other foreign-power states, the vital products of the land, and their value as a prize for the nation owning them.

Mr. Mullen is in the States with seven other Episcopal Church workers of the Philippines, and is due to leave for home early in January, although the present state of war may prevent his returning.

A good number of students was present and many adults, who had learned of the club's program through church and newspaper notices, also attended. The talk was preceded by a brief business meeting at which Pres. Katherine Holden presided. A new treasurer, D. S. Kellogg '45, was elected to succeed the outgoing treasurer, Clement Holden '45. The secretary's report was read by Mary Fifield '45. Announcement was made of a corporate communion for Episcopal college students, which President Millis has promised to try to attend, on Friday of this week at 7.15 a.m. Breakfast will be served after the service.

Rev. Joaquin To Talk At Meeting Of Dewey Club

The second regular meeting of the John Dewey Club will be held on Friday evening, December 12, at 7.30 o'clock at Southwick.

Rev. Frederick Joaquin of the Episcopal Church will give a talk appropriate to the nature of the club.

All members of the organization are urged to attend the meeting.

Dance Highlights S.A.E. Convention

Fifty N. E. Delegates Attend Conclave Here

New England Sigma Alpha Epsilon members, who convened here last week-end, left Burlington Sunday. About fifty delegates and fraternity officers attended the three-day meeting sponsored by Vermont Beta chapter.

The Hotel Vermont, headquarters for convention activities, housed a number of the visitors, including all the alumni officers. Most of the collegians stayed at the S A E house, the U. V. M. actives moving into other houses on the hill.

Saturday evening's dinner-dance at the hotel, highligit of the session, attracted sixty-five couples. Dancing was on the Roof Garden. Jerry Ditore '42 headed the dance committee, assisted by Bill Neal '43 and Mike Cozzolino '43. Proctor H. Pabe of Burlington, assistant to the president at the University, served as master of ceremonies at the dinner. Mr. Page is also province deputy archon of S A E. Lauren Foreman, national officer from Evanston, Ill., led the diners in singing. Delegates escorted Vermont sorority girls to the affair, and many of the couples visited the intersorority dance at the Waterman cafeteria later in the evening.

Arriving Friday, the delegates gathered at the S A E house that night for a smoker. C. Richard Congdon '34 of Burlington directed this function, with the aid of John Noble '43 and Dick Grosvenor '43.

Three business meetings of the convention were held. These took place at the hotel Saturday morning, Saturday afternoon, and Sunday morning. Chief result of the sessions was the election of new province officers. William W. Paddock of Boston, former treasurer, will succeed Robert R. Haskell, also of Boston, as province archon. The province will next convene at Worcester Poly Tech.

The delegates lunched at the hotel Saturday and Sunday noon, departing for home shortly after the Sunday luncheon.

Campus Sing To Be Held Fri. At 8 P.M.

By popular request, backed by the large attendance and enthusiasm at the last Campus Sing, the usual sponsors, Millikan, Ladd and Amee, will hold forth for another sing next Friday evening at eight o'clock in the student lounge in the Waterman Building.

Mr. Millikan's double male quartet will be on hand with some more of those favorite numbers. Christmas carols will be sung and, as usual, there will be refreshments.

Many of the faculty have promised to attend, and it is hoped that President Millis, who was unavoidably detained from attending the last sing, will be present. Altogether, this sing, coming within a week of Christmas, will usher in the peace and good-will spirit of the holiday season.

Remember the time and place, Friday, December 12, at eight o'clock, in the student lounge of the Waterman Building.

Goodrich Classical Club To Present Latin Production

English Translation Of Latin Comedy To Be Put On At Southwick

The Southwick ballroom will be the scene of action for the Latin comedy, "The Merchant," written by Titus Maccus Plautus and presented in English translation by members of the Goodrich Classical Club. The time is 8.00 p.m., Thursday, December 11, and members of all Latin and Greek classes, as well as any others who are interested, are cordially invited to attend. Under the direction of Professor Metcalf and Mrs L. M. Prindle, the production bids fair to be a fine one. The cast of characters is as follows:

Charinus, a young gentleman of Athens.....L. W. Shores '42
Acanthio, his slave.....H. Ginsburg '43
Demphio, his father....C. M. Abbott '42
Lysimachus, old gentleman, friend of Demphio.....W. H. Maurer '43

Mr. Millikan To Lead Xmas Carols

Mr. Long to Assist Thursday Night, Dec. 18

The time cometh and now is for the students at the University of Vermont to again spread the spirit of Christmas over the campus, and in keeping with the custom which Mr. George Millikan of the political science department began but a year ago, they will go out as carolers and sing the songs of the holiday season, spreading the message of peace and good will.

Led by Mr. Millikan and assisted by Mr. Long, the carolers will meet at 7.30 on Thursday evening, December 18. They will be divided into two groups, each with one of the leaders. Traveling in two big trucks, they will visit the girls' dormitories, sorority houses and perhaps some of the faculty and administration. After the singing they will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Millikan and Mr. and Mrs. Long.

For an activity of this nature the number participating must be kept down. Present plans, therefore, call for forty students, and these are to be chosen from all those who volunteer. It is not necessary for one to be an accomplished vocalist in order to qualify; everyone is welcome up to the first forty. People who are interested, therefore, are asked to give their names to either Mr. Millikan or Mr. Long as soon as possible.

PHOTOGRAPHIC CLUB—Meeting of Photographic Club members, and anyone else in the least bit interested in any phase of photography will be held Wednesday evening at 7.30, in Slade Hall dormitory. This meeting will be quite important, as it concerns plans having to do with the rest of the year. Anyone at all interested will be entirely welcomed by the whole club.—M. I. Mack, Secretary.

This is no editorial. Today's editorial will never be written nor set in type. You will have to write one for yourself. You will have to look for it in your own heart. And when you have found it, there will be no words.

There never will be words to catch the feel of destiny suddenly walking the street beside every man in uniform. There never will be words to describe the pace of a nation reflecting the stir of a common emotion.

Legislators have many words. For they must declare the wars. But the rest of us only stand silent and know intangibles.

Yesterday we walked about and life was to take for granted. Today a kiss or a friend's greeting are fraught with significance.

Yesterday our heritage was a way of life built and handed to us. Today it is the unalterable to be built and fought for.

Today we know what we never willed and cannot ignore.

This is no editorial. Today there are no words. Only the compulsion upon us to Thought, Decision, Action.

Introducing the Faculty

"Come in!" rang out the cheerful voice of Dr. Vance Tartar, member of the staff of the zoology department, in answer to my knock. I was offered a seat near his desk. Out of the window at my right (I was on the third floor of the Williams Science Hall) I could see across the city to the great blue lake lying in the distance beyond. I asked my host, who was born on the West coast, how he liked living in this part of the country and, in particular, now he liked Burlington. "Coming to Burlington," answered Doctor Tartar seriously, "was for me what you might call a 'literary' experience." He paused and then continued in explanation, "I've been all over the country and this is the 'Penned and Sammiest' little city I've ever seen. Large enough to be free from most of the faults of 'Main Street' it certainly lies far enough from the anonymity of Thomas Wolfe's 'million-footed city.' And in the intimate aspects it has all the appeal of 'Our Town,' so beautifully set forth by Thornton Wilder. I mean," he went on, "our writers have been trying to express that something, typical and good, which is characteristic of American life; and I say the presence of it and the possibility of it are everywhere in the air around here as I have not seen them elsewhere."

"What of Vermonters?" I queried. "Well, one thing about Vermonters," answered Doctor Tartar, "is that they are too cagey to be sold the idea that because 'progress' is a noun like 'apples' or 'corn' it stands for something in itself. They may," he continued, "believe in progress towards this or that specific goal, yes, but never in 'progress' alone, just 'progress.'"

Behind Doctor Tartar's desk stands a table covered with small jars and little dishes. In answer to a question about them my host said that they were filled with "living cultures of some of the most interesting little animals you ever saw" and as many different animals as in the Bronx Zoo. "Your old friends Paramecium and Amoeba are there," Doctor Tartar said with a smile, "together with some two-dozen of their allies. The largest of these tiny creatures can be cut into fifty small pieces, and each piece will form a perfect whole animal." As indicated, Doctor Tartar has been especially interested in problems of regeneration in these small animals. He reported on some of his recent work at the Growth Symposium held at Dartmouth last summer. Among other things, he has been able to graft several tiny protozoa together. Doctor Tartar was graduated from the University of Washington and earned his degree for research on Paramecium from Yale.

Often in the course of our conversation I found Doctor Tartar drawing scrolls and spirals on a paper in front of him. When I noticed this, he laughed and readily confessed that he was an "arch-doodler of the spiral school." Doctor Tartar is interested in art both as participant and as observer. His other hobbies include skiing, hiking, and collecting good books, including, as I noticed, some excellent titles in philosophy and psychology. Concerning books my host stated, "I buy only the books which I have already read and want to re-read again and again." Doctor Tartar also "picks up" little wooden or metal animal sculptures which are so true to life as not to offend a biologist. As a boy out in the State of Washington, Doctor Tartar became an avid butterfly collector and he had in his collection more than nine thousand insects, every one of which he mounted himself with its legs and wings in natural positions. These specimens are still in Seattle because of lack of means of safe transportation for such delicate creatures. In regard to U. V. M. students my host remarked that the college has an "excellent" student body and such, he said, is one of the chief reasons for his "deep satisfaction in being here."

At this point the interview was terminated by the hour bell. Before we parted, Doctor Tartar invited me to his room the next evening to continue our chat. It was a delightful visit. I saw several very well-done charcoal drawings and water colors by his hand. On a desk I noticed a number of realistically-posed little animals. The walls were adorned with several copies from the great masters. In a corner stood the case of some stringed instrument but my host wanted that "kept dark" because he was just learning to play it (I promised I wouldn't mention it). Doctor Tartar gave me a ride home in his new "jallopie," or ecology "field-tripper." And so ended my enlightening interview with a most versatile and interesting member of our faculty.

Mortar Board Has Long History

(Editor's Note.—This is the first of a series of three articles designed to acquaint the student body with the history, ideals and services of Mortar Board, national senior women's honorary. This first article will tell briefly of the histories of both the national and the local chapter of Mortar Board.)

Before 1918 many colleges and universities had on their campuses local senior women's honorary societies, all striving to render service to their alma mater and all having similar ideals and standards of membership. However, it was not until 1918 that these honor societies began to be united into the large and powerful society which Mortar Board is today.

Four groups were responsible for the organization, the groups at Swarthmore College, Ohio State University, Syracuse University and the University of Michigan. At the first convention, on February 15-16, 1918, the name, pin, ritual, constitution and expansion policy were decided upon. This first organization represented, of course, a very small section of the country, but by 1925 it was nation-wide, and there are now seventy-five chapters, with over 130 petitioning for membership.

And now something about the history of our local chapter of Mortar Board.

Before 1924 there was on the University of Vermont campus a senior women's honorary society, Akraia, which embodied the same high ideals of leadership and service as other local groups at other colleges all over the country. In 192[illegible]

[illegible] is the one word to describe the opening of a new basketball season for Green and Gold hoopmen. The competition afforded was not the best we've seen [illegible] it's pretty tough to draw a conclusion as to the merits of the ball team. [illegible] handling and shooting by the Vermonters in the first few moments of their [illegible] was of the best. In fact, they had a 100 percent average for the first [illegible] which is good playing in any country.

What we noticed particularly about the University's representation on the court [illegible] is the lack of color. They're just hard-working teammen with no apparent [illegible] shots" to mar their performance. Color is all right for crowd appeal [illegible] but we prefer a team that works and plays together.

Tonight the team meets its really acid test. We don't know much about the Dartmouth team this year, but we do know from past experiences that the Indians can be [illegible] for a formidable array of sharp shooters.

Interesting perhaps, is the fact that the players comprising the visiting aggregation [illegible] members of the Dartmouth freshman team that was beaten by the U. V. M. [illegible] in a hectic battle three years ago. Now, some of the boys meet on the court [illegible]

All we say is "If the first team can make 'em and the subs can hold 'em, we can [illegible] on top." Here's hoping.

Intramurals are the spice of life for the majority of male students here at U. V. M., [illegible] is all an introduction for the mention of a very welcome letter we received. [illegible] know there's nothing better than a note, critical or not, which lets one know some [illegible] ideas are discussed, and this missive really had some fine points. It begins with [illegible] discussion of our plan for an all-Intramural team and says, "There is no doubt that [illegible] would tend to stimulate a greater interest in these contests as well as improve the [illegible] and spirit of play," a quotation which we heartily endorse. The letter then [illegible] on and states proposals for a better coverage of all Intramural activity on the [illegible] campus. This has led to an earnest discussion on the part of the sports editors and [illegible] hope soon to have a new and different Intramural section. To the "twenty-one [illegible] frosted Intramurals" we say thanks for some good suggestions which you may be [illegible] we are duly appreciated.

Endorses of the NU. V. M. spirit on the sports side of the ledger are shown by the [illegible] used interest in two widely divergent fields, namely, fencing, and hockey. A group [illegible] students at the University had aspirations for a fencing club, went out on their own [illegible] recruit members, and now has a wonderful nucleus for the future handlers of the [illegible]. For the outdoor men, rumor has the beginnings of a hockey team to finally [illegible] present the Green and Gold after so long a lapse of time. These and other functions [illegible] ed student support. We want to put the University of Vermont on the map and the [illegible] unt of the burden rests on the shoulders of the people we call undergraduates.

[illegible] Do you think you're capable?

Frosh Class Elections To Be Held Dec. 10

[illegible] At a meeting held December 3 the class [illegible] 1945 nominated the following for the [illegible] offices indicated: For president—Stephen [illegible] Moore, Frank Eklund, Thomas Ingram, [illegible] Philip Robinson. For vice-president—[illegible] Janet Pike, Shirley Needham, Alice Flemming, Frances Ingalls, Jeanne Hotchkiss. For secretary—Dorothy N. Loughery, Marian Melby, Margaret Simonson, Alice Edwards, Elaine Oling, Barbara Kennon. For treasurer—Newton Goldman, Guy Hamlin, David Phillips, Wendell Earle.

The election will be held in the office formerly used by the dean of the College of Arts in the Old Mill from 9.00 to 12 a.m. and from 2.00 to 4.30 p.m., Wednesday, December 10.

Additional nominations may be made by petition signed by at least fifteen qualified voters of the class concerned and presented to Prof. D. B. Carroll, chairman of the Committee on Student Elections, at least three days in advance of the election.

Nominees placed under warning following receipt of mid-term grades will not be eligible.

Cats And Indians To Clash Tonight At Auditorium

The Cats play host to their most formidable opponents of the season tonight when they tangle with the Dartmouth Indians. The Big Green, who are eastern intercollegiate league defending champions, boast a team whose average height is well over six feet. The Indians have one man who towers six feet eight inches and two others who stand six feet five inches. As if the advantage of height were not enough, the Dartmouth club also holds the edge in the experience department.

Although the Indians are hands-down favorites on paper, previous records cry out to us not to let the above propaganda influence too heavily our judgment of the outcome of the contest. The Indians have been leading contenders for the title of eastern intercollegiate champs for the past three years, and yet they were beaten by U. V. M. in 1938 and gained victory only by the slight margin of two points in 1939 and 1940.

The Cats are a fast team. Their shots are accurate and their passing deceptive. They are a seven-man team, the two reserves adding to the speed of the team. Tonight's battle will be the old basketball struggle for supremacy between speed and height. The difference in types of attack will add to the interest and excitement of the game.

There will be a Home Ec Club meeting, Thursday, December 11, at 7.30 p.m., in the Brick Barn. Charlotte Perkins will demonstrate wrapping Christmas packages. Refreshments.

The French Club will meet Wednesday, December 10, at 7.30 p.m., in the south lounge at Southwick. Tryouts for French Play will be held.

Cats Swamps Hartwick In Opening Game, 50-27

Veteran New Yorkers Bewildered By Cat Passing Attack, All Subs See Action

The Vermont basketeers got off to a flying start Friday night, when an entirely new combination representing the Green and Gold whipped an outclassed but veteran Hartwick unit from New York 50 to 27 in the inaugural contest for both teams. Playing in the Memorial Auditorium before an estimated crowd of some 1,500 persons, the Catamounts piled up an early lead which it never relinquished, and thereby duplicated last year's trouncing. The Hartwick club was without the service of two veterans, both of whom were hospitalized with injuries, but the way the Catamount attack functioned their appearance would have made little difference in the outcome.

Fuzzy Evans withdrew his starting five after only eight minutes of the first half were gone, and did not enter them again until the commencement of the second half. The score was 23 to 3 when a complete Catamount team replaced the starters, and the seconders held their opponents in check to waltz to a half time lead of 27 to 12. Undoubtedly the final score would have reached still higher brackets if the first aggregation of Larry Killick and Bob Doherty at forwards, Dick Kipp at center, and Capt. Red White and Paul Pullinen remained in the contest longer than they did.

Although Vermont was lacking in the ever important issue of height, rarely did the visitors retrieve the ball from the backboards, as it seemed that a Vermonter was everywhere. The Catamount attack and defense, on the other hand, looked very effective, but it is hard to say whether the Hartwick encounter is a justification of Vermont teamwork under pressure. The Dartmouth battle Tuesday night should clarify this point beyond any question.

Fourteen men saw action for the home forces as Coach Evans substituted freely. The crowd became very enthusiastic when Little Reno Conti was inserted into the one-sided affair, and it was Reno who contributed the fifteenth and final point of the game.

Senior Dick Kipp, the tallest man on the squad, and junior Bob Doherty paced the Vermont attack, each nipping the nets for 11 points, but Jim Pietrocini captured scoring honors for the evening by flicking in 12 markers for the losers.

Larry Killick, freshman sensation a year ago and only sophomore to earn a starting position this campaign, continued his sparkling performances by throwing in 9 points. Capt. Red White followed closely behind with 8. Paul Pullinen demonstrated smart defensive play and was continually stealing the ball from the taller Hartwick men.

The contest slowed down at the start of the second half, but at that time the situation was well in hand.

Kittens Overpower Cathedral, 22-19

The Kitten basketeers initiated the 1941-42 court season Friday evening at Memorial Auditorium, as they edged a game, but outnumbered Cathedral High team.

The Kittens were set back on their heels in the first period, when the Little Indians, led by Carl Coffey, ran up a 10-6 lead. A new Frosh unit took the floor in the second period and held C. H. S. to one point, while it scored three baskets to lead at half-time, 12-11.

This same unit found the range in the third period, so that when the final period came U. V. M. was out in front 18-13. The final period saw Coach Sherry Fogg substituting freely while the Little Indians started to click again. The Frosh, however, held their lead doggedly, although they were outscored in the period, six points to four.

Both teams played very raggedly, missing several set-up shots and passing poorly many times, and the Cathedral followers believe that had not the parochial team been without the services of their ace, Captain Evelti, our yearling aggregation might have gone down to defeat.

W. A. A. Notes

Basketball Club will meet on Tuesday and Thursday at 4:15. It isn't too late to start coming to club. By attending three meetings of these meetings of Basketball Club membership in W. A. A. can be earned.

The basketball tournament will start just as soon as all the people who are interested in participating have given their names to their council at large member. If there is any place that doesn't have a member and someone there wishes to sign in the tournament please give your name immediately to Sylvia Rimmals, telephone 2542, or Sage extension 251. The minute these lists are completed, the minute the tournament can be started. Please cooperate because we would like to get the tournament started this week. Remember that it is impossible for a person to play with both a sorority and a [illegible] so get up with only one and support on that team.

Playday

The high school playday held at South and last Saturday afternoon was a great success with an attendance of over seventy girls representing the high schools of Albany, Farmington, Cathedral, Essex Junction, Mt. St. Mary, St. Albans and Burlington. Two local basketball games were given by McIntosh and Severy and Miss Barbara Crowe reviewed the rules for rating. The following girls were in charge of the playday: Chairman, A. Bosse; registration, N. Spear; E. Bosse; organization of teams, P. Sawyer, C. Cross, S. Fawcett, D. Arnault; games, H. Potter; judges, A. Needham, volleyball, H. McLean, D. Geer, G. Taylor, basketball, H. McLean, S. Rimmals; [illegible] girls to the coaching class assisting [illegible] M. Abell; awards, M. Quinn; music, P. Perkins.

Members of the All Sports Club, K. Ells '43, C. Peterson '42, C. Hyde '43, F. Potter '42, and B. Gallagher '42 were also present.

Badminton Club will not meet Tuesday night.

Swimmers will take up as part of their defense program this week safety measures and accident prevention for civilians, and also will be instructed as to the games to teach children if the crisis should ever involve entertaining large groups of them.

Thursday afternoon the freshman girls will be given a short lecture on the first principles of Red Cross work.

All those interested in the Christmas carol singing which Professor Milliken will lead next week Thursday are asked to give their names immediately to either Professor Milliken or Professor Long.

ALL GOLD KEY MEN report at Memorial Auditorium, Tuesday night, at 7:00 to assist as ushers for the Dartmouth game.—Professor Lamb.

Mrs. Bradish Presents Musicale In French

Mrs. Elizabeth Bradish, a member of the faculty of the music department, presented the students who study voice under her in a musical of French songs on Friday evening, December 5, at the Music Building. Approximately twenty students sang songs of varied natures, each person wore a costume typical of his song [illegible] Peasant girls, Juliets, Breton farmers, vagabonds, and seductive Parasian sirens all gave brilliant performances. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Bradish at the conclusion of the musical. Fortunes, dancing and singing all combined to make an extremely enjoyable evening for all.

Student Convocation

Are you, the students of the University of Vermont, interested in having a student government?

Do you wish to have an organization through which you can discuss and vote on campus problems, and so improve the standards of college life here?

Do you want to know where your activities fee goes?

Do you want to clean up our despicable state of fraternity combines in class elections?

Do you wish to invigorate and maintain fine school spirit in this University?

Then here is your chance. The shackles which have bound the students have been cut, and President Millis has opened the door to a new university. For the first time since he came to this school he will address the whole student body, and help us to get started on this great project. Mortar Board and Boulder will assist him in outlining a tentative constitution for such a new student governing body. But it is mainly up to you, to come to this convocation, to express your opinions, and to make helpful suggestions, and so form the government as you want it. All such suggestions should be turned in to members of Mortar Board and Boulder.

NOW is the time for each one of you to step forward with creative ideas, to work with fine cooperation, and make this huge undertaking a success!

Faculty and Students Give First Impressions on New World War

EDITOR'S NOTE.—The war has begun. Our lives more or less planned are thrown out of balance. What are our reactions? What is our outlook? How do we feel?—We bring you the opinions of both faculty and students on the war.

Professor Dykhuizen

Men of good-will abhor war. They prefer to work toward a better world order in a manner which befits a creature made in the image of his God. But sometimes men of good-will have no choice in the matter. The methods and procedures which they must use are determined for them by circumstances over which they no longer have control. This, I would say, is the situation today. In a world as distraught as ours, where everything is decided by force and force alone, men of good-will must themselves resort to instruments of force in order to save the future for the world of their ideals. I can and do, therefore, enter quite sympathetically into the war-program of our country.

Men of good-will, however, do not wage war with the purpose of permanently humiliating and destroying the adversary. Rather, they engage in the destructive processes of war as they raze a building—to prepare the way for something better. Accordingly, I cannot agree with those who believe that after the war has been won the enemy peoples of the dictatorship countries should feel the full force of our wrath and be made permanently to suffer for the evils which they have inflicted on us. I feel this the more strongly since I believe that we are in part to blame for the tragic conditions which confront us. I can and do, however, enter most sympathetically into the thoughts and feelings which prompted Roosevelt and Churchill to formulate the war-aims stated in the "Atlantic Charter."

Doctor Nuquist

The situation has been inevitable since Japan marched into Manchuria in 1931. It showed the democratic nations were not willing to fight to keep the peace. It was only a link in a chain which we have allowed to be forged. Italy and Germany and Japan have been working hand in glove. Their ideas are the same but they are working under different titles.

George F. N. Daley, Col., U. S. Army

Our president dwelled upon one point which I believe is of the utmost concern to us during this war and that is, the tendency of people to believe and spread every report and rumor they hear. Our enemies are past masters at propaganda and are most desirous of spreading discouragement and confusion throughout our nation. . . For instance reports circulated in England yesterday to the effect that all the workers in our airplane factories had walked out of the shops and refused to work. We hadn't even heard of it and the falsity of the statement needs no comment.

Outside of crediting in a general way that a certain event had happened, it is best to wait for an official account of it. As the president stated, this report will not be made public until the possession of such knowledge by the enemy will be of no use to him.

Professor Carroll

We have a long war ahead of us which is going to demand all our resources.

Professor Evans

We have certainly clarified our position and are now going into it with all the vigor at our command. We're in to stay.

Roger Hunting '42

There is no particular need to get overly excited about the matter. Wars have come and gone before. Our only course is to put all we have into it and not worry too much about it. This is part of the life of our particular time in the course of history. In wars of the past, right as we have seen it has triumphed. There is no reason to believe that right will not triumph in this war.

Julius Cohen '42

The surprise assault by Japan and the defense undertaken by our Navy and air force to date have succeeded in proving that our defenses are inadequate, and, above all, the futility of isolationism. Now, with the issues clear and with the knowledge that we are engaged in total war, I believe it is fitting that students of our University should organize to discuss and determine how our services can be directed toward a successful termination of the war.

Robert Carlson '42

The United States is not asleep and is prepared for any attacks by air or water. We will not win immediately. I have confidence in the capabilities of our army and navy to eventually win.

Clarence Akley '42

The dastardly manner in which the Japanese started this war will ultimately

Student Union Mass Meeting December 17

Next Wednesday evening at 8:00 p.m. all the women students on the campus will attend a pre-Christmas mass meeting at Southwick, preceded by a supper given for the town girls at 6.45 p.m. This supper will be in charge of Marjorie Abell '43 and Dee Welsh '43 and all town girls are cordially urged to attend.

Student Union is giving all girls a chance to register complaints or ask questions by putting a special ballot box in the Old Mill Coffee Corner this week. These complaints or questions will be taken up at the mass meeting. In addition, a surprise entertainment is promised by Student Union.

Debaters To Take Part In Contest

Nation-wide Broadcast To Conclude Debate

The Debating Department of the University is promoting the National Intercollegiate Radio Prize Debate for the coming year. The American Economic Foundation is sponsoring this program in an effort to stimulate undergraduate student interest in the discussion of public problems of vital importance and in radio broadcasting as an educational instrument. The proposed question is "Does youth have a fair opportunity under our American system of competitive enterprise?"

In the final debate for the National Championship, a first prize of $1,000 (one thousand dollars) and a second prize of $500 (five hundred dollars) will be given by the Foundation. This debate will be broadcast over the Nation-wide Blue Network of the National Broadcasting Company. The debaters will speak from the NBC Studios, Radio City, New York, May 10, 1942.

This radio prize debate is open to any college or university undergraduate who is taking full time liberal arts courses leading to the bachelor's degree. The University is entitled to one representative. There are prizes for preliminary briefs which are filed by the representative and a semi-final radio debate will be arranged. After determining the best eight speakers from this debate, the last briefs are filed. The final selection of four speakers will then take part in the debate over the nation-wide broadcast.

Those who are interested may obtain further information at the V. C. A. Office and should sign up before the Christmas holidays.

Pilgrim Fellowship To Give Christmas Play

Everyone will want to go to Pilgrim Fellowship next Sunday evening at 7.30 in the Parish House of the First Church. A modern Christmas Play, entitled, "No Room at the Hotel," will be presented by the First Church Players under the direction of Stuart Perry. There will be special music and carol singing. A hang-up social hour will follow with refreshments. Do all come for our final get-together before Christmas! Bring your friends, too!

NEWMAN CLUB—There will be a meeting of the Newman Club, Tuesday, December 16, at 7.15 p.m., at Southwick. The speaker of the evening will be Father Joyce, whose subject is Marriage. Refreshments will be served. Everyone is welcome.

BOYS WANTING WORK during Christmas vacation, Dec. 26 to Jan. 4, inclusive, should inquire and leave names at once at the University Employment Bureau, Waterman Bldg. M. D. Powers, Director.

Four Fraternities Holding Christmas Formals Tonight

Other Frats Plan To Hold Formals On December 19

That sure sign of Christmas, fraternity formals, will appear tonight when Sigma Nu, Alpha Tau Omega, Kappa Sigma, hold their formal dances. Other formals will take place on the 19th.

The Sigma Nus promise "the best formal on the hill" with the Collegians from Barre furnishing the rhythm, and Christmas decorations and a large illuminated star giving holiday atmosphere. In charge are Herb Long '42, Red Fowler '43, and Allen Jones '43. Chaperones will be Mr. and Mrs. Bickford, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Post, and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Gardner.

Fred Miller '44 is in charge of the Kappa Sig formal. Decorations of Christmas trees and fraternity streamers are planned. The Catamounts will play for the dance. Chaperones will be Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Millington and Prof. and Mrs. F. D. Carpenter.

The A T O dance, chairmanned by Wayne Dudley '43, will feature special Christmas decorations. Chaperones will be Professor and Mrs. Jordan. The orchestra has not yet been announced.

The Ivory Room of the Van Ness House will be the scene of the T E P formal. Chairman of the dance is H. Basch '42, with H. Sedlis '44 and S. Felsenfeld '44 as his assistants.

Plans Made For Christmas Parties

Dormitories To Welcome The Yuletide Season

The anticipated arrival of that Jolly Old Fellow (you all know who it is) is having its effect in the various women's dormitories on the hill. Dinners and parties and other festivities are being planned, all with the idea of ushering in with proper ceremony this cheery gentleman. On that campus so far removed from the Grinding Factory (Old Mill to you), deep plans are afoot, and Dame Rumor says that Slade Hall is going to celebrate the Yuletide with a party on next Sunday night, in charge of Mary De Yoe '42. A certain little boy is going to have a happy Christmas through the generosity of the girls at Slade. Robinson and Redstone are likewise planning parties and there will of course be the formal Christmas dinner next Thursday night at Robinson.

Getting a little closer to our Grinding Factory, we find the girls at Grassmount getting into the Christmas spirit and planning a party for next Sunday with nine children as invited guests. Over at Allen House, we come upon a Christmas tree (all lighted up and everything!). Their Christmas dinner and party will be held next Wednesday. Warner House, up north, has a party planned for next Thursday, with a tree and gifts. Dresser Cottage, farther north, is having a Christmas dinner on Wednesday and an "Invite your own man" party and dance on Friday night.

Other dorms are making plans about which we shall hear more later.

The men and women Independents will have a Christmas party at Southwick, December 15, at 7.30 p.m. All Independents are invited to attend, and bring a ten-cent gift.

War after all—but Life goes on [illegible] was stunned when the [illegible] radio blare on Sunday, no calm [illegible] progress of the battle has [illegible] was not our choice. It was [illegible] The axes were cast for [illegible] of more ties to follow [illegible] to fight now. Almost Monday morning reports follow reports [illegible] news, is history the next moment. Evening seems it would be [illegible] a news report.

[illegible] Look behind the news. What has happened, what will happen, [illegible] what we are concerned with.

We are given [illegible] to come. Yet, [illegible] expect it today. Tomorrow [illegible] perhaps but today we [illegible] It was too real, [illegible] Yesterday morning we still made [illegible] tonight or next [illegible] for mere exams. To [illegible] us [illegible] us pursuits themselves [illegible] and to sing before the weaker [illegible] and Jack's brother death's [illegible] only hear his [illegible] drink, and be [illegible] tomorrow you will be dead." [illegible] studying to [illegible] sitting beside the [illegible] and we will continue to do so for [illegible] days. Exams, to be sure, [illegible] but our future is decided [illegible] is more important than any-[illegible] than exams.

[illegible] will not go on, it must not [illegible] We shall have to pull ourselves [illegible] we shall have to force our-[illegible] But continues our work must [illegible] we have to prepare ourselves. [illegible] national defense can be done [illegible] even here in school. [illegible] that we can learn is worth [illegible] to be absorbed for tomorrow we [illegible] hand down, what we learned [illegible] who had less opportunity [illegible] We must have to explain to [illegible] as well as we can what happened [illegible] happened. This may sound [illegible] but still are many minds [illegible] We must go back [illegible] We must win by sitting down [illegible] and [illegible] about [illegible] We cannot win by getting [illegible] leaving school, as everything [illegible] us. We have to continue [illegible] present path, as long and as well [illegible]

Around us all changes are far from [illegible] The light of isolationists or non-interventionists has ended. [illegible] the people of the United States have become united again—one nation indivisible. Has might the last [illegible] total production have been taken [illegible] from our industry, tonight we go all out for defense.

Tonight finally our issues have become clear. On one side stand the peoples fighting democracy: America, England and its allies; China and Russia; on the other side stand Germany, its satellite Italy, and Japan. There is now no question. Individual freedom and enterprise are fighting collective thinking as prescribed by a few (to say the least). We will have to win. Too dreadful the consequences would be otherwise. We must be victorious.

This war was not our choice. We lived happily and contentedly in this country. We would have liked to continue to do so. We were not asked. We must take up arms. The future looks dark—it looks very dark. We cannot see one day ahead. Our life might be over soon (we hate to think of that). But we would be dead rather than slaves. Even in our life of contentment and peacefulness we have not lost our desire for freedom and we are willing to fight for it in spite of all consequences.

WAA Cage Season Will Start Soon

After much pondering the following are the results obtained from our efforts. First, the basketball tournament is at last going to get under way. Secondly, the teams which are going to participate are as follows: The Town Team, composed of former Burlington High stars. Redstone-Warner-Dresser-Gates, in a formidable combination, Allen House, keyed up for battle, Tri-Delts, full of vim and vigor, Thetas, overflowing with the spirit to win, Grassmount-Claggett-Roberts-Crowe's in a very dangerous combination, Pi Phis and Slade, with fighting spirit, McCormick's, ready to win at any cost, Robinson and Alpha Xis, ready to "mow them down," Alpha Chis, who won't be counted out, Sanders, ready to give their best, and Prospect, with the "do or die air." Now that everything is lined up we will see action, and plenty of it. Here is a little reminder to those girls who are playing on a combination of sorority and dormitory teams; your name can go with one, and one only, of the teams of this combination. This will be very important when it comes time to present the cup to the house or sorority having the highest percentage of girls participating in athletics. One person will be put in charge of each team and her cooperation is very necessary. Everyone who has signed up to play come out and show your school spirit by fighting for your team. Watch the CYNIC, "Y" room board, and bulletin board at Southwick for notices concerning times for tournament games.

The first game of the tournament is between Allen House and Tri-Delts on Tuesday, December 16, at 4.45. Everyone be sure and come—it takes six girls to make a team and if that many don't come then the game will have to be forfeited. Watch the boards and CYNIC for games on Wednesday, December 17, and Thursday, December 18. Club will meet as usual from 4.15 to 4.45.

Judge Grout Speaks At Faculty Club Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the University of Vermont Men's Faculty Club was held in the faculty rooms of the Waterman Building last Saturday night. Sixty men of the faculty heard Judge Aaron H. Grout speak of "A Layman's Ideas on Education." He opened his speech by stressing the necessity of being united in ideas, especially in this present time of crisis and national defense work. He also pointed out the need for more practical courses because they are much more important.

New Basketball Captain

RED WHITE

Meet the Varsity

RED WHITE—Red, this year, is captain of the Green and Gold basketball team and despite that fiery red hair he has done a fine job leading his Catamounts. Red hails from Essex Fells, N. J. He played varsity ball their and also at Kingsley Prep. This is Red's third and last year of varsity ball as he plans to further his work in social sciences when he graduates.

PAUL PULLINEN—Paul hails from Ludlow, Vt., and holds down a guard position along with Captain White. At Ludlow High Paul played four years of ball. From there he went to Springfield College, Massachusetts, where he played for a year. Three years ago Paul transferred to Vermont and is now playing his second year of varsity basketball. Paul is a Secondary Education student and plans to teach and also coach after he graduates from U. V. M.

DICK KIPP—Dick, another Secondary Education student hails from Orleans, Vt. Dick played three years of varsity ball for Orleans High and then entered Vermont Junior College where he played some more ball. Two years ago Dick transferred to Vermont and this is Dick's first year of Catamount ball.

LARRY KILLICK—Larry comes from Burlington where he first started his basketball career in B. H. S. From there Larry went to Kimball Union Prep School where he played for one year. Larry is the only sophomore who made the starting five this year. He still has two more years to go so watch out for him because he is going places. Larry is enrolled in the Secondary Education curriculum and plans to coach basketball after he graduates.

BOB DOHERTY—Bob is a General Science student and hails from Meriden, Conn. This is Bob's second year of varsity ball and together with Larry Killick, holds down one of the forward positions. Bob played three years of ball in Meriden High and also one year at Scarsborough Prep.

MILT KAUFMAN—Milt is a junior this year. He's a Pre-Med student who comes from Mountaindale, N. Y., where he played four years of varsity ball. Milt entered U. V. M. directly upon graduation from High School and played freshman ball and last year varsity ball.

BOB CARLSON—Bob is an Aggie who comes from Newbury, Vt. At Newbury High Bob played three years of basketball. From there he went to Cushing Prep where he played baseball and basketball. Although Bob played freshman basketball, this is his first taste of varsity ball.

Cats Fail to Connect As Dartmouth Wins 47-18

Midget Vermont Five Lost Among Giants As Indians Hit Stride In Second Half

By Ellot Kerrigan

Dartmouth's altitudinous Cagers, cramped by a tiny Vermont five for the first twenty minutes, found elbow room in the second half and speedily inundated the Catamounts, 47 to 18, at Memorial Auditorium Tuesday.

This was the first test of the year for the Green, and it seems safe to predict that height alone will carry Ozzie Cowles' club far in its defense of the Ivy League crown. Most of the Indians stretch upward of six feet.

Vermont in unhappy contrast to its remarkable shooting against Hartwick, simply couldn't connect. The neurotic Catamounts flung sixty-six shots at the net and rang the bell only six times. This woeful inaccuracy wasn't fatal until the second half, for Dartmouth itself was hitting with only five tries of thirty-seven in the opening period.

Vermont moved out in front after two scoreless minutes, Larry Killick dropping a short set shot. Dartmouth drew even on two free throws by George Munroe, but Red White, Catamount leader, turned a pass from Killick into a score.

For five minutes, the count remained unchanged as the teams matched each other in a mad shooting spree. Finally Jim Olsen, biggest of Dartmouth's regulars, succeeded with a pivot shot. Soon after, Stan Skaug tossed in a one-hander and the Green took a lead which it was never to lose.

Dartmouth forged ahead, 10 to 4, as Munroe dribbled under for a lay-up and Bob Myers pitched in a left hander. But Dick Kipp tapped in a rebound and converted a pair of fouls, and when Paul Pullinen made good on a free throw, the Cats were a point behind.

Just before the half's end, the Indians advanced the tally to 13-9 on Olsen's foul and a basket by Myers.

Vermont drew up to within a point again as the second period opened, Bob Doherty and Pullinen each shooting a foul. But then Dartmouth exploded. Munroe hit the target with a one-hander from the foul line. Olsen pivoted for another score and Gordie McKernan dunked one in at close range.

Killick brought the Catamounts up to 17-13 with a pretty left-hander, but this only set the Green careening off again on a shooting junket that accounted for twenty-one points before Vermont could counter.

Olsen and Skaug were the heroes of this foray. Olsen threw in five baskets from his pivot slot, and Skaug, a bespectacled demon, needled the Catamount defense with passes.

There were only four minutes left when Kipp's lay-up made it 38-15, and both coaches then emptied their benches. Skaug, the lone Green regular still on the floor, wheeled under for two quick scores and left the finishing up to the reserves. Little Milt Kaufman contributed Vermont's last three points, with Shawty Shaw, Dartmouth's six-foot-eight-inch beanstalk, netting a step-shot as the gun sounded.

The Catamounts meet Williams at the Auditorium tomorrow night.

Cats Meet Purple In Third Contest

Strong Williams Team Tues. To Break Vt. Jinx

The Green and Gold hoopsters from the University of Vermont will engage the Purple and Gold of Williams College tomorrow at the Memorial Auditorium at 8:15 p.m. In the preliminary game the Kittens will face the Burlington High School aggregation at 7:00 p.m.

The Catamounts will be after their second win of the season and attempt to preserve their prestige as an up and coming new squad. Williams has never won a hoop contest from the Cats. In 1901 Vermont copped the first contest ever played with the Purple. Again in 1935 the Green Mountain boys took them over and in 1939 Vermont earned their third successive triumph by a 51-47 score.

So far this year Coach Fuzzy Evans' Vermonters have put up a good showing, taking into consideration the 80-28 drubbing given Hartwick and even the 48-19 loss to the elongated Dartmouth Indians. Even the high scoring Dick Kipp was well blanketed, while Bobbie Dougherty and Larry Killick didn't have a chance to get loose. The Cats' passing attack was a little weak, but the second team put on a good show for the short time they were in the game.

Williams boasts a strong outfit this year but the lineup was not available at CYNIC press time. The Vermonters will line up as usual with Johnnie Goodrich, Milt Kaufman, Reno Conti, Gil Manheim, Bob Carlson, Jerry Didinsky and Pete Corey ready to be called on for reserves. The Cats will go on the floor as follows: Doherty, rf; Killick, lf; Kipp, c.; White, rg; Pullinen, lg.

Hockey Team Meets; Schedule Arranged

At a meeting Tuesday the hockey enthusiasts of Vermont organized themselves as the Vermont Hockey Club, with Jim Stephen as president and Bob Lockwood as secretary-treasurer. Under the sponsorship of the Outing Club, they have received permission from the Athletic Council, through Doctor Prentice, to use all available equipment, and with money allotted by the Outing Club, have supplemented this equipment to provide full uniforms for two teams.

The schedule, which is still tentative, calls for a game with Norwich at North field, a home and home series with Middlebury, and a home and home series with St. Mike's.

As yet, the boys have not secured the services of a coach, but they expect to have one by the time the ice is ready. For the present, they are working out in the cage five days a week, practicing their shots and generally rounding into shape.

If enthusiasm and spirit have anything to do with success, the future looks very bright for the club.

Those reporting for the team are: Joe Alpert, Len Burman, Fred Bundy, Fred Clark, Jim Duckworth, Stu Evans, Bob Lockwood, Fred Logan, Bush McGill, Sam Otis, Johnny Reed, Misty Rice, Ralph Soule, Jim Stephen, Whit Switzer, Suggy Sysko, Dave Tuholski, and Bob White. Any others who are interested should see Jim Stephen at once.

Student Forum Holds Meeting

An opportunity for serious discussion of student government was offered at the Student Forum sponsored by Harry McNamara, and Jacob Katz, in the ping-pong room of the Waterman Building, Tuesday evening at 7.30. Consideration of this important aspect of student life will be possible as could not be done in the Student Convocation in the Chapel.

Ideas for improvement were submitted at this time and those receiving the approval of the majority of students present, will be drawn up as a resolution and presented to Mortar Board and Boulder with the backing of the Student Forum. Bring your suggestions for a more effective system to future meetings and get the viewpoint of wide-awake students and faculty members. Make student government a working organization through active response and constructive criticism.

He explained the strategic importance of the island of Corregidor in the mouth of Manila Bay, with its two small satellite islands, partly man-made, which, he says, make an eastern Gibraltar. Communications centers and vital offices are buried below bomb approach on these islands which bottle up the important harbor of Manila Bay. Colonel Dailey thinks these islands could withstand attack unaided for a year. Control of Manila Bay on the island of Luzon is important because the island is so situated that it controls the supply routes between Japan and the islands to the south where many Japanese forces are located.

Colonel Dailey believes the Army will be more and more dependent on the R. O. T. C training in colleges and universities for its officer personnel, and pointed out that all of the graduates in last year's advanced military course at the Univer-

To the Students:

Saturday you demonstrated that you can take an interest in campus problems by turning out for the convocation.

You're carrying the ball now. Let's see you score.

Let's see you all come back after vacation with suggestions for improving the plan handed over to you by Boulder and Mortar Board.

They've provided the foundations for a student government. It's your duty to build on those foundations.

Four Fraternities Hold Xmas Formals

Other Dances to be Held Friday Evening

Last Friday evening, December 12, four of the Greek-letter fraternities on the hill held their "Christmas" formals. Characteristic of them all were the seasonable decorations giving holiday atmosphere.

It was a gala occasion at the Kappa Sig House. The holiday effect was given by a large decorated tree, subtly subdued lights, and colorful streamers. A large crowd, including guests from other fraternities, enjoyed dancing to the sweet strains of the Catamounts. In one room there were hung up caricatures of the boys drawn by a Polish artist who recently visited the campus. The chaperons were Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Millington and Prof. and Mrs. F. D. Carpenter. Fred Miller '44 was in charge of the formal.

A very successful dance was held at the Sigma Nu Lodge. The decorations—evergreen boughs and trees and a large illuminated star—were in grand style. The Barre Collegians "gave out" with a variety of swell numbers which the couples, including the chaperons, enjoyed a great deal. Refreshments were served at intermission. The chaperons were Mr. and Mrs. Bickford, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Post, and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Gardner. In charge of the formal were Herb Long '42, Red Fowler '43, and Allen Jones '43.

At least forty couples were present at the A T O dance. The orchestra was Rudy Wallace from New York. Unique Christmas decorations were featured. The chaperons were Professor and Mrs. Jordan and Mrs. Allen. Wayne Dudley '43 was in charge.

The T E P's held a very successful formal in the Ivory room of the Van Ness House. Special holiday decorations were in evidence. Red Dower furnished the "swing." Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Marvin chaperoned. Chairmen of dance were

Dean Hills Receives Farm Bureau Award at Chicago

Citations For Service Made At Presentation Of Highest Honor In American Agriculture

Agricultural Leader

DEAN HILLS

Chicago, Ill.—Dr. J. Lawrence Hills, dean of the College of Agriculture at the University of Vermont, Burlington, Vt., last week received the American Farm Bureau Federation's award for distinguished service to agriculture at the annual banquet of the Federation held here in connection with its twenty-third annual meeting.

The award, the highest honor given in American agriculture, was conferred at the same time upon United States Senator John H. Bankhead of Alabama and United States Representative Clarence Cannon of Missouri. The three citations for service to farming were made by Edward A. O'Neil, president of the Federation.

The Farm Bureau's award is conferred "in order that suitable tribute might be paid to the men and women who have given unselfishly of their time and effort to the service of agriculture nationally."

The services he has rendered to American agriculture since 1882 when he became assistant chemist at the Massachusetts Agricultural Experiment Station, won the award for Dean Hills. He is the oldest agricultural college dean and experiment station director in the nation, in both age and years of service.

Director Since 1893

After serving as chemist at the Massachusetts and New Jersey agricultural experiment stations and for a phosphate mining company in South Carolina, Dean Hills came to the University of Vermont during the blizzard of 1888 to become chief chemist for the Experiment Station. He held this position until 1898, serving also from 1893 to 1912 as professor of agronomy at the University. He has been a director of the Experiment Station since 1893 and dean of the College of Agriculture since 1898.

Dean Hills has been the author or co-author of more than 100 agricultural bulletins. He has edited more than 450 publications of the Vermont Agricultural Experiment Station. His writings and research in animal nutrition and agronomy are widely quoted.

All but three of the hundreds of students who have graduated from the College of Agriculture received their degrees since he has been dean. Under his leadership the staff of the College of Agriculture, including the Experiment and Extension Service, has increased from

Capacity Crowd Hears Xmas Concert

Chorus of Ninety And Orchestra Score Hit

Before a packed audience at the Ira Allen Chapel, Sunday, the Department of Music of the University presented a highly acceptable concert in its annual Christmas vespers.

Under the direction of Prof. Howard G. Bennett with Mr. Michael Anselmo, concert-master, and Miss Miriam Natilee Marston, organist, the chorus of ninety voices accompanied by the twenty-five-piece orchestra performed several traditional Christmas carols in addition to many excerpts from Handel's "Messiah," including the very famous "Hallelujah Chorus." The musical organizations were the result of an augmentation of the University Choir and Chapel Orchestra by students, faculty, and interested local residents.

Following the prelude by Miss Marston, the large chorus marched in from the back. Rev. Raymond Avery Hall of the Department of English, who was chaplain of the day, led the devotions.

The difficult a capella music of the Christmas carols was effectively sung by the large chorus. Considerable variety

Campus Sing Attracts Over 200 Students

Unusually successful was the Campus Sing which took place last Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the student lounge of the Waterman Building. Two hundred forty students and about a dozen of the faculty and administration filled the room to capacity and was evidence of the spirit in back of the campus sings, considering the four Christmas formals, John Dewey Club, and Outing Club which were also being run that evening.

Mr. Millikan, as usual, led the singing. In the program of songs were included many familiar Christmas carols. Among those present were Pres. John S. Millis and Dean Mary Jean Simpson, both of whom are loyal supporters of campus sings.

After the singing of "America" and "Champlain," the sponsors passed hard candies and apples.

Ski Enthusiasts Enjoy Ski-Movie

Ski enthusiasts gathered in the Gym at Southwick last Friday evening at 7.30 to see a film entitled "Skiing with Hans Schneider."

After the movie, three members of both the men's and women's ski teams modeled ski clothes from Danforth's. Paul Sutton '43, captain, Jim Stephen '42, and Bob Lockwood '44, represented the men's team. The models for women's ski clothes were Barbara E. Burns '43, Janet Dike '43, and Julie Fletcher '44. Mr. Mills of Danforth's gave many helpful suggestions concerning ski equipment. Dan Ryder, who owns a ski factory in Waterbury, explained the process of ski manufacturing.

The affair, sponsored jointly by W. A. A. and the Outing Club, was under the direction of Barbara E. Burns '43. No admission was charged.

The Nature of Our Choice

Humanity Not Self

[illegible] Armistice Day [illegible] (For Whom [illegible])

[illegible] Loyalists in Spain [For Whom [illegible])

[illegible] Fascists in Spain [For Whom [illegible])

[illegible] fall of Czechoslovakia. (For Whom [illegible])

At many times of the fall, our small portions of humanity has felt the pain and the agony. But what have we the rest of the time? Only the vague apprehension concerning some thought to ourselves that the liberty and humanity bleeding, bruised beneath the advance of [illegible]

But today the fall has swirled for all [illegible]

Humanity has been [illegible] that [illegible] we have brought that realization?

We are fighting in [illegible] But how else can we show the people of our country? How can we demonstrate that our decision goes beyond a national defense and a national pride?

Will it suffice that we are true to [illegible] and to get an objective view of it. Can that exist and surrender us to [illegible] and lack of purpose.

Some people see in this war a battle [illegible] Others see in this war only the destruction of an opposing ideology.

Some of us are fighting as Americans [illegible] as Russians. Some as Englishmen.

How many of us are fighting as human beings, but for our country alone, but for all mankind.

[illegible] is its simplest terms is the responsibility men of good will all over the world must accept. To think and act and support our ideology as a nation. Not in terms of destruction and negation. But to build and act for the future of all mankind.

The heads of all governments have made as their goal to bring one concept on the world. That concept places one nation, one people above the rest of humanity. It assumes that everyone can be made to conform to one system of thought, one mode of life. The Nazis are the extreme of chauvinism and jingoistic patriotism. And in their attempt to achieve greatness for their nation, they destroy it.

What must it become [illegible] Americans or Englishmen, etc., we must to become an negative of purpose but all mankind.

In the heat of war, it is not easy to keep an unemotional sound and a balanced viewpoint.

The worst of us go about chopping down cherry trees and racking our wits for means of torturing Hitler when captured.

Most of us will succumb to the thought that all we need to do is to "Get out and [illegible]"

But [illegible] we only wish [illegible] approach another Christmas. May some [illegible] be able to pursue the ideals which threaten to obscure our vision and destroy our spirit.

That will be all the more appropriate for the members of a generation whose ideal places humanity above self and country.

Many students have been heard exclaiming—"I cannot go on studying. The war has made all that seem useless."

To these people, we can only offer one reply—"It is not war which makes your studies useless, but your lack of faith and courage."

Until we are called our duty is here securing the tools with which we may construct not destroy. Our duty is here training our minds to see through to the truth.

Let us not forget that the students of China have traveled thousands of miles on foot over a war-torn land to get an education. Let us not forget that all over Europe youth has fought for the right to knowledge.

In every country today there are people who have kept their vision clear.

As we go home to a Christmas now saddened by total war, let us not forget what it is we must stand for. Let us look about us with an eye for all mankind.

Silence. The sad litanies of the bells. The people waiting, suffering. The people believing, dying.

Sadness. The tears on pinched faces for the deaths writ small on the casualty lists, writ large in a people's heart.

Humanity crying—London, Paris, Moscow, Tokyo, Rome, Berlin, Prague, New York. The snow of destruction spares no country.

Look about you and resolve that this is more than the problem of one creed, one nation. Look about you and remember.

Men of good will, there is but one peace on earth for you today—the peace that comes of faith. Faith that humanity is not fought for in vain.

That faith must never die. That is the answering chorus to the tragic minor theme of indifference and blindness.

Choir Holds Practices Out On Cinder Track

Winston-Salem, N. C. (ACP).—Choir practice usually brings to mind the picture of a group sitting behind the altar of the church on Wednesday nights.

But that picture wouldn't fit in the case of the Brevard College choir, which last year won recognition throughout the South for its performances.

The co-eds of that organization, wearing light shoes and shorts, do their choir practicing on the cinder track—running, sprinting and jumping.

John W. Hawkins, head of the department of music, says the physical exercise develops the physique to such a degree that bodily movements are performed with grace and precision by the subconscious mind.

"Then, the physical movement automatically associates with musical expression," he declares.

Detroit, Mich.—(ACP)—The third "refresher" program for graduate nurses in the Detroit area will begin under auspices of Wayne University, October 6 at Henry Ford and Providence hospitals, according to Dean W. W. Whitehouse of the college of liberal arts.

The courses, six weeks long, enable graduate nurses who have not been active for several years to review professional skills so that they may supply nursing care during the national emergency.

Our Job Is Right Here

C. V. Abbey, '42

[illegible] has finally come to this country and a grim reality has replaced the "It can't happen to me" attitude which was so prevalent a few short days ago. Nothing will be allowed to interfere with the war efforts of the government until victory has been won. Astronomical increases must be made in the production of war materials, in the man power of all the armed forces, and in the demands on the civilian population in regard to loyalty, volunteer work, higher taxes, etc.

This concentrated diverting of all the resources of the nation's strength for the purposes of protection and destruction will have different effects on the various elements of our population. The morale of those serving in the armed forces will be raised to a high degree because now there is something definite to prepare for and to shoot at. Previous, prior to the attack on the Japanese, morale had been one of the great worries of the general staff, because they had been preparing for an unknown quantity. More and more pressure will be placed upon those working in our vast production units to increase the daily output, etc. Tax increases, the scarcity of certain products, and the usual limitations on freedom will test the morale of the civilian population.

What about the young people of the country? Upon their shoulders rests a huge share of the burden. Most of them realize or are beginning to realize, just what this general conflagration may mean to them. Colleges and universities, the organized bodies which will most feel this strain, must fight against its possible demoralizing effects on the student body.

With the lowering of the draft age, practically every male student on this campus will be subject to it. Many of our juniors and seniors have already been given one or two deferments by their local boards in order to enable them to continue on with their studies. These fellows feel that probably no further deferments will be given, and that as long as they won't be around much longer anyway, "Why waste time studying?" Scores of others know that their numbers will be up soon, and many of them feel the same way. What I want to know is, "Are we playing the game, or are we just making excuses for ourselves?" Let's not worry too much about what we may be doing in a few months, because there is not much that we can do about it anyway. In other and more simple words, "Let's do one job at a time!" You aren't going to do anyone any good if you flunk out. It would hurt you; it would hurt your family; and it would hurt the University. However, unless some of my dear friends start concentrating on those books they won't have to worry about their futures, because when they wear those blue ribbons home after midyears, Uncle Sam will be waiting at the train with open arms. My argumnt is this: "Get on the ball and pull down some fairly decent grades, and your draft board may consider that you are going to college to acquire knowledge and not just to acquire an 'atmosphere.'"

And just a little suggestion to the student body as a whole. Let's pull up our boot straps and stop this petty quibbling about having to take a few hour tests now and then. This four-year sentence will seem like a glorified vacation when we look back on it a few years hence. It probably won't be long before some of us would consider ourselves fortunate to be able to take half a dozen hour tests in one day.

Recommend That College Students Be Deferred

Atlanta, Ga. (ACP)—Georgia selective service headquarters has recommended that college students be deferred from military training as long as they "maintain a standard of academic work which is satisfactory to the college and to the local board."

Maj. Charles J. Brockman, state occupational deferment director, said the new deferment recommendation will include all college students not yet placed in classification, 1-A.

Local boards already had been authorized to defer students taking "essential courses" such as medicine, dentistry, chemistry, engineering, biology, geology, physics and mining, but the state headquarters wants the grades looked into first.

Private Education Hit

New York, N. Y. (ACP)—Dr. Rollo D. Smith, provost of New York University, says a "break-the-rich" taxation policy of the federal government may result in closing of private schools.

The pending tax bill is an application of the policy, he believes, and exemplifies the United States' "chaotic, political and haphazard approach to a total war economy.

"Private education in America has already been hard hit by lessened endowments and lower income returns. Must it now face a depleted middle class to come?" he asks.

"Don't Lose Faith In American Navy" Says Prof. Holmes

EDITOR'S NOTE—Professor Holmes, a distinguished campaigner in the Vermont hustings, gives the following statement of the Cynic on the entry of the United States into the war.

We are now engaged in a great war. The outcome we hope will enable the democracies to proceed with their slow and sometimes discontinuous progress towards making this world a better living place for the rank and file of the people. To accomplish this end we must give our best efforts to the task of winning. All things which do not contribute to the winning of this war are now trivial.

I believe that the work of our colleges and universities should now be directed solely along lines which are of importance in our accomplishing of the gigantic undertaking which confronts us. After we have won the war we can return to things which are more appropriate for peace-time occupations.

Our task is difficult because we must fight nations already thoroughly organized. There are few wasted efforts in the countries of our enemies. We cannot hope to win against them unless we adopt during the present emergency their efficient methods. If we do adopt efficient methods we can utilize our superior resources and our highly developed technical skills and thus utilizing these advantages we can win. But let no one deceive himself into believing it will be an easy task.

We have the very serious disadvantage of waging war against a country some 6,000 miles from our nearest industrial centers. For an indefinite time the naval aspects of the war will be of prime importance. It will be difficult for us because the islands mandated to Japan at the close of the first World War are on our direct route to the Philippines. Some of these islands have been fortified and converted into bases.

So far the news has been bad. We have met with serious naval losses. We should not lose confidence in our Navy until we know the facts. Let us remember that Great Britain lost a year-old battleship a few days ago and another battleship of less modern construction. These losses came while the ships were actually in combat and after war had been declared. Our ships were sunk before there was a declaration of war against us. Also let us remember that an airplane carrier did not need to approach Pearl Harbor closer than 400 miles for operating its planes against our fleet. A circle of radius equal to 400 miles has a vast area. A navy would need a very large number of patrol ships to thoroughly cover this great circle. What most of us do not realize is that the ocean is a big place. It seems especially big after dark.

Our Navy will give a good account of itself. We will have losses, but so will the Japs. If we devote our whole efforts to winning this war, to the exclusion of non-essential occupations, we can build the material of war faster and in greater quantities than can our enemies. It may take a long time, but in the end we will win. We have no alternative to winning.

Student Offers A War Time Plan

To the Editor of the CYNIC:

Today we are a nation at war with the Axis. a week ago we were nominally at peace. Many perplexing questions must be solved in the long, dark years ahead. Hard though it may be to comprehend, norms of life much change and customs will disappear.

I have two recommendations to make to the President of the University, the Board of Trustees, the Senate Committee on Degrees and the Deans of the Undergraduate Colleges. The first is that male students who have completed three or more and a half years of undergraduate study receive their degree in June of the year they would have graduated, if such students enlist in or are drafted into any branch of the armed services. The second is that a plan be put into effect whereby students will be permitted to carry extra hours in order to obtain as many credits as possible before enlistment or induction, with full credit towards graduation for all courses completed in military science and physical education.

Many familiar faces are going to disappear from the campus in the long months ahead; already some have answered the call. Many of us are going to enlist, many will be drafted, others will have to take up positions in civilian defense and defense industries. In my opinion, it is only fitting that those men who are going to fight to preserve democracy and free education, be given at least this recognition that they are university graduates. Those men who fight against the totalitarian lie deserve at least the bachelor's degree for they are going to be the ones who will make the supreme sacrifice. Further, it will be hard for these men to continue their education after the war. The college diploma opens many doors and college men will have to furnish the leadership in the post war world.

This idea is not new, it was used during the last World War, but let us consider it seriously. When our way of life hangs in the balance, we can and must overlook some relaxation of scholastic and academic standards. This can be one way of showing our appreciation for those who come through and for those who don't no honor can be too great.

"Buy War Stamps Instead Of Cokes," Advises Dean Mary Jean Simpson

BY MARY JEAN SIMPSON, Dean of Women

The total "all out" effort which President Roosevelt has called upon the country to make in order to wage a successful war against Japan and probably all the Axis powers rests upon the faculty and students at the University of very definite responsibility which I am sure every one of us is ready to assume. The exact nature of our part in the tremendous effort which must be made is not yet clear, but there are certain things which we can do right now while we wait for further directions from the local and state authorities who are responsible for planning Vermonters part in the national program of defense.

At the Defense Council meeting held in Montpelier yesterday a general plan of civilian defense was outlined which will demand a very large amount of volunteer service from us all and for much of which some special training will be necessary. First Aid instruction for both men and women is an absolute necessity as a protection against unnecessary loss of life in the event of air attack. The women of the State are urged to enroll in the Home Nursing, First Aid, and Motor Corps units now being organized by the Red Cross and American Women's Volunteer Service.

A tremendous need for hospital supplies for our armed forces exists right now and we must still continue to supply surgical dressings to England. Therefore, the Red Cross is asking for volunteers in every Vermont community who will give up one or two evenings or afternoons a week to this work. Tentative plans are being considered for setting up a University unit on the campus where college women, both faculty and students, may meet to work on surgical supplies.

With the onset of winter it is imperative that we double or triple the supply of warm knitted articles for the use of the Navy in the North Atlantic and elsewhere. The Red Cross is prepared to furnish yarn and instructions to any college woman who will undertake to knit socks, sweaters, etc., in her spare time and "Bundles for Bluejackets" under the same leadership as "Bundles for Britain" is sponsoring a similar program for our Navy and Merchant Marine.

We are also urged to buy War Savings Stamps and Bonds. That is something that everyone can do according to their means, but it will, of course, mean the sacrifice of something else because none of us has much money to spare. A War Stamp instead of a coke or a soda, several War Stamps instead of a movie or

The portions from the "Messiah" were the high point of the concert, particularly the arias sung by Shirley Lampman '43 and Robert Goss '44 and the "Pastoral Symphony" by the orchestra. Several of the soloists were severely handicapped by severe colds.

Paul Poulin '41, returning for the concert, pleasantly sang the tenor aria "Every valley shall be exalted."

The other soloists were: George Millikan, Theresa Coderre '43, Doris Squire '43 and Marjorie Southworth '43. They were coached by Mrs. Bradish.

The Department of Music announces a concert to be presented Sunday, March 22, by this chorus and orchestra in the Ira Allen Chapel. The program will include Faure's "Requiem."

Museum Notes

Exhibited in an impressive manner, at the top of three miniature steps covered with black velvet and in front of a red arched window is a famous reliquary, lent to the Fleming Museum by Dom Thomas A. Michels, O.S.B., Ph.D., of St. Michael's College.

A beautiful work of art it is the bust of an abbot or bishop, and is made of ivory, silver, gold, and precious gems. It was done in the first half of the fifteenth century by an unknown artist in Menden, Westphalia, an eighth century bishopric instituted by Charlemagne. Doctor Michels believes the bust to be a likeness of Wulbrandus de Hallermand, Abbot at Corvey and later Bishop of Menden, and that it was a present to him in recognition of his patronage of the artist.

The showcase containing the reliquary is in the main hall of the Fleming Museum.

Minneapolis, Minn. — (ACP) — Flat chests are a sign of physical superiority rather than weakness, according to research experiments conducted by Dr. S. A. Weisman of the University of Minnesota.

Dr. Weisman's findings show a distinct correlation between depth of chest and certain lung ailments.

From inspection of the thoracic index—ratio of depth of chest to width—of more than 27,000 children and adults, Dr. Weisman determined that the average adult chest indexes at .670, while a so-called weak chest averages about .770, approximately 10 per cent deeper.

"The normal, healthy chest," Dr. Weisman declared, "is flat and wide."

Engineering Banquet To be Held Wednesday

The Cafeteria of the Waterman Building will be the scene of the first annual engineering banquet for all engineering students and the faculty as well as immediate friends, next Wednesday evening. Entertainment will be in charge of William Potter '42. It is understood that there will probably be a match in bowling between the students and faculty.

Student Hikers Brave Snowstorm

Pushing their way through a blinding snowstorm that covered the ground with twelve inches of new snow, the hardy members of the Outing Club who dared to brave the elements last Saturday and Sunday finally arrived at Mr. Brant's hut on Bolton Mountain after dark on Saturday evening.

With the old twelve inches of snow reinforced with an additional foot, the members had no reason to complain about skiing conditions, and proceeded to take advantage of these excellent conditions to spend an enjoyable forenoon Sunday on the slopes of Bolton, whose owner, Mr. Brant, has greatly improved the skiing facilities of the area in order to attract skiers.

The group returned home late Sunday afternoon, skiing down the mountain and thence proceeding back to Burlington.

sity of Vermont are now in active service as second lieutenants.

Col. George F. N. Dailey, who last November succeeded Colonel Spalding as head of the Military Department, was born in Iowa. He had visited, up until this fall, every state in the Union except Vermont, New Hampshire, Maine, and Rhode Island. "But there's only Rhode Island left now!" He likes to travel and has done a great deal of it, having been to the Philippines, Indo-China, China, Japan, France, Germany, England, and several other of the European countries. At the time of the War Mothers' Pilgrimage in 1930, Colonel Dailey was stationed in France where he was in charge of meeting the mothers and putting them on the train for Paris. Three thousand six hundred and sixty mothers made that pilgrimage during 1930.

Among his other hobbies and interests the colonel lists codes and ciphers, flying (he obtained his pilot's license a few years ago), and cabinet-making. In his home he has his "own little carpenter shop."

Previous to his assignment here, Colonel Dailey was detailed as a member of the General Staff Corps on duty with troops at the Presidio of Monterey, Calif. He is "very much pleased" with Vermont life. "The people," my host said, "are charming and very friendly."

Members of Classical Club Read Latin Play

The Latin play, "The Merchant," was read from English translation by members of the Classical Club last Thursday to a small but appreciative audience. Ziskind '43, June Hoffman '43, Jean Davison '44, Margaret Fake '44, and Mary Perry '44.

I.R.C.'s New Books At Disposal Of Students

The International Relations Club has received from the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace a number of books which it has put at the disposal of all students of the University by placing them in front of the fireplace in the Library for this entire week.

The titles of the books will beyond doubt suggest the topics with which they deal. Because today, more than at any other time in our history, it is of pressing importance to be acquainted with the basic relationship of our country to the rest of the world and especially to the Far East, all students are invited to make use of these books.

Here are the titles and their authors:

"Canada and the United States" by F. R. Scott.

"Canada and the Far East, 1940" by A. R. M. Lower.

"Canada in Peace and War" edited by Chester Martin.

"Australia and the United States" by Fred Alexander.

"The United States and Japan's New Order" by W. C. Johnstone, Jr.

"The Reconstruction of World Trade" by J. B. Condliffe.

"Against This Torrent" by Edward Mead Earle.

"Union Now with Britain" by Clarence K. Streit.

"Economic Defense of Latin America" by Percy W. Bidwell.

"For What Do We Fight?" by Norman Angell.

Moreover, the I. R. C. is inviting all students to attend their next meeting which has been postponed to January 7 because of the Student Union mass meeting.

Mr. Whitman Talks Before Meeting of Independents

A short talk on visits to Yellowstone National Park was given by Mr. Dana Whitman at a meeting of the Men Independents held at Fleming Museum, Monday evening, December 8, at 7.30. Fourteen members were present with one new member, Dean Severance '45. Norma Stoddard '42 is in charge of the Independents basketball team.

After the talk, colored movies taken by Mr. Whitman of sights in Yellowstone, were shown with a running comment and description.

A joint meeting will be held at Southwick next Monday evening.

Survey Taken Of Vermont Graduates

Large Percentage of Engineers are in State

A recent survey of the activities of graduates of the College of Engineering, University of Vermont, shows that a large percentage of them have remained in the State and are employed in many fields, many of them far removed from that of their academic preparation.

Many of the engineering graduates are centered in the various cities of the State and manifest a wide diversity of activity, including banking, insurance, teaching, Y. M. C. A. work, educational administration, manufacturing, and all branches of engineering.

The engineers centered around Montpelier are mostly connected with the state highway department. The Rutland group are quite extended and some have served on federal consultation boards.

Other graduates are serving on the highway, waterworks and sanitation commissions of the cities and larger towns of the State.

The distribution of Vermont engineers, however, is not confined to groups around the larger cities. A pin map of their locations shows one or two Vermont trained men in almost every sizable village up and down the State. The number of these graduate engineers is augmented by an almost equal number of men who took some work in the Engineering College but were unable to finish the course.

Apple growers and bankers, insurance men and ministers, debate coaches and engineers have all, according to Dean George F. Eckhard of the Engineering College, been able to utilize to advantage the training received in their various studies in engineering.

Dean Hills was born in Boston in 1861. He was graduated from the Massachusetts State College in 1881, and did post graduate work there. He holds honorary doctor of science degrees from Massachusetts State College and Rutgers University. He is a past president of the Association of Land-Grant Colleges and Universities, and holds membership in several agricultural, academic, and scientific organizations.

There were eighty-one Vermont Farm Bureau people at the national convention of the Farm Bureau, including Arthur Packard, president, and Lawrence H. Marvin, executive secretary. All attended the banquet at the Sherman Hotel to see the award conferred upon Dean Hills.

Women's Mass Meeting

At 8.00 p.m. on Wednesday evening, the women students of the University will hold their annual pre-Christmas mass meeting. The Health Council is planning some entertainment for the meeting. The supper for town girls which was planned has been postponed.

Health Service Bureau Established At U.V.M. In The Waterman Building

Students returning after the Christmas vacation to the University of Vermont found a new service set up for their welfare. A health service bureau under the direction of Dr. T. H. Harwood of the teaching staff of the medical college of the University has been established in the new Waterman Building.

According to Dr. A. B. Soule assistant dean of the college of medicine and chairman of the University committee on student health, it is felt that many students disregard minor ailments because they cannot afford the expense of caring for them, and the new service will see that such students are not neglected. The bureau will provide medical care other than hospitalization for all students in an effort to locate physical ailments in time to check them.

All Medical Facilities Included

Students who are able to pay medical bills will be referred to private practitioners for care; students who cannot afford it will be given this care by members of the faculty of the medical college without charge. The service will include comprehensive medical examinations, routine laboratory tests, special tests for tuberculosis and complete dental examinations. X-ray films will be used to supplement other examinations of any questionable cases. Consultation with specialists in all fields of medicine and surgery will be made available.

Doctor Harwood and Dr. Dorothy Corbin of the medical college teaching staff will have regular office hours for men and women students at the Waterman Building rooms of the bureau. House calls will be provided to students who are confined to their rooms by illness.

Sanitary Inspections Planned

Sanitary campus inspection, including the examination of food handlers, will be part of the program. Hygiene will be taught. A committee on nutrition will assist in preparing balanced and adequate diets.

The student medical service has been under consideration for several years, and was approved at the last meeting of the University trustees. Operating unofficially at the beginning of the current school year, the bureau, with the cooperation of the members of the staff of the medical college and the physical education department, gave all incoming freshmen a thorough examination from posture study to blood and skin tests. All students found

Debaters Face Heavy Schedule

Three Meets Booked Before Mid-Year Exams

Three more debates before mid-year examinations will bring to a close the first semester of the debating season at the University of Vermont. Tentatively scheduled are St. Lawrence, University of Maine and St. Michael's College.

The debate team from Vermont has sparred with Keene (N. H.) Teachers' College and Salem (Mass.) Teachers', from whom they won, and with the debate team from Massachusetts Institute of Technology, to whom they lost. In no-decision debates Vermont met Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, University of New Hampshire, Boston University and Bates.

Scheduled for next semester is a meeting on March 6 and 7, with Yale, Harvard, Dartmouth, Amherst, Bowdoin, Mt. Holyoke, Smith, Wellesley, Wheaton and Brown in the New England Intercollegiate Debating Tournament at Williams College. Some time at the end of February will be the annual Vermont-Middlebury debating contest.

The Easter schedule of the team has booked meets with Rutgers, Drew, Pennsylvania, Lehigh, Western Reserve, Hobart and Buffalo.

According to Coach M. D. Powers, four debaters have signed up to try out for the National Intercollegiate Radio Prize Debate conducted by the American Economic Foundation on the question "Does youth have a fair opportunity under our American system of competitive enterprise?" The final debate will be broadcast over a nation-wide hookup on Sunday afternoon, May 10, and the first prize will be $1,000, second prize, $500.

A large group of first-year students is trying out for freshman debate team, with meetings planned with freshman teams from Middlebury, St. Michael's, and Dartmouth, and with teams from many Vermont high schools.

On Saturday, January 10, at 8.00 p.m., in the cafeteria of the Waterman Building, there will be a faculty reception for President and Mrs. Millis and Mr. and Mrs. Proctor Page. President Millis will address the gathering after the reception.

All members of the faculty are welcome, and are urged to enter the building by the College St. entrance.

Pres. Millis Makes Announcement About New Security Fund

Our Plan To Insure Security of American Educational Systems

An expected announcement concerning plans to be established for the financial stability of the University through the formation of the University of Vermont Security Fund was made last week by President Millis, acting under the authority granted him by the University trustees.

The University of Vermont Security Fund is so named, he stated, because it must be our determination to insure the security of American institutions and particularly our American educational system. Our schools and colleges must immediately assume a doubly responsible rôle in the nation-wide mobilization now under way.

For Nation's Security

"As a war to preserve our democratic way of life is being fought, and as we are training young men and women to do their part, we will plan also for their education for the rôle of leadership which they must take after the war. The University will contribute much already trained manpower, and will immediately accelerate its program to obtain faster training of those now in college. Plans and preparations for the permanent security of our nation, our state, and our University will be constant responsibilities of the University of Vermont.

"Earnest thought," the president continued, "could not bring forth a name more significant for U. V. M.'s late winter fund raising appeal to alumni and friends throughout the State and the nation than that selected, the University of Vermont Security Fund.

"Weeks of study," President Millis further stated, "have been given to the scope of the University of Vermont Security Fund program, and this study, plus a stream of communications from alumni and friends throughout the State and nation, convince us that the best interests of U. V. M. are deep within the hearts of all Vermont citizens as well as within the hearts of in-state and out-of-state alumni.

"With this backing, the Security Fund plan proposes that the sum of $400,000 be

Donald Dickson To Sing Here On Wed.

Donald Dickson, famous radio star, will be the guest singer at the final concert of the Mary Fletcher Hospital series on Wednesday evening at 8:15 at the Memorial Auditorium.

Donald Dickson was brought up in Cleveland, and he worked hard for his musical education and the position which he now holds as one of the leading American baritones. He has sung with the Cleveland Opera Company and has been doing concert work for more than a year.

The press and the music critics have been very generous in their praise of this young singer. The Birmingham Age-Herald predicted that he is "destined to take his place with Tibbett, Thomas and Eddy." The Minneapolis Times Tribune said that "he revealed himself as one of the greatest dramatic singers of today." His success in Baltimore was commented on by "his superb natural equipment and powerful baritone of rich quality" in the News Post of that city.

The music education students will usher for the concert and the usual student tickets will be available.

Mr. Eden, what of Chinese Nazis Kuomintang, Communist and the rest whose cause is equal?

"Eden's at home. All right with the world."

Mr. Eden, we cry shrapnel for sentiment now. Let's just deal with cold facts. Have you read "Mein Kampf"? Do you think that an ideology of [illegible] suppression, militarism and political expansion is a purely local affair.

"Eden's at home. He's the worst of pals."

Mr. Eden, how [illegible] ago your words would have had some excuse for being. Young Vermonters Come To U.V.M.

Interesting the enrolled student body of the University at Vermont and several hundred students, most of whom will not go to many towns and see several states apart from their school.

Through efforts of members of the Visiting Museum staff at the University many special lectures have been prepared during the past three months on subjects of grammar school interest. These lectures are given to the pupils by the staff members when classes are brought to the University by the teachers during their regular school sessions.

These lectures are supplemented by moving pictures and slides on the subjects discussed. The museum displays of objects pertaining to the school studies are opened to the children who may actually handle genuine Indian war clubs, or uncut gems or gold ore. They can watch the operation of an old-fashioned hand loom or weigh the burden of a colonial flint-lock musket, or touch the linen bindings of a mummy many thousands of years old.

The museum staff who put much work into the lectures, believe they can prepare one on almost any subject the teachers ask for.

This week-day class work is an outgrowth of the regular Saturday morning children's period which the University has been sponsoring for almost ten years.

Badminton Exhibition To Be Held January 6

On Tuesday evening, January 6 at 7.30 sharp, a badminton exhibition will be held at Southwick. Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Osborne, Mrs. John Evans, and Rod Leavitt will be on hand to play the exhibition games. Later there will be an opportunity for all spectators to join in the games.

Everyone is invited, and attendance will count for Badminton Club.

Doctor Osborne is the new director of the U. S. O. in Burlington. Both he and his wife have numerous badminton trophies.

Schubert's Notes Shown At Museum

It has often been said that the world's geniuses are sloppy penmen. This seems carried out by the University of Vermont's display of Franz Schubert's original notes for a part of his "Fantasy in F Minor," at present in the special display case at the Fleming Museum.

These fragments of musical manuscript are owned by Dr. Wilhelm Raab of the faculty of the medical college of the University, and have been in his family for many years, as part of a collection gathered by Doctor Raab's greatuncle, Franz von Schober.

The Fantasy fragment is written on a wide sheet of very rough paper, on what appear to be hand-drawn lines. The first staff is fully worked out with signature and connecting bars. The notes have been carefully made, although in one measure the bass notes have been scribbled over and no attempt made to write new notes. This scribbling process recurrs several times. The further Schubert wrote the less exacting his notation became until the bass chords were merely indicated. The signature is not written again and the bars are not complete.

There are two other fragments of Schubert's notes which have not been identified as a part of any known Schubert music.

Quotable Quotes

"Wherever a dictator has arisen, there education has suffered. The desire for knowledge, the spirit of inquiry which is the God-given right of a free people, has been stifled and the training of the young has been confined to the trades and the most elementary general subjects. This must not happen in America." Rev. John W. Bricker of Ohio charges educators to stand guard against dictatorship threats.

Pres. Millis

raised by friends and supporters of the University of Vermont, $150,000 to be made available between now and June 30, 1942, for current operations of the University as required by the State legislature, and $250,000 to become a part of the restricted funds of the University, with the stipulation that only the earnings of this one-quarter of a million dollar fund may be used in the yearly operations of the institution."

To Form Steering Committee

Assisting Doctor Millis is the formation of the University of Vermont Security Fund, and advising in the formation of a steering committee for the entire program have been Trustees W. C. Walker of Cabot; H. H. Powers of St. Albans; T. C. Cheney of Morrisville; F. W. Shepardson of Burlington and I. M. Boardman of Burlington; Maurice L. Kelley, president of the Alumni Council; James Howard Moore, chairman of the planning and rehabilitation committee; Proctor H. Page, assistant to the president; Dr. C. H. Beecher, dean of the medical college, and George Ellis, advisory member.

From the work of this committee will come a University of Vermont Security Fund steering committee which will function under the chairmanship of President Millis. Acceptances of positions on this committee are now being secured, and early completion of this group, which will play such a vital part in the success of the late winter local, state, and nation-wide campaign, has been arranged.

Basketball League Swings Into Action

TEP's, Delts, Kappa Sigs Open Season With Wins

On December 11, the Intramural Basketball League opened its 1941-42 season. This year the league is divided into two sub-leagues, A, consisting of six teams and B, consisting of six other teams. The League winners play two out of three games for the championship.

The season swing into action December 11 with the TEP's taking a close game from Sigma Nu. Stroyman and Basch starred for the winners while West greatly helped out the losers. Also on this day, last year's champs, the Independents, trounced ATO 33-26. The Independents look strong this year and will be the team to watch.

Saturday, December 13, Delta Psi soundly trounced Sigma Phi. "Scotty" Ingrams played great ball for the Delts and proved a thorn in the side of the Sigs. Rudy Kempter starred for the Sigs, and his great playing kept down the visitors' score. In the second game of the day, the Faculty beat the Owls 20-9, and in the last game the strong Kappa Sigma team defeated the Phi Delts. Manjoney and Corbett helped their cause greatly, while for the opposition, Cognetta at forward and Mott at guard, kept the Phi Delts in the game.

December 16, Phi Sigma Delta took over the SAE's 30-21. Goldstein played a bang-up game for the Phi Sigs while Grosvenor starred for the losers.

It looks like a great season so let's get out there and support the teams. You can really see some good basketball in the league and your support will help to keep it up. Get behind your favorite team and support it to the last.

I. R. C. MEETING—January 7, 7.30 p.m., Southwick. Col. G. F. N. Dailey, professor of Military Science and Tactics at the University of Vermont will speak on "The Philippines."

Cats Trounce Tufts; Lose To M. I. T. on Holiday Trip

Vermont Led by Larry Killick Exhibits New Form In Convincing Tufts Triumph

With fourteen seconds of play remaining Red White, captain of the University of Vermont quintet dropped a one-handed shot from way out into the hoop to give the Catamounts a 50 to 48 victory over the Tufts College Jumbos at Medford, Friday evening, December 18.

This second triumph of the season ended a three-game losing streak for Vermont and gave the Green and Gold an even on their two-day trip into Massachusetts. Coach Evans' charges displayed a complete reversal of their previous form in the Tufts game. The Vermont forward line led by Killick who deposited twelve points through the rim reached the peak of their form and were completely unstoppable against the Jumbos who are reputedly one of the top small college teams of New England.

On the preceding night despite heroic efforts of Larry Killick who grabbed off scoring honors with sixteen counters, the Vermonters went down to a 48-38 defeat at hands of Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The score was deadlocked 17-17 at the intermission but a second half spurt by the Tech five gave them a necessary victory margin.

In both contests the U. V. M. squad was led by the floor work and shooting of Laurence Killick who continued as high scorer by amassing twenty-eight points on the trip. If the Cats maintain their improved form they should go far in defense of their state title laurels which they will attempt to maintain in their opening encounters against Norwich, Friday, January 9.

New Ski Movie To Be Show At Southwick

John Jay's new ski saga, a feature-length movie, presented by the U. V. M. Outing Club and Underhill Winter Sports Club, will be given at Southwick, Friday, at 7.30. This is a beautiful technicolor film which was taken by John Jay as he accompanied the Chilean ski team throughout the ski areas of the United States—Conway, Cranmore, Tuckerman's, Cannon Mountain, Stowe, Pico, Suicide Six, Placid, Sun Valley—from East to West and back again.

Come and see this fast moving action, clever photography, and amusing dialogue presented by John Jay and his "skiing camera." The skiing season has really begun, so let's have everyone come and enjoy "Ski Here, Señor," for only 25 cents.

Free Ski Classes Start Tues., Jan. 6

Organized classes in recreational skiing will begin on Tuesday, January 6. Classes will be held each week (weather permitting) on Tuesdays and Wednesdays at the Country Club Slopes from 3.00 to 5.00 and at the Centennial Field Slopes Thursdays and Fridays 3.00 to 5.00. These classes are open to all regularly enrolled University students without charge.

In charge is Mr. E. Steward Phillips, instructor in recreational skiing for the past three years.

If you are interested in joining these classes, bring your skis and equipment.

For men, a physical education elective may be taken in skiing for the first half of the second semester. Men who are subject to military service and who can ski expertly are asked to read the P. E. bulletin board in the gymnasium. Opportunities exist for enlistment in the 87th Infantry Mountain Regiment.

Sigma Nu and Sigma Phi Battle For Bowling Lead

During the week before vacation, the bowling season really opened up. At present Sigma Nu and Sigma Phi are battling for top honors, with Sigma Nu in the lead by one point. Right behind the Sigs are the TEP's and ATO's, followed by the Independents.

The results of the games rolled during those nights are as follows.

The Independents took over the weaker Phi Sigs by a goodly number of pins. Sigma Phi had their bowling team "clicking" and defeated the Phi Delts by a good score.

December 17, Kappa Sigma was defeated by the Faculty and Delta Psi defeated the Owls.

Dr. Davis To Teach At Arkansas Univ.

Dr. J. E. Davis of the department of physiological chemistry of the medical college, University of Vermont, left last week for Little Rock, Ark., to join the staff of the college of medicine, University of Arkansas, as associate professor of pharmacology.

Dr. Davis received his B.S. from Oberline, took his master's at Michigan and studied for his doctorate at Chicago. Before coming to Vermont he taught at the medical college of Virginia, and the University of Alabama medical school. He became assistant professor of pharmacology at the University of Vermont in 1939. He is a member of Sigma Xi, and a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Former Vermonter Publishes Book

Up from the Rollins Press in Florida comes a new book by a Vermonter. It is Powell Spring's "Challenge to Think" and is 322 pages of quotable aphorisms dealing with man's relationship to the spiritual and physical world, in the same thought trend as the work of the Austrian, Rudolph Steiner.

Powell Spring is the son of the late Dr. William A. Spring and the grandson of the late Col. E. Henry Powell of Burlington. He was graduated from the University of Vermont in 1913 where he was a member of Delta Psi. At one time he was acting head of the German department at the University. He did graduate work at Columbia, where he received his Ph.D. He has taught at Trinity, Wooster College, University of Toronto and New York University. Since 1933, he has been connected with the University of Human Science at Dornach, Switzerland. He is now living at Winter Park, Fla.

Colorado Profession Wants Practical Math.

Boulder, Colo. — (ACP) — Special courses in mathematics to make easier in later years the chores of figuring the family budget and the cost of a tankful of gasoline for the car are advocated by a Colorado professor for high school students who do not plan to go to college.

Two separate curricula in mathematics are the plan of Dr. Harl R. Douglass, college of education director for the University of Colorado and author of several mathematical texts.

"Since various types of calculation are needed more and more in daily life, the curriculum for those not going to college should be made practical," the professor says. "Use of the automobile, for example, has greatly stimulated use of mathematics in such problems as calculating time and distance. The person who isn't good at arithmetic is handicapped in his vocation, his purchases, and in other phases of living."

Professor Douglass advocates a four-year high school program of arithmetic, algebra and geometry for the general student, and a special three-year program of algebra, geometry and trigonometry for those preparing for college.

Northwestern University Adopts New Degree Plan

Evanston, Ill. (ACP)—A cooperative arrangement between the School of Education and Medill School of Journalism at Northwestern University, first of its kind in American educational circles, goes into effect this fall, providing a joint degree program enabling students to receive their bachelor's degree in education at the end of the fourth year and their master's degree in journalism at the end of the fifth.

The new plan supplements a teachers' course offered by Medill in which students may receive the master's degree by carrying on through the College of Liberal Arts. The new joint degree program permits a stronger background in education.

Students in the new program remain in the School of Education for their first three years. They transfer to journalism for their fourth and fifth years but receive their bachelor's degree from the School of Education at the end of the fourth.

Former Students Join Air Forces

To Become Officers After Flight Hearing

Donald A. Bigelow of Bethel, Lyle Spencer Davenport of White River and Earl W. Reynolds of Sharon are now enrolled as aviation cadets in the Air Corps Replacement Training Center at Maxwell Field, Ala.

They will leave soon for primary schools for the initial phase of their flight training. Upon the completion of courses in primary, basic and advanced schools, they will be awarded commissions as second lieutenants in the Army Air Forces.

Cadet Bigelow attended the University of Vermont.

Warren Baker Collins of Colchester is now enrolled as an aviation cadet in the Air Corps Replacement Training Center at Maxwell Field, Ala.

Cadet Collins, who attended the University of Vermont, has been here for several days. He will leave soon for one of the numerous primary schools in the Southeast for the initial phase of his flight training. Upon the completion of courses in primary, basic and advanced schools, he will be awarded a commisssion as a second lieutenant in the Army Air Forces.

Independents To Hear Prof. Evans

Prof. Paul D. Evans will be the speaker at the next meeting of the Vernont Independents on Monday, January 12. Professor Evans will speak on a topic of current interest, and it is hoped to have a large turnout to hear him. The meeting will be in the auditorium of the Fleming Museum and will start at 7.30 p.m.

The program of the Independents is proceeding rapidly. A good basketball and bowling team is representing the organization in athletics in the winter intramural program. A sliding party and joint meetings with the women's organization are being planned.

There is much to interest all independent men, and all are welcome to join.

Series Of Discussions At Pilgrim Fellowship

There will be a meeting of Pilgrim Fellowship at the Manse, 16 S. Winooski Avenue, Sunday, January 11, at 7.30. This will be the first in a series of discussions on "The Understandings and Misunderstandings of the Catholic Religion." This series has been prepared by request of some of the members of Pilgrim Fellowship and should be of interest to all. Hymn sing, devotions, social hour and refreshments will be had. Do all come and bring your friends.

The theatre is crying for collegians with new ideas and new ways of doing things, Edgar Bergen told students at the University of Utah.

Notice

Saturday, January 10, there will be a Student Convocation at the Ira Allen Chapel at which President Millis will explain the University's plan for second semester. That day classes will meet in accordance with the following schedule:

Military Science	7.30- 8.10
First hour	8.20- 9.00
Second hour	9.10- 9.50
Student Convocation	10.00-10.35
Third hour	10.50-11.30
Fourth hour	11.40-12.20

On account of the importance of the announcement all students are expected to be present.

"Ski Here, Senor" To Be Shown At Southwick

It's here at last. John Jay's new 1941 ski movie." That is the first sentence on the post card sent out by the Outing Club to announce the coming of this delightful, fast action ski movie "Ski Here, Senor." Everyone who saw John Jay's film last year will be delighted with his newest one. The picture is ninety nine minutes long, in technicolor and packed with color and beauty.

The admission is only a quarter, which will be used to pay part of the expense of getting this popular film to our campus.

The time is 7.30; the place Southwick, the date January 9, Friday.

Don't miss it. Come and bring your friends!

Dickson Concert Last For Season

Popular Radio Singer Presents Fine Program

Whether it was the cold weather which prevented many from attending, no one knows, but everyone knows that the small crowd which heard the popular radio baritone, Donald Dickson, at the Memorial Auditorium last Wednesday evening heard the most rollicking concert of the season.

Although handicapped with a cold, the artist did an excellent interpretation of several of the more classical arias appearing first on his program. His French songs were especially brilliant.

He seemed his best in the modern negro numbers which he sang. Assuming an attitude of complete abandon, he proceeded to bring the house down with his special talent for interpretation of the humorous negro spirit. While for the most part they were very robust, some of them exhibited an almost complete control of the pianissimo, a quality seldom found in baritones.

This was the last of the present series of concerts sponsored by the Mary Fletcher Hospital Auxiliary for the benefit of the hospital. The students of the U. V. M. music department have been the ushers for the entire series.

Faculty Reception For Pres. and Mrs. Millis

Saturday evening at eight o'clock a faculty reception for President and Mrs. Millis and Mr. and Mrs. Proctor H. Page will be held in the cafeteria of the Waterman Building.

After the reception President Millis will address the members of the faculty.

Guests are asked to enter the Waterman Building that evening by the College Street entrance.

Professors Write On Frosh English

Professors Aiken and Carleton Present Ideas

Prof. W. T. Aiken and Prof. Philip D. Carleton of the U. V. M. English department have written an article which appeared in the December issue of [illegible] Journal.

The article entitled "Freshman English at the University of Vermont" should be of especial interest to U. V. M. freshmen as it concerns work done in the freshman English course in recent years. Professor Aiken and Professor Carleton have related the method employed in the past years in an attempt to raise the standard of the average college student's use of the English language.

Interesting conclusions drawn as a result of the English department's studies and experiments appear in the article. They include information on the use of the Iowa Placement Test, the fact that faculty members frequently complain about the average student's apparent lack of knowledge of syntax, which makes their writing careless as well as other material. An interesting fact also noted by the department was that the student who has had Latin, or is taking Latin, has little difficulty with freshman English and writes better than the average student.

In regard to a solution to the problems presented by freshman English classes, Professor Aiken and Professor Carleton believe a more intelligent cooperation between high school teachers and college instructors and more sympathy for each others problems, might be the answer. Students on the whole have showed rather poor retention of English covered in high school.

Moran Candidate For Naval Academy

Representative Kapplemann announced Wednesday the appointment of Thomas Lawrence Moran, twenty, of 11 Gridley Street, Bristol, as one of the principal candidates for two vacancies at the United States Naval Academy, Annapolis. Moran ranked second in the preliminary civil service examinations for the appointments.

Moran is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence T. Moran of Bristol and is a second year student at the University of Vermont, where he is taking the pre-medical course. A sergeant in the R. O. T. C., Moran was recently cited for efficiency in directing the freshman R. O. T. C. squad. He is attending the University on a scholarship which he was awarded through two years' work as a corporal in the anti-aircraft division at Citizens' Military Training Camp, Fort Adams, R. I. He was graduated from Bristol High School in 1939.

Forty new students have been admitted to the college of veterinary medicine at Washington State College.

The meeting of the Canterbury Club planned for Sunday night, January 11, has been postponed until after examinations.

The purpose of the convocation will be to announce and explain just how and when examinations will be held, how students may get excused from [illegible] and to give the [illegible] committee.

The most important thing on the docket was the completion of the accelerated program. The reasons [illegible] announced are all important at this time, so that everyone will be glad to know the final word concerning the exam schedule. The only differences between the war's examination period and any former year are: (1) The examinations are to be one hour and forty minutes in length, as opposed to the previous three hour exam, and (2) the entire examination period will be condensed into five days, beginning Saturday, January 17 and continuing through Thursday the 22nd.

Please re-read the previous sentence carefully. It is contrary to the information that has circulated about the campus recently, that is the idea that exams would be divided and given in two class periods.

Graduation May 18

Registration day will be on Friday, January 23 and second semester will begin on the 24th, a Saturday.

Because of the telescoped second semester, spring vacation will be three days, April 2, 3 and 4.

At Kake Walk time we will have only Saturday off instead of Friday afternoon and Saturday. There will be no Masquerade on Friday evening.

Graduation time has been stepped up almost a month, and this year will be

Fraternity Dances Before Christmas

Four fraternities rounded up the last week before the Christmas holidays with formal dances on Friday, December 19. E. H. Blakely '43 was chairman of the Sigma Phi dance with decorators N. D. Tucker '42 and M. J. Reynolds '42. The orchestra was Johnny Davis' "Pennsylvanians" and Mr. and Mrs. Millikan with Prof. and Mrs. Prentice were chaperones.

The chairmen of the Phi Delt dance were S. R. Pülleyn '44 and E. B. Mott '43, while the music was furnished by Jack Collins and "Sandra." Prof. and Mrs. Witham were chaperones.

R. Paterson '42 and H. Hubbard '42 were chairmen of the Delta Psi formal, with Dr. and Mrs. Marvin, Mr. and Mrs. French, and Mr. and Mrs. Pearl as chaperones. The orchestra was the Catamounts.

The committee in charge of the Phi Sig dance was M. Holtzman '42, R. S. Warsaw '44, S. S. Fieber '44 and S. Boyarsky '44. Bob Jary's orchestra furnished the music, while the chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. Bickford.

Catamounts Tackle Horsemen Tonight

First Hoop Battle In State Title Series

The Catamount's basketball squad will go after the Horsemen's scalps tonight in the first battle of the season for the defense of its state inter-collegiate court crown at Norwich University. The game is to be a benefit for the "Fight Against Paralysis" fund.

Coach Fuzzy Evans indicated that the combination which functioned so well against Tufts in the final game of the December campaign would probably take the floor against the Cadets tonight. That means Larry Kulick and Bob Carlson in the forward positions, Dick Kipp at center and Bob Doherty and Red White in the back court. Bob Doherty thus replaces Paul Pullinen at guard and Bob Carlson occupies the fore court position vacated by Doherty.

Vermont reserves will be: Pullinen, Milt Kaufman, Reno Conti, Bob Goodrich, Gil Manheim, Bob Bennett, Bill Corey, Ed. Gipstein and Did Didinsky.

The opening whistle will be blown at 8.30.

Across Panama Jungle Afoot

By Lieut Charles W [illegible] 40

We left our base camp early Monday morning loaded down with our blanket each, a mosquito bar and a shelter half for each two men (there were six of us altogether in the party). Each one [illegible] also one rifle, four automatic pistols, a couple of canteens of gasoline, uniform hypochlorite, quinine and last but not least, one machete per man. And if you don't think that is a load, try carrying it and at the same time swing a machete.

I don't know whether I was lucky or not, but I was able to contract a native guide who could speak a little very broken English. He said he would take us to the Rio Congandi (known to me as the Pangandi) but would go no further because he did not know that country. In fact, as far as he knew no one had ever been through there before. That was a happy thought, being the first ones to go through a part of the jungles as yet unmapped. But after a long day of hiking and slashing with machetes through the jungles and mud we were still not within hearing distance of the Rio Congandi.

Our guide became impatient and wanted to get back to his wife; so seeing that he was as muddled up as we were and therefore no good to us, we paid him off in silver, bid him a fond adieu and good riddance. That night we camped on a comparatively dry hill in the jungles.

When the sun rose on our second day we found that the guide had really become lost and had cut us around in a circle. We had camped on our own trail in the dusk of the jungle evening and did not notice our blazes till morning. There was nothing for us to do but take a compass reading and start cutting in a general southwest direction towards what we thought should be the Rio Congandi. The next night was spent in the jungles still without having found the river. However, we camped next to a rather large and fast flowing brook, so we decided to follow its course till it ran into the river.

Wednesday morning we finally reached the river. It was about thirty feet wide and meandered a great deal. That made it necessary to cross and recross the river numerous times in order to take advantage of the fillbanks. In most places the water was at least up to our knees and usually up to our waists. We had a great time trying to raise our weapons above the water, keep hold of our machetes and still maintain our balance on the rocky bottom. Near noon time we began to hit the highland, but did the river straighten out its course as you might expect where water drops rather rapidly? It did not! The stream meanders had been entrenched centuries ago; so they were still present.

At one place we struck a waterfall of about fifty feet with swift rapids below it. Before cutting around it (a two-hour job to advance upstream only 200 feet) it was necessary to cross the stream through the rapids. One man slipped and went under, lost his rifle, blanket and machete. We were lucky in finding all the property except the knife, but can you imagine carrying a wet blanket on your back?

Gradually we worked our way upstream. Thursday morning we were startled to hear someone or something giving us the well-known "bird," from up in the tree tops. There above us were about ten black monkeys. Just what college they attended is hard to say, but they sure knew how to cut a pip of a Bronx cheer. Our first thought was fresh meat; so we brought down three with our Garand. They must have stood about three feet in height. But after surveying them for a while the thoughts of food left us. Their stench was a bit too strong for our stomachs that were on a light diet, and also they all reminded us of departed kinfolks. (By this time we had all started to sprout a dark growth of whiskers, too.) So there was nothing to do but throw them in the river to the alligators.

It was later in the same day that we met a group of men from another outfit, who had been sent from the other side to meet us. Oddly enough the lieutenant in command was in the 26th Infantry when I was first assigned to that regiment a year ago last July with the First Division at Fort Devens. They had two native guides along with them, who knew that we would be lost if we continued to follow the Congandi as we were ordered to do. We could not learn very much from the guides but learned about a small stream that should have turned off about 500 yards upstream in order to get across the Continental Divide. Had we not stopped to shoot the monkeys we would have gone by that small stream and probably would still be "somewhere in the jungles of Panama." That night we slept by the water's edge at the foot of the Divide.

Friday we started to push across the Divide. But I noticed that two of my men were having more trouble digging into the muddy [illegible] than the rest of us were, so at the next halt I inspected their shoes. The combination of water, rocks and sand had done their job, and the shoes were rapidly disintegrating. We made the top of the Divide—about 3,500 feet above sea level—by noontime, but oddly enough we were still engulfed in the jungles. I had had high hopes of breaking out into the clear and being able to see something but was sadly disappointed. We were lucky in that we struck a fair-sized stream almost as soon as we started down the Pacific side of the Divide.

Two more days of wading down stream were to follow, with our shoes constantly becoming worse and worse. Now it was a matter of how close to our destination can we get before our shoes give out altogether? We were now on the Rio Mamoni, which flowed down to the small native village of Chepo at the extreme eastern (towards South America) end of the National Highway. By following that stream we knew we could not become lost, but with our footwear in such poor condition, we had no choice and had to head away from the river in search of a trail. By this time one man was walking on his bare feet, but I had him wear his uppers so as to protect the top of his feet against Black Palm and insects.

Saturday we expected to reach Chepo at the very end of the national highway to be, between North and South America. It was our sixth day in the jungles and we had food with us to last only five days. Our food now was to be rationed at half a can of beans or of bully beef per man for one day—and that isn't very much, either. But in following a compass course to the south we became lost when the river swung to the east. When we finally found the river again it was late in the afternoon and the water was flowing in the wrong direction!

Boy, did that take the wind out of our sails. We were not on the Rio Mamoni, but on some small tributary. So once again we cast aside thoughts of Saturday night at the Officers' Club and the Garden back at Fort Davis and planned to spend another night in the jungles. We bedded down, but there wasn't much talking around the campfire that night. Our thoughts were too far away.

Sunday morning we finished the last of our rations—a half can of bully beef per man—and again started down stream. By this time all five of my men were having shoe troubles. My shoes were still in one piece, because I had put hob-nails in the soles. Two men were barefooted now and the other three were getting that way rapidly. It rained Sunday afternoon, the first rain we had received all week. This made the trails down the mountains into Chepo almost too slippery, to me. But we didn't care. The slipperier they were, the faster we would get to the bottom. Surrounding us argonauts with Black Palms and their long and sharp-pointed needles. (These needles are as sharp as porcupine quills and usually break off after they enter the skin.)

Late Sunday afternoon we emerged from the jungle for the first time in seven days. We next found ourselves in the savannas that surround Chepo. But the rains had turned the trails and cowpaths into miniature rivers, so we could not distinguish between them. Again we became lost almost within hailing distance of our destination. I had been in Chepo once before and knew how the road ran, so I set

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

"The youth of America comes to the doors of our colleges with hope and vision. Their spirit is the spirit of adventure. Their urge is the urge of growth. Their principal qualification for admission is curiosity. Their most valued recommendation is the desire for better things. Their finest equipment is courage and determination to succeed in a world of opportunity. They are endowed with the talents of normal human beings and are burdened with the frailties common to all men. This is the material with which the college works and no finer task may be found in all time than to create from this material a product that can be recognized as a gentleman and a scholar." Rutgers University's Dr. Fraser Metzger aptly describes the "raw material" of higher education.

es. Millis Tells bout Education's le In Wartime

[illegible] Millis, who over the Christ[illegible] attended a meeting of the [illegible] presidents at Baltimore, [illegible] this week that he felt sure [illegible] as well as other colleges would [illegible] the situation now confronting them [illegible] the demands of wartime. He [illegible] chiefly concerned with the prob[illegible] confronting the academic pro-

If that [illegible] is forthcoming, there should not [illegible] any impact upon the attendances [illegible] standpoint of finance." A sur[illegible] will be taken at Vermont so that [illegible] may declare their intentions [illegible] the summer quarter.

"[illegible] regular summer school session," [illegible] president continued, "will be con[illegible] as usual. We still have our obli[illegible] to the teachers of the state to re[illegible]."

[illegible] influences of the speedup at Ver[illegible] normal were the necessary mili[illegible] deferment of engineers and medical [illegible] until completion of their cur[illegible]. This will prevent the drafting of [illegible] trained specialists into jobs of lesser [illegible] in the military, and assure the [illegible] of chemists, the various engineers, [illegible] doctors to fill a vital need. [illegible] is also very probable for pre[illegible] who have completed two years of [illegible] preliminary college work.

[illegible] Work Is Vital

[illegible] is planning acceleration for [illegible] students. With the scarcity [illegible] these students will be help[illegible] farms this summer, and [illegible] apply their theory to prac[illegible] was indicated. "It is still very important that we continue to turn out 4-H leaders and county agents," he said.

Tests are being evolved to determine whether students in other courses may be well qualified to switch into some of the curricula furnishing badly needed trained men. Dr. Millis was of the opinion that some students are of sufficient balance to switch from arts courses to engineering or medicine, but did not anticipate much of any rush in that regard.

Against War Degrees

"War degrees," he said, "undoubtedly will not be given out to service men who leave college in their senior year. It was done in the last war, but the recent conference was decidedly against it. Such degrees may be awarded on the basis of examination after service."

Of the athletic program at Vermont, the president said, "There is no question but the intercollegiate competitive schedules will be affected. There will be an enlarged and compulsory program of physical training. We can't, however, give up all intercollegiate athletics. They are of value to the public morale. But this program will include everyone. The fellows who have not been doing anything in physical training are the ones we are after."

"Just as people are learning that there cannot be 'business as usual' they must learn that there cannot be education as usual," said President Millis. "However, we are not going to change as much as might be anticipated."

Isolationism "Dead As Dodo"

The acceleration of the professional courses will be supplemented by heavier requirements in history, political science and international relations. Foreign languages will occupy a more important place in the scheme of things—French, Spanish and German. Even Chinese, Japanese and Russian are important, although Dr. Millis indicated that instruction in the latter three might be difficult to obtain. "Isolationism," he said, "is now as dead as a dodo."

Problems may present themselves in the matter of teaching, the president admitted. Courses may be discontinued, others added or augmented. By fitting, piecing and reallocating, the load may be equitably distributed.

Faculty Exchanging Considered

"Everybody will have to pitch in and help," he said. "At some institutions, some faculties will have to work eleven months for their year's salaries. That is now true at Swarthmore and elsewhere. There is bound to be some dislocation in a situation like this, but the application of common sense will work it out."

Some institutions, where a shortage of teaching staff is indicated by the speedup, are flirting with the idea of exchanging their faculty resources with other colleges, it was learned.

Public Courses Planned

Facilities of the University will also be available for many activities for the general public along lines calculated to maintain high civilian morale. Prof. A. E. Nuquist and two students constitute a committee at U. V. M. in charge of some of these activities which will include lectures, short courses and other media which will explain the menace of dictatorships, present a clear picture of what the nation is trying to preserve, supply information about war policies, promote an understanding of our Allies, increase unity among foreign-born citizens, stimulate literacy and an understanding of current events, discourage fear and hysteria and discount propaganda.

Recreational opportunities and programs will also be sponsored. Some special short courses may be offered in the engineering college to those who want to learn special techniques in certain lines.

Badminton Exhibition Given At Southwick

A badminton exhibition was given at Southwick, January 6, by Dr. and Mrs. W. T. Osborne, Mrs. "Fuzzy" Evans and Rod Leavitt. Spectators included members of the Badminton Club, faculty members, and visitors from the Y. M. C. A. After the exhibition games all were invited to join in the play.

Doctor Osborne is the new director of the USO in Burlington. Both he and his wife have numerous badminton trophies.

Notice

Contrary to an earlier report stating that there would be no Kake Walk masquerade this year, it has been announced by the directors that it has definitely been decided to hold this regular event of the Kake Walk week-end as usual. However, classes will be held Friday afternoon of the week-end, instead of the usual half-holiday customarily allowed on that day.

Girls With Oomph Please Take Notice

New Plan Formulated For Co-ed Major Voting

Champlain Sabers announces a new and improved method of selecting the co-ed mates for the Annual Military Ball.

Here is the plan.

Each sorority and dormitory will submit to the military office of the Champlain Sabers member on or before January 17 the name of its most outstanding girl, based on the following characteristics:

1. Character. 2. Class standing. 3. Activities. 4. Personality. 5. Appearance.

The name should be accompanied by a photograph. The judges will eliminate all but four of those girls, following which the members of the Advanced Military course will vote on the girl to rule over the ball.

So get busy, gals, and select the girl in the house whom you think exemplifies the above mentioned characteristics. Good Luck!

Sincerely yours,
HAZEN F. WOOD,
CLARENCE V. AKLEY,
Co-Chairmen of Publicity Committee

In order to give everyone an equal chance, any group of girls from the University may submit the name and picture of any girl whom they think is deserving of the honor.

The preliminary judging will probably be handled by Colonel Dailey and a group of University professors.

Harold Kennedy '40 On Way To Wings

GOODFELLOW FIELD, San Angelo, Texas—Aviation Cadet Harold Walling Kennedy, Vermont '40, is a member of the first war-time graduating class of the United States Army Air Corps basic flying school.

From Goodfellow, where he learned aerobatics, formation, blind, and night flying, he has been ordered to a final period of advanced training at Kelly Field, Texas under Uncle Sam's stepped up aerial program. Upon completion of this advanced training he will probably be assigned to a tactical unit and the defense of Democracy's skyways as a flying second lieutenant, Air Corps.

Cadet Kennedy's home is at Waterbury, Vt., and while at the University he was a member of the Dramatic Club and Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity.

Due to the changes in the mid-year examination schedule, there will only be one issue of the CYNIC this week. We'll be back with you Tuesday, January 27, we hope.

Beginning February 27, 1942 all CYNICS will be distributed from the Bookstore in the Waterman Building.

President Millis Explains New Plan

Student Convocation Is Attended by Many

Pres. John S. Millis was the speaker at the convocation held last Saturday morning which was attended by a large percentage of the student body. His purpose was to explain the way in which the University of Vermont and its curriculum will fit in with the present emergency. Mid-year exams, the proposed bookings of name bands and the abolition of the Kake Walk were discussed.

He stressed that the normal student courses and pleasures should go on as well as those students who expect to be drafted should take advantage of the two extra months in the summer. He also spoke of the co-ed's major part to play in the proposed Student Government and urged that the student should give it full cooperation and attention. In conclusion he stressed the need for study, patience and the correct mental attitude on the part of the students during the present crisis.

SAE's Hold Gay Dance On Saturday Evening

Sigma Alpha Epsilon held a "Ice Cold Inn" dance Saturday evening from 8:30 to 12:00. Bob Lee and his orchestra played.

Jerry Ducett '42 was social chairman for the dance. Professor and Mrs. Millikan and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Congdon chaperoned.

Six New Members Initiated Into Bluestockings

Six new members were initiated into Bluestockings, women's honorary literary society, last Thursday night. They were Alison Carr '44, Virginia Close '43, Margaret Delano '44, Penelope Easton '44, Margaret Palmer '44 and Faith Prior '43. After a brief business meeting in which plans for the organization during the summer session were discussed and prospects for a speaker and the purchase of new books was mentioned, the new members were formally inducted into the society.

Various games and stunts of a literary nature, conducted by Elizabeth Chaffee '42 were carried out by the initiates who acquitted themselves very well and refreshments of coffee and doughnuts were served by Myrna French '42 and Mary Perry '44.

200 Honor Millis At U.V.M. Reception

Expressing again his faith in the future of the University of Vermont, President John S. Millis addressed briefly some 200 members of the University faculty and friends at a reception given Saturday night in the honor of Mr. Millis' honor in the cafeteria of the Waterman Building.

President Millis checked the faculty on the accomplishments made and are making and expressed the hope they would return to and be well liked by the University throughout the years.

The reception was sponsored by the Men's Faculty Club. With President and Mrs. Millis in the receiving line were Prof. Henry Jordan, president of the Men's Faculty Club and Mrs. Jordan, and Professor H. Page, assistant to the president. Mrs. Page had been called away.

Attention All Students

Purpose To Set Up a Civilian Morale Plan

A meeting of higher institutions of learning in the State has been called by Gov. William H. Wills to convene at the State House in Montpelier today, January 13, for the purpose of setting up a Civilian Morale Service that it is expected will operate in cooperation with the State Council of Safety.

For several weeks a Civilian Morale Service Committee has been organizing at the University of Vermont under instructions from Washington. Heading the committee is Prof. A. E. Nuquist of the political science department. During the Christmas holidays a meeting of other institutions of the State was called at the University and plans formulated for Tuesday's meeting with the governor at which the presidents of the various institutions or their representatives will be present.

On the general committee of the University, which is already setting up a library service, arranging for speakers and meetings and preparing to establish training schools for civilian morale workers, are A. E. Nuquist, J. E. Carrigan, H. P. Mileham, H. B. Pierce, A. M. Camburn, I. W. Marvin, H. L. Daasch, Sara M. Holbrook, G. Dykhuizen, R. M. Collier and L. W. Dean. Representing the students are Helen M. Witham and F. Bardossi.

From this group subsidiary committees have been named to carry on the different phases of the work. The chairman of the division which will arrange for meetings and supply speakers to communities and groups requesting them is Professor Holbrook. The library division is headed by Professor Dykhuizen, the division for press information by Professor Dean. Mr. Mileham is in charge of the division that will have charge of any training desired by members of the University and others engaged in the work.

The duties of the body as a whole will be to quiet by facts the many rumors prevalent during a period of strain to fortify the public for emergency demands and be information at its disposal help keep up the general public morale wherever such help is needed.

It is expected that after Tuesday's meeting in Montpelier all of the institutions of higher learning in the State will pool their resources, perhaps under some centralized direction, to make the work as complete and effective as possible.

Prof. Puffer Has Article Printed

Prof. Louis B. Puffer of the college of engineering of the University of Vermont has turned salesman in an article in the attractive Adirondack Mountain Club Year Book for 1942 in a humorous sales talk entitled "Good Old Web Feet" and all Americans back to the Indian snowshoes.

To Professor Puffer the chief virtues of the snowshoe's imported rival, the ski, are the fancy and trick language of the sport and the ski tow back up the mountain. The snowshoe, he believes, is less spectacular but it has the advantage of getting places inaccessible to skis and at a dignified pace commensurate with enjoying the back mountain scenery. Among the illustrations for the article is an Adirondack snowshoe scene taken by Professor Puffer himself.

Professor Puffer, a past president of the Green Mountain Club, is one of the outdoor enthusiasts of the University of Vermont faculty and has had much to do with the development of Vermont trails and shelters. He is also an authority on Vermont covered bridges.

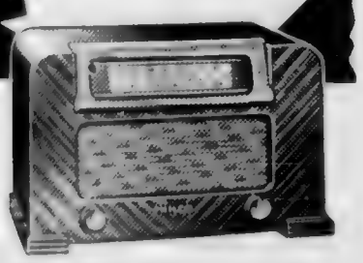
Dust Elimination Produces Wood Flour

SEATTLE, WASH.—(ACP)—A University of Washington professor's dust-elimination invention literally has snatched a valuable wood by-product out of thin air.



Prof. Frederick K. Kirsten, school of aeronautical engineering, has disclosed how his application of the principle of centrifugal force to dust-laden air has resulted in a process by which fine wood dust—"wood flour"—can be reclaimed for use in plastics.

The machine takes dust out of air by setting it in whirling motion at terrific speed. The dust is thrown out by centrifugal force while the clean air is taken off at the center.

He said wood flour sells for about $35 a ton.

Smaller units soon will be in production, he said, for use as dust filters on automobile carburetors.

Catamount Sextet Drops Opener, 3-2

Veteran Purple Skaters On Top in Close Fray

The Vermont Independent hockey team opened their season against an experienced Middlebury squad at Middlebury last Saturday afternoon. Although they came out on the short end of the 3-2 score, the Vermont boys made up for their inexperience by displaying plenty of spirit.

The first period produced little in the way of good hockey as the Mid men failed to click on their passes and the Vermont boys tried hard to get going in their first game as a unit. With 45 seconds remaining in the period D. Gale netted the disc for the Panthers and the period ended with the score 1-0 in favor of Middlebury.

Berman replaced Tuholski in goal at the beginning of the second period and within the first minute of play D. Gale slipped a shot between the Vermont net-minder's skates for Middlebury's second tally of the game. At 1:45 Whit Switzer broke away and let fly with a weak shot from center ice that looped and rolled down the ice toward the Midd nets. Davis made no effort to stop the rubber which hit the twine to account for Vermont's first score. At 6:30 Middlebury again pierced the Vermont defenses and despite the fact that they were a man short scored on a hard shot that went over Berman's shoulder. With the score 3-1 in favor of the Midd men, Tuholski was sent in to replace Berman. Vermont's last score came when Sysko netted a perfect set up shot from in front of the Midd cage.

The third period found both teams checking on their pass work. Close checking and hard play failed to produce tallies for either team during the last period. With Vermont a man short during the closing minutes of the game Middlebury pressed up but Tuholski did a beautiful job of the net and the game closed without further scoring.

Line-up

Vermont—Bandy, Stephen, Switzer, Lockwood, Dickerson, Tuholski.

Middlebury—Woodbridge, Johnson, D. Gale, J. Young, Mayo, Davis.

Spares—Vermont—Sysko, McGill, R. White, Evans; Berman. Middlebury—Urban, Bates, Moore, Wickenden, Landrigan.

Penalties

First period—none.

Second period—Landrigan, Young.

Third period—Young, Sysko.

Freshman Cagers Seek Second Win

Tonight Coach Storm, Cagey Kitten basketeers will face the St. Michael Lyceum on the Memorial Auditorium court at 7:00 o'clock, in a preliminary to the 8:15 game between Vermont and St. Michael's at Winooski Park.

The freshmen are putting up victory number two for the season. They opened their schedule with a close one over the Cathedral High school quintet, dropped the next contest to Burlington High in a heart-breaker and last in the G. M. I. C. Mountaineers in their last appearance just before vacation.

The Purple Lyceum boast a strong outfit led by Dan Akey, a former Cathedral High school regular.

The Kittens have shown some good play this year but their ability to shoot cagers has been the chief hitch to date.

With a good first string and strong reserves the freshmen are a hard outfit to conquer.

The line up will probably be as follows: Left forward, Palmer; right forward, Carlson; center, LaDuke or Conrad; left guard, Sysko; right guard, Hazen.

Cats Edge Norwich 45-42 In Thrill-Packed Contest

Doherty and Killick Pace Green and Gold Quintet to Win in State Series Inaugural

Never segregated by more than 4 points during the entire game and tying the score six times in a thrill-filled court opus, Vermont overcame Norwich in the closing minutes and emerged ahead to win 45-42.

The Catamounts drew first blood when Bob Doherty, the evening's highest scorer, sank a field goal. Killick then followed with a double and Vermont led 4-0. Norwich's Mel Eskew pulled an deuce narrowing the score to 4-2. From this point the lead see-sawed back and forth as each team tried vainly to surge ahead into the lead. Eskew tossed Vermont hooting 7-24.

The second half was a repetition of the first with both coaches substituting freely trying to find a combination that would click.

With three minutes to go Coach Evans substituted Pulliam at center who turned in a basket which pulled Vermont up to within two points of the lead. This seemed to bring back the old spark into the Green. Cats. Doherty hooked a field goal to tie it up at 40 all and Killick and White also added 4 more points to put Vermont into the lead and capture the victory.

The victory was Vermont's third out of six starts and their first for the state championship.

Vermont's Doherty captured scoring honors with 16 points. Larry Killick followed close behind with 14, while Capt. Mel Eskew shucked 15 points.

Skiers To Compete At Williams Meet

Schedule Also Includes Two State Carnivals

The members of the ski team of the University of Vermont are scheduled to be in Massachusetts over the week-end of February 14 to participate in the annual winter carnival at Williams College. Skiing events in which the Vermont men will compete include jumping, cross-country, slalom and downhill.

This will be the first official action for the U. V. M. team. At present their program includes intercollegiate activity at the Middlebury carnival and at Norwich.

A full time coach has not been obtained for this season, however. Sepp Rinaldo, who is in charge of the Mansfield Ski School, has agreed to assist and instruct the members on certain afternoons and on the week-ends. Last year's coach Mr. E. Bailey, was not available for this season and to date the men have been conducting conditioning practices.

Time Trials Held

Time trials for the purpose of selecting the men to make the Williams trip will be held immediately after the mid-year examinations are completed. As yet no definite list can be drawn up but it is probable that Frank Pierce and Art Paterson, veterans of last year and experts in the slalom and downhill events, will be on hand to do their part. Also it is very likely that Bob Goss, another old hand master of the arts of cross-country and jumping, will again be doing for the Universities. It is expected that when examinations are a thing of the past Paul Sutton will be on hand to add some jumping that can't be rivaled by the state. John Heard and Steve Moore are other substantial members of the prospective team. Hamilton Pearl and M. P. Norton are the bright lights of the freshman class. Pearl of Burlington had his final glimpse of competition in high school competition while Norton a student from out of state is reputedly good in all four lines.

Last Saturday and Sunday the Green and Gold skiers put in some hard work on the Teardrop ski run on Mt. Mansfield. The conditions were only fair to good for the snow was hard and crusty. Because of the absence of snow the proposed mid-term practice trip was cancelled and for the same reason all early season practice has been rather curtailed.

Predictions regarding the teams which Vermont will race are rather lazy. It is being said here on the Mountain that the Massachusetts outfit is unusually strong this year. Norwich will clash with Vermont on the latter's home ski run at Nordic Cottage. Coach Sam Bell has planned an interesting course for the occasion which is to be run off over the Middlebury course and that counter. Last winter Bowdoin for U. V. M. is the one to beat. Let's go and try the best.

Representative Wants to Cut Out Academy

Washington, D. C.—(ACP)—A proposal for abolition of the United States Naval Academy "as now constituted and administered" was voiced by Representative Melvin J. Maas (R., Minn.)

Writing in Look magazine, Maas said the academy represents an "archaic method of supplying officers for our national defense."

As a service school, he said, "it is inefficient, undemocratic and wasteful. It is unfair to young men who win appointments, as well as to those who fail through lack of political influence.

"It should be a post graduate school for young men who have already finished academic training and have some idea where they are going."

He said an average of 20 percent admitted to Annapolis never complete the course.

Vermont To Meet St. Mike's Tonight

Coach Dizzy Evans' Catamount five faces St. Michael's at Memorial Auditorium tonight in the Vermonters' second state series tilt.

Bob Doherty, Larry Killick, Red White, Bob Carlson, and Dick Kipp the combination that has won two straight games, will probably start for Vermont.

St. Mike's boasts a pair of sharpshooters in Little Jules Prignano and Jack Fitzgibbons. The Winooski Park quintet lost by only three points to Williams, a team which whipped Vermont handily.

Spend Three Hours With Dentist Warns Dean

SAN FRANCISCO CALIF.—(ACP)—Dr. Willard C. Fleming, dean of the University of California college of dentistry, estimates the average American should spend three hours and twelve minutes each year with his dentist.

In each 100,000 persons, he said, at least "three have heart disorders."

Electrical Display For Masquerade

Lighting Effect Features New "Storm of Colors"

The Kake Walk Directors today announced that they had engaged the most elaborate electrical display ever before shown for this year's mammoth social event. The "Storm of Colors" as it is appropriately named, is at the present time the rage of New York and has been acclaimed by New York papers as the most brilliant electrical effect ever seen.

This will be the main lighting effect of the dance, and hangs from three girders equally spaced in the gym and is composed of 300,000 mirrors of all shapes and sizes. With numerous colored spotlights playing on it, this apparatus will transform the gym into a night club atmosphere.

The "Storm of Colors" was featured with Glenn Miller for twenty engagements last season and has been featured at many Eastern colleges, including Dartmouth, Cornell, Colgate and Harvard.

The "Storm of Colors" requires a ton and one-half of equipment which takes a crew nine hours to install.

So all you prom goers, prepare yourselves for a real snowstorm on February 19, but this time it will be a snowstorm of colors, 300,000 of them. The directors of this year's Kake Walk promise new and entirely different decorations for the Masquerade. They also ask that everyone wear some type of costume and they will award prizes for the three best-costumed couples.

Pres. Millis Visits Mid-West Alumni

Pres. Johns S. Millis of the University of Vermont left last Thursday to make the rounds of the near-west alumni groups at Detroit, Chicago, Cleveland and Buffalo.

Speaking informally at dinners of the alumni, President Millis explained the present situation at the University and outlined the plans for raising Vermont's $400,000 Security Fund.

Meeting most of the alumni for the first time, Vermont's new president was in Detroit on the twenty-third for a dinner meeting and in Chicago, at luncheon, on the twenty-fourth. The Cleveland meeting on the twenty-sixth and the Buffalo meeting on the twenty-seventh are both dinners.

Prof. Holbrook To Serve On Committee Of Three Educators

Prof. Sara M. Holbrook of the department of education of the University of Vermont has just received notice of her appointment to the committee of three which will arrange next year's annual meeting of educators from schools throughout the north Atlantic area.

The meetings are jointly sponsored by Teachers College, Columbia and Goddard College, and are held at Plainfield, under the leadership of William Heard Kilpatrick.

Conducted on the panel discussion style, the meetings deal with pertinent educational problems, chiefly those of the adult. Participants are drawn from universities, colleges and junior colleges, from school supervisors and superintendents from the New England states, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Professor Holbrook has done much field work throughout the State, and is interested in adult education, Americanization and the social aspects of the school.

Students to Vote on New Constitution Tonight

Students Are Urged To Consider The New Constitution Carefully

The Constitution of U. V. M. students will become the governing law of our University after the convocation in the gymnasium tonight at 7:30.

A tentative plan for student government was outlined by members of Mortar Board and Boulder at the first student convocation on December 13. This first draft was distributed among the students. They were asked to give the plan their careful consideration and were urged to submit suggestions to the original drafters in order that the ideas of the student body could be examined and a second draft prepared which would incorporate the ideas found to be most worthwhile. Thus every student has had an opportunity to make the constitution truly democratic.

It is this second draft which will be presented to the students tonight. Each part will be read separately by Johnny Spasyk '42 and there will be a chance for general discussion upon each section. Conflicting viewpoints which arise from discussion will be decided by vote. It is hoped that the constitution will be accepted by the student body before the close of the convocation. Every student is urged to be in attendance. It is recommended that everyone bring a pencil to mark the ballots which will be distributed to determine any conflicting policies which may arise.

Heininger Aroused Over Controversy

State Senator Urges U.V.M. To Take Counsel

Aroused by an editorial appearing in the Brattleboro Reformer of January 23 that concluded "the only course remaining is to put the University of Vermont into receivership," Alfred H. Heininger, State senator and also an attorney, urged counsel for both the University and the creditor banks to get together and settle the controversy out of court. He issued the following statement:

"It is unlikely that anyone will deny that two things are most important to the University: first, to avoid unsettlement and second, to get on with its money raising campaign.

"There is every reason for faculty and students and the parents back home to have confidence that the University will go right on with its work. As far as these suits are concerned there is nothing to stop it. In this connection, hysterical comment in two or three State papers raises the suspicion that they are not truly friendly to the University.

Never Meant That

"A majority of the University's trustees are on record as voting to work to an accord along the lines of a declaration of trust for the protection of all cerditors. President Millis is on record as denying indignantly that a majority of the trustees ever meant to put the University's free assets beyond the reach of its creditors.

The attaching creditors have been on record from the first as claiming no preference over any other creditors, including the annuitants. They have declared more than once that they acted in the interest of all creditors, merely to prevent the completion of a course of action, which they were advised would put the University's free assets beyond the reach of its creditors, and, in that respect beyond its own control.

Harvard To Offer New Army Course

Col. George Dailey, head of military department received a telegram Monday morning from Dean Donham of Harvard Business School announcing a new 18 month continuous graduate course leading to a M.B.A. degree and a reserve officer's commission in Quartermaster Corps. This training has been inaugurated upon request of War Department because of urgent need for Quartermaster officers. Full text of telegram follows:

"We have just had advance information that because of critical need for Quartermaster officers, the War Department has increased size of advanced Quartermaster R. O. T. C. Unit at Harvard Business School. The Quartermaster General has asked us to recruit at once 250 additional students to be trained for reserve officers' commissions in the 18 month continuous graduate course now starting at mid years leading to M.B.A. degree. Selected men who have completed three years or more college work with good scholastic average who have had two years basic R. O. T. C. training or equivalent who meet physical examination standards recently revised for officers in supply arms and services, and who are definitely officer material are urged to apply. Under selective service regulations, men enrolled in advanced R. O. T. C. unit are placed in Class 4-B. Substantial scholarship aid is available for deserving men with serious financial limitations.

"Such men should wire at once for details. Applicants should enter immediately upon acceptance but may start classes as late as February 9. In view of the urgency of this request, please wire us collect names and addresses men who desire this training and whom you would recommend so that necessary forms may be sent them. Thank you for your cooperation."

U. V. M. Gears Academic Program to Defense Needs

Taking a swift step toward gearing its educational machinery to war work, the University of Vermont has approved several changes and additions in its academic program that will enable students to elect courses which will be of value in defense work. Any student in the University, regardless of course, may now step out of his specified curriculum and take work in other departments that he believes will fit him for the service he would like to render.

Several of the courses, some of them new and some of them already established, were thrown open to the entire student body with the opening of the second semester, January 24. They will provide students, so far as the teaching facilities of the University will allow, with an opportunity to prepare for service in three defense branches. A student under the new arrangement may begin to prepare himself as a possible member of the armed forces, as an employee in a defense industry, or as a civilian engaged in work involved in war effort.

"No one of our students need now feel that he is marking time while he is remaining at his studies," explained Pres. John S. Millis, in commenting on the new move that has liberalized courses as a war measure. "No matter what his course, he now has at his disposal the full instructional training facilities of the University."

All of the colleges of the University are cooperating in the new program, which makes provision for both men and women. A boy majoring in Latin may now cross over and take a course in engineering or repairing farm machinery, a girl specializing in English may add a course in nurses' aid or possibly dietetics.

The proposed courses which have been set up for the program by the War Emergency Council of the University, offer instructional training in skills valuable to the armed forces, in defense production and in health care. They are divided into credit and non-credit courses. A number of them are being made available this next semester. It is expected that the number will be increased another year.

Among the new courses arranged for the next semester are radio operation, nurses' aid, food inspection and repairing farm

Vermont Physicians Go Back To School

The physicians of Vermont are experiencing a back-to-school cycle, initiated by the medical college of the University of Vermont.

Using the new anatomical laboratory and equipment, under the direction of several members of the teaching staff at the University, a class of sixteen Vermont physicians will start a refresher course in surgery and surgical anatomy on February 12.

One day a week for six weeks, the physicians are scheduled for clinical work at the Mary Fletcher hospital on cases selected from various surgical services. They will review and discuss pertinent subjects under the tutelage of the hospital staff.

Afternoons will find them in the medical college in clinical conferences, discussing surgical procedure and pathology. They will also be given a course in applied anatomy.

The evening sessions will be held in the anatomical laboratory for actual cadaver anatomy and cross-section study.

The campus of Norwich University is undergoing a major face-lifting operation to provide a setting for two new buildings, White mess hall and a civil and electrical engineering laboratory.

Community Leadership will be given at Southwick, at 4.15 p.m., Thursdays.

All senior and junior Elementary Education students are asked to arrange their courses of Techniques of Teaching Sport Fundamentals.

Games Leadership class will meet on Fridays at Southwick, at 4.15 p.m.

The soldiers number several former metropolitan New York dribblers, including Jerry Otsky, pop-shot specialist who starred for St. Francis College and the Albany Senators.

Other Fort players: Frank Erlich and Bernie Packer, Manhattan; Chick Shikowitz, the Bronx; Bernie Kummel, Joe Martinez, Don Mennie and Wes Swezey, Long Island; Danny Morin, Lyndhurst, N. J.; John Malone, Sherrill, N. Y.; and Ray Baner, Portsmouth, Ohio.

The feature game begins at 8.00 p.m

Co-eds To Open Ski Season This Week

Team Will Participate In St. Lawrence Meet

The University of Vermont women's ski team will open its season at the St Lawrence College Winter Carnival, January 29 and 30 in Canton, N. Y.

Hampered in practice only by the newly devised rush system of study and exam schedules, three women will be there to represent the Green and Gold of Vermont for its first claim for winter honors.

The women's team is coached in Stowe by Otto Hollons of Sepp Ruschp's Ski School. Three times weekly the aspirants for the team trek up to the Nose Dive on Mt. Mansfield and encounter the many trials on the trails.

At present there are three seniors who rank highest for entry in the competition at Canton, N. Y. Barbara E. Burns, a junior from Rutland, heads the team as captain. Last year at the Middlebury Carnival she placed seventh in a field of thirty in the downhill. At the first Women's Intercollegiate Ski Union meet held last year at the University of Vermont, she placed fifth in a field of twenty-eight.

Carolyn D. Brown, a sophomore from Enosburg Falls is a newcomer to the team. Although never in competition, she will try her luck in the St. Lawrence meet.

Julia Fletcher, a sophomore from Woodstock, has been awarded the third position She has earned a "Silver 6" pin given in Woodstock for traversing the neck-breaking "Suicide Six" trail in less than one and one-half minutes. She has also entered State meets and interschool carnivals as well as the Hanover meet for women contestants.

These three will do the honors in the first competition of the season and thereafter will be charter members of the 1942 team, others being added as their skill develops under the guidance of their able instructor, Mr. Hollons.

NOTICE

(1) Ski tow tickets for the western slopes of Mount Mansfield are on sale at the University Bookstore. These tickets are good on two tows, giving a 1,600-foot lift. The cost this year is 75c plus tax, for a total of 83c. This is a reduced price from the usual $1.10. To secure this reduced rate, students must purchase these at the Bookstore, as they are not on sale at the tows at Mount Mansfield.

(2) The skating rink is open for use and will be lighted until 9.30 each evening, weather conditions permitting. On the bulletin board in the Gymnasium is a copy of the skating rink schedule for this winter as well as regulations concerning its operation.

Indoor Track Added to Varsity Sports Program

Runners To Enter Boston Relays; Baseball Schedule Cut To Nine Games

Indoor track, something which has been held to only intramural sports in the past at Vermont, becomes a recognized sport at the University of Vermont this winter. The addition to the sports calendar was announced by Dr. Howard A. Prentice, director of athletics, over the week end as the spring schedule, necessarily curtailed because of the war program being instituted at the University, was revealed

Three Indoor Track Meets

The indoor track season, listing three appearances—one of them here—will go to make up for the outdoor program which has been chopped down to four dual meets. In this respect, the baseball team will play only eleven games, compared with the usual twenty-five to thirty, with its Southern trip cut to four games. The tennis team will take part in nine meets, instead of the usual twelve to fifteen which appear each spring

Indoor track finds the team with Archie Post at the helm, taking part in the B. A. A. relay meet in Boston, February 14, and then on March 7 meeting Middlebury here in a dual relay meet, returning to Middlebury March 8 for another dual meet

Four-game Southern Trip

The baseball schedule of eleven games finds the Southern trip cut to four games, opening April 4 with Navy at Annapolis, and closing with Army, April 8 at West Point. Other games on the trip are with Villanova, April 6 and Lehigh, April 7. The first home game is with Trinity, May 2, following away games with Middlebury and St. Michael's. Norwich will not be in the State series play this spring

Tennis will open with the three-day trip into southern New England for matches with Massachusetts State, Connecticut, and Trinity, April 23, 24 and 25, respectively. Outside of the State tennis schedule, St. Lawrence is the only other team listed as an opponent.

Track and field will find the four meets divided between home and away affairs April 18 finds Bowdoin coming here, and on April 25, Union will visit Centennial Field. The "away" meets follow with Colby at Waterville, Me., May 2, and Middlebury at Middlebury, May 6

The complete schedules are as follows

Indoor Track

February 14, B. A. A. relays at Boston, March 7, Middlebury relays, here; March 8, Middlebury relays at Middlebury

Baseball

April 4, Navy at Annapolis, Md.; April 6, Villanova at Villanova, Pa.; April 7, Lehigh at Lehigh, Pa.; April 8, Army at West Point, N. Y.; April 24, Middlebury at Middlebury; April 25, St. Michael's at Winooski Park. May 2, Trinity at Burlington, May 6, St. Michael's at Burlington; May 9, Middlebury at Burlington, May 15, Springfield at Burlington, May 16, home game pending

Tennis

April 23, Massachusetts State at Amherst, Mass.; April 24, Connecticut at Storrs, Conn.; April 25, Trinity at Hartford, Conn.; May 1, Norwich at Burlington; May 2, Middlebury at Burlington; May 7, Norwich at Northfield; May 8 St. Lawrence at Burlington; May 15, Middlebury at Middlebury; May 16, St Michael's at Burlington

Track and Field

April 18, Bowdoin at Burlington, April 25, Union at Burlington; May 2, Colby at Waterville, Me.; May 6, Middlebury at Middlebury

Ski Team To Attend Williams' Carnival

The Men's Ski Team of the University of Vermont is scheduled to appear in Massachusetts over the week-end of February 1 to participate in an annual winter carnival at Williams College

The members who compete from Vermont will enter the slalom, downhill, cross country and jumping

This will be the first official action of the season for the team, and it is expected that it will do well as there are some experienced upperclassmen who, now well trained on the upper trails of Mansfield's slopes, should have no trouble to place at Williams

The team is being instructed during the afternoons at Sepp Ruschp's Mansfield Ski School and at present is conducting conditioning practicing, too.

James Madison Wood, 66, holds a record for longest tenure among presidents of women's colleges. He is rounding out his twenty-ninth year as head of Stephens College.

Disagreement Not Fundamental

"Enough has been stated by the creditors and voted by the trustees to demonstrate that apart from personalities, there is no fundamental disagreement.

"The trustees, at least a majority of them, are indignant even to have been suspected of intending to put the University's true assets beyond the reach of its creditors. The creditors are only doing their duty in asking binding assurance that nothing of this kind will be allowed to happen.

"Why not engage counsel to sit down with the attorneys of the creditors and settle the matter exactly as John Doe would settle it?"

NEW ORLEANS, LA.—(ACP)—In the Bobet library museum on the campus of Loyola of the South, is a small, wax image of Maximilian, ill fated emperor of Mexico.

The image was modeled from the wax of the altar candles in the church in Mexico where the body of Maximilian was thrown after he was killed.

It was done at the risk of the sculptor's life, but he escaped from Mexico and brought the image of the emperor to New Orleans, where it was given to Loyola. With the image in a glass case, is a clot of the blood of the emperor.

English Professors To Discuss Recent Work

Next Tuesday evening, February 3, the members of Bluestockings, women's honorary literary society, will gather at Southwick to hear a talk by Professors Aiken and Carleton on their recent work with university students in freshman English courses.

A general discussion will follow the meeting and refreshments will be served.

Vespers To Present Yale's Dr. Luccock

Will Discuss Religion And Modern Literature

Sunday afternoon, February 1, the first vesper service of the semester will be held, with Dr. Halford E. Luccock of Yale Divinity School as the preacher.

Doctor Luccock is said to be one of the best and most popular college preachers, and is in demand at many of the largest student conferences in the country.

It is hoped that a large number of the students will attend vespers Sunday to enjoy Doctor Luccock's excellent speaking. His subject will be "Religious Trends in Modern Literature."

Doctor Luccock also will meet all the students who want to come at an informal discussion hour in the student lounge in the Waterman Building at 7.30 Sunday evening. All the Protestant church Sunday evening groups are uniting for this meeting.

The meeting will be open for discussion of "Religious Trends in Modern Literature." Doctor Luccock is an authority on this, as he has written two books concerning the subject.

Victory Dance Saturday In Waterman Cafeteria

Staff and Sandal, Key and Serpent, and the Faculty-Student Council will sponsor an informal dance this Saturday, January 31. This is for the benefit of U. V. M. along with the other drives which are being sponsored and is only the first in a series of dances to be held. Dancing from 8.30 to 12.00 in the Waterman Building. Everyone come, admission is only ten cents.

The first meeting of the Class in Radio Code Practice will be held in the Engineering Design Laboratory, Room 350, Waterman Building, Tuesday, February 3, at 4.30 p.m.

U.V.M.--Army To Stage Talkfest

The debate team of the University of Vermont will meet a team of field artillerymen from Fort Ethan Allen in a non-decision debate on Sunday afternoon, February 8. The debate will be a part of the regular Sunday social program provided by the churches in Burlington for the enlisted men.

Chaplain Weiss of the Fort suggested a debate schedule for the men, many of whom have been interested in forensic work before their induction into service. A series of four debates has been arranged on social topics.

In the first debate the army men will have the affirmative side of the question, "Resolved, That emergence of women from the home is a regrettable feature in modern life." The team will include Sgt. Robert K. Loomis, Battery E, from Brooklyn College, captain of the team; Pvt. Sidney J. Nemet, Battery B, from City College of New York; and Sgt. John P. McGirr, Battery C, from St. Theresa School, New York City.

The negative side represented by the University of Vermont will be argued by H. C. McNamara, Valatie, N. Y.; John P. Felopulos, Bennington; and Robert Norton, Pleasantville, N. Y.

Methodist Group

The Methodist College Group will meet in conjunction with the other college groups in the student lounge at the Waterman Building, 7.30 p.m. Sunday. Dr. Halford E. Luccock of Yale University will speak.

Part of Constitution is Ratified at Convocation

Students Accept Four Articles; Others To Be Considered At Next Convocation

Last Tuesday night three hundred students discussed the first four articles of the constitution to establish a Student Government on this campus.

The first three Articles were ratified with almost no changes. The organization is to be called the U. V. M. Students' Association and will include all students having paid their activity fee. Four officers and an executive committee of ten (four juniors, four sophomores, two freshmen) will constitute the governing board to be assisted by sub-committees. Article IV on the quorum was tabled at the convocation. It stated that a quorum should consist of a majority of the members of the organization.

A motion to adjourn the meeting was made after two hours of discussion and the remaining two hundred students left their seats wearily.

This is the first part of the constitution of the U. V. M. Students' Association. It will be ratified by the student body Tuesday, Feb. 3. If it is accepted here, it will then be presented to the Board of Trustees at their February meeting. If so, it will have to be approved and passed at the next student convocation.

ARTICLE V

Section V Clause D

Duties of the Treasurer

It shall be the duty of the Treasurer:

1. To supervise all financial operations of the U. V. M. Student Government and to act as administrator of all financial operations of the Executive Committee and as financial supervisor of its sub-committees.

2. To make monthly reports to the Executive Committee.

3. To approve the requisitions of all student organizations and to forward them to the Accounting Office.

ARTICLE VI—ELECTIONS

Section 1—System of Nominations

Officers shall be nominated by a Nominating Committee composed of the Dean of Women, the three Deans of the undergraduate colleges, three members of Mortar Board, and three members of Boulder. Members from the honorary societies shall be chosen by their respective organizations. Nominations for the Executive Committee except Officers, shall be made by petition to the above Nominating Committee, such petitions to be signed by at least 25 members of the U. V. M. Student Government. Candidates shall be in good standing in the University.

Section II—System of Election

Elections shall be held under the supervision of Professor Carroll of the Political Science Department and members of

Co-ed Major to Reign At Military Ball, Feb. 8

Who will reign over Military Ball? That is the question that is being asked all around campus. It is a dark secret to everyone except the military department. All the students know, is that a co-ed major has been chosen. Last Tuesday all the sororities and dorms chose their outstanding girl as candidate for co-ed major. Then Colonel Dailey and a committee eliminated all but five of these candidates. Wednesday the members of the advanced military course voted on the girl to reign over Military Ball. Nobody will know any more until the night of Military Ball.

The first big formal of the year, Military Ball is to be held February 7 at the Waterman Building. This is one of the two Friday night balls which will be held this semester. Plans are being rapidly put in their final form for this gala occasion. Dancing from 9.00 to 1.00 with the very popular Collegiate playing. The dress will be formal with tuxedos and or R. O. T. C. uniforms being worn. The price is one dollar, including tax, per couple. The complete detail will appear as soon as they are formulated.

Stations at U. V. M. and In Downtown Stores

A battery of twenty book-receiving stations, including theaters, stores, hotels and other centers, has been set up as a part of Burlington's Victory Book Campaign, and deposits can be made at any time. Both the city and university libraries are already reporting an active response. From the receiving stations the books will be collected by the U. S. O. to join the volume of others being assembled throughout the state as Vermont's contribution to the national campaign.

Stations at Theaters

Stations where receiving boxes have been placed are the Ethan Majestic, state and strand theaters, the L. B. I. Bus Terminal, the McAuliffe Paper Company, Everyday Book Shop, and Wright's Book Shop, the Grand Union, First National and A. and P. Supermarket, Celebrity Public Market, G. W. Contacts are being made by Miss Lord ...een B. Scott, head of the Billings Library, University of Vermont, chairman of the local committee with the churches, high schools and various organizations of the city, urging full community cooperation in the drive. Mrs. Esther B. Reed of the Fletcher Free Library is in charge of radio publicity.

The object of the campaign is to provide books for the library services maintained by the army and navy in forts, camps, posts, stations and on ships to provide reading matter for the U. S. O. homes outside the camps and for the American Merchant Marine Library Association. Any surpluses will be distributed among the men and women of the bus war industrial areas.

Critics Hail Sam Donahue as The "Wonder Band of 1942"

Hailed by musicians and music critics as "The Wonder Band of 1942" is Sam Donahue, who brings his fine crew to the University of Vermont to play for the Kake Walk Masquerade, February 20.

Donahue combines the sweet and swing elements, neither concentrating on one nor the other, but rather striving to blend the two into a fine danceable brand of music. As a result, the proponents of sweet music acclaim him as being "smooth," and "gates" shout his praises as being "solid." Thus does this leader succeed where others have failed.

Coleman "Bean" Hawkins, probably the finest colored tenor sax player of the age, has this to say about Donahue: "Sam Donahue is one of the younger newcomers among white tenor men. Sam has a good deal of the same kind of strength and punch which is Barnet's, but his execution is smoother than Barnet's. Sam gets the 'jump' into his horn without seeming to be so brutal about it as Barnet. Praise like this, coming as it did from a man in the same field, is sweet indeed.

Sam, formerly a member of King Kolax, Goodman's band, and more recently, a dancing light with gum-chewing rub-beating Gene Krupa, can't help but take his share of praise from the swing publications. The Metro magazine in a recent issue stated: "Right now you can't remember, mark this down in your little black book or paste it on the inside of your hatband. Sam Donahue's band plays jazz the way it should be played with a fine ensemble feeling for the music. They play in a decided colored groove and unlike most white bands that try to play that way, have succeeded in getting a relaxed approach to the music they play. Sam Donahue is certainly a big time tenor man. If the next few months go according to schedule, there's no reason in the world why Sam Donahue's band shouldn't be among the contenders for that mythical title 'The Band of 1942.'

These are but a few of the many praises which the music lovers and critics of swing are tossing in the path of Sam Donahue's orchestra. "The Band of the Year."

Goodrich Classical Club To Go Roman

Plans are already under way for a gala banquet, Roman style, to be held at Southwick Thursday, February 5. It will be the first affair of its kind ever staged by and for members of the Goodrich Classical Club. Initiation of new members will follow the dinner.

Armed with high-powered Latin names, ancient topics to discuss, and no silverware, students and professors will attack luscious food served to them by pretty "slave" girls in bright striped dresses. The joys of eating "with gusto" with the fingers will once more be experienced. Ah bliss!

Honey will take the place of sugar and punch (should we say wine?) will be served as the only drink. Ah yes, this Roman banquet stuff is quite the thing.

Hockey Squad To Play Midd. Wed.

The Vermont Independents hockey squad will take the ice against the Middlebury team on the U. V. M. rink next Wednesday, February 4, at 2.30 p.m. This will be the second game of the season and their second encounter with the Middmen who took the first game by the narrow margin of 3-2.

Wednesday will mark the second game of organized hockey between Vermont students and another college for quite a number of years and the squad has been diligently working out in the pen back of the gym improving their attack and defense work.

Still without the full time services of a coach, the boys owe a vote of thanks to Doctor Marvin, captain of Vermont's last varsity hockey team, for giving all the time he has been able to spare to helping the team. Professor Gardner has assumed the rôle of the team's guardian angel but the squad is still without the services of a manager. Anyone interested in this post should contact Jim Stephen, telephone 1955, or Bob Lockwood, telephone 2545. So let's go, U. V. M.! Turn out and give these boys a break.

Fraternity Bowling Five Drops Close One

Howard "Pop" Brooks' new All-Fraternity Bowling Five, making its debut on the Waterman alleys last Tuesday night, nearly upset the powerful Winooski Five getting a pinfall of 1,603 to the opponents 1,653.

The new bowling quintet is composed of several high scoring interfraternity men: Leo Talbert '42, Ed. Boyden '44, Rudy Kempter '44, Jack Machanic '44 and Norm Senna '45.

A match with the girls' league team is to be held in the near future and this will undoubtedly prove to be extremely interesting. Mr. Brooks has not yet announced a definite date for the contest.

New Grid Schedule Released For '42; Cats Face New Foe

Mass. State, Hofstra Games To Be Here; Rutgers Contest Away

Eight games on the gridiron will mark the University of Vermont football season of 1942 Football Council announced this week, following a meeting held by Dr. Howard A. Dawson, director of athletics. Two of the home games will appear on Hardings Field, Hospital Hill, ... the season, and Massachusetts State coming here October 10.

Other Teams Are Holdovers

In between these two home games the Catamounts will go out after "big" stuff, tackling Rutgers University at New Brunswick, N. J., on October 3. The other teams on the schedule are all holdovers including New Hampshire here at Burlington and Union and Trinity on "away" gridirons plus the state series contest with Norwich here November 7 and Middlebury at Middlebury, November 14.

In announcing the schedule, Doctor Prentice stipulated that all the games were subject to cancellation on a short notice due to the wartime program. He did believe, however, that the contests would be played if possible, although unforeseen circumstances before next fall may completely change the athletic lookout for the Catamounts.

Hofstra First Opponent

The opening game will bring an entirely new college into athletic competition with the Catamounts for the first time. Hofstra is a college located at Hempstead, L. I., which resulted from the growth of the teacher-education branch of New York University. It was established as a separate college in 1935, and since 1936 has been building in football. Its teams have been playing in the small college class, with excellent football results last fall. Its basketball team is one of the best in small college circles in the metropolitan district this season.

Vermont's renewing its athletic rivalry with Rutgers brings back the first game played between the two colleges. At that time, when the regime of Frankie Taylor was just getting under way in 1938, Vermont nearly toppled the New Brunswick team, losing out late in the game by a 15-14 margin. Later that year Rutgers showed the power it possessed by defeating Princeton for the first time in the history of football meetings between the two universities.

Massachusetts State has not been on the football schedule of Vermont for twenty years. In the last meeting U. V. M. gained a 14-7 decision. Union, New Hampshire and Trinity are all foes of long standing, who were on the 1941 schedule, and the Catamounts bowed to all three and will be looking toward gaining revenge when October, 1942 comes around.

The final two games, as has been the case in the past few years, are state series affairs, with Norwich coming to Centennial Field November 7 and the Catamounts going down to Middlebury November 14 for the traditional battle of the year.

The Schedule

Sept. 26 Hofstra, home

Oct. 3, Rutgers at New Brunswick, N. J.; 10, Massachusetts State, home; 17 Union at Schenectady, N. Y.; 24 New Hampshire, home; 31, Trinity at Hartford, Conn.

Nov. 7, Norwich, home; 14, Middlebury at Middlebury

Cats Shell Army Team In High Scoring Battle

Doherty Scores 18 Points To Lead Fast Cats To 58-42 Victory; Kittens Win Prelim.

The first [illegible] game of the season at Memorial Auditorium came off the preliminary game of the "Smoker Card" doubleheader yesterday when the Fort Ethan Allen Field Artillery basketball team, representing the 71st Brigade Headquarters Battalion, Fort Ethan Allen, 884, [illegible] the opening contest the Catamount Cubs with a reshuffled team, including the First Quartermaster Detachment Hill C. A. S. C. [illegible] 6 [illegible] tilts.

Close for Three Periods

The Catamounts and the 71st B. Hdq. B. stayed [illegible] for three quarters of the way until the latter, [illegible] at the Cats to take the play in the last [illegible] although the Catamounts had a safe margin throughout the [illegible].

Sweezy Scores 18

Jerry Otskey and Wes Sweezy were the powerhouses of the team from the first and Otskey pushed the play on the floor and drove most of the scoring. His long shots from center and side court two of them were beauties, dropping through the strings without touching the backboard or the rim. Sweezy, whose shooting from close range brought in eight field goals, led the scoring attack with 18 points, which Otskey outpointed 17 points to the total.

Killick's Passing Features

Larry Killick and Bob Doherty were the Catamounts' big guns with Killick playing an outstanding floor game, both offensively and defensively. His passing, which landed on the mezzanine, has become one of the main features of the Cats' play in every game. He keeps the ball in play as well as the opponents with some of the ball handling he pulls. On top of that he has a phenomenal shooting eye when he goes into that department.

Doherty Shoots 18 Points

Doherty came out even on the cards with Sweezy for the game's top honors, getting 18 points, but Killick lost out by one point to Otskey for the runner-up position. The Cats' Catamount forward dropping in 14 points, 10 of them during the final half in the Cats' biggest drive of the evening.

It was a real close battle in the first half. Sweezy broke the ice with a field then the Cats ran the score up to 9-2 before the 71st got under way again. It went to 13-6, Vermont, before the 71st really started things moving.

With Sweezy, Long from close in and Otskey clicking with two baskets from the center of the court, the 71st closed the gap until the Cats' lead had been cut to one point. Doherty clicked with a field and the following free toss, and this foursome marched on [illegible] through the intermission which saw the Cats leading 29-27.

Vermont Gets Hot

Early in the second half Vermont ran its lead up to 10 points, 40 to 30, and then put the heat on in a scoring spree [illegible] Sweezy, Long, Otskey and Killick [illegible] 50 mark. With Sweezy [illegible] Otskey [illegible] Killick [illegible] Doherty [illegible] Cats' scoring [illegible] 58-42 victory.

Frosh Take On New Life

In the preliminary game the Kittens romped to a lopsided victory over the 71st Ethan Allen eagers. With Nancy Donahue spearheading the attack and a six foot [illegible] center, connecting at Frank Eckhart, Chuck Lafferty, Mickey Cochrane, Mike [illegible] and Donahue, the team experienced little trouble in getting back the [illegible] Quartermaster Detachment team.

The set at the court seemed to bother the Q. M. D. outfit and, along with the height advantage of the freshmen it took it three periods to find itself.

By this time, however, the Kittens were in front 39-16 and although the final period saw the element of the game the freshmen continued [illegible] the ball rolling although their shooting came to a [illegible] halt.

Donahue, Eckhart and LaFleur were the big guns in the starting quintet, which [illegible] consistent threat at the basket [illegible] and during the final period. The passing of the quintet was excellent [illegible] to what has been seen in freshman games in the past years.

For the [illegible] Wes and Lucky were the outstanding players, getting 10 and 9 points respectively.

program calls for each volunteer twice per week, with the period optional. Definite classes are established. Each man is to choose class hours which best fit his time schedule. Each class is to start with a period of calisthenics, this to be followed by activity work in the heavier games and sports—basketball, boxing, fencing, tennis, gymnastics and tum- ing, track and field, rugby, military and others. Varsity and intramural sports also have their place in program. The activity work is to supplemented by talks on diet, sleep, health habits, and principles of training for all-out effort. A course in first aid is to be established for those who desire to learn the primary treatment and care of wounds and injuries. Finally, through the cooperation of University Health Service, it is planned that each senior man will receive a thorough physical examination before graduation.

Informal Reception To Be Held For President

There will be an informal reception for President Mills to which all students are invited, Saturday from 4:30 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. in the Student lounge at the Water- man building. Sophomore Aides and Gold Key are the sponsors. Come as you are. Informality is the keynote.

Davis Retained As U.V.M. Counsel

Conference To Be Held With Creditor Banks

Former Superior Judge Deane C. Davis of Barre has been retained as counsel by the University of Vermont Board of Trustees in the controversy with four Bur- lington creditor banks, Pres. John S. Millis announced Saturday.

At the same time, President Millis said a conference probably will be held early this week between Judge Davis and Attorneys Guy M. Page and A. Pearley Feen, counsel for the banks.

Conferences between counsel indicate that the differences between the banks and the University may yet be settled out of court and avoid the expense of a long litigation. The Burlington Savings Bank, Burlington Trust Co., Chittenden County Trust Co. and Howard National Bank & Trust Co., have made the University of Vermont defendant in suits filed recently in county court here over nearly a half million dollars in unpaid loans by the banks to the University.

Although the U. V. M. Board of Trustees numbers no fewer than four lawyers in its membership, action was taken at recent meeting directing President Millis to obtain the services of independent counsel in the bank controversy.

Dr. Luccock Speaks At Vesper Service

At the vesper service held Sunday after- noon in the Ira Allen Chapel, Pres. John Millis introduced the speaker of the after- hoon in the Ira Allen Chapel, Pres. John University School of Divinity. Doctor Luccock spoke with wit and conviction on the text "It is good for us to be here Let us build three tabernacles." He ap- plied it to the "professional alumnus" whose life reached its high point during his college years. Women, said the speaker, may build their tabernacle upon the desire to prolong their youth. He warned against letting a set of pre- mature conclusions determine one's re- ligion for the rest of his life.

"We must keep the books of the mind open," he urged. "Watch out for stop- ping places too easily reached."

Doctor Luccock expressed concern that in our preoccupation with the goal of victory, we might make its achievement a stopping point, as occurred at the close of the last war. We must strive, he said, to keep the economic and cultural unity which we have been building up for the past century and a half. We must keep growing the way of life which we have taken up in our journey towards democ- racy, overcoming the failures and short comings of our present system.

The choir and orchestra, under the direction of Prof. Howard G. Bennett, presented Handel's "Then Round About the Starry Throne." The services were conducted by Prof. Raymond A. Hall.

A considerable number of the faculty and townspeople attended, but few students were in evidence.

There will be a meeting of English 26 in Room 1, North College, on Wednes- day at 4.00 p.m.

Annual Concert To Be Held Feb. 12

Orchestra and Glee Club To Perform at Southwick

The annual concert presented by the University Orchestra and by the men's and women's Glee Clubs will be given Thursday evening, February 12, 1942 at Southwick Memorial at 8:15 p.m. The orchestra will be directed by Mr. Ippro- crates Pappoutsakis and the Glee Clubs by Prof. Howard Bennett.

Many very interesting and unusual features will be played and sung this year. An original composition by Professor Bennett, the words by Ben Jonson will be sung by the women's Glee Club. They will also sing a composition of Dr. Richard Stohr called "New Year's Eve." Doctor Stohr is a Viennese composer and theorist, formerly of the Curtis Institute of Music, now at St. Michael's College. The origi- nal German words were written by Fritzi Von Ruprecht and have been translated by Dr. Wilhelm Raab, a member of U. V. M.'s medical faculty.

Several other modern compositions will be presented. The men's Glee Club will sing a number by Loeffler which is a setting for a poem by Walt Whitman. The "Rio Grande," a very modern work taken from the poem by Sacheverell Sit- well, will be rendered by the mixed Glee Club.

The University Orchestra under the baton of Mr. Pappoutsakis will perform a work of Franz Schubert, his Symphony No. 5 in B Flat Major. This work of Schubert's is rarely heard by concert audiences and is very seldom performed.

The program of the concert will be announced at a later date.

All Out For The Military Ball

This Friday evening from nine to one the cafeteria in the Waterman Building will be the setting for the annual Military Ball. Impressive decorations, tuxes, tails and snappy R. O. T. C. uniforms will make this dance one of the most popular of the year.

The highlight of the evening will be the crowning of the Co-ed Major. Selected under what we think is a more efficient system than used heretofore, she has been chosen as the favorite among the junior and senior advanced military stu- dents. An elaborate costume has been ordered for the new Co-ed Major, and this will be another decorative attraction.

The music for the Ball will be fur- nished by the Collegians. This band has been the most popular of the year at Ver- mont and is well known as well as popu- lar throughout the colleges of New Eng- land. They have promised to really "give out" for their followers on this gala occasion.

And folks, you can't get any more enjoyment, thrills, and relaxation any- where for the price. Here we offer you one of the most popular formals of the year—just for the price of one little dollar, with all ninety-nine taxes included. So let's get the old uniform out of the moth balls, dust it off, and dance our troubles away.

Maynard Lawrence Is Commissioned Ensign

Ensign Maynard "Boots" Lawrence, Vermont '41, was commissioned January 16 at New York.

"Boots," who played tackle on the varsity last year, is well known among the upperclassmen. He is visiting the Sigma Nu Lodge, of which he is a brother, before being called into active service.

My dear Governor Wills:

In the interest of accuracy I desire to call to your attention a misleading statement made by Haskins and Sells in their report of examination of the affairs of the University of Vermont.

A recent discussion in the Rutland Herald induces the belief that this cor- rection ought to be made a matter of record.

The facts from which this misstatement arose are as follows:

On several occasions when in need of funds the University of Vermont sold to the Winooski Savings Bank and trans- ferred to it mortgage notes which the University had acquired elsewhere and held as investments. By these transac- tions the University acquired funds for its use. It undertook to repurchase these notes when its temporary need for the cash had past. Its liability to losses be- cause of this agreement was no greater than its liability to losses from continuing to hold the mortgage notes. The notes were repurchased from time to time. It may well be that the same notes were used in this way a number of times. Ultimately they were repurchased by the University, which was thus in the same situation as if it had never sold the notes. In the meantime it had the opportunity to use temporarily the funds represented by the investments, without losing interest except during the period when it was using the funds. The transactions were beneficial to both parties and did not violate any business ethics whatever.

Haskins and Sells in their report refer to these transactions with the slurring comment: "We are not informed as to the reasons for these transactions other

Ladies Of Faculty Hold Coffee Hour

Pres. and Mrs. John S. Millis, and Mr. and Mrs. Proctor Page were honored at a coffee hour Sunday afternoon in South- wick Memorial Building, given by the Ladies of the Faculty, University of Ver- mont. Approximately 175 men and women of the University faculty, together with Burlington trustees of the University and their wives, attended.

In the receiving line were President and Mrs. Millis, Proctor Page, and Prof. and Mrs. Daniel B. Carroll. Mrs. Page was out of town.

Miss Mary Jean Simpson, dean of women and Mrs. Elijah Swift poured.

Spring flowers were effectively used in table decorations, with yellow predominat- ing.

Mrs. R. S. Towne, Mrs. G. V. Kidder, Mrs. C. S. Leonard and Mrs. C. E. Moody, together with the ladies in group four were hostesses for the afternoon.

Vermont Writers Meet Next Week

Program of Eight Clinics on Schedule

The annual winter meeting of the League of Vermont Writers will be held at the University of Vermont, Saturday, February 14. Eight clinics have been ar- ranged for the program. The session will get under way at the meeting at the Waterman Building and close at four o'clock in the afternoon. Anyone inter- ested in the meeting is invited.

The four morning clinics include biog- raphy by Prof. Raymond A. Hall of Charlotte, feature writing by Harold Bergman of Burlington, juvenile writing by Edna Faith Connell of Rutland, illus- trating by Frederick Stanley of Burling- ton.

All of the clinics are informal in the nature of round table discussions. Those present are free to talk and ask questions. Manuscripts may be presented for criti- cism when time allows.

The leaders of the afternoon clinics are Mrs. M. B. Cummings, Burlington, books; Mari Tomasi, Montpelier, novel writing; Bernice Graham, Manchester, poetry writing; Mary Rounds, Jericho, short shorts.

All clinics are two hours in length with four in session simultaneously. Those in attendance are free to move from one to another at any time. The morning clinics are from 10:30 to 12:30 and afternoon clinics from 1:30 to 3:30. Luncheon is from 12:30 to 1:30 and may be obtained in the building. The opening assembly is from 10:00 to 10:30, and the closing as- sembly from 3:30 to 4:00.

Prof. Leon W. Dean, president of the League, is in charge of the meeting.

"These winter meetings are becom- ing a strong factor in League work," said Professor Dean, "and tires or no tires we are expecting a large gathering this year. We want everyone interested in writing to feel free to come."

Riggs To Head Admissions Office

A reorganization of the admissions office at the University of Vermont was announced today by Pres. John S. Millis. The office of assistant registrar has been discontinued and a new office of director of admissions established.

Heath K. Riggs, a graduate of the Uni- versity in the class of 1940 and for the past two years connected with the teach- ing staff as research fellow in the depart- ment of mathematics, has been named to the new position as director.

Riggs, a native of Richmond, was a high rating student at the University and graduated with Phi Beta Kappa honors. He was employed in the office as an assist- ant during the past summer. Tall, blond, good looking, wearing a smile, Heath take[illegible] new duties today.

"Every loyal son and daughter of U. V. M., every loyal citizen of our state, and every loyal friend of the University in the nation at large can be prepar- ing to bring about a great over- subscription of our $400,000 University of Vermont Se- curity Fund, by starting today to 'Buy U. S. A. for U. V. M.'"

One 1942 Football Date Cancelled

The first, and what will probably be the only foreshortening of the University of Vermont's 1942 football season, was announced yesterday by Dr. Howard A. Prentice, director of athletics, when he indicated that the scheduled game with the University of New Hampshire Wildcats had been cancelled.

While the rubbing out of this game gives the Catamounts a breather, it still leaves them with three hard consecutive games in the Trinity, Norwich and Middlebury contests.

Cats Lack Numerical Strength

The cancellation, it was announced, was not primarily for the purpose of shortening the schedule, nor was it any part of the accelerated program. Under ordinary circumstances, the game would stand. The reason was fundamentally because of the lack of numerical strength on the Vermont squad. During the 1941 season, several men, counted on heavily by coaches and players, decided to enter the service. Others, for various reasons did not play football.

While no announcement has been forthcoming from University officials as yet, with regard to abandoning the freshman rule for the duration, such a pronouncement might cushion a loss of athletes among the upperclassmen to the armed services.

Freshman Orientation Began at Acadia U.

HAMILTON, N. Y.—(ACP)—Freshman orientation week, now popular in many colleges throughout the country, had its beginning twenty-two years ago at Acadia University, Wolfville, Nova Scotia.

George Barton Cutten, president of Colgate University, then head of Acadia University, said the plan was developed when former soldiers opposed the institution's "tunny little restrictions." Cutten explained that the freshman class was made up mostly of returned soldiers who had their own ideas of personal freedom.

The freshmen were assembled at a private camp near the Acadia campus. After three days, Cutten said, the men understood college regulations and never after war caused trouble.

The freshman orientation plan was conceived at Acadia and later spread to the United States where it is used by most colleges.

There will be a meeting of the I. R. C., Thursday evening, at 7.30, at Southwick, on "Hemisphere Defense." Military and naval aspects will be discussed by C. Joseph, and economic aspects by H. Winchell. All students are invited.

Vermont C.P.T. Course Authorized

The Civilian Pilot Training Course with a quota of ten for U. V. M. has been authorized by the Civil Aeronautics Administration for the second semester.

At the conclusion of this course consisting of seventy-two hours of classroom work, and thirty-five to fifty hours of flight instruction to be given by Harold Pugh of Burlington Municipal Airport, the Civil Pilots' License will be given.

The ground school course has been designated as one of the special courses open to U. V. M. students who are not enrolled under the Civil Aeronautics Administration, and will count as three hours of credit.

Prof. A. D. Butterfield will supervise the ground school course in navigation; Prof. H. G. Millington, the course in Civil Air Regulations; and F. E. Hartwell, formerly of the U. S. Weather Bureau Observatory, will teach Meteorology.

Jr. Societies Hold Informal Dance

An informal dance was held saturday at the Waterman cafeteria. It was open except to Staff and sandal hop and serpent and the Faculty Student Council and was for the benefit of U. V. M. Dancing from 8:30 to 12:00 was furnished by a victrola. The chaperones were President and Mrs. Millis and Dean Simpson. It is hoped that future dances for this worthy cause will be as well attended and well enjoyed as this first one.

NOTICE

For the St. Michael's home basketball game on Wednesday, February 4, Vermont students will be admitted at special reduced price of 25c by presenting their student season ticket book for identification.

Hockey Team To Meet Middlebury

A strong Little U. V. M. hockey team will attempt to "put down" with the [illegible] performed Middlebury puck-chasers tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 p.m. on the U. V. M. rink.

The Cats having played but one game this season—that a 3-2 win over Plattsburg—which was pronounced by [illegible] as "not so hot," promise to be a [illegible] team.

Tomorrow's game [illegible] recently organized by a group of interested hockey [illegible] will [illegible] the Outing Club [illegible] see this sport through as a major department [illegible].

Tim Carroll and Cass Hall will take the ice first by Capt. Jim Stephen, the most [illegible] [illegible] on the left [illegible] Bob Wiese and Bob McGall will [illegible] the forward wall, with Whit Swetzer, Fred Ford and Jim Stephen in the rear line. Butch Labelle, who is an old hand at stopping 'em will hold down the goalie post.

Schedule Eighteen Intramural Events

They pitch horseshoes at the University of Vermont, but they don't do it at this season of the year. A survey of intramural sports at the University shows that horseshoes and eighteen other events are listed on the calendar for the physical benefit of boys who do not participate in organized athletics. Nine are intertraternity events and the other ten are individual events. The Traynor trophy goes as a reward to the fraternity rolling up the largest number of points, chiefly athletic, during the course of the year.

Interfraternity sport events include touch football, basketball, winter sports, team bowling, hockey, team basketball free throw, indoor relays, indoor track and softball.

Individual Events

Individual events are fall golf, fall tennis, individual free basketball throw, individual bowling, badminton doubles, badminton singles, handball singles, hexathlon and horseshoes.

Kappa Sigma Fraternity holds claim to the Traynor trophy this year as the result of its last year's prowess. The fraternity amassed its winning total of 26 points by winning 5 points each in softball, touch football, basketball and hockey, with five more for presenting the first prize Kake Walk stunt, and one for scholarship.

Intramural sports, which constitute an important factor in the University's health program, are supervised by the physical education department with a faculty of five men. A student manager handles the routine matters as in regular varsity sports.

Carnegie Room Open For Student Enjoyment

The Carnegie Room in the Music Building, 70 William Street, will be open for those who wish to listen to phonograph records and consult the library of books and scores during the following hours until further notice.

Monday through Friday afternoons, 2-5 p.m.

Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday evenings, 7-9 p.m.

Tuesday through Friday mornings, 11:30-12:30

Saturday morning, 9:30-12:30

Student supervisors will be in charge during the above hours and records will be handled only by them. The general public as well as students and faculty are welcome.

ATTENTION SOPHOMORES — Scrub track and earn your numerals or assistant managership. See P. Czachor, manager, or assistant managers O. Swift and H. Winchell.

There will be a meeting of all Kake Walk scrubs at the Sigma Phi Place at 7.30 tonight. Please be prompt.

Coach Pinny Evans of the Mechanicsmen [illegible] [illegible] a [illegible] [illegible] Hamilton, [illegible] Parsons, Fitts and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] probably see considerable action tomorrow night [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] big [illegible] Malone.

Faced with a stronger St. Michael's team as well as the prospect of five tough ball games in the next ten days, Coach Fuzzy Evans has been bearing down on the charges in recent practice sessions to bring the club to the peak for this hard stretch. Yesterday's workout the squad showed signs of regaining the form displayed prior to the examination period which is usually followed by a let down.

Vt. Frosh vs. S. M. Jayvees

Preceding tomorrow night's scrap will be a clash between the Vermont frosh and the St. Michael's jayvees. With the Kittens rejuvenated by the addition of Norm Beaubien and a lot of juggling within the squad, Sherry Fogg's outfit seems about due to salvage some wins from what has been a mediocre season thus far.

U.V.M. Senate

it for us, and the opportunity has been muffed. You say it smacks too much of totalitarianism. Well, how on earth do you suppose the German and Russian armies have endured the hardships and privations necessary in order to carry on their campaigns in the past two years? How did the Germans so completely subjugate the countries of France and Poland in such a short time? One major reason was that their armies were composed of the most perfect physical specimens that have ever donned a uniform, and in order for us to meet and destroy such armies we will have to build up a force of equal or superior physical specimens.

Who are the students who don't want the compulsory program? You guessed right the first time, the ones who need it! The students who would enjoy seeing just one [illegible] these compulsory drills here are the ones who get their exercise outdoors and enjoy it. It's just those fellows that we've got to get after. I don't have to tell you—YOU KNOW WHO! You can see that all this evening is foolish—that the things that are going to win the war are airplanes and tanks. Well, gentlemen, an army equipped with all the miracles of modern science will not get much farther than first base unless the men up in those front lines have plenty of "guts" and possess the will to win. This will to win is not found in [illegible] or mathematical tables or modern [illegible] but in [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Notice to Candidates for King And Queen of Kake Walk

The time has come for aspirants to either King or Queen of Kake Walk to cast their hats into the electoral ring. The only requirement is that the candidate should not be under warning.

All candidates should signify their intentions to Whizzer White, who will then give each a voucher for $5 toward campaign expenses. But two short weeks remain before the student elections on Friday, February 20, in the Old Mill, so the sooner done the better chance for election.

There will be a complete Kake Walk issue of the CYNIC to enable candidates to publicize their campaigns. The King and Queen will be crowned at the Masquerade Ball and will rule over the festivities of the week-end.

Religious Groups Hold Conference

Bishop Van Dyck To Speak On World Crisis

The Second Annual Mid-winter Conference is scheduled for Friday night, February 13, when the Rt. Rev. Vedder Van Dyck, Bishop of the Vermont Episcopal Diocese, will address members of V. C. A., Y. W. C. A., and Canterbury Club on the theme "Christianity in the World Crisis."

This will be followed by a general discussion, led by Bishop Van Dyck. The afternoon session which was originally planned for Saturday will not be held, but a Chapel service will be conducted the following Sunday morning, February 15, at 11 o'clock. C. Edward Corliss '42 will deliver the address for this service. Special musical numbers will be rendered by Marjorie Southworth '43.

The committee in charge consists of Betty Cooper '42 and Kay Brown '44 from Y. W. C. A., C. Edward Corliss '42, Llewellyn Jones '43, and Alfred Amee '43 from V. C. A., and Kay Holden '42 and Harry Twitchell '43 from Canterbury Club. The general chairman of the conference will be Harry Twitchell, and Alfred Amee will have charge of publicity.

Pictures Of World War 1 Now On File

Pictures of the first World War as it absorbed the University of Vermont campus have just been deposited by Prof. A. D. Butterfield with the university's picture and cut archives in charge of M. D. Powers. The pictures are of buildings, groups and individuals.

The scenes show a back campus overrun with temporary wooden barracks, mess halls and technical quarters. Radio classes are at work in the field and in the classroom. The baseball cage is filled with dissected automobiles awaiting treatment by the mechanical sections and the gymnasium is lined with cots. Marching columns parade the grass plots. One picture is of a Red Cross group of women students with long dresses and hair dove high.

The individual pictures are of alumni of the engineering college engaged in active service in the last war and date back to the class of 1894, with the classes around 1912, 1913 and 1914 having numerous representatives. One of them is Lt. Col. Adrian St. John, who is now acting as head of the American military mission in Rangoon.

1,000 Army Men Using Rifle Range

U. V. M. Only School Giving This Service

One thousand artillerymen from Fort Ethan Allen have been fired on the rifle range of the University of Vermont's R. O. T. C. battalion during the past month. Ten men at a time, firing twenty rounds each, they are handling rifles for the first time, and making a good record, according to their officers.

Probably the only university in the United States supplying an indoor rifle range to the Army, the University of Vermont expects to fire 3,000 men in the next few months. A cavalcade of army trucks moves to and from the university gymnasium in the early morning, at odd times during the afternoon, and in the evening, carrying the new soldiers to practice.

Fort Ethan Allen, two miles from the Vermont campus, has for many years functioned as an artillery post, and as such had not been equipped for indoor firing of small arms, which until the present war was the sole problem of the infantrymen. However, taking a tip from the type of warfare in Europe which features the surrounding of small groups of artillerymen who are not armed with rifles, the U. S. Army has ordered that all men be armed for protection against such tactics.

The R. O. T. C. battalion at the University of Vermont is an infantry outfit, and for many years has produced excellent riflemen. Although the soldiers from the Fort are under the instruction of their own officers, there is a general feeling that the range itself will be lucky for them, because of the championship teams and individuals from the university who have been trained there.

In order to put 200 men through their firing in the course of a morning, a precise, rapid system of march has been devised. The range lights are turned on, the soldiers who have just fired slip out of the rifle harness, examine their guns for unfired cartridges, fall in line and march off. At the same time new men enter the range, are given ammunition, slide into firing harness, and take their position. The lights are turned off, except for the glow on the targets at the end of the range. Then starts the click of cartridges going into place, the quiet during sighting and the sudden pank of firing.

Dime "Vic" Dance

There will be a Dime "Vic" Dance held tomorrow evening in the Waterman Cafeteria immediately following the Vermont-Springfield basketball game.

The Sophomore Aides and Gold Key Societies are the sponsors.

Professor and Mrs. Carpenter and Professor Ladd will be the chaperons.

Admission will be 10c a head.

Six Candidates for Coed Major Released Thursday

Barre Collegians To Furnish Music; Cafeteria To Be Scene Of Dance

Rumor! rumors! rumors! Who is the Coed Major? Some say a blonde, some say a brunette!! The six candidates whose names were released for publication yesterday are Barbara Butterfield '42, Jean Hall '42, Gratia Pearl '42, Ruth Boelsen '42, Gail Klinger '42 and Miriam Leske '42.

Tonight at the annual Military Ball, which Champlain Sabers promise will be a gala and mammoth affair, the Co-ed Major and new Battalion Commander will be announced before intermission.

The popular Collegians have been engaged to furnish music in the Waterman Cafeteria from nine to one. Col. and Mrs. Daley and Capt. and Mrs. Simpson will chaperone.

Flags, 37 m.m. guns and machine guns will create a military atmosphere. Tuxes, tails and R. O. T. C. uniforms will be evident at one of this semester's biggest formals.

C. V. Akley '42 and Hazen Wood '42 are co-chairmen of the Publicity Committee. R. D. Paterson '42 is chairman of the Dance Committee; and S. C. Searl, Jr., '42 is chairman of the Decorations Committee.

This year a new system of choosing the Co-ed Major was inaugurated. Sororities and dorms sent in their choice, and Colonel Daley and a secret committee composed of members of the faculty, cut the list to six names. Members of the Advance Military Course then went in one by one and voted, agreeing not to divulge their vote to anyone. Votes were then counted by the Military Department. Strict secrecy surrounded the whole procedure.

Rumors! rumors! rumors! No one really knows! But, come to the dance and see the new Co-ed Major decked out in the elaborate costume which has been ordered for her.

Watch the Sky!

Only thirty-one students showed up at the student convocation last night, so the final ratification of the constitution was postponed. Johnny Spasyk warns all students to keep their eyes peeled for announcement of the next meeting. Plans are being formulated to have a plane fly over the campus and drop leaflets on the student body. Heads up, U.V.M. and let's have a majority turn-out at the next convocation.

U.V.M. Active On Nutrition Front

Professor King Heads New Refresher Course

In line with its other war efforts the University of Vermont is putting its equipment and many of its personnel in the fight on the nutritional front. Prof. Florence B. King, head of the university's department of home economics, is chairman of the State Committee on Nutrition, and a member of the Red Cross Committee on Foods.

As a worker on the Chittenden County Nutrition Committee, Professor King arranged and outlined the refresher course in dietetics and nutrition which will open Saturday, February 14, at the Waterman building on the university campus. On the instructional staff of the refresher course will serve such faculty members as Dr. H. B. Pierce of the medical college, Prof. Florence Bailey of the college of agriculture, Miss Louise Stollberg, of the extension service, and Professor King.

The refresher course, which will be held on three successive Saturdays, is open to all home economics graduates, and is designed to prepare them to teach Red Cross courses in nutrition to lay-people who have had no formal training. The Red Cross course is a prerequisite of the study of canteen work which will be offered later.

A forerunner of the present nation-wide organization of trained nutritionists who are advising and helping on today's food problems, the University of Vermont's Committee on Nutrition was appointed several years ago by the late President Guy W. Bailey, who, Professor King says, foresaw the need for such an advisory group. The work of the university committee outgrew the bounds of the campus and became state-wide. Since the threat of war early in the fall, similar work has been started throughout the United States.

C. A. Shortle Is Now Flying Cadet

Preparing to take his place in the nation's fighting line, Charles Ambrose Shortle, Jr., 22, of Milton, Mass., was appointed a full fledged Aviation Cadet at the big flying school of the Navy in Jacksonville, Fla., this week.

Shortle was transferred to Jacksonville after successfully completing his elimination course at the Naval Reserve Air Base in Squantum, Mass. Until his appointment he held the rating of seaman, second class.

Aviation Cadet training will last about seven months for Shortle, and if he makes the grade, when it is all over he will be commissioned an Ensign in the Naval Reserve and awarded the coveted Navy "Wings of Gold."

Son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Shortle of Milton, young Shortle attended both Milton High School and Sanborn Seminary. He later went to college at the University of Vermont.

Profs. Aiken, Carleton Adress Bluestockings

Bluestockings, the honorary literary society of Vermont women, held its second meeting of the semester Tuesday night, February 3. Professor Aiken and Professor Carleton were entertained as guest speakers, their topic being English and the methods of teaching it. Both have done quite a lot of research in this field and thus the evening was of great interest to both the members of Bluestockings and their guests.

Refreshments of cocoa and sandwiches were served after the discussion which followed the talks. Miss Betty Chaffee '43 was in charge of these.

Sororities Planning Super Kake Walk Skit

The sororities at the University will offer an unique contribution to this year's Kake Walk in the form of a super skit. This combination of the efforts and talents of the seven sororities on the hill will not be entered in competition with the fraternities, but will be an exhibition stunt.

At several joint meetings, representatives of each sorority met to outline and organize plans. The final draft was drawn up by chairman Dorothy McCormick, Alpha Xi; Lyn Eimer and Patricia Page, Pi Phi; Mary Perry, Alpha Chi, and Sara Wilson, Tri Delt.

Phys. Ed. Dept. Answers Charges

To the Editor of the CYNIC:

Feeling that the students are entitled to an explanation of the questionnaire concerning physical education asked for during registration period, the following is given.

The purpose of the questionnaire was to secure an expression of the opinion of the men students regarding participation in a planned physical fitness program. It apparently has failed, for that many feel that the wording was such that democratic principles were compromised. It was also disclosed that two members of the Physical Education department created in the minds of many a "Hitler Dictatorship" atmosphere. If this is true I am very sorry and on behalf of the department would like to state so publicly. Frankly there was no intention nor desire to do either.

The questions were framed to secure a picture of the attitude towards participation in a program. The reasons for the questions had nothing to do with casting doubt in anyone's patriotism. It was felt that the second question would tend to show whether a voluntary program would be successful. We hoped that the response would be so overwhelmingly in favor of volunteering that a required program would not be necessary. Furthermore, we felt that the men of the university would have confidence in the integrity of the various members of the staff to treat such material as confidential.

With regard to the second criticism, I can only state with earnestness that the presence of members of the department was simply to issue and collect the ballots. We did not have time to arrange any other method that could result in efficient handling. It was assumed that our relationships with the students were close enough so that frankness and truthfulness would determine the answer rather than compulsion.

What happened to the questionnaires? They were turned over to an N. Y. A. student who counted them. He then tabulated the results and turned them over to me. The questionnaires were then destroyed. I have never examined the individual questionnaires since they were of no interest. What we were interested in was the group response. Roughly about eleven out of twelve men answered "yes" to both questions. The findings were not used, and will not be used as a basis for any other statement.

Campus Comment

(As we interpret the Cynic)

There has been a petition making the rounds about campus these days for the rejection of compulsory physical education.

Why all the grumbling? What are the reasons for rejection and are the reasons justified?

Did the people of America want compulsory military service when it was first introduced? Where would we be without it today?

Reasons for the petition were given that there was not enough time; they did not like the so-called gym; was this country going to be made into a dictatorial power?

This is a lot of nonsense and soft-bellied talk. Time take a look in the Waterman cafeteria during free periods. Dislike there are a lot of things we don't like which are good for us. Dictatorship

Yes! if we don't get on the ball and team together in one common cause.

Lets get our selfish and self-centered individuals out of this rut. Let's get in there as a team and help out

Some say three times a week won't do any good. All right, take it upon your self to do something every day. Three days won't hurt. Three days are probably all some of us can stand for a start.

The fellows that really need this conditioning are the ones putting up the big holler. Ask fellows like John Spasyk, "Misty" Rice, "Red" White—fellows that know what health and conditioning mean. They are the fellows we watch in the football and baseball fields and in the court. Yet these fellows indorse this additional physical training because they fully realize its value. We share their victories in the field, let's share their spirit to help our country.

Exercise under proper direction and in the proper concentration builds the body and with this building up we develop our state of health. When we are healthy we think better and are more alert.

Come on let's get going. Let's do our part in national defense no matter how small it is.

E. J. O'CONNELL '43.

LOST — A chromium plated "Norma" pencil, in Waterman Building stairs during Chapel period on Wednesday of this week. Finder please call Allen Jones, phone 4575.

Since it has been pointed out that the method was wrong, it casts doubt as to the general attitude of the men students on the questions, though we had hoped that the findings were correct. That is, that the men would be willing to volunteer to participate in a planned program. We have therefore provided signing up-sheets in the Physical Education Office for this purpose. The response to this plan for voluntary participation will determine whether we were right or not.

Military Notes

By JUSTINE WHALEN '44

Lts. Fife and Schofield Accepted

Lieutenant Fife and Lieutenant [illegible] field of the Military Department took a series of exams for the regular army in July and recently received word that they had been accepted by the Army.

Age Requirement Lowered

Recently received word from the First Corps Area Headquarters stated that the age requirement for appointment to rank as officers has been lowered from twenty-one to eighteen years.

Temporary Halt in Shipments

Word has been received by the Military Department that the First Corps Area Headquarters in Boston has received word from the War Department that a temporary halt in Air Corps shipments from this area has been called.

Manpower has been rushed to the Air Corps Replacement Centers so fast that more men cannot be adequately handled until February 15.

The Military Department, however, is strongly advised to build up a reserve of qualified men which can be tapped at once as the signal comes. Aviation Cadets especially can pass all their tests right now. These men will be on call to start their training as soon as planes and training facilities are ready.

Aviation Boards Functioning

Necessary machinery to qualify a ready reserve of aviation cadet candidates is ready and working. There are two examining boards accepting aviation cadet applications and qualifying men under the new system.

At all boards new or old the [illegible] method for a candidate is to [illegible] application blanks and allied papers to the president of the board which is most convenient for him. The board will then notify the man by letter of the date set for his examination. On the day the man will be given both physical and mental tests—he will either qualify or be disqualified on the spot.

Possibilities for Those Over-age Limit

For fliers who are over the [illegible] cadet age having passed their 27th birthday, there are also two possibilities. One is direct appointment as an Air Corps officer; the other possibility is in the Air Corps Ferrying Command. Application may be made to the commanding officer Air Corps Ferrying Command, Bolling Field, Washington, D. C.

Middlebury Pucksters Outskate Cat Six, 8-2

Middlebury College's hockey team staged a scoring uprising in the last nine minutes of the final period Wednesday to turn a close and interesting hockey game into a rout. When the final tabulations had been made the Panthers had defeated the U. V. M. Independents 8 to 2.

The weather was ideal for hockey and a large crowd gathered to see the match, which was played on the rink behind the gym.

This was a return match for the Independents against the Blue and White. The Green and Gold men lost the first game by a close margin of 3-2.

Middlebury's fast front line was held to a standstill by the Vermont club in the first two periods. But in the third and final period, Middlebury found its pace and netted four goals, thus changing a close game into a rout.

Let Stuttering Child Stutter Says Expert

STATE COLLEGE, PA.—(ACP)—The most practical way to handle a child who stutters, a Pennsylvania State College instructor in clinical speech advises, is to let him stutter.

Eugene T. McDonald said the best thing to do if the child stutters is not to call attention to the defect, let him speak slowly and never ask him to repeat.

"As soon as a child becomes aware of the fact that his parents are concerned about his stuttering, he attempts to control it and his fear brings on more stuttering," McDonald said.

He added no single cure-all for stuttering has been discovered. Improvement may be effected, he declared, by distracting attention, constant suggestion, reading syllable by syllable or making the patient conscious of the movements necessary to produce sounds.

Court Leader Rises to Stardom

If you were to call him Joseph Allen White, nobody on the Vermont campus would register any sort of reaction. But if he is introduced as "Red" White, he is immediately recognized as the captain of the current Catamount basketball team. A contrast of names, but definitely not of reputation.

White is winding up his fourth year of basketball at U. V. M., the last three as a member of the varsity squad. Coming to Vermont from Essex Fells, N. J., the carrot-topped court leader has continued the athletic ways he had demonstrated at Caldwell High School and Gingsley Prep.

In his initial year at Vermont, "Red" took part in the four major sports of football, basketball, baseball and track. He earned his numerals in each and established an early reputation as a basketball player.

Because of a shoulder injury, White was compelled to forego football after his sophomore year, concentrating on the court game. He plugged away with the varsity squad in his sophomore year to gain invaluable experience and earn his varsity award.

When it is implied that "Red" really had to dig in to keep up with his teammates in his early varsity experience, that is just what is meant. Few players in recent years have shown the degree of improvement that the present Catamount captain has displayed in the last two seasons. This is due primarily to White's eagerness to do more than was expected of him. His efforts have been sincere, and no one has been more conscientious.

Today, White stands out as the only man of marked experience on his team; and he is the foundation upon which the current five has been built. His chief asset is reliability, a characteristic that every coach seeks in his men.

The U. V. M. captain is considered by many as the all-important man on the Catamount quintet. The Green and Gold basketeers are lacking in both experience and height this year, and "Red's past varsity service is being called upon continually.

White is more than a captain in name. He is actually a leader on the court during every minute of the game. His teammates bank heavily on his quidance and he is answering this challenge well.

Off the court, too, White has been recognized as a leader. He was elected to Gold Key, honor society, as a sophomore. A member of Lambda Iota Fraternity, he was chosen president of the University Interfraternity Council. His outside activities also brought him the editorship of the Interfraternity Handbook.

Quotable Quotes

"Never in our history has there been greater need for perspectives. This is true both for the national government and for every individual in it. The high school graduate needs it. He must weigh his alternatives against the background of a total life. He must ask himself 'What shall I do now that will mean most in the long run?' The college student needs it. He needs to weigh the opportunities now afforded him on a college campus against the background of their eventual worth. 'What shall I do now that will give college the most meaning for me in the future?' Looking out upon a world where, in many nations, education is a prohibitive luxury, we wonder how one dares do other than place the highest value upon the educational opportunities which are his." Fred G. Holloway, president of Western Maryland College, calls upon youth to view education in the light of full perspective.

Cats Trounce St. Mike's 45-36 in Fourth Title Win

Killickless Five Led by Bob Doherty; U. V. M. Leads All the Way in Scrappy Contest

The University of Vermont took another big step towards annexing its fourth consecutive state basketball crown last night on the Memorial Auditorium court by lacing a scrappy St. Michael's aggregation to the tune of 45-36. The Cats, playing against a renovated Purple five and without the services of their kingpin, Larry Killick, still showed their tails to the Beavers all the way, never relinquishing the lead.

From the minute that Bob Doherty plunked in the first score of the game the Green and Gold set a dazzling pace, perhaps a little too great for the Mikemen.

Carlson Starts Things

Doherty banged in the first two points of the game. Bob Carlson who collected seven points in the first four minutes of play, contributed two one handers and a foul shot to give the Vermonters a 6-1 advantage. The Hilltoppers countered with a pair of goals by Pequignot and Fitzgibbons, but Carlson slipped in another neat one-hander; then Red White hit the hoop twice, once with a long looper and then a layup to give the Cats a 13-5 advantage.

From these first five minutes, the game became a race up and down the court, when at halftime the Cats stopped to lick their paws on a 25-17 lead.

Pequignot St. Mike's Cog

Little Jules Pequignot, who gathered nine of his team's 17 points in the first half, kept the Mikemen going with his eagle eye and clever ball stealing trickery.

Second Half a Mad Tussle

With Pray and Ballou, the two scrappy freshman guards snaring the ball from the boards in a drastic effort to get control of the play, as many as five men at a time hit the floor continuously in a scrappy scramble, and a series of jump balls ensued.

With Bob Doherty really getting hot, after acquiring but three points in the first half, the Catamounts staved off the Beavers until the end. The rambunctious junior from Meriden, Conn., showed in no less than thirteen markers in the last frame from every conceivable angle. Dick Kipp, who played the entire second half with three personals, and fighting little Milt Kaufman, were invaluable in their ability to recover and feed the ball to the defty Doherty.

Capt. "Red" White and Paul Pullinen did a fine job in executing a timely U. V. M. stall, which lasted three minutes and shafted the Purple hopes of pulling the game out of the fire.

Tough Route Ahead

If Coach Fuzzy Evans' snappy outfit can sit on the Norwich Horsemen next Tuesday, they will be wearing the Vermont state crown for the fourth consecutive year.

With four games remaining to be played within a week, the Cats face a hard job. There are engagements with Springfield, Norwich, Hamilton and Rochester, in that order. Unluckily, Larry Killick will be lost indefinitely with a sprained ankle, giving Bob Carlson or Milt Kaufman a big gap to fill and giving Fuzzy Evans a tough break.

Rejuvenated Frosh Take Preliminary

The preliminary game saw the Vermont freshmen, rejuvenated with the addition of Norm Beaulieu, hand the St. Michael's Jayvees a 36 to 22 defeat. Frank Fehlund with 11 points and Chick LaPointe with 8 led the Kittens, while Connors with 6 and Searey with 5 topped the Junior Mikemen.

It seems that Coach Fogg of the freshmen has given his team the proverbial needle because it has at last found its stride and seems to be well on its way to make up for its floundering start during the first half of the season.

Women in Sports

Badminton Club

The following girls have received W. A. A. membership through attendance at the Badminton Club:

Edna Gates, Barbara Hall, Helen McLean, Agnes Mulholland, Charlotte Hyde, Peggy Palmer, Phyllis Taylor.

The badminton tournament will start very soon, and each dorm is asked to send two representatives. A cup will be awarded to the dorm with the highest score.

Bowling Club

The following girls received W. A. A. membership from the Bowling Club:

Mildred Anderson, Natalie Beal, Priscilla Bennett, Ethel L. Brooks, Virginia Crocker, Mary Higgins, Hope Human, Jacqueline Mallon, Virginia Mitchell, Phyllis Pierce, Barbara Robinson, Patricia Maxfield, Ramona Hathorn, Marie Lanou, Jean Norris, Hortense LeDue, Florence Bevins, Beatrice Wright, Erika Heminger, Marjorie Parker, Agnes Mulholland, Marjorie Nutting, Barbara Brewster, Jeanne Hotchkiss, Janette Nelson.

The club started last week for this semester. Everyone is welcome to come either Wednesday or Thursday at 4:15 in the Waterman Building. If you are present at three-fourths of the meetings you are eligible for W. A. A. upon payment of the required fee.

Ping-pong Club

The ping pong tournament started this week and a few matches have been played. All those who signed up for the tournament are asked to look up their opponents on the bulletin board in the Y Room and play their matches as soon as possible. The Ping Pong Club will still meet on Tuesday at 4:15 and any new members wishing to join are urged to come.

On and after Monday, February 9, all University appointments will be held in accordance with Eastern Daylight Saving Time. Note that 8:30 E. D. T. is the same as 7:30 E. S. T., in other words timepieces should be set ahead one hour in changing from Standard to Daylight Time.

Goodrich Classical Club Holds Banquet

Club Members Royally Feted at Roman Meal

Members of the Goodrich Classical Club were royally entertained at the annual Roman banquet held last Thursday at Southwick. Patricia McCormack '44 and Esther Ballard '45 furnished part of the entertainment by being initiated.

The Roman meal must have been an interesting event, even to the Romans, but now--wow! A guest, as he enters the sacred portals of Myxa Austri, leaves behind him the rush and hubbub of the twentieth century. He is shown to an upper room where new raiment is laid out in readiness for him. Ah! A green toga with a lavender sash! What could be more becoming?

All in Togas

After enveloping himself with no little difficulty in this elusive garment, he feels more than ever apart from the world. (If he could see himself in a mirror he might wish he were even farther removed!) He advances cautiously to the dining room where he finds a host of other personages similarly clothed. Heavens! Can that be Professor Prindelius over there in the flowing white drapery, talking to the pretty slave girl in the bright striped dress? Ah, yes, of course. He must be ordering the food.

Well, what are we waiting for? Oh, I guess we're going in now. That slave girl looks like Mary Perry, but what on earth is she saying? "Peddy dextro" or something—must be some kind of sugar she's selling. Oh, no, she means we're supposed to step over the threshold right foot first.

Old "Vermonter" Mirrors U.V.M. Life

A copy of The Vermonter, state magazine for May, 1897, devoted largely to the University of Vermont, has just been presented to the Wilbur Library.

The Vermonter at that time was published by C. S. Forbes of St. Albans. Matthew H. Buckham was president of the University. The long article, fully illustrated, was written by Prof. J. E. Goodrich. A group of ten senior professors, Torrey, Barbour, Perkins, Goodrich, Emerson, Merrill, Daniels, Huff, Votey and Hills, is shown in the frontispiece.

Converse Hall, men's dormitory, the gift of John H. Converse of the class of 1861, had just been constructed, Grassmount had been acquired only a short time before as a dormitory for girls, and the farm buildings were something seen on the landscape. The engineering building was recent, as was the baseball cage, which had been presented by Frank E. Wells of the class of 1892 and the Commons room addition on the old museum. The

Glee Club Concert To Run Gamut From Madrigals To Jazz

Schubert Symphony And the "Rio Grande" Are Chief Offerings

The concert to be given by the University Orchestra and the men's and women's Glee Clubs should be especially interesting to U. V. M. students as a program which ranges from the madrigal of the sixteenth century to the modern syncopated jazz rhythms of South America will be presented. The concert is to be given at Southwick Memorial Thursday, February 12, 1942 at 8.15 p.m.

The program will include the Symphony No. 5 in B Flat Major by Schubert and Walther's Prize Song (from "Die Meistersinger") by Wagner-Welhelmj to be played by the University Orchestra. The Mixed Glee Club will render "Dancing and Springing" and "A Song of the Rose Garden" by Hasler and "When Allen-a-Dale Went A-hunting" by Pearsall.

The Men's Glee Club will sing two English songs, "Down Among the Dead Men" and "Nottingham Ale" in which Robert Goss '44 will take the baritone solo. Their last number will be "Beat! Beat! Drums! (words by Walt Whitman) by C. M. Hoeffler.

The Women's Glee Club will sing "Hymn to Diana," words by Ben Jonson, music by H. G. Bennett; "New Year's Eve," words by F. von Ruprecht, translated by Dr. Wilhelm Raab, music by Dr. Richard Stolz

The final part of the program will be devoted to a presentation of "The Rio Grande," from a poem by Sacheverell Sitwell, music by Constant Lambert. The number will be sung by the Mixed Glee Club plus two pianos, a string quartet and a contralto solo to be sung by Doris Squire '43.

Titlebound Cats Clash With Cadets Tonight At 8:15

The Vermont basketeers will face off with Norwich University, February 10, 1942, in Memorial Auditorium at 8.15 p.m., while the Vermont freshmen will be playing host to Vermont Junior College at seven o'clock as the first of the two scheduled games to be played.

Last week Norwich moved closer toward annexing the State championship by beating Middlebury 46-37. Giant Joe McClosky is the main factor for Norwich success this year. Whether Vermont's ace Harry Killick who is now suffering from an injured ankle, will be ready to see action is open to question.

In the event that Killick will not be ready to start for the Cats the probable starting lineup will be as follows: Doherty, l.g.; White, r.g.; Kipp, c.; Kaufman, l.f.; and Carlson, r.f. This is the same starting lineup which faced springfield last Saturday evening, February 7.

The probably starting lineup for Norwich will be as follows: Jones, r.f.; Chapman, l.f.; McClosky, c.; Dean, r.g.; and Hughes l.g.

The Vermont freshmen which beat the 187th Field Artillery last Saturday evening 31-21 displayed a fine working combination in Bourbon, Sochia, Eklund, Clark LaPointe and Mickey Cochran.

Bourbon, whose fine play has been gaining this freshman combine these past two weeks, had a field night by netting 10 points. Mike Sochia and Frank Eklund were the next high point getter for the frosh, each tossing in ten total goals.

Student-Parent Banquet To Be Held

Arrangements are being completed to hold the annual father, son, mother daughter banquet in the new Waterman Building on February 21, at 5.45. Student and their parent will have the opportunity of breaking bread with University dignitaries including President Mills, who will act as toastmaster, and Deans Simpson and Swift. The beautiful and large cafeteria will facilitate accommodations and along with its modern conveniences insure the success of this traditional event.

Committee head Robert Paterson '42 has arranged an attractive program to support the president's introductions. Proctor Page, assistant to the president, will speak and also student representatives including Kake Walk Directors Fred Logan, John Costello and Chum Reynolds, Boulder President Clarence V. Akley and Mortar Board Representative Barbara Gallagher. The entertainment which will augment this array of speakers will feature a male quartet under the capable direction of Professor Millikan.

All University students are urged to make early reservations and plan to fête their parents at such a splendid social and filial gathering. The cordial atmosphere and good food can do much toward improving University spirit and a closer association between parents and faculty.

Hill Trophy Award For Ice Sculpture

In preparation for the coming gala Kake Walk week-end all societies, fraternities and dormitories are asked to start work on their ice sculptures. The Pliny Smith Hill trophy will be awarded Kake Walk entrants by the student committee, which constructs the sculpture best meeting the requirement drawn up by the judges and directors.

Points will be awarded on the following basis: Theme (Kake Walk), 50 points; execution, 25 points; all around appearance in daytime, 12½ points; and all around appearance in night display, 12½ points. The judges as announced by Kake Walk directors will be: Dean Eckhard, Dean Simpson, James Carney and George Millikan. Night judging will take place Friday evening, February 20, and the daylight judging will be held Saturday afternoon, February 21.

The winner will be announced at Kake Walk Saturday evening and the cup will be awarded by the chairman of awards.

French Club meeting which was postponed February 4, will be held Wednesday, February 11, at 7:30, Southwick.

It was [illegible] well worth noting that the entire student body as well as the faculty and staff is invited to the big all University banquet. Although the plans have not yet been released in detail it is certain that President Mills will be there and will probably deliver an appeal for the cooperation of those present in working out of this crisis together. Entertainment will be provided and the banqueters are guaranteed a real good time.

Forward, Together

It is significant that many alumni and friends of the University have already put their shoulder to the wheel. Contributions of all kinds and sizes daily come rolling in to the campaign headquarters in center Waterman Building, first floor. Just recently an old "grad" of the class of '97 sent in a $900 check with the brief message that when he had attended college he had received $300 in scholarships and he figured there was no better time than when his alma mater is in its present situation to repay this "debt with interest."

People are asking "What are we doing for ourselves?" It is the hope of the committee that there will be a very satisfactory answer to this question at the end of the campus campaign in which wholehearted participation is expected from everyone concerned and definitely moving forward toward the distant goal together.

Alpha Xi Initiates Five at Chapter House

On February 5 the following women were initiated into Alpha Xi Delta sorority at the Chapter House: Barbara Blake '44, Winchester, Mass.; Barbara Dunbar '45, St. Albans; Patricia Maxfield '45 New Hartford, Conn.; Ruby Sanderson '45, Westport, Conn. and Sylvia Wellwood '44, springfield.

A banquet followed at the Paragon. Connie Spear '43 and Barbara Robinson '43, were in charge. The motif of the decorations was Valentine's day. Red and white carnations were used as centerpieces. Mrs. Gladys Brooks acted as toastmistress.

University Women Stressing Defense Work; Nursing And First Aid Classes Available

"The important thing for the American young woman to do at this emergency is to take the leadership of groups into her own hands," said Prof. Hunter S. Cummings, head of the women's physical education department at the University of Vermont, "and that is what we are trying to teach our girls to do."

At the beginning of the fall semester the University of Vermont made available to all undergraduates and freshmen, and to interested upperclassmen, instruction in first aid and home nursing through the women's physical education department. This semester four classes in first aid are being taught as well as an extended course in home nursing under the guidance of the Red Cross.

Professor Cummings said, regarding the stress put on this angle of defense work: "It takes about two class periods to learn the facts about putting out a bomb, or the proper procedure in case of gas, but it takes many hours to learn how to bandage a head victim, or restore breath to a person who has been gassed. It is spectacular work that Vermont is doing for the girls but it's reassuring to know that Vermont girls will be able to stanch a bleeding wound."

Another project started by the University months before the entry of the United States into the war has been the series of lectures that has been given by many professors covering such phases of the nutrition problem as obtaining the most benefit from rationed food, feeding a family on a limited income, food preservation, conservation, and the vitamin and mineral contents of the ordinary types of food. "I suppose," said Professor Cummings, "it doesn't sound very much like brass bands and waving flags to know about the value of foods, but it should help in keeping people strong enough to hang on."

In speaking of the conservation class, which teaches children's games and adult games which can be played in small groups or large groups, the technique of organizing, and directing of groups, Professor Cummings said, "Racing in practice against a house that is burning makes a picturesque approach to its purpose, but we believe that having a roomful of children occupied comfortably happy while the world around them is blacked out, or bombs are falling nearby, is a much more important piece of work for women. And much of the effort are being put into it by Vermont women taking the course. Most of them are volunteers from the freshmen and some of them sophomores who are taking it as part of their required education requirement. We are having a larger class than ever before in coaching and refereeing. They will be able to take over in place of the physical education instructor who will probably be absorbed by army morale work.

"But," continued Professor Cummings, "none of this information is of any use if the women who acquire it don't have the strength and courage to use it. The department is very proud of the course of really strenuous setting-up or keep-fit exercises which all the girls are taking. The courage," said Professor Cummings, "we expect to find. That is in the girls as Vermonters, or as girls who have come to Vermont to get their training."

Student Suggests More Stag Dances

To the Editor of the CYNIC:

I would like to suggest that the Saturday night "Vic" dances for the benefit of U. V. M. be held as stag dances where both boys and girls could come alone. This suggestion may be a partial answer to the many unfavorable comments heard on the campus regarding the social life at U. V. M.

There are many boys who do not have classes with girls and therefore must meet them through other means. What better or more natural way to get acquainted is there than through social activities?

Many boys like to dance but do not know many girls whom they can take. On the other hand, there are many girls who like to dance but do not get invited. The boys may go stag, but they hate to infringe [illegible] that the girls [illegible] dances. Those who may [illegible] the boys and girls [illegible] dances and feel more [illegible] to attend.

Ah! Couches to lie on! (They look suspiciously like tumbling mats, but that's beside the point.) H'm, this isn't bad at all. Hey, what's that slave think she is, taking off my sandals like that? Is that nice?

Deities Invoked

Silence reigns as Professor Prindelius invokes the dieties. Then, a clap of the hands brings forth slaves with the first course—stuffed eggs, olives, etc. The main course follows, consisting of roast pork with gravy, carrots, string beans (and a lack of hand-manipulated eating apparatus, which makes eating an interesting, not to say dangerous procedure. Fortunately a slave appears periodically with a bowl of water and a towel which help matters considerably.

After dessert—figs, apple, date, grapes, honey bread, walnuts—the two initiates are put through their paces and acquit themselves very well indeed. Ah! This long-dormant dramatic talent! Walter Maurer plays in turn the determined Caesar, the drunken reveler, and the ... what irate pedagogue. Other entertainers include Bud Abbott and Sam Ziskind.

Festivities are concluded with the singing of familiar songs with Latin words. The banqueters then disband, repiete and, we trust, happy.

Lehigh University To Play Vermont

Baseball Schedule Lists April Tilt

Bethlehem, Pa., Feb. 10—Lehigh University will be able to fulfill its present baseball schedule of spring sports with very few changes in spite of the current speeding program which will end the spring semester two weeks ahead of time.

Carl W. Harmeson, director of intercollegiate athletics, today announced that only three varsity baseball games and one varsity tennis match have been cancelled. All other sports contests originally scheduled to end May 18 the new graduation date, have been slotted to dates earlier in the season.

The baseball games cancelled were with Hamilton, Ursinus and Lafayette colleges. The tennis meet no longer scheduled was with Albright College.

Rescheduling of the Lafayette track meet on April 25 will force the Lehigh runners to forego competition in the Penn Relays at Philadelphia.

The revised schedules of both varsity and freshman baseball, tennis and track follow:

Modern Co-eds Use "Collegiate Droop"

Palo Alto, Calif.—(ACP)—The posture of the present- day co-ed is the "collegiate droop," as contrasted with the "stylish swagger" affected by her cannons sister of ten years ago, Evelyn Anderson of Sanford University and Mrs. Velda C. Row of San Francisco State College reported to the American Physiotherapy Association.

The "stylish swagger" they described as giving the effect that the user thereof has a bustle, with chin up, chest out, and hips trailing far behind.

On the other hand, they said, the "collegiate droop" demands a weary slump forward of the shoulders, back curved and hips well forward. It is particularly advantageous for tall girls, who thereby give the impression of being shorter.

Examinations of 200 freshman women each year gave the researchers their information.

Thirty-eight percent in recent tests had switched to the "collegiate droop," and seemed thereby continually hurrying home to get out of the rain.

A bare 17 percent clung to the "stylish swagger," and an encouraging 41 percent had good posture.

Pittsburgh Education Class Writes Textbook

Pittsburgh, Pa.—(ACP)—A University of Pittsburgh class has written its own textbook.

The 131-page book, "Youth Education in Practical Living," is a product of the Pitt summer workshop laboratory in teaching. It is a study guide and source book in functional high school education.

Edited by Dr. W. W. D. ..., professor of education and director of curriculum study at the university, the textbook was prepared for tri-state schools engaged in local curriculum development programs.

More than 4,000,000 persons saw educational films and slide sets distributed last year by the University of Texas visual instruction bureau.

NOTICE

The Deans of the three academic colleges feel strongly that the voluntary program of Physical Education for junior and senior men is important in the interest of National Defense. They urge all upperclassmen to take part in such a program insofar as it is possible for them to do so. Participation in the proposed voluntary Physical Education program should be regarded as a privilege as well as a duty.

Frosh Spank Army Team; Score 37-21

With an added snap coming to the frosh of Sherry Fogg, the 187th Field Artillery felt the short end of a 37-21 score last Saturday night on the Memorial Auditorium court.

Led by Beaulieu from Barre, the Kittens looked like a ball club from start to finish. The husky playmaker dunked in 16 points for the evening's high total, while Mickey Cochran and Chuck LaPointe did a good job on "guard duty."

Slim Gilmore, artilleryman center was high man for the soldiers with 8 points.

Frosh Quintet Face Vt. Junior College

Tonight Coach Sherm Fogg's reinvenated Frosh quintet will face the powerful Vermont Junior College outfit in the prelim to the main tussle between Vermont and Norwich.

The Kittens, who started to hit their stride last Wednesday against the St. Mike's J. V.'s have been aided by the addition of Norm Bealieu to the ranks. The Vermonters are looking for victory number three in six starts at the expense of the Hilltoppers from Montpelier, who now stand in second position in the state Junior College league.

Coach Robson's five has a shifty scorer in Preem Marineau, former St. Michael's High School star and ex teammate of Johnny Goodrich, now a member of the U. V. M. varsity squad. Fred Potter, a former St. Albans High School athlete, will occupy one of the guard posts with either Art Sikora or Bob Simpson.

Lineups:

Texas Gets Tuneful

AUSTIN, TEXAS—(ACP)—Transition of a simple folk melody into a ballroom dance selection and finally into a turn of boogie woogie was described and illustrated during a recent University of Texas-produced radio program.

Stephen Foster's "Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming" was played on the piano and sung, then converted into a fox trot by the University Radio House orchestra, and finally was "touched up" with boogie woogie rhythms and improvisations.

The weekly broadcast goes into Texas public school classrooms.

Sigma Xi Head Urges Science for the Masses

New Orleans, La.—(ACP)—Science for the masses and plenty of it is urged by Dr. Edward Ellery, national head of Sigma Xi scientific fraternity.

In an address before a Tulane University group, Doctor Ellery declared that until the dark dagger and scatter-gun with their white-collared cousins begin thinking the scientific age will not be realized.

How Did This Masquerade Get Started Anyway, Suh?

As the time for the Masquerade draws closer and closer, and the Waterman Building rocks to the recorded rhythms of cat Sam Donahue and his solid crew, the thoughts of many of the college's 1,200 students run something like this: How did this thing called the Masquerade ever get started, anyway? Was it the inspiration of some lone, lorn wallflower, yearning for a chance to show off his terpsichorean talents, or did it, like Topsy, "just grow"?

In order to put to an end all these unanswered questions, we will tell you that the Masquerade came into being back in 1934, despite faculty apprehension as to "the behavior of revelers behind masks." The policy of those ancient times was one to gladden the heart of any flat-broke male. The co-eds bought their own tickets, and came stag. Although the thing started out to be a regular old-fashioned plantation party, students came dressed in outlandish and fantastic costumes, as they do now. These get-ups ranged all the way from Peter Pan to the Invisible Man, who must have been an amazing sight.

Masks were removed at intermission time, and at that time the Kake Walk King was announced, and crowned. He then rolled huge dice on the floor of the gym to decide the fair damsel to be his Queen. Music was furnished by the old Barbary Coast Orchestra from Dartmouth, and the whole affair was pronounced a motous success, which it undoubtedly was.

Nineteen hundred and forty-two brought the first official election of both a King and Queen of Kake Walk, along with a battle of music between Sid Garsley and his band on the one hand, and the Black Panthers (remember?) from Middlebury on the other. The girls, bless 'em, still bought their own tickets and still came stag. Those were wonderful days.

Glenn Miller, then comparatively unknown, "went" the gay Masqueraders in 1939 with his terrific music, and it was from here on that this new batton-leader made his name known. Vermonters can proudly say they gave Glenn Miller his final push upward into fame and glory. In 1939, a second resolution was voted by all who attended the event, the "Storm

H. C. To Hold Valentine Dance

Tomorrow evening, February 14, the Waterman cafeteria will be the festive scene of the annual Valentine dance sponsored by the Health Council, an affair to which the feminine contingent on the campus will invite the gentlemen. The music will be furnished by the Catamounts, the price will be $1.10 per couple, tickets purchasable from any Health Council member, and the dress will be informal (which means afternoon dresses for the girls). The proceeds of the dance will go to the Health Council fund. Nancy Whittemore '44 is chairman of the dance, assisted by Shirley Hall '43, Beth Lund '43, Lois Harrington '44, Shirley Price '44, Ruth Gorham '44 and Alice Edwards '45. Chaperones will be Miss Mary Jean Simpson, Miss Eleanor Cummings and Prof. and Mrs. Robert Long. Dancing will be from 8.30 until midnight.

Progressive Supper Served To College Group

About twenty-five members of Collegium, the college church group of the College Street Church, were guests at a progressive supper which was sponsored by the Women's Union of the church last Sunday evening.

For the first course the group met at the home of Prof. and Mrs. Aiken on N. Prospect Street where hospitality as always, present. From there they went by car to the home of Prof. and Mrs. Potter on Loomis Street for the second course and the dessert and social hour were enjoyed at the home of Miss Margaret Whiting on S. Prospect Street.

Collegium is grateful to the Women's Union, to Dr. Laird, and to Prof. and Mrs. Millikan, their sponsors, for the pleasant occasion.

Tickets for the Masquerade will be on sale at the Bookstore: $3.30 for the floor, 50c for the balcony.

Notice

By vote of the Senate and the University Council the Easter Recess will be Friday, Saturday and Sunday, April 3, 4 and 5. Thursday, April 2, classes will be held as usual, following the normal Thursday schedule.

Saturday, February 21, will be a holiday, but Friday, February 20, classes will be held as usual both morning and afternoon.

Saturday, April 18, there will be a Student Convocation at which time the names of the newly elected members of the honorary societies will be announced. This day will be designated as "Honors Day."

The Founder's Day exercises will be held Friday, May 1. That day the schedule of classes will be changed to allow for a Convocation, but the day will not be a University holiday.

Final examinations will be held May 11-15 inclusive. Commencement will be Monday, May 18.

E. Swift, Secretary.

Six Students Aim At Coveted Throne

Candidates for Kake Walk King and Queen have thrown their hat in the ring and vigorous campaigns will soon get under way.

Frances "Sis" Leach '43 and Shirley Buckingham '44 are rivals for the coveted title of Queen.

Clarence Akley '42, Wayne Dudley '43, George Little '43 and Roger Hunting '42 have declared their intentions as candidates for King.

Watch for the candidates' platforms and slogans. Next Wednesday evening from 5:00 to 5:30 the candidates will speak over WCAX.

Pilgrim Fellowship To Hear Talk On Germany

An unusual opportunity will be afforded members of the Pilgrim Fellowship group tonight, February 13, at 7:30 p.m. at the First Church parish house. A new member of the group, just come from Germany, may come and will tell the reasons why he cannot live in the country and of how it is now under the Hitler regime. This will be of interest to all who follow current events.

There will be the usual devotions, group singing, social hour and refreshments. All are welcome to attend.

Students Ratify U.V.M. Constitution At Final Session

Democratic Ideals Upheld in Spirited Debate of Main Issues

At the student convocation held last Monday evening in the gymnasium, the constitution for student government was at last fully ratified. Following in the constitution in its entirety is a document created by the students themselves for the purpose of the carrying out of a better and more enduring self government upon the University of Vermont campus.

PREAMBLE

In order to bring about a systematic administration of student affairs on this campus, to codify existing customs and traditions of the University of Vermont, and to provide for an organized student control of campus activities, we, the students of U. V. M., adopt this constitution.

Lute Kellick who saw action for the first time in a week came back to pace the Cats to victory. Dunn, the lone Vermont guard, starred the ball rolling.

Kipp Vermont Sparkplug

Dick Kipp, converted Cat center from Orleans, just couldn't be stopped. The Kipper gathered 18 points and in the meantime held big Joe McCluskey to 2 markers.

From start to finish both clubs broke down the floor with plenty of speed. The first few minutes of play was exceptionally scrappy but in spite of the opposing tactics Dwight the Vermonters took control and went into the van to lead 7-15 at halftime.

Jones the Norwich Mainspring

The Horsemen came back for the last frame in a fighting fashion but were no match for Whittet's set shots and Fisher's one-handers. Jack Jones, husky Maroon forward, garnered 19 points for the evening, but just like the rest of his teammates he missed numerous attempts.

Teamwork Did It

With Kipp and Doherty doing the shooting Mike Eastman holding his opponent scoreless, Red Wing and Kellick doing some neat pass work and set shooting the Catamounts were the team to win. But as the tilt ended Coach Hoyt used his entire squad to advantage.

Glee Club And Orch. Thrill Audience

Concert Features Solo By Mrs. Bennett, Pianist

Last Thursday evening, the men's, women's and mixed Glee Clubs and the University Orchestra gave their only scheduled concert for this year. To say simple that it was a success is undervaluing it. Some of the city's regular concert goers described it as perhaps the best in the long series of most acceptable performances given by these organizations.

To name a principal figure in the concert would be next to impossible. The careful and poised conducting of the orchestra by Mr. Pappoutsakis was the outstanding point in the first part of the program. Certainly the Schubert "Fifth Symphony" stood out as a piece of fine music tastefully handled. Mr. Anselmo as concert master and Mrs. Mary Rowe as principal second violinist gave fine performances.

The second half of the program was studded with sparkling and even startling variety. Under the capable direction of Professor Bennett the glee clubs turned in a performance that did themselves proud. Roundly applauded was the Men's Glee Club with Robert Goss '44 as soloist in the English air "Nottingham Ale." Intonation and perfect diction were their strong points.

The Women's Glee Club music was a composer's field day. The first, "Hymn to Diana" from Ben Jonson in a beautiful setting by Professor Bennett drew rounds of applause for the composer. The second, "New Year's Eve" the words of which had been translated from the German by Doctor Raab of the Medical College, was a composition by Doctor Richard Stöhr, noted Viennese musician educator and critic now teaching at St. Michael's College, the composer himself at the piano. He reluctantly accepted round after round of applause.

Finale for the evening featured the modern work "Ke Gnadik" by Gustave Lambert and Sacrificial Strodl with Miss Elsa Kramer Bennett as the soloist. It was rather startling after a concert of eighteenth and nineteenth century music but was well done. Despite the mixed chorus the girls' voices topped the piano by a couple. Stanley Pike '42 and a string quartet supported Mr. Anselmo. Miss Mary Rose, Mr. Pappoutsakis and Miss Freda Harris soloed each song by Lucy Scott '42 contralto. Ernest Stockwell '44 tenor and Elsa O'Brien '43 jazz artiste. Mrs. Bennett piano encores were timed with applause.

Open Houses To Be Held Sunday Afternoon, Feb. 22

In accordance with the plans set up by the Kake Walk directors, open house will be held at all the sororities and fraternities on the campus from four to six Sunday afternoon, February 22. All friends, guests, and alumnae of the various Greek organizations are cordially welcome and are asked to make use of the facilities of these houses during this time.

Mrs. Fisher To Aid U.V.M. Fund Drive

Famous Literary Figure To Be Vice-Chairman

Pres. John S. Mills announced Saturday that Mrs. Dorothy Canfield Fisher, nationally known literary figure, would serve as associate vice-chairman of the University of Vermont Security Fund.

Mrs. Fisher will be associated with Gov. W. H. Wills and Pres. John S. Mills of the University, who are honorary chairmen, and with F. W. Shepardson of Burlington and Maurice L. Kelley of Montpelier who are the co-chairmen of the Security Fund.

Growing out of last summer's difficulties at the University, the Security Fund is now fully organized and leadership is being enlisted from industrial, agricultural, church and business leaders of Vermont and the nation.

The goal of the fund is $400,000 of which $150,000 will be used to meet the operating costs of the institution, while the balance, $250,000 will be used to strengthen the endowment.

In announcing that Mrs. Dorothy Canfield Fisher would serve as Associate Vice-Chairman, President Mills stated that Mrs. Fisher has long been an interested friend of the University.

Dorothy Canfield Fisher returned to her ancestral home in Arlington after receiving her master's degree in Europe. She is a graduate of Ohio State University and received her Ph.D. from Columbia University.

Among the well-known writers that she met in Europe were Paul Hazard, professor at the University of Montpellier, Collège Jeanson-de-Sailly, Paris, Ohio State Symposium, Cincinnati, Wellesley College Symposium, Connecticut, and Chicago Symposium.

Election for Kake Walk King and Queen will be held Thursday, February 19.

All student marks will be available in bookstore Thursday, February 19

Social Calendar Radically Revised

The University Senate adopted the following, which will govern the Social Calendar for the second half year. An amended Social Calendar will shortly be posted.

1. The following events to be held as originally scheduled
   1. Military Ball, February 6, to close at one o'clock
   2. Masquerade, February 20, at Waterman Building or Gymnasium, to close at two o'clock
   3. Kake Walk, February 21
2. Dances and tea-dances to be held as follows:
   1. Fraternities and sororities to hold only one dance the second semester, the dates for men being March 21 and 28; for women, April 18 and 25
   2. Tea-dances to be reduced in number, and instead, dancing to be arranged for Saturday afternoons and evenings in the student lounge at Waterman with a qualified hostess in charge
3. Events requiring a large amount of student preparation and rehearsal to be eliminated, these events to include
   1. Interfraternity and intersorority sings—a special campus sing to be substituted at some time in the spring.
   2. Lilac Day.
   3. College opera, orchestra and Glee Club concerts, unless this elimination interferes with the academic progress of the Department of Music.
4. Events connected with Junior Week to be curtailed as follows:

Far and wide throughout the land
I heard the same refrain.
Until I met a gallant band
Riding silent 'cross the plain.
The leader bold called, "Friend or foe?"
What could I say? What could I do?

"One chance you have, sir. Will it be so?"
No other answer could I see.
"I was "The queen with the Golden Curls."

Platform

1. There will be U. S. O. (United Shaftees' Organization) dances every Saturday night for those shaftees still on campus who, when Saturday night rolls around, find their girls dating the craftie drafties.

2. There will be a telephone installed in every student's room on campus so that the dean's office can inform him of the hour to drop around and collect his diploma. This is so that in the new rushed schedule there will be no danger of a student staying an extra week at college.

3. There will be squadrons of "Beeps" and "Jeeps" with "Dreeps" to drive them, placed in the parking lots of the Waterman and Southwick Buildings to convoy girl students about the campus.

4. There will be a weekly convocation so that anyone who didn't have an opportunity to express himself in those convocations already held may suggest amendments to the new constitution of the U. V. M. students.

5. Any student who left college for a reading period immediately after mid-years may have the opportunity to return to college for a half year. If he doesn't earn his diploma by that time, he will receive an honorary certificate to the air corps.

6. Now comes the problem of transportation, especially important during the cold months, January and February. There will be a Funicular, called in the vernacular an aerial tramway. This tramway will connect all the fraternity and sorority houses and dormitories to all the frequented places on our campus and in Burlington, the Waterman Building, Southwick, the Old Mill, the Sci Hall, the Library, the Flynn Theater, Brown's and, oh yes, that little place behind the tree trunk down by the Hotel Vermont.

7. Then there's a point about the chapel. No definite plans have been made yet, but there is rather a vague one under way: something about having the chapel service conducted in the Waterman Building on Wednesdays. Definite information will be given out before any steps are taken so that frequenters of the cafeteria during chapel hour will have time to steel themselves for the unusual.

8. As soon as the new regime is well started girls who have been taking blackout games under Miss Cummings' supervision will be granted an extra social evening so that they may try out their teaching abilities in several trial blackouts that will be conducted at the Waterman Building. Anyone who wishes to learn the rudiments of the games "Doggy, Doggy, Where's Your Bone?" "Puss in the Corner" or "Blind Man's Buff," please watch your C.S.S. for further announcements.

9. The dynamo of the men's physical education department has informed us that beginning April 1 his close friend, Bernarr McFadden, will give weekly instruction to the men on campus so they may keep physically fit. The meetings will be held in the cafeteria.

Boys will you please sign up now for one of the exercises given for the following: The Soft Palate, the Pasteurian Lobe, or the Double Gun.

10. There will be a horse slide mounted off the chapel roof on which the U. V. M. ski troops will have lessons from that new foreign ski instructor at Macy's in New York City, Erli Sitzmark.

If Miss Lynch is elected she promises to carry out or throw out every one of these planks.

Cats On New York Tour Split Two Games

Killick, Kaufman Lead Cats To 50-44 Win Over Hamilton

With Lanny Killick and Milt Kaufman leading the attack the Catamounts of Vermont gained their New York trip with a 50-44 victory over Hamilton College last Friday evening.

Jumping into the lead in the opening minutes the Catamounts were on top all the way except for a few minutes after the second half when the Continentals forged to the front with a quick scoring spree.

Killick, Kipp and Doherty then put the Cats back in the lead with a quick succession of field goals and midway through the half the Vermonters, on baskets by Killick and Kaufman, forged to a 41-33 lead. Hamilton rallied late in the game but baskets by Killick and Kipp sewed up the game.

Killick back to the form he showed before being inactive two weeks ago, dropped in 16 points, while Milt Kaufman deposited 12 counters through the rim. Henry and Lannon were high for Hamilton with 14 and 17 respectively.

The box score:

Hunting Urges

(Concluded from page 2)

4. Buy U. S. A. for R. B. H.
5. Forget Pearl Harbor.

Any clear-thinking person, on viewing the above samples of Hunting's proposed rule, will rush to the ballot box Thursday and cast a vote for the placid life and peaceful Kake Walk by voting for somebody other than Roger B. Hunting.

Remember, among people who like law and order best it's "Hunting Strictly Prohibited."

Warning

If you like a quiet, peaceful, orderly and lawful life, be smart, get on the band wagon and give your vote to some candidate for Kake Walk King other than Roger B. Hunting. Hunting stands for the "riot life." he is completely incapable of ruling as King since he is the essence of disorder. If Hunting is elected King, Kake Walk will doubtless degenerate into a mad frolic of abandoned fun making. The "Jolly Roger" will be raised on the flag poles, and the forces of disorder will reign as a wild spirit of carnival pervades the quiet campus of Vermont. If you wish to avoid this unbridled display of hilarity, play it smart, give your vote to some other candidate who stands for law and order, the law and order which says "Hunting Strictly Prohibited."

Cats To Engage Middlebury Away

Vermont Favored In Last Series Start

The U. V. M. Catamount basketeers have just returned from their latest road campaign at Colgate and Rochester where they carried on two very impressive performances by licking Hamilton College 50-44 and holding a highly touted University of Rochester quint team 57-47.

The end of the season is drawing to a close this week and when the curtain falls at Kake Walk time it will be the finish for such Green and Gold clad countsters like Capt. Red White, Center Dick Kipp, Guard Paul Pullmen, Forward Bob Carlson and Reserve Bill Conrad.

The Cats have been rather impressive this year. To date they boast a record of nine wins and five losses, these losses having been to such top-flight teams like Dartmouth, M. I. T. and U. of R.

But before the final scene is rung up the Cats will put another road trip under their belts when they journey to Middlebury this Wednesday to engage the Blue and White in a series of games.

As far as tournament play goes, Vermont has already captured the mythical cup and as far as many are concerned it's going to be just another game for the Green and Gold.

Middlebury, in its appearances so far, hasn't appeared to command too much attention, and if the contest is to be based on previous performances the victory will well be ours.

Coach Fuzzy Evans will start Captain White and Doherty at the guards, Kipp at center, and at the forward posts, Kaufman and Killick. For reserves Coach Evans has an ample amount as they range three and even as much as four deep in some positions.

The field of reserves are Bennett, Mannheim, Didinsky, Gipstein, Goodrich, Conrad, Clairmont, and Conti.

ences in method of presentation for each age group. She also explained the market condition for literature for juveniles.

Miss Tomasi's clinic on the novel was opened to manuscripts submitted by League members. The group discussed these and made suggestions to their authors. Miss Graham's poetry clinic was also devoted to discussion of poetry presented by League members. She explained such things as the personal element in verse, and the need for verse that answers the purpose of today, even though it isn't great poetry and may not live.

Mrs. Cummings, armed with a couple of dozen books about Vermont and Vermonters, many of them written by Vermonters, spoke about the authors. Her clinic discussed the conflicting manner of presentation of similar material by different writers.

At a business meeting following the clinics, the League elected R. Electa Schuster of Burlington secretary-treasurer.

NEWMAN CLUB—There will be a meeting Tuesday evening, February 17, at 7.30 p.m., in the south lounge at Southwick. Father William Tennien will speak and show movies on the subject of Chinese Missions. Everyone is welcome.

U. V. M. Dominates Play But Loses Tough Game To Rochester 57-47

After dominating play during a large portion of the game, the Catamounts of U. V. M. were forced to succumb to the Green and Gold basketeers of Rochester, N. Y. and Colgate fame last night.

Hampered by lethal control by the home team the Catamounts showed up fairly well considering the fact that they were minus the services of their dependable Dick Kipp and Bob Doherty, who left the game on fouls, with six minutes to go. Coach Evans' Cats gave an excellent account of themselves.

Vermont gave away considerable height but matched Rochester in speed and aggressiveness with Kaufman, Kipp and Doherty an impressive trio at the Catamounts getting a large edge on the backboards, which consistently found the loop.

The Cats staged a nine point rally near the end of the first half to garner a six point lead but Rochester came back strongly and left 28-24 at half time.

In the second half Rochester surged ahead 40 to 31 but Vermont narrowed the gap as Kipp threw in two baskets just before leaving the game. Doherty left soon after with the score 47-43 and Rochester ran up the remaining margin in the last four minutes.

Women in Sports

Volleyball

Volleyball Club starts Wednesday afternoon at 4.30. There is a possibility of a game with Middlebury and a mixed match with the men. It is hoped that a large number of girls will come out so that these matches will be possible. Sign up in the Y Room right away. Remember the first meeting is Wednesday, February 18, at Southwick.

The First Aid course, which meet on Mondays and Wednesdays will now be held in Room 262 in the Waterman Building.

Barbara Burns '43 and Julia Dresser '44, members of the Women's Ski Team, will journey to Middlebury, February 21 and 22 to participate in the Women's Intercollegiate Ski Union Meet. The Middlebury Carnival is governing both the men's and women's ski meets this year. The girls are leaving Thursday afternoon in order to arrive in time for the get-acquainted which is to be held that night. The slalom will be run Friday afternoon and the downhill Saturday morning, on the Rapson trails.

The entire ski squad composed of the above two, Carolyn Brown '44, Harriet Pear' 45, Janet Dike '43, and Jeanne Wheeler '42 have been practicing two afternoons a week at Stowe.

Royalty Campaigns Called Outstanding

Musical Platforms, Posters Help Cause

This year's campaigning for Kake Walk king and queen has been one of the cleverest and keenest observed on U. V. M.'s campus for a long time. For the past week, we have all gone to classes (?) with a feeling of surprise waiting at every corner of Waterman cafeteria already protected from enemy attack by everlasting smoke screens. When we had our lunch at Waterman, the napkins were stamped "Goss for Boss," and we didn't dare to look at the alphabet soup. The English department explained for whole periods the difference of "this" and "Sis" in "All Sis and Heaven Too" to dumbfounded freshmen. Hunting's negative campaign means victory for him—if he wins, he wins, if he loses he wins too. "Ake" being king would result in his having two queens on his hands. Who to vote for? Margie Smith, although a latecomer to the campaign, lost no time in riding around on a good old horse-drawn wagon and campaigning on being "The All-American Girl with the All-American Name."

Shirley Buckingham's hair bows and curls have made the freshman boys flunk all hour exams this week (or would they have flunked anyhow?) Little under "Spooks" has made us afraid that we would not overlook him completely. Then "Dud" under whose pictures a circle of admiring freshman girls stand agreeing that "Wayne Should Reign."

Slogans, posters, the singing candidate, pictures, tags, promises, crowns, radio speeches all whirling around us, and we staggered into the Book Store. Who to vote for? With one last final bit of energy left, we added our name to the bottom of the ballot and checked the same.

Nine Washington State College freshman students recently were awarded music scholarships after competitive tryouts.

[illegible]: I think that this, as [illegible] student activity that develops [illegible] spirit, originality, and [illegible] qualities, should have our [illegible] better than sitting around [illegible]

[illegible] answer to Kake Walk in[illegible]vitations from alumnus H. R. Smalley, Colonel, U. S. A.: Sorry I cannot be there. I took part in the first Kake Walk some forty years ago. We did not know then it would become such an institution. It's up to us all to make the Japs kake walk now, and Col. R. E. Beebe and myself are trying to do our part. We were in the Kake Walk together and are in this big one now.

Professor Dean: They had better make a better Kake Walk of it if they want it to represent the University. After all, if Kake Walk is supposed to express to the public the best efforts of Vermont students, more time, thought, and intelligence should be put into it than it represents now. I will say that the stunts have improved in the last few years. They reached their lowest ebb in the middle thirties when they put on a floor show to bring back decreasing audiences. This broke up its continuity. Also, more money should be allotted to the fraternities as in the past. The stunts should be staged better and put on both Friday and Saturday nights as they used to do, with the Masquerade perhaps on Thursday instead.

The biggest event of the season, curtailed or otherwise is coming off this week-end. Starting with a hockey game this afternoon with our reborn hockey team battling St. Michael's, running far into the night with the Masquerade and Sam Donahue, and continuing with the basketball game against Trinity tomorrow, the festivities reach a climax with the traditional Vermont Kake Walk.

Preceding this has been the best campaigning for royal honors that this campus has seen in years. The work and planning of Kake Walk Directors Costello, Logan, and Reynolds, and the fraternities who are strutting and stunting promise to make this Forty-fifth Kake Walk the best yet. A new feature, the all-sorority stunt directed by Lyn Eimer '44, will open the eyes of many to the talents of co-eds in "Gone With the Draft, or How Green Was My Grass."

The King and Queen, elected yesterday, will reign over the scene in the Memorial Auditorium, and will present the winners with their Kakes. Pickaninny ushers have been chosen, and will add to atmosphere. Ice sculpture, with a prize for the best one being a cup donated by Pliny Smith Hill, is becoming more and more a feature of Kake Walk with an even higher calibre of entries being shown this year.

The Walkers fo' de Kake who will be seen strutting their stuff are:

Fred Waring To Mention Kake Walk

Part of the campaign plans made by the committee backing George "Spooky" Little's candidacy for Kake Walk King included a request for publicity on Fred Waring's radio program. The reply came just a day too late to help George's campaign but it's still good U. V. M. Kake Walk publicity. Waring's telegram follows:

SIGMA PHI FRATERNITY,
College St., Burlington.

I'm mentioning KAKE WALK in my BROADCAST tomorrow night, February 20, in our salute to the CARNIVAL.

FRED WARING,
New York, N. Y.

Ice Sculptors Had Much Better Luck This Year

After last year's experience of unsporting snow, keeping Burlington's ice companies busy, and even hoarding ice cubes the sororities and fraternities on the hill were relieved to find ideal ice sculpturing weather. The thaw earlier in the week almost disheartened the workers in their efforts to compete for a prize-winning ice sculpture, but from all appearances this year's ice sculptures promise to be about the best, thanks to Old Man Winter.

This year's sculptures have a patriotic note in them. The Tri Delts have a reproduction of a Defense Stamp. Margaret Palmer '44 and Joyce Byington '45 were in charge. The Alpha Chis with the help of Shirley Needham '45 and Faith K. Prior '42 chose to make the Statue of Liberty.

The Pi Phi's have two Kake Walkers and starter in bas-relief. Fern McGee and Esther Gustafson planned the Pi Phi sculpture.

The Phi Delts have an imposing layer cake topped with a Kake Walker. Bob Lockwood and Fred Bundy were in charge. Also having a theme of Kake Walk are the S A E's under W. H.

The Official Student Newspaper of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College

VOL. 46 FEBRUARY 20 1942 NO. 16

Time for Laughter!

A university is the ideals it represents and the principles it will never stop defending. A university is the spirit and vigor of its traditions. Among these, laughter, good will and merry companionship will always have a place.

It may seem thoughtless to urge merriment, now, when the world has all too little cause for it. It may seem ironical to utter the word fellowship in the midst of a chaos which has all but swallowed up its meaning. But we refuse to believe that people should cease searching for the light in the midst of darkness.

The originators of Kake Walk had only one principle in mind and one purpose—joyful merriment. They had no other excuse for initiating U. V. M.'s finest tradition. Need we seek one today?

Kake Walk makes no claims of aiding national defense. Nor does it pretend to contribute to civilian morale. But by its very nature, it does affirm a faith in that laughter and good fellowship sought and needed by every human being.

The world has witnessed many wars and tactical blunders. The world has seen too many men die because they were not taught how to live. But we think that the world will continue to hold together as long as men do not forget how to laugh and share joy with their fellows.

If the Forty-fifth Annual Kake Walk can contribute anything to that human need, we will ask no more of it. It will have served its purpose.

Spawn of the devil it may be. But with a twinkle in its eye!

He was chairman of the Junior Week parade and seating chairman for the Interfraternity Sing in 1941. He is now a member of the Green Circle Society and of Nu [illegible] Fraternity.

When he has been graduated from Medical College in 1944, Johnny hopes for a [illegible] as second lieutenant in the medical corps.

Asked if he approves of women students wearing cotton stockings, he answered emphatically, "No!" And I think ski pants, slacks and rubber boots should be abolished. They hide the girls' legs."

Costello advances the idea of a bar on every floor of the Waterman Building with favorite faculty members serving as bartenders — don't mention those names, please!"

"I liked my course in applied psychology best. We had no text and I never went to class. Thanks to Prof. Roy Colbert I got a good mark for the course."

Fraternity has meant a lot to me during college," said Johnny. "I've enjoyed my contacts with students and faculty, too, especially with Dean Simpson and Dean Swift.

Professor Mills seems like a pretty good guy and a straight shooter. He really means business.

Costello would like to see lounges in both the Waterman and Medical Buildings for sleeping between classes.

Here's even money that the mischievous gleam in the Costello eye will not be dimmed by his study of medicine or by any obstacle for a long, long time.

Frederick Logan came to Vermont from Springfield, Mass., as the logical college for the son and nephew of U. V. M. grads [illegible]. A member of Phi Delta Theta Fraternity, Fred has participated in interfraternity and intramural athletics. He was assistant manager of baseball, managing editor of the Ariel and a member of his fraternity drill squad. He took the C. A. A. course and was last year a candidate for Kake Walk King.

Fred has taken the general science course but said he liked courses in statistics and business law best.

"I don't think the girls carry this knitting business too far—not far enough, in fact. I can't get anyone to knit me a pair of socks," he mourned.

Logan likes the idea of a voluntary physical education program and says he "wouldn't go if it were required."

He thinks "it's asinine to cut out social activities for the benefit of concentrated study. Now's the time we need more relaxation."

The religious conference held this past week-end was a very good idea," Logan remarked. "I hope the Student Government will be well supported, too."

Fred has enjoyed most the friends he has made during college.

Both Logan and Costello expressed an [illegible] red-haired basketball captains.

It was an accident that Myers J. Reynolds, III (familiarly known as Chum), came to Vermont in the first place. He was all set to take a post graduate course at his high school in Malone, N. Y.

"Strictly on the spur of the moment I decided to enter U. V. M. without even knowing what course I would take," Chum explained. "I planned to transfer the next semester but I just never got around to it."

After a year of general science, he switched to social science and majored in political science. A member of Sigma Phi Fraternity, Chum is known to many U. V. M. students as the boogie woogie pianist of the Catamounts. Reynolds likes dancing very much but rarely gets a chance. He'd like to do some arranging but for the present confines himself to listening to the efforts achieved by the graduates of the cake box. Among his favorites are Duke Ellington and Jimmy Lunceford—in fact most colored [illegible].

If you think Chum's interest [illegible] to swing music, you're quite [illegible] studied classical piano for six [illegible] places Bach, Beethoven and [illegible] the head of his list.

"More students should take [illegible] of the collection of records in the [illegible]negie room at the Music Building. They got some pretty good stuff [illegible].

He also enjoys swimming, [illegible] tumbling (on exercise mats, that is).

Philosophy was Chum's favorite [illegible] after poli sci. He admits to being completely saturated with the [illegible] to Professor Dykhuizen.

He maintains that the college [illegible] ties should lower tuition as soon as [illegible] nomically possible but should [illegible] ing the standards.

"Everybody does not have the right [illegible] college education," he declared. "Everybody may have the right to a chance if he is college material, but it's the nonsense to lower the standards [illegible] everybody can graduate.

"First, they made a high school education available to everyone. That was right. Then they put trade schools on equal basis with high schools. Now they want to open up the colleges to everyone who can read.

"The biggest number of students don't seem to give a damn about the intellectual side of college. They only want to say they've been to college. They haven't learned to think for themselves and they don't show any signs of ever learning. Far too many students at V. M. U. are so perfectly satisfied with the good times they have and the friends they've made that they never will realize the advantages and opportunities offered here at the University. There's too much complacency among the students. Maybe we've had it too easy up to now."

The Interfraternity Council is a complete farce, says Reynolds. [illegible]
